Arthur Cox Listing Services Limited is acting solely in its capacity as Irish listing agent for the Issuer in connection with the Securities and is not itself seeking admission of the Securities to the official list or to trading on the regulated market of Euronext Dublin for the purposes of the Prospectus Regulation or the Global Exchange Market of Euronext Dublin.

The applicable Pricing Supplement supplements the Terms and Conditions of the relevant Securities and may specify other terms and conditions which shall, to the extent so specified or to the extent inconsistent with the Terms and Conditions of the relevant Securities, supplement, replace and/or modify such Terms and Conditions. In respect of Securities to be listed on Euronext Dublin, the applicable Issue Terms will be delivered to Euronext Dublin on or before the date of issue of the Securities of that Tranche. In respect of Securities to be listed on the Luxembourg Stock Exchange, the applicable Issue Terms will be delivered to the Luxembourg Stock Exchange on or before the date of issue of the Securities of that Tranche. The Terms and Conditions of the Securities will be as set out in "General Conditions of the Securities" and in the relevant Schedule(s) thereto.

AN ISSUE OF SECURITIES MAY BE OF A SPECIALIST NATURE AND SHOULD ONLY BE BOUGHT AND TRADED BY INVESTORS WHO ARE PARTICULARLY KNOWLEDGEABLE IN INVESTMENT MATTERS. PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS OF SECURITIES SHOULD ENSURE THAT THEY UNDERSTAND THE NATURE OF THE RELEVANT SECURITIES AND THE EXTENT OF THEIR EXPOSURE TO RISKS AND THAT THEY CONSIDER THE SUITABILITY OF THE RELEVANT SECURITIES AS AN INVESTMENT IN LIGHT OF THEIR OWN CIRCUMSTANCES AND FINANCIAL CONDITION. IT IS THE RESPONSIBILITY OF PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS TO ENSURE THAT THEY HAVE SUFFICIENT KNOWLEDGE, EXPERIENCE AND PROFESSIONAL ADVICE TO MAKE THEIR OWN LEGAL, FINANCIAL, TAX, ACCOUNTING AND OTHER BUSINESS EVALUATION OF THE MERITS AND RISKS OF INVESTING IN THE SECURITIES AND ARE NOT RELYING ON THE ADVICE OF THE ISSUER, THE CGMHI GUARANTOR, THE CGMFL GUARANTOR OR ANY DEALER IN THIS REGARD. SECURITIES MAY INVOLVE A HIGH DEGREE OF RISK, INCLUDING THE PRINCIPAL OR INITIAL INVESTMENT AMOUNT NOT BEING PROTECTED. POTENTIAL INVESTORS MAY SUSTAIN A LOSS OF ALL OR PART OF THEIR INVESTMENT IN THE SECURITIES. SEE "RISK FACTORS" SET OUT IN THIS BASE PROSPECTUS.

Prospective investors should note that Events of Default in respect of the CGMHI Guarantor are limited to the events stated in General Conditions 11(a)(i) and 11(a)(ii) (Events of Default) relating to default in payment of principal, interest or termination amounts in respect of the Securities but will not include the insolvency or bankruptcy of the CGMHI Guarantor (or any similar event), any other default of the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee being (or being claimed not to be) in full force and effect. Therefore, even though the CGMHI Guarantor may be declared insolvent or have entered into bankruptcy proceedings or disclaimed the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, holders of Securities issued by CGMHI will not be able to trigger an Event of Default under the Securities and thus will not be able to cause the Securities to be immediately due and payable, and the Securities will not redeem until maturity (unless there has been an Event of Default due to non-payment of interest, principal or termination amounts or bankruptcy or other default of CGMHI in the meantime). It is possible that holders may receive a lower return at maturity than if they were able to accelerate the Securities for immediate repayment in such circumstances.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION RELATING TO OFFERS OF SECURITIES

Important information relating to Non-exempt Offers of Securities

Withdrawal rights

Subject to and in accordance with Articles 8(11) and 23(2) of the Prospectus Regulation, investors who have already agreed to purchase or subscribe for Securities offered to the public in a Member State of the EEA (and for these purposes, references to the EEA include the United Kingdom) before this Base Prospectus is published have the right, exercisable within two working days after the publication of this Base Prospectus, to withdraw their acceptances, unless the Securities have already been delivered to them at the time this Base Prospectus is published. For the avoidance of doubt, the final date on which eligible investors may exercise such right of withdrawal is 22 December 2020. Investors who wish to exercise such right of withdrawal may contact the relevant Authorised Offeror.

Restrictions on Non-exempt Offers of Securities in Member States and the United Kingdom

Certain Tranches of Securities with a denomination of less than EUR100,000 (or its equivalent in any other currency) may be offered in circumstances where there is no exemption from the obligation under the Prospectus Regulation to publish a prospectus. Any such offer is referred to as a Non-exempt Offer. This Base Prospectus has been prepared on a basis that permits Non-exempt Offers of Securities. However, any person making or intending to make a Non-exempt Offer of Securities in any Member State of the EEA may only do so if this Base Prospectus has been approved by the competent authority in that Member State (or, where appropriate, approved in another Member State and notified to the competent authority in that Member State) and published in accordance with the Prospectus Regulation, PROVIDED THAT the Issuer has consented to the use of this Base Prospectus in connection with such offer as provided under "Consent given in accordance with Article 5(1) of the Prospectus Regulation (Retail Cascades)" and the conditions attached to that consent are complied with by the person making the Non-exempt Offer of such Securities. For these purposes, the EEA includes the United Kingdom.

Save as provided above, none of the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor and the Dealers have authorised, nor do they authorise, the making of any Non-exempt Offer of Securities in circumstances in which an obligation arises for the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor or any Dealer to publish or supplement a prospectus for such offer.

Consent given in accordance with Article 5(1) of the Prospectus Regulation (Retail Cascades)

In the context of a Non-exempt Offer of such Securities, the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) and the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) accept responsibility, in the jurisdictions to which the consent to use the Base Prospectus extends, for the content of this Base Prospectus under Article 11 of the Prospectus Regulation in relation to any person (an Investor) who acquires any Securities in a Non-exempt Offer made by any person to whom the Issuer has given consent to the use of this Base Prospectus (an Authorised Offeror) in that connection, PROVIDED THAT the conditions attached to that consent are complied with by the Authorised Offeror. The consent and conditions attached to it are set out under "Consent" and "Common Conditions to Consent" below.

None of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and any Dealer makes any representation as to the compliance by an Authorised Offeror with any applicable conduct of business rules or other applicable regulatory or securities law requirements in relation to any Non-exempt Offer and none of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and any Dealer has any responsibility or liability for the actions of that Authorised Offeror.

Save as provided below, none of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and any Dealer has authorised the making of any Non-exempt Offer by any offeror and the Issuer has not consented to the use of this Base Prospectus by any other person in connection with any Non-exempt Offer of Securities. Any Non-exempt Offer made without the consent of the Issuer is unauthorised and none of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and any Dealer accepts any responsibility or liability for the actions of the persons making any such unauthorised offer. If, in the context of a Non-exempt Offer, an Investor is offered Securities by a person which is not an Authorised Offeror, the Investor should check with that person whether anyone is responsible for this Base Prospectus for the purposes of Article 11 of the Prospectus Regulation in the context of the Non-exempt Offer and, if so, who that person is. If the Investor is in any doubt about whether it can rely on this Base Prospectus and/or who is responsible for its contents it should take legal advice.

Consent

The Issuer consents and (in connection with paragraph (b) below) offers to grant its consent to the use of this Base Prospectus in relation to any offer of Securities issued by it for the period of 12 months from the date of this Base Prospectus in relation to any offer as provided below. In the event this Base Prospectus is replaced by a base prospectus of the Issuer which is approved and published by the Issuer during the Offer Period relating to a Non-exempt Offer of Securities then the Issuer's consent shall end on the date on which amended and restated Final Terms for any such Non-exempt Offer of Securities are published (the Consent Period).

In connection with each Tranche of Securities and subject to the conditions set out below under "Common Conditions to Consent":

- (a) the Issuer consents to the use of this Base Prospectus (as supplemented as at the relevant time, if applicable) in connection with a Non-exempt Offer of such Securities by the relevant Dealer and by:
 - (i) any financial intermediary named as an Initial Authorised Offeror in the applicable Final Terms; and
 - (ii) any financial intermediary appointed after the date of the applicable Final Terms and whose name is published on the Issuer's website and identified as an Authorised Offeror in respect of the relevant Non-exempt Offer;
- (b) if (and only if) Part B of the applicable Final Terms specifies "General Consent" as "Applicable", the Issuer hereby offers to grant its consent to the use of this Base Prospectus (as supplemented as at the relevant time, if applicable) in connection with a Non-exempt Offer of Securities by any financial intermediary which satisfies the following conditions:
 - (i) it is authorised to make such offers under applicable legislation implementing MiFID II; and
 - (ii) it accepts such offer by publishing on its website the following statement (with the information in square brackets completed with the relevant information):

"We, [insert legal name of financial intermediary], refer to the [insert title of relevant Securities] (the Securities) described in the Final Terms dated [insert date] (the Final Terms) published by [Citigroup Inc./ Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc./ Citigroup Global Markets Funding Luxembourg S.C.A.] (the Issuer). We hereby accept the offer by the Issuer of its consent to our use of the Base Prospectus (as defined in the Final Terms) in connection with the offer of the Securities in accordance with the Authorised Offeror Terms and subject to the conditions to such consent, each as specified in the Base Prospectus, and we are using the Base Prospectus accordingly."

The Authorised Offeror Terms are that the relevant financial intermediary will, and it agrees, represents, warrants and undertakes for the benefit of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the relevant Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the relevant Issuer is CGMFL) and the relevant Dealer that it will, at all times in connection with the relevant Non-exempt Offer comply with the conditions to the consent referred to under "Common Conditions to Consent" below and any further requirements relevant to the Non-exempt Offer as specified in the applicable Final Terms.

Any financial intermediary who is an Authorised Offeror falling within (b) above who meets all of the conditions set out in (b) and the other conditions stated in "Common Conditions to Consent" below and who wishes to use this Base Prospectus in connection with a Non-exempt Offer is required, for the duration of the relevant Offer Period, to publish on its website the statement (duly completed) specified at paragraph (b)(ii) above.

Common Conditions to Consent

The conditions to the Issuer's consent are (in addition to the conditions described in paragraph (b) above if Part B of the applicable Final Terms specifies "General Consent" as "Applicable") that such consent:

- (i) is only valid during the Offer Period specified in the applicable Final Terms or, if shorter, the Consent Period;
- (ii) only extends to the use of this Base Prospectus to make Non-exempt Offers of the relevant Tranche of Securities in Austria, Belgium, Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, The Netherlands, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg (in the case of Citigroup Inc. and CGMHI), Norway, Poland, the United Kingdom, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and/or the Czech Republic, as specified in the applicable Final Terms; and
- (iii) the consent is subject to any other conditions set out in Part B of the applicable Final Terms.

The only Member States of the EEA (and for these purposes, references to the EEA include the United Kingdom) which may, in respect of any Tranche of Securities, be specified in the applicable Final Terms (if any Member States are so specified) as indicated in (ii) above, will be Austria, Belgium, Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, The Netherlands, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg (in the case of Citigroup Inc. and CGMHI), Norway, Poland, the United Kingdom, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and/or the Czech Republic, and accordingly each Tranche of Securities may only be offered to Investors as part of a Non-exempt Offer in Austria, Belgium, Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, The Netherlands, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg (in the case of Citigroup Inc. and CGMHI), Norway, Poland, the United Kingdom, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and/or the Czech Republic, as specified in the applicable Final Terms, or otherwise in circumstances in which no obligation arises for the Issuer or any Dealer to publish or supplement a prospectus for such offer.

Consent given in connection with public offers in Switzerland

Any person making or intending to make an offer of Securities to the public in Switzerland on the basis of this Base Prospectus, other than pursuant to an exemption under Article 36(1) of the Swiss Federal Financial Services Act (FinSA) or where such offer does not qualify as a public offer in Switzerland, must do so only with the Issuer's consent to the use of this Base Prospectus pursuant to Article 36(4)(b) FinSA and Article 45 of the implementing Financial Services Ordinance (FinSO), as provided under "Consent" above and provided such person complies with the conditions attached to that consent and on the basis that for the purposes of the above:

- references therein to "Non-exempt Offer" are to "non-exempt public offer in Switzerland";
- the reference therein to "Non-exempt Offers of the relevant Tranche of Securities in Austria, Belgium, Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, The Netherlands, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg (in the case of Citigroup Inc. and CGMHI), Norway, Poland, the United Kingdom, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and/or the Czech Republic, as specified in the applicable Final Terms" is to "non-exempt public offer(s) in Switzerland"; and
- the paragraph commencing "The only Member States of the EEA (and for these purposes, references to the EEA include the United Kingdom) which may, in respect of any Tranche of Securities, be specified in the applicable Final Terms" therein is deleted.

General Consent is subject to the further condition that the financial intermediary is authorised to make a non-exempt public offer in Switzerland under applicable Swiss laws and regulations.

NONE OF THE ISSUER, THE CGMHI GUARANTOR (WHERE THE ISSUER IS CGMHI), THE CGMFL GUARANTOR (WHERE THE ISSUER IS CGMFL) AND ANY DEALER (EXCEPT WHERE SUCH DEALER IS THE RELEVANT AUTHORISED OFFEROR) HAS ANY RESPONSIBILITY OR LIABILITY TO AN INVESTOR IN RESPECT OF SUCH INFORMATION.

In making an investment decision, investors must rely on their own examination of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and the terms of the Securities being offered, including the merits and risks involved. None of the Securities has been approved or disapproved by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission or any other securities commission or other regulatory authority in the United States, nor have the foregoing authorities approved this Base Prospectus or confirmed the accuracy or determined the adequacy of the information contained in this Base Prospectus. Any representation to the contrary is unlawful. PRIIPs / IMPORTANT – EEA AND UK RETAIL INVESTORS

If the Issue Terms in respect of any Securities includes a legend entitled "Prohibition of Sales to EEA and UK Retail Investors", the Securities are not intended to be offered, sold or otherwise made available to and should not be offered, sold or otherwise made available to any retail investor in the EEA or in the United Kingdom (the UK). For these purposes, a "retail investor" means a person who is one (or more) of: (i) a retail client as defined in point (11) of Article 4(1) of MiFID II; (ii) a customer within the meaning of Directive (EU) 2016/97 (the Insurance Distribution Directive), where that customer would not qualify as a professional client as defined in point (10) of Article 4(1) of MiFID II; or (iii) not a qualified investor as defined in the Prospectus Regulation. Consequently no key information document required by Regulation (EU) No 1286/2014 (as amended, the PRIIPs Regulation) for offering or selling the Securities or otherwise making them available to retail investors in the EEA or in the UK has been prepared and therefore offering or selling the Securities or otherwise making them available to any retail investor in the EEA or in the UK may be unlawful under the PRIIPs Regulation.

For purposes of this paragraph, the tax treatment of the Transactions is the purported or claimed U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Transactions, and the tax structure of the Transactions is any fact that may be relevant to understanding the purported or claimed U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Transactions.

SECTION B – RISK FACTORS

In purchasing Securities, you assume the risk that the Issuer and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor may become insolvent or otherwise be unable to satisfy their obligations in respect of the Securities. There is a wide range of factors which individually or together could result in the Issuer and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor becoming unable to satisfy their obligations in respect of the Securities. It is not possible to identify all such factors or to determine which factors are most likely to occur, as the Issuer and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor may not be aware of all relevant factors and certain factors which they currently deem not to be material may become material as a result of the occurrence of events outside the Issuer's and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor's or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor's control. The Issuer and, where CGMHI is the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where CGMFL is the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor have identified in this Base Prospectus a number of factors which could materially adversely affect their businesses and ability to make payments due under, or to deliver assets on or in connection with, the Securities.

Each of the risks highlighted below could adversely affect the trading price of the Securities and, as a result, you could lose some or all of your investment.

In addition, factors which are material for the purpose of assessing the market risks associated with Securities issued under this Base Prospectus are also described below.

You must read the detailed information set out elsewhere in this Base Prospectus including any documents incorporated by reference in it and reach your own views prior to making any investment decision.

RISKS RELATING TO CITIGROUP INC., CGMHI, THE CGMHI GUARANTOR, CGMFL AND THE CGMFL GUARANTOR

Set out below are certain risk factors which could have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, financial condition or prospects of one or more of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and cause one or more of Citigroup Inc.'s, CGMHI's, the CGMHI Guarantor's, CGMFL's and/or the CGMFL Guarantor's future results to be materially different from expected results. Citigroup Inc.'s, CGMHI's, the CGMHI Guarantor's, CGMFL's and/or the CGMFL Guarantor's results could also be affected by competition and other factors. The factors discussed below should not be regarded as a complete and comprehensive statement of all potential risks and uncertainties Citigroup Inc.'s, CGMHI's, the CGMHI Guarantor's, CGMFL's and the CGMFL Guarantor's businesses face. Each of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor has described only those risks relating to its operations that it considers to be material. There may be additional risks that Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and/or the CGMFL Guarantor currently considers not to be material or of which it is not currently aware, and any of these risks could have the effects set forth above. You should note that you bear the Issuer's, the CGMHI Guarantor's (where the Issuer is CGMHI) and the CGMFL Guarantor's (where the Issuer is CGMFL) solvency risk.

The ability of each of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor to fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by Citigroup Inc., CGMHI or CGMFL, as the case may be, is dependent on the earnings of Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries

CGMHI is a holding company that does not engage in any material amount of business activities that generate revenues. CGMHI services its obligations primarily with dividends and advances from its subsidiaries. Its subsidiaries that operate in the securities businesses can only pay dividends if they are in compliance with applicable regulatory requirements imposed on them by federal and state regulatory authorities. Its respective subsidiaries may also be subject to credit agreements that also may restrict their ability to pay dividends. If such subsidiaries do not realise sufficient earnings to satisfy applicable regulatory requirements, or if such requirements are changed to further restrict the ability of such subsidiaries to pay dividends to CGMHI, CGMHI's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by it may be adversely affected, and consequently the value of and return on such Securities may also be adversely affected.

In addition, Citigroup Inc. (also the CGMHI Guarantor in respect of Securities issued by CGMHI) is a holding company that does not engage in any material amount of business activities that generate revenues. It services its obligations primarily with dividends and advances from its subsidiaries. The ability of such subsidiaries to pay dividends or advances are dependent on a number of factors. For example, certain of Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries have co-branding and private label credit card relationships with various retailers and merchants through Group-branded cards and retail services credit card businesses. The five largest of these relationships constituted an aggregate of approximately 11% of the revenues of Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries (together the Group) for 2019. These relationships could be negatively impacted by, among other things, the general economic environment, declining sales and revenues or other operational difficulties of the retailer or merchant, termination due to a breach by a Group entity or by the retailer or merchant, or other factors, including bankruptcies, liquidations, restructurings, consolidations and other similar events that would restrict the ability of the subsidiaries of Citigroup Inc. to pay dividends.

Moreover, Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries that operate in the banking, insurance and securities businesses can only pay dividends if they are in compliance with applicable regulatory requirements imposed on them by federal and state regulatory authorities. Respective subsidiaries may also be subject to credit agreements that also may restrict their ability to pay dividends. If such subsidiaries do not realise sufficient earnings to satisfy applicable regulatory requirements, or if such requirements are changed to further restrict the ability of such subsidiaries to pay dividends to Citigroup Inc., Citigroup Inc.'s ability to fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by it and/or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee may be adversely affected, and consequently the value of and return on the Securities issued by it or CGMHI (which have the benefit of a guarantee of the CGMHI Guarantor) may also be adversely affected.

The subsidiaries of CGMHI and Citigroup Inc. are also exposed to concentrations of risk, particularly credit and market risk, as they routinely execute a high volume of securities, trading, derivative and foreign exchange transactions with non-U.S. sovereigns and with counterparties in the financial services industry. As regulatory or market developments continue to lead to increased centralisation of trading activities, these subsidiaries could also experience an increase in concentration of risk to these industries. These concentrations of risk could limit the effectiveness of any hedging strategies and cause the subsidiaries to incur significant losses, impacting their ability to pay dividends.

Further, such dividends and/or advances, whether to CGMHI or Citigroup Inc. (or both), may be affected by macroeconomic, geopolitical and other challenges, uncertainties and volatilities and the presence of certain subsidiaries in emerging markets. For example, numerous uncertainties have arisen in relation to the potential impact of the UK's exit from the European Union and the U.S. federal government's indication that it may pursue protectionist trade and other policies. These and other global macroeconomic and geopolitical challenges have negatively impacted, and could continue to negatively impact, the businesses of CGMHI and/or Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries. The presence of certain subsidiaries in emerging markets subjects them to a number of risks, including sovereign volatility, foreign exchange controls and sanctions, and also increases their compliance and regulatory risks and costs. As a result, the dividends and/or advances subsidiaries are able to pay may be impacted which could have a negative effect on the ability of CGMHI or Citigroup Inc. to fulfil its obligations under the Securities, and consequently the value of and return on such Securities may also be adversely affected.

The ability of CGMFL to fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by it is dependent on CGML performing its counterparty obligations owed to CGMFL

CGMFL is subject to intra-group credit risk. From time to time, CGMFL enters into derivative transactions with CGML to offset or hedge its liabilities to securityholders under securities issued by it (which may include the Securities). As such, CGMFL is exposed to the credit risk of CGML in the form of counterparty risk in respect of such derivative transactions. In particular, CGMFL's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Securities is primarily dependent on CGML performing its counterparty obligations owed to CGMFL in respect of such derivative transactions in a timely manner, and any failure by CGML to do so will negatively affect the ability of CGMFL to fulfil its obligations under the Securities. Securityholders will not have any recourse to CGML under any such derivative transactions.

Macroeconomic and other challenges and uncertainties related to the COVID-19 pandemic will likely continue to have negative impacts on the Group's businesses and results of operations and financial condition

The COVID-19 pandemic has become global, affecting all of the countries and jurisdictions where the Group operates. The pandemic and responses to it have had, and will likely continue to have, a severe impact on global economic conditions, although the impacts will likely vary from time to time by region, country or state, largely depending on the duration and severity of the public health consequences, including availability of any effective therapeutic or vaccine and public response. These impacts to global economic conditions include, among others:

- sharply reduced U.S. and global economic output, resulting in significant losses of employment and lower consumer spending, cards purchase sales and loan volumes;
- lower interest rates;
- disruption of global supply chains;
- significant disruption and volatility in financial markets;
- closures, reduced activity and failures of many businesses, leading to loss of revenues and net losses; and
- the institution of social distancing and restrictions on movement in and among the United States and other countries.

The pandemic has had, and will likely continue to have, negative impacts on the Group's businesses, revenues, expenses, credit costs and overall results of operations and financial condition, which could be material. The extent of the impact on the Group's financial performance and operations, including its ability to execute its business initiatives and strategies, will continue to depend on future developments in the U.S. and globally, which are uncertain and cannot be predicted, including the duration and further spread of the disease, as well as the severity of the economic downturn or any delay or weakness in the economic recovery. The impact will in part be dependent on government and other actions taken to lessen the health and economic repercussions, such as additional fiscal stimulus and/or monetary policy actions, medical investments and advances, restrictions on movement of people, transportation and businesses, and the effectiveness of past and any future fiscal, monetary and other governmental actions.

Ongoing legislative and regulatory changes in the U.S. and globally to address the economic impact from the pandemic, such as consumer and corporate relief measures and continued lower interest rates, could further affect the Group's businesses, credit costs and results. The Group could also face challenges, including legal and reputational, and scrutiny in its implementation of and ongoing efforts to provide these relief measures. Such implementations and efforts have resulted in, and may continue to result in, litigation, including class actions, and regulatory and government actions and proceedings. Such actions may result in judgments, settlements, penalties and fines adverse to the Group. In addition, the different types of government actions could vary in scale and duration across jurisdictions and regions with varying degrees of effectiveness.

The impact of the pandemic on the Group's consumer and corporate borrowers will also vary by region, sector or industry, with some borrowers experiencing greater stress levels, which could lead to increased pressure on their results of operations and financial condition, increased borrowings or credit ratings downgrades, thus likely leading to higher credit costs. In addition, stress levels ultimately experienced by the Group's borrowers may be different from and more intense than assumptions made in earlier estimates or models used by the Group, resulting in a further increase in the Group's allowance for credit losses or net credit losses.

The pandemic may not be contained for an extended period of time, due to a further emergence or re-emergence of widespread infections. A prolonged health crisis could continue to reduce economic activity in the U.S. and other countries, resulting in additional declines in employment and business and consumer confidence and a prolonged period of lower interest rates. These factors could further negatively impact global economic activity and markets and the Group's consumer customers and corporate clients; cause a continued decline in the Group's revenues and the demand for its products and services; and further increase the Group's credit and other costs. These factors could also cause a continued increase in the Group's balance sheet, risk-weighted assets and allowance for credit loss reserves, resulting in a decline in regulatory capital ratios or liquidity measures, as well as regulatory demands for higher capital levels and/or limitations or reductions in capital distributions (such as common share repurchases and dividends). Moreover, any disruption or failure of the Group's performance of, or its ability to perform, key business functions, as a result of the continued spread of COVID-19 or otherwise, could adversely affect the Group's operations.

Any disruption to, breaches of or attacks on the Group's information technology systems, including from cyber incidents, could have adverse effects on the Group's businesses. These systems are supporting a substantial portion of the Group's employees who have been affected by local pandemic restrictions and have been forced to work remotely. In addition, these systems interface with and depend on third-party systems, and the Group could experience service denials or disruptions if demand for such systems were to exceed capacity or if a third-party system fails or experiences any interruptions. The Group has also taken measures to maintain the health and safety of its employees; however, these measures could result in increased expenses, and widespread illness could negatively affect staffing within certain functions, businesses or geographies. In addition, the Group's ability to recruit, hire and onboard employees in key areas could be negatively impacted by global pandemic restrictions.

Further, it is unclear how the macroeconomic business environment or societal norms may be impacted after the pandemic. The post-pandemic environment may undergo unexpected developments or changes in financial markets, the fiscal, tax and regulatory environments and consumer customer and corporate client behaviour. These developments and changes could have an adverse impact on the Group's results of operations and financial condition. Ongoing business and regulatory uncertainties and changes may make the Group's longer-term business, balance sheet and budget planning more difficult or costly. The Group, its management and its businesses may also experience increased or different competitive and other challenges in this environment. To the extent that it is not able to adapt or compete effectively, the Group could experience loss of business and its results of operations and financial condition could suffer.

Any negative impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Group, including the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor, could adversely affect the ability of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor to fulfil its obligations under the Securities, and consequently the value of and return on such Securities may also be adversely affected.

No Events of Default in respect of the CGMHI Guarantor with regard to insolvency or bankruptcy of the CGMHI Guarantor

You should note that there are no Events of Default in respect of the CGMHI Guarantor with regard to the insolvency or bankruptcy of the CGMHI Guarantor (or any similar event), any other default of the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee not being (or being claimed not to be) in full force and effect. Therefore, even though the CGMHI Guarantor may be declared bankrupt or enters into insolvency proceedings or disclaims the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, notwithstanding that you are a holder of Securities issued by CGMHI, you will not be able to trigger an Event of Default under the Securities and thus will not be able to cause the Securities to be immediately due and payable, and the Securities will not redeem until maturity (unless there has been an Event of Default due to non-payment of interest, principal or termination amounts or bankruptcy or other default of CGMHI in the meantime). It is possible that you may receive a lower return at maturity than if you were able to accelerate the Securities for immediate repayment in such circumstances.

Under U.S. banking law, Citigroup Inc. may be required to apply its available funds to support the financial position of its banking subsidiaries, rather than to fulfil its obligations under the Securities

Under longstanding policy of The Board of Governors of the U.S. Federal Reserve System, a bank holding company (such as Citigroup Inc.) is expected to act as a source of financial strength for its subsidiary banks and to commit resources to support such banks. As a result of that policy, Citigroup Inc. may be required to commit resources (in the form of investments or loans) to its subsidiary banks in amounts or at times that could adversely affect its ability to also fulfil its obligations under the Securities issued by it and/or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, and consequently the value of and return on the Securities issued by it or CGMHI (which have the benefit of a guarantee of the CGMHI Guarantor) may also be adversely affected.

The inclusion of contractual stay provisions in the terms and conditions of the Securities could materially adversely affect the rights of Securityholders in a resolution scenario

In the autumn of 2017, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the FDIC and the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency issued rules (QFC Stay Rules) designed to improve the resolvability and resilience of U.S. global systemically important banking organisations (G-SIBs) and the U.S. operations of foreign G-SIBs, by mitigating the risk of destabilising closeouts of qualified financial contracts (QFCs) in resolution. Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries, including CGMHI, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor, are "covered entities" subject to the QFC Stay Rules. Certain of the Securities (such as Securities, Covered Instruments), the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee – to the extent those guarantees relate to Covered Instruments – may qualify as QFCs.

The QFC Stay Rules seek to eliminate impediments to the orderly resolution of a G-SIB both in a scenario where resolution proceedings are instituted by the U.S. regulatory authorities under the Federal Deposit Insurance Act or the Orderly Liquidation Authority under Title II of the Dodd Frank Act (OLA) (together, the U.S. Special Resolution Regimes) as well as in a scenario where the G-SIB is resolved under ordinary insolvency proceedings. To achieve this, the QFC Stay Rules require covered entities (such as Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor) to ensure that their QFCs subject to the QFC Stay Rules (including any Securities which are Covered Instruments) (i) contain an express contractual recognition of the statutory stay-and-transfer provisions of the U.S. Special Resolution Regimes and (ii) do not contain cross-default rights against the covered entity based on an affiliate becoming subject to any type of insolvency proceeding or restrictions on the transfer of any related credit enhancements (including a guarantee) issued by an affiliate of the covered entity following the affiliate's entry into insolvency proceedings.

To address these requirements, the Terms and Conditions of the Securities contain an express contractual recognition that, in the event any of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor becomes subject to a proceeding under a U.S. Special Resolution Regime, the transfer of Securities which are Covered Instruments, and (in relation to Covered Instruments) the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee (and the transfer of any interest and obligation in or under such Covered Instruments, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee) from the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor, as applicable, will be effective to the same extent as the transfer would be effective under such U.S. Special Resolution Regime. In addition, the Terms and Conditions of the Securities contain an express contractual recognition that, in the event any of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor and any of their affiliates becomes subject to a proceeding under a U.S. Special Resolution Regime, default rights against the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor with respect to the Covered Instruments, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee are permitted to be exercised to no greater extent than they could be exercised under such U.S. Special Resolution Regime. For these purposes, "default rights" include the right to terminate, liquidate or accelerate a QFC or demand payment or delivery thereunder. See General Condition 23 (Acknowledgement of the United States Special Resolution Regimes).

Each of Citigroup Inc., as a U.S. entity incorporated in Delaware, and CGMHI, as a U.S. entity incorporated in the State of New York, could be placed into proceedings under OLA if certain determinations are made by the applicable U.S. regulatory authorities. However, under the law in effect as at the date of this Base Prospectus, although CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor are each "covered entities" for the purposes of the QFC Stay Rules and are required to include the above-described acknowledgements in relevant QFCs, neither CGMFL nor the CGMFL Guarantor, as non-U.S. entities, are eligible to be placed into proceedings under the U.S. Special Resolution Regimes.

The exercise of any power under the U.S. Special Resolution Regimes could materially adversely affect the rights of the holders of Securities issued by CGMHI or Citigroup Inc. (e.g. in respect of the right to demand payment), and accordingly, the price or value of their investment in any such Security and/or the ability of such Issuer to satisfy its obligations under such Securities.

As at the date of this Base Prospectus, interpretation of the application of the relevant requirements and market practice is continuing to evolve. If you are in any doubt about the categorisation of any Securities as QFCs and the effect of any proceeding under a U.S. Special Resolution Regime on such Securities, you should take advice from such professional advisers as you may deem necessary.

Ability to Substitute the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor in Insolvency

The Terms and Conditions of the Securities explicitly provide that nothing in General Condition 17 (Substitution of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor) shall limit the ability of the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor to be substituted upon or following the relevant entity becoming subject to a resolution, restructuring, or reorganisation or similar proceeding. This means any such substitution of the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor does not have to comply with the substitution criteria set out in General Condition 17 (Substitution of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor). Any such substitution could adversely affect the rights of Securityholders, the price and/or value of their investment in the Securities and/or performance under the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee, as the case may be.

A reduction of the Issuer's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor's ratings may reduce the market value and liquidity of the relevant Securities

The value of the Securities is expected to be affected, in part, by investors' general appraisal of the Issuer's, the CGMHI Guarantor's, the CGMFL Guarantor's and/or their affiliates' creditworthiness. Such perceptions are generally influenced by the ratings accorded to the outstanding securities of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any of their affiliates by standard statistical rating services, such as Moody's, S&P and Fitch. A reduction in the rating, if any, accorded to outstanding debt securities (if any) of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or the securities issued by any of their affiliates by one of these rating agencies could result in a reduction in the trading value of the Securities.

Each rating agency may reduce, suspend or withdraw any credit ratings of an Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor at any time in the future if, in its judgement, circumstances warrant a change. No rating agency is obligated to maintain its ratings at their current levels. The rating agencies continuously evaluate Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries, and their ratings of Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries' long-term and short-term debt are based on a number of factors, including financial strength, as well as factors not entirely within the control of Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries, such as conditions affecting the financial services industry generally. If a rating agency reduces, suspends or withdraws its rating of an Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, and/or any affiliate thereof, the liquidity and market value of the Securities and, where applicable, the CGMHI Guarantor's or CGMFL Guarantor's ability to fulfil its guarantor obligations are likely to be adversely affected.

In addition, ratings downgrades by Fitch, Moody's or S&P could have a significant and immediate impact on Citigroup Inc.'s funding and liquidity through cash obligations, reduced funding capacity and derivative triggers and additional margin requirements. Ratings downgrades could also have a negative impact on other funding sources, such as secured financing and other margin requirements, for which there are no explicit triggers. Some entities may also have ratings limitations as to their permissible counterparties, of which Citigroup Inc. may or may not be aware. A reduction in Citigroup Inc.'s or its subsidiaries' credit ratings could also widen Citigroup Inc.'s credit spreads or otherwise increase its borrowing costs and limit its access to the capital markets. Any of the foregoing factors may negatively impact the value of and return on the Securities.

For information on the credit ratings of the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor, please refer to the sub-section entitled "Credit Ratings" in "Important Information relating to Offers of Securities" at page xv above.

Citigroup Inc. may not be able to maintain adequate liquidity or funding which may result in a negative impact on the market value of the Securities issued by it or (in the case of Securities issued by CGMHI) its ability to fulfil its guarantor obligations

As a global financial institution, adequate liquidity and sources of funding are essential to Citigroup Inc.'s businesses. Citigroup Inc.'s liquidity and sources of funding can be significantly and negatively impacted by factors it cannot control, such as general disruptions in the financial markets, governmental fiscal and monetary policies, regulatory changes or negative investor perceptions of Citigroup Inc.'s creditworthiness.

In addition, Citigroup Inc.'s costs to obtain and access secured funding and long-term unsecured funding are directly related to its credit spreads. Changes in credit spreads are driven by both external market factors and factors specific to Citigroup Inc., and can be highly volatile.

Moreover, Citigroup Inc.'s ability to obtain funding may be impaired if other market participants are seeking to access the markets at the same time, or if market appetite declines, as is likely to occur in a liquidity stress event or other market crisis. A sudden drop in market liquidity could also cause a temporary or lengthier dislocation of underwriting and capital markets activity. In addition, clearing organisations, central banks, clients and financial institutions with which Citigroup Inc. interacts may exercise the right to require additional collateral based on their perceptions or the market conditions, which could further impair Citigroup Inc.'s access to and cost of funding.

These factors may negatively impact the market value of the Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. or (in the case of Securities issued by CGMHI) Citigroup Inc.'s ability to fulfil its guarantor obligations.

OECD base erosion and profit shifting

In May 2013, the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Council at Ministerial Level adopted a declaration on base erosion and profit shifting urging the OECD's Committee on Fiscal Affairs to develop an action plan to address base erosion and profit shifting in a comprehensive manner and in July 2013 the OECD launched an Action Plan on Base Erosion and Profit Shifting, identifying 15 specific actions to achieve this (the BEPS Project). These action points relate to, amongst other things, restricting the deductibility of interest payments (Action 4), preventing the granting of tax treaty benefits in inappropriate circumstances (Action 6) and preventing the artificial avoidance of permanent establishment status (Action 7).

All of the action points have been subject to public consultation and on 5 October 2015 the OECD Secretariat published 13 final reports and an explanatory statement outlining consensus actions. The BEPS Project is expected to generate changes to tax policy and systems in numerous jurisdictions. While some aspects of the BEPS Project have been provided for in some jurisdictions (such as in the European Union by Council Directive (EU) 2016/1164 of 12 July 2016 laying down rules against tax avoidance practices that directly affect the functioning of the internal market), it remains unclear the extent to which actions will be implemented in other jurisdictions. It is not possible to assess at this stage what impact the BEPS Project will have on the tax payable by Citigroup Inc. and its subsidiaries or whether there would be any other adverse tax consequences, any of which could reduce amounts available for distribution to Securityholders.

Actions taken under the Banking Act in relation to the CGMFL Guarantor could materially adversely affect the value of and return on Securities issued by CGMFL

Under the Banking Act 2009 (the Banking Act), substantial powers are granted to HM Treasury, the Bank of England, the Financial Conduct Authority and the Prudential Regulation Authority (together, the Authorities) as part of a special resolution regime (the SRR). These powers may be exercised in respect of certain UK entities (each a relevant entity), including UK investment firms such as the CGMFL Guarantor.

The SRR consists of five stabilisation options and two special insolvency procedures (bank administration and bank insolvency). The stabilisation options provide for: (i) private sector transfer of all or part of the business of the relevant entity; (ii) transfer of all or part of the business of the relevant entity to a bridge bank wholly owned by the Bank of England; (iii) transfer of all or part of the business of the relevant entity to an asset management vehicle owned and controlled by the Bank of England; (iv) writing down certain claims of unsecured creditors of the relevant entity and/or converting certain unsecured debt claims to equity, (the bail-in option), which equity could also be subject to any future cancellation, transfer or dilution; and (v) temporary public ownership (nationalisation) of all or part of the relevant entity or its UK holding company. In each case, the Authorities have wide powers, for example to modify contractual arrangements or disapply or modify laws with possible retroactive effect.

The relevant stabilisation options may be exercised if (a) the relevant Authority is satisfied that a relevant entity is failing or likely to fail, (b) following consultation with the other Authorities, the relevant Authority determines that it is not reasonably likely that (ignoring the stabilising options) action will be taken that will result in the condition referred to in (a) ceasing to be met and (c) the Authorities consider the exercise of the stabilisation options to be necessary, having regard to certain public interest considerations. The stabilisation options could be exercised prior to insolvency, and payments to Securityholders may be delayed or less than expected.

By way of example, exercise of the stabilisation options could involve (among other things) modifying or disapplying the terms of the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee without Securityholders' consent. This could adversely affect their rights, the price or value of their investment and the ability of the CGMFL Guarantor to satisfy its obligations.

In addition, if the CGMFL Guarantor were subject to a partial transfer of its business to another entity, the quality of the assets and the quantum of the liabilities not transferred (which may include the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee) would negatively affect its creditworthiness. As a result, the CGMFL Guarantor may be unable to meet its obligations in respect of the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee or subject to administration proceedings.

In certain circumstances, while Securityholders may have a claim for compensation under the Banking Act, they may not recover compensation promptly or equal to losses incurred.

Action taken under the BRRD in relation to CGMFL could materially adversely affect the value of and return on Securities issued by CGMFL

Directive 2014/59/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 May 2014 establishing a framework for the recovery and resolution of credit institutions and investment firms, as amended (the BRRD) was implemented by the Luxembourg act dated 18 December 2015 on the recovery, resolution and liquidation of credit institutions and certain investment firms, as amended (the BRR Act 2015) (noting that, to date, its last amendment, Directive (EU) 2019/879 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2019 amending the BRRD as regards the loss-absorbing and recapitalisation capacity of credit institutions and investment firms, still needs to be implemented in Luxembourg). Under the BRR Act 2015, the competent authority is the Commission de surveillance du secteur financier (the CSSF) and the resolution authority is the CSSF acting as resolution council (Conseil de résolution) (the Resolution Council).

The BRR Act 2015 contains four resolution tools and powers which may be used where the Resolution Council considers that (a) an institution is failing or likely to fail, (b) there is no reasonable prospect that any alternative private sector measures would prevent the failure of such institution within a reasonable timeframe, and (c) a resolution action is in the public interest.

The BRR Act 2015 provides for the power to impose a suspension of activities, including a partial or complete suspension of the performance of agreements entered into by a Luxembourg incorporated in-scope entity (such as CGMFL). The BRR Act 2015 also grants the power to the Resolution Council to take a number of other resolution measures including (i) a forced sale of all or part of the business of a Luxembourg incorporated in-scope entity, (ii) the establishment of an entity wholly or partially in public control (a bridge institution), which may limit the capacity of a Luxembourg incorporated in-scope entity to meet its repayment obligations, (iii) the forced transfer of all or part of the assets, rights or obligations of a Luxembourg incorporated in-scope entity and (iv) the application of the general bail-in tool to write down certain claims of unsecured creditors (including to zero) and to convert certain unsecured debt claims to equity or other instruments of ownership, which equity or other instruments could also be subject to any future cancellation, transfer or dilution.

If Securities issued by CGMFL are subject to the bail-in tool, holders of such Securities may lose some or all of their investment. The terms of the obligations under the Securities may also be varied by the Resolution Council (e.g. suspension of payments). In addition, more recent amendments to the BRRD and other related pieces of EU legislation provide for a new pre-resolution moratorium tool and new powers to suspend performance of agreements (including payment) by the relevant institution (such as CGMFL).

The exercise of the above powers could materially adversely affect the rights of the holders of Securities issued by CGMFL, the price or value of their investment in any such Security and/or the ability of CGMFL to satisfy its obligations under any such Security.

In certain circumstances, while Securityholders may have a claim for compensation under the BRR Act 2015, they may not recover compensation promptly or equal to losses incurred.

Risks relating to the exercise of any bail-in power by the relevant resolution authority in respect of Securities issued by CGMFL and Securityholder agreement to be bound thereby

The terms and conditions of the Securities provide that each Securityholder of Securities issued by CGMFL (CGMFL Securities) (including each holder of a beneficial interest in such CGMFL Securities) acknowledges, accepts, consents and agrees, notwithstanding any other term of the CGMFL Securities or any other agreements, arrangements, or understandings between CGMFL and such Securityholder, by its acquisition of such CGMFL Securities (a) to be bound by the effect of the exercise of the bail-in power by the relevant resolution authority if the latter were to consider that the amounts due under the CGMFL Securities would fall within the scope of the bail-in power, which bail-in power may include and result in any of the following, or a combination thereof (i) the reduction of all, or a portion, of the amounts due under the CGMFL Securities, (ii) the conversion of all, or a portion, of the amounts due under the CGMFL Securities into shares, other securities or other obligations of CGMFL or another person, including by means of an amendment, modification or variation of the terms and conditions of the CGMFL Securities, in which case the Securityholder agrees to accept, in lieu of any rights under the CGMFL Securities, any such shares, other securities or other obligations of CGMFL or another person, (iii) the cancellation of the CGMFL Securities, (iv) the amendment or alteration of the maturity of the CGMFL Securities or amendment of the amount of interest payable on the CGMFL Securities, or the date on which the interest becomes payable, including by suspending payment for a temporary period, and (b) if applicable, that the terms and conditions of the CGMFL Securities are subject to, and may be varied, if necessary, to give effect to, the exercise of the bail-in power by the relevant resolution authority. See General Condition 24 (Agreement and Acknowledgement with Respect to the Exercise of the Bail-in Power in Respect of Securities Issued by CGMFL).

Accordingly, any bail-in power may be exercised in such a manner as to result in Securityholders of the CGMFL Securities losing all or a part of the value of their investment in the CGMFL Securities or receiving a different security from the CGMFL Securities, which may be worth significantly less than the CGMFL Securities and which may have significantly fewer protections than those typically afforded to debt securities (and holders of those securities may be subject to liabilities to which they would not be subject as the holder of debt securities). Moreover, the relevant resolution authority may exercise its authority to implement the bail-in power without providing any advance notice to Securityholders of the CGMFL Securities.

Anti-tax avoidance directives

Directive 2016/1164/EU, the so-called anti-tax avoidance directive (ATAD), was adopted on 12 July 2016 to implement in the EU Member States' domestic legal frameworks common measures to tackle tax avoidance practices. ATAD lays down (i) controlled foreign company rules, (ii) anti-hybrid mismatches within the EU context rules, (iii) general interest limitation rules, (iv) a general anti-abuse rule, and (v) exit taxation rules. Following the adoption of ATAD, the EU Member States decided to go further as regards hybrid-mismatches with third countries, and adopted the Directive 2017/952/EU (ATAD 2) amending the ATAD provisions with respect to anti-hybrid mismatches, on 29 May 2017. ATAD must be implemented by the EU Member States as of 1 January 2019, and ATAD 2 as of 1 January 2020. Luxembourg adopted (i) the Law of 21 December 2018 implementing ATAD with effect as of 1 January 2019 and (ii) the Law of 20 December 2019 implementing ATAD 2 with effect as of 1 January 2020 (except for the reverse hybrid mismatch rules, which should apply as of 1 January 2022). These rules could increase the taxable base of the Securities issued by CGMFL and/or reduce amounts available for distribution to Securityholders.

RISKS RELATING TO SECURITIES GENERALLY

An investment in Securities involves risks (as further described in the paragraphs below) and should only be made after assessing the direction, timing and magnitude of potential future market changes (e.g. in the value of the security indices, inflation indices, commodity indices, commodities, shares, depositary receipts, exchange traded funds, mutual funds, currencies, warrants, proprietary indices, dividend futures contracts, interest rates, preference shares or other items which comprise or relate to the Underlying(s)), as well as the terms and conditions of the Securities. More than one risk factor may have simultaneous effects with regard to the Securities such that the effect of a particular risk factor may not be predictable. In addition, more than one risk factor may have a compounding effect, which may not be predictable.

Potential loss of some or all of the investment

You should be prepared to sustain a total or partial loss of the purchase price of your Securities.

Other than any Securities having a scheduled minimum redemption value, Securities purchased may be worthless on redemption. In addition, the Securities will only redeem at an amount equivalent to at least the issue price if the applicable Issue Terms provide that the Redemption Amount at maturity is an amount equivalent to at least such amount. If the Securities provide that the Redemption Amount may be less than the issue price, such Securities may be redeemed at an amount less than such price. If the Securities are redeemed at less than the issue price or the Securities are cancelled or repaid early in accordance with their terms, the amount received by you, as a holder of such Securities, may be less than your initial investment.

Furthermore, the Securities may be traded in the secondary market or redeemed early, and if so, the price for which a Security may be sold or redeemed early may be less than the principal amount of such Security and/or your initial investment in such Securities.

For Securities which are linked to Underlying(s), in order to recover and realise a return upon your investment, you must generally be correct about the direction, timing and magnitude of an anticipated change in the value of the relevant Underlying(s). Assuming all other factors are held constant, the more a Security is "out-of-the-money" and the shorter its remaining term to maturity, the greater the risk that you will lose all or part of your investment. The only means through which you can realise value from a Security prior to the maturity date in relation to such Security is to sell it at its then market price in an available secondary market (if any). Fluctuations in the value or the yield (if applicable) or the relevant rates of exchange (if applicable) of the relevant Underlying(s) will affect the value of the relevant Securities. You risk losing your entire investment if the value of the relevant Underlying(s) does not move in the anticipated direction.

Further, you may receive no interest during the term of the Securities.

Securities are unsecured obligations and subject to the credit risk of the Issuer and/or Guarantor

All Securities will be unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Issuer and all Securities issued by it will rank equally among themselves and with all other unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Issuer. The obligations of the CGMHI Guarantor under the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee will be unsecured and unsubordinated and will rank pari passu with all other outstanding unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the CGMHI Guarantor. The obligations of the CGMFL Guarantor under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee will be unsecured and unsubordinated and will rank pari passu with all other outstanding unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the CGMFL Guarantor. See General Condition 4 (Status).

The Issuer's obligations under the Securities issued by it, the CGMHI Guarantor's obligations under the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and the CGMFL Guarantor's obligations under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee represent general contractual obligations of each respective entity and of no other person. Only Securities issued by CGMHI will be guaranteed by the CGMHI Guarantor. Only Securities issued by CGMFL will be guaranteed by the CGMFL Guarantor. Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. will not be guaranteed by any entity.

Accordingly, all payments under the Securities are subject to the credit risk of the Issuer and, where the Issuer is CGMHI, of the CGMHI Guarantor or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, of the CGMFL Guarantor. Securityholders will not have recourse to any secured assets of the Issuer and, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor in the event that the Issuer or the relevant Guarantor is unable to meet its obligations under the Securities, including e.g. in the event of an insolvency, and therefore risk losing some or all of their investment.

A sale of Securities prior to their scheduled redemption may result in a loss to the investor

The value of Securities prior to their scheduled redemption varies as the price or level of the Underlying(s) varies, as well as due to a number of other interrelated factors, including (i) the trading price of the relevant Securities, (ii) the value and volatility of the Underlying(s), (iii) the remaining tenor, (iv) in the case of Cash Settled Securities, the probable range of any Redemption Amounts, (v) any change(s) in interim interest rates and dividend yields if applicable, (vi) any change(s) in currency exchange rates, (vii) the depth of the market or liquidity of the Underlying(s) and (viii) any related transaction costs. Depending on the above factors (e.g. if movements in the price or level of the Underlying(s) reduce the probable range of any Redemption Amounts), a sale of Securities prior to their scheduled redemption may be at a substantial discount from the original purchase price and you may lose some or all of your investment.

Securities which are issued at a substantial discount or premium

The market value of any Securities issued at a substantial discount or premium to their principal amount or issue or offer price tend to fluctuate more in relation to general changes in interest rates than do prices for more conventional interest-bearing securities. Generally, the longer the remaining term of such Securities, the greater the price volatility as compared to more conventional interest-bearing securities with comparable maturities. Such price volatility could lead to a greater loss than otherwise on any sale of the Security prior to its scheduled redemption or an inability to sell the Security in the secondary markets.

Impact of fees, commissions and/or inducements on the Issue Price and/or offer price

The Issue Price and/or offer price of Securities may include fees and/or other commissions and inducements (e.g. placement fees, distribution fees, structuring fees). Any such fees and/or other commissions and inducements will not be taken into account for the purposes of determining the price of such Securities in the secondary market and will result in a difference between the Issue Price and/or offer price of the Securities and the bid/offer price quoted by any intermediary in the secondary market. Any such difference will result in a decrease in the value of an issue of Securities and consequently a loss to the investor, particularly in relation to any such Securities sold immediately following the issue date or offer period relating to such Securities.

The secondary market

Securities may have no established trading market when issued, and one may never develop, so investors should be prepared to hold their Securities until maturity. If a market does develop, it may not be very liquid and may be sensitive to changes in financial markets and you may not be able to find a timely and/or suitable purchaser. If it is possible to sell Securities, they would be sold for the prevailing bid price in the market and may be subject to a transaction fee. The prevailing bid price may be affected by several factors including the performance of any relevant Underlying, prevailing interest rates at the time of sale, the time remaining to the stated maturity date, the creditworthiness of the Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and factors affecting the capital markets generally. The introduction of additional or competing products in the market may also have a negative effect on the price of any Securities.

Consequently, you may not be able to sell your Securities easily or at all or at prices that will provide you with a yield comparable to similar investments that have a developed secondary market or at prices equal to or higher than your initial investment and in fact any such price may be substantially less than the original purchase price. Therefore, in establishing your investment strategy, you should ensure that the term of the Securities is in line with your future liquidity requirements. This is particularly the case should the relevant Issuer be in financial distress, which may result in any sale of the Securities having to be at a substantial discount to their principal amount or issue or offer price, or for Securities that are especially sensitive to interest rate, currency or market risks, are designed for specific investment objectives or strategies or have been structured to meet the investment requirements of limited categories of investors. These types of Securities generally would have a more limited secondary market and more price volatility than conventional debt securities. Illiquidity may have a severely adverse effect on the market value of Securities. The liquidity of Securities is also influenced by the type of investor to whom such Securities are sold. To the extent that an issue of Securities is or becomes illiquid, you may have to hold the relevant Securities until maturity before you are able to realise value.

The Issuer may, but is not obliged to, list an issue of Securities on a stock exchange or regulated market. If Securities are not listed or traded on any stock exchange or regulated market, pricing information for the relevant Securities may be more difficult to obtain and the liquidity of such Securities may be adversely affected.

If Securities are not listed or traded on a stock exchange or regulated market, they may be traded on trading systems governed by the laws and regulations in force from time to time (e.g. multilateral trading systems or "MTFs") or in other trading systems (e.g. bilateral systems or equivalent trading systems). In the event that trading in such Securities takes place outside any such stock exchange, regulated market or trading systems, the manner in which the price of such Securities is determined may be less transparent and the liquidity of such Securities may be adversely affected. You should note that none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer grants any warranty to Securityholders as to the methodologies used to determine the price of Securities which are traded outside a trading system. However, where the Issuer or any of its affiliates determines the price of such Securities, it will take into account the market parameters applicable at such time in accordance with applicable provisions of law. Even if Securities are listed and/or admitted to trading, this will not necessarily result in greater liquidity.

Each of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer may, but is not obliged to, at any time purchase Securities at any price in the open market or by tender or private agreement. Any Securities so purchased may be held or resold or surrendered for cancellation. If such Securities are surrendered for cancellation, then the number of Securities outstanding will decrease, which will reduce liquidity for the outstanding Securities. Any such activities may have an adverse effect on the price of the relevant Securities in the secondary market and/or the existence of a secondary market.

Any of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor or any Dealer or affiliate of any such entity, as, where applicable, part of its activities as a broker and dealer in fixed income and equity securities and related products or otherwise, may make a secondary market in relation to any Securities and may provide an indicative bid price on a daily basis. Any indicative prices so provided shall be determined by the relevant party in its sole discretion taking into account prevailing market conditions and shall not be a representation by such party that any Securities can be purchased or sold at such prices (or at all) and any of the parties specified above may suspend or terminate making a market and providing indicative prices without notice, at any time and for any reason. In these circumstances, there may be no market for the relevant Securities and you should not assume that such a market will exist. Accordingly you must be prepared to hold the Securities until the maturity date, and may not be able to sell them prior to such date or, if you can, you may only be able to do so for a loss.

Change of law (including applicable tax law) or tax practice

The Terms and Conditions of the Securities are based on relevant laws in effect as at the date of this Base Prospectus. No assurance can be given as to the impact of any possible judicial decision or change to such laws or administrative practices after the date of this Base Prospectus and any such change could materially adversely impact the value of any Securities affected by it.

In addition any relevant tax law, regulations or practice applicable as at the date of this Base Prospectus and/or the date of purchase or subscription of any Securities may change at any time (including during any subscription period or the term of any Securities) and it is not possible to predict the precise tax treatment which will apply to the Securities at any given time. Any such change may have an adverse effect on you including that your Securities may be redeemed before their due date, their liquidity may decrease and/or the tax treatment of amounts payable or receivable by or to you may be less favourable than otherwise expected by you.

Risks related to implementation of regulatory reform

Implementation of U.S. federal financial reform legislation may affect the value of Underlying(s) and the ability to hedge the Issuer's obligations under the Securities. This may in turn affect the market value, trading price and viability of, and return on, the Securities. This is because the amounts received and/or value of assets deliverable under the Securities will depend on (among other things) the performance of any such Underlying(s) and the Securities may be subject to early redemption as a result of events related to hedging arrangements. In addition, amounts and/or assets due under the Securities may be reduced to reflect costs related to hedging arrangements.

For example, the Dodd-Frank Act would, upon full implementation, impose limits on the maximum position that could be held by a single dealer in certain of the Underlying(s) and may subject certain transactions to new forms of regulation that could create barriers and increase costs in relation to some types of hedging activity by the Issuer and/or any Hedging Party or any of their respective affiliates. Other provisions of the Dodd-Frank Act could require certain Underlying(s) or hedging transactions to be cleared, traded on a regulated exchange and reported to regulators, central data repositories and, in some cases, the public, which may also affect their value, viability and cost. The Dodd-Frank Act also expands entity registration requirements and imposes business conduct requirements on persons active in the swaps market (which may include new capital and margin requirements), which may affect the value of relevant Underlying(s) or value and/or cost of hedging transactions. Such regulation may consequently affect the market value, trading price and viability of, and return on, the Securities.

Changes in exchange rates and exchange controls could result in a loss of the value of the Securities and payments in respect thereof in relation to the currency of your jurisdiction

An investment in Securities denominated in a Specified Currency and/or payable in a currency other than the currency of your jurisdiction (your currency) entails significant risks that are not associated with a similar investment in a security denominated in your currency. These risks include, but are not limited to:

- the possibility of significant market changes in rates of exchange between your currency and the Specified Currency and/or payment currency;
- the possibility of significant changes in rates of exchange between your currency and the Specified Currency and/or payment currency resulting from the official redenomination or revaluation of the Specified Currency and/or payment currency; and
- the possibility of the imposition or modification of foreign exchange controls by either your jurisdiction or foreign governments.

These risks generally depend on factors over which none of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor has any control and which cannot be readily foreseen, such as economic and political events and the supply of, and demand for, the relevant currencies.

In recent years, rates of exchange between some foreign currencies in which the Securities may be denominated and/or payable have been volatile. This volatility may be expected in the future. Fluctuations that have occurred in any particular exchange rate in the past are not necessarily indicative, however, of fluctuation that may occur in the rate during the term of any Security. Depreciation of the Specified Currency and/or payment currency of a Security against your currency would result in a decrease in the effective yield of such Security below its coupon rate (if applicable) and could result in a substantial loss to you in terms of your currency.

Governments and monetary authorities have imposed from time to time, and may in the future impose, exchange controls that could affect applicable exchange rates as well as the availability of a Specified Currency and/or payment currency at the time of payment of any amounts on any Security. There can be no assurance that exchange controls will not restrict or prohibit payments under the Securities which are denominated in any such Specified Currency and/or payment currency. Even if there are no actual exchange controls, it is possible that a Specified Currency and/or payment currency would not be available to the Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor when payments on a Security are due because of circumstances beyond the control of the Issuer and/or the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor. Any such restriction, prohibition or unavailability of the relevant currency may negatively affect the value of and return on the Securities, and could result in a substantial loss to you.

The above risks may be increased if any Specified Currency and/or payment currency and/or your currency is the currency of an emerging market jurisdiction.

The unavailability of currencies could result in a loss of value of the Securities and payments thereunder

The currency in which payments on a Security are required to be made may be redenominated, for example, because such currency is:

- unavailable due to the imposition of exchange controls or other circumstances beyond the Issuer's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor's control;
- no longer used by the government of the country issuing the currency; or
- no longer used for the settlement of transactions by public institutions of the international banking community.

Where the currency in which payments in respect of a Security is officially redenominated, other than as a result of Economic and Monetary Union, such as by an official redenomination of any such currency that is a composite currency, then the payment obligations of the Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor on such Security immediately following the redenomination will be the amount of redenominated currency that represents the amount of the Issuer's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor's and/or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor's obligations immediately before the redenomination.

The Securities will not provide for any adjustment to any amount payable as a result of:

- any change in the value of the Specified Currency and/or payment currency of those Securities relative to any other currency due solely to fluctuations in exchange rates; or
- any redenomination of any component currency of any composite currency, unless that composite currency is itself officially redenominated.

Accordingly, a currency redenomination may result in a material adverse loss of the value of and return on the Securities.

Meetings of Securityholders and Modifications

Securities other than French law Securities

The Terms and Conditions of the Securities contain provisions for calling meetings of Securityholders to consider matters which may have a general or specific effect upon your interests. Matters decided at such meetings may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities, and further, the vote of a defined majority may be binding on all Securityholders, including those Securityholders who did not attend and vote at the relevant meeting, and Securityholders who voted in a manner contrary to the majority.

The Terms and Conditions of the Securities also provide that the Issuer and, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor may make, without the consent of the Securityholders, (i) any modification to the Securities, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement, the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, the relevant Deed of Covenant, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee which, in the opinion of the Issuer, is not materially prejudicial to the interests of the Securityholders or (ii) any modification to the Securities, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement, the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, the Deeds of Covenant, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee which is of a formal, minor or technical nature or is made to correct a manifest error or proven error or to comply with mandatory provisions of the law. In determining what is "materially prejudicial", the Issuer shall not consider the individual circumstances of any Securityholder or the tax or other consequences of such modification in any jurisdiction. Any such amendment to the Securities could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities or, without limitation, a Securityholder's tax, regulatory or accounting treatment of such Securities.

French Law Securities

In the case of French Law Securities, the Terms and Conditions of the Securities can only be amended if there is a meeting of the Securityholders in accordance with French law. The positive vote of two-thirds or more of Securityholders will bind the remaining Securityholders in accordance with Article L. 228-65-II of the French Code de commerce.

In respect of French Law Securities which have a Specified Denomination of at least EUR 100,000 or which can be traded in amounts of at least EUR 100,000 (or its equivalent in the relevant currency as of the Issue Date), the Issuer may amend the Conditions of the Securities without the consent of the Securityholders to correct a manifest error.

See further General Condition 12 (Meetings of Securityholders, Modifications, Determinations and Rounding).

Certain considerations relating to public offers of Securities in the EEA

For the purposes of this risk factor, references to the EEA include the United Kingdom.

As described in the applicable Final Terms, Securities that are not Exempt Securities may be distributed by means of a public offer made in the specified Member State(s) of the EEA during an offer period specified in the applicable Final Terms. During such offer period, the Issuer and/or any other person specified in the applicable Final Terms may reserve the right to cancel such offer and/or to scale back applications for such offer in the event of over-subscription or such other circumstances as are specified in the applicable Final Terms. In such circumstances, an applicant investor may not be issued any Securities or may be issued a number of Securities which is less than the amount for which such applicant investor applied. Any payments made by an applicant investor or, in the case of public offers in Italy any amount segregated by a distributor as intended payment of the offer price by an applicant investor, for Securities that are not issued to such applicant investor for any such reason will be refunded. However, there will be a time lag in making any reimbursement, no interest or compensation will be payable in respect of any such amounts and the applicant investor may be subject to reinvestment risk.

In addition, the Issuer and/or the other entities specified in the applicable Final Terms may terminate the offer early by immediate suspension of the acceptance of further subscription requests and by giving notice to the public in accordance with the applicable Final Terms. Any such termination may occur, even where the maximum amount for subscription in relation to that offer (as specified in the applicable Final Terms), has not been reached and, in such circumstances, the early closing of the offer may have an impact on the aggregate number of Securities issued. This may in turn have an adverse effect on the liquidity of the relevant Securities, with the result that you may not be able to sell the Securities prior to the maturity date or, if you can, that you may only be able to do so for a loss.

Further, you should note that, in certain circumstances, Securities may not be issued on the originally designated issue date, for example because either the Issuer and/or any other person specified in the applicable Final Terms has reserved the right to postpone such issue date or, following the publication of a supplement to this Base Prospectus the Issuer has decided to postpone such issue date to allow investors who had made applications to subscribe for Securities before the date of publication of such Supplement to exercise their right to withdraw their acceptances. In the event that the issue date is so delayed, no interest shall accrue (if applicable) until the issue date of the Securities and no compensation shall be payable.

Further, you should note that the applicable Final Terms may also provide that the effectiveness of an offer of Securities in the Republic of Italy will be conditional upon admission to listing (in the case of a regulated market) or to trading (in the case of a multilateral trading facility) occurring by the issue date. In such case, in the event that such admission to listing or, as the case may be, trading of the Securities does not take place by the issue date for whatever reason, the Issuer will withdraw the offer, the offer will be deemed to be null and void and the relevant Securities will not be issued. As a consequence, you will not receive any Securities, any subscription rights you have for the Securities will be cancelled and you will not be entitled to any compensation therefor.

Determinations and potential conflicts of interest

The terms of the Securities confer on the Issuer, the Calculation Agent and certain other persons some discretion in making judgements, determinations and calculations in relation to the Securities including, inter alia, Underlying(s) and the occurrence of various events. The Issuer, the Calculation Agent or such other persons will act in good faith and in its sole and absolute discretion or in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner (as specified in the applicable Issue Terms), but there can be no assurance that the exercise of any such discretion will not affect the value of the Securities or result in the occurrence of an early repayment at an amount less than an investor's initial investment.

Where the Calculation Agent is an affiliate of the Issuer, potential conflicts of interest may exist between the Calculation Agent and Securityholders, including with respect to such judgements, determinations and calculations that the Calculation Agent may make pursuant to the Securities that may influence the amount receivable or specified assets deliverable in respect of the Securities.

Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or their affiliates and/or any third parties or entities which are not subject to regulation under the laws of the United States, the EEA or the United Kingdom may be the sponsor of an Underlying and may publish values or prices or other projections of creditworthiness in respect of an Underlying. Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any of their affiliates may also from time to time engage in transactions involving Underlying(s) for their proprietary accounts or for other accounts under their management, subject to requirements of all applicable laws and regulations. Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or their affiliates may also issue other derivative instruments in respect of any Underlying(s). Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, and/or their affiliates may also act as underwriter or counterparty in connection with future offerings of shares or other securities or obligations related to an issue of Securities or may act as financial adviser to certain companies or companies whose securities are Underlying(s) in respect of one or more issues of Securities or in a commercial banking capacity for such companies. These activities may have a negative effect on the value of the relevant Underlying(s) and consequently upon the value of the Securities.

Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, any Dealer and/or any of their affiliates may at the date of this Base Prospectus or at any time hereafter be in possession of information in relation to an Underlying that is or may be material and may or may not be publicly available to Securityholders. There is no obligation on any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, or any Dealer to disclose to any potential investors in Securities or to Securityholders any such information.

Any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, any Dealer and/or any of their affiliates may have existing or future business relationships with the issuer of, or other entity associated with, any Underlying(s) (including, but not limited to, lending, depositary, risk management, advisory and banking relationships), and will pursue actions and take steps that they or it deems necessary or appropriate to protect their and/or its interests arising therefrom without regard to the consequences for you, which could have a material adverse impact on the value of and return on the Securities.

Where Securities are offered to the public, as the relevant Dealer(s) and any distributors act pursuant to a mandate granted by the Issuer and they receive fees on the basis of the services performed and the outcome of the placement of such Securities, potential conflicts of interest could arise.

Substitution of CGMFL and/or the CGMFL Guarantor

In relation to Securities where "Substitution provisions" are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, and the Issuer is CGMFL, either the Issuer or the CGMFL Guarantor may, without the consent of the holders, but subject to certain conditions, substitute for itself in respect of such Securities or, if applicable, in respect of the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee, another company.

Depending on whether "Additional Requirements" are specified as being applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, amongst other conditions, the substitute company, on the date of such substitution, must either (i) be, in the opinion of the Issuer or the CGMFL Guarantor, as the case may be, of at least equivalent standing and creditworthiness to it, or (ii) have a long term credit rating from at least one rating agency of standard application on the international capital markets (including but not limited to Standard & Poor's, Moody's Investors Service and Fitch Ratings) which is at least as high as the Issuer or the CGMFL Guarantor (as the case may be) being substituted.

Any such substitution could have a material adverse impact on the rights of Securityholders, the value of and return on the Securities and/or performance under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee.

See further General Condition 17 (Substitution of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor).

Realisation Disruption

Other than in the case of Preference Share Linked Securities, if "Realisation Disruption" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and a Realisation Disruption Event occurs (being, in summary, either (i) an event which imposes restrictions or taxes, charges or deductions in respect of the Securities and/or on hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities which would materially restrict, or materially increase the cost of, the Issuer's obligations under the Securities or materially restrict, or materially increase the cost of, any Hedging Party's obligations under any such hedging arrangements, or (ii) the occurrence or existence of any event which either materially restricts the exchange, delivery or transfer of the currency of payment of the Securities or of any hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities or restricts the determination of any exchange rate in relation to any such currency), then either (a) the terms and conditions of the Securities (including any payment or delivery obligations) may be adjusted in order to reflect the economic effect of the particular Realisation Disruption Event or (b) the Issuer may redeem the Securities.

Any such adjustments by the Calculation Agent may include (but are not limited to): (i) payments under the Securities being made in a different currency to the previously specified payment currency of the Securities; (ii) deduction of applicable taxes, charges or deductions from payments due in respect of the Securities resulting in reduced amounts paid in respect of the Securities or delivery of any Entitlement being subject to payment by the relevant Securityholder of an amount equal to a pro rata portion of any such tax, charge or deduction; (iii) delay of payments or deliveries in respect of the Securities until the relevant restrictions are lifted; (iv) determination of relevant exchange rates by the Calculation Agent taking into consideration all available information that it deems relevant, which may result in a different rate to that which would have applied had the Realisation Disruption Event not occurred; and (v) (where legally permissible) in lieu of paying any cash amounts in respect of the Securities, procuring the physical delivery of any Underlying(s) (or vice versa). Any of the above adjustments could produce a materially different redemption to that originally anticipated in respect of the Securities and could have a material adverse impact on the value of and return on the Securities.

If the Securities are redeemed early pursuant to (b) of the first paragraph above, the Issuer will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities, an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you would therefore sustain a loss.

See further Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(j) (Realisation Disruption).

Occurrence of an Underlying RMB Currency Event

An Underlying RMB Currency Event refers to the occurrence of an Underlying RMB Inconvertibility, Underlying RMB Non-transferability or Underlying RMB Illiquidity (each, as defined in the Valuation and Settlement Conditions). If "Underlying RMB Currency Event" is specified as applicable in the relevant Issue Terms and if such event occurs, the Calculation Agent may direct the Issuer to opt to (a) postpone any payment in RMB due under the Securities to a later date (being 10 Business Days following the date on which such Underlying RMB Currency Event ceases to exist); or (b) replace the Issuer's obligation to pay in RMB by an obligation to pay such amount in the RMB Relevant Currency converted using the RMB Spot Rate for the relevant RMB Determination Date. Alternatively, the Issuer may early redeem each Security at its Early Redemption Amount.

In case of (a) or (b), investors may receive a late payment or depending on the conversion rate that is applied, a payment less than the anticipated amount(s) due in respect of the Securities. If the Securities are early redeemed pursuant to (b), the Issuer will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities, an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you would therefore sustain a loss.

See further Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(k) (Occurrence of an Underlying RMB Currency Event).

Illegality in relation to Securities

If "Illegality" is specified as being applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the Issuer determines that the performance of its obligations under an issue of Securities or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor determines that the performance of its obligations under the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee in respect of such Securities or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor determines that the performance of its obligations under the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee in respect of such Securities has become illegal in whole or in part for any reason, the Issuer may redeem the Securities early and, if and to the extent permitted by applicable law, will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities (i) in respect of Underlying Linked Securities, an amount calculated in respect of such Securities, notwithstanding such illegality, in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms and (ii) in respect of Securities other than Underlying Linked Securities, an amount calculated pursuant to the relevant Condition or as specified in the applicable Issue Terms. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you would therefore sustain a loss.

Section 871(m) Event

In circumstances that constitute a "Section 871(m) Event" (being the occurrence at any time of circumstances in which the Issuer, and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI or CGMFL, the relevant Guarantor and/or any Hedging Party is (or, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, there is a reasonable likelihood that, within the next 30 Business Days, the Issuer and/or, where the Issuer is CGMHI or CGMFL, the relevant Guarantor and/or any Hedging Party will become) subject to any withholding or reporting obligations pursuant to Section 871(m) (as defined in "Risks relating to the United States Tax Treatment of the Securities") with respect to the relevant Securities and/or the Deed of Guarantee and/or, save where the relevant Issue Terms specify that "Section 871(m) Event (Hedging Positions)" is not applicable, any underlying Hedging Positions), if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, an Early Redemption Event will occur in which case the relevant Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of such Securities.

If the Securities are so redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to you, as a holder of such Securities, an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, or such other amount as is specified in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule and in the applicable Issue Terms. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you would therefore sustain a loss.

Risks relating to the United States tax treatment of the Securities

Possible Taxable Event for U.S. Federal Income Tax Purposes

Certain modifications to the terms of the Securities could be treated as "significant modifications" of the Securities for U.S. federal income tax purposes, in which case the Securities would be treated, in whole or part, as retired and reissued. Significant modifications could include a designation by the Issuer of a Substitute for itself and the designation of a substitute or successor rate.

In the event of a significant modification, a U.S. Holder (as defined under "Section F.8—Taxation of Securities" in this Base Prospectus) would generally be required to recognise gain or loss (subject to possible treatment as a recapitalisation or, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules) with respect to the Securities. Moreover, the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. A changed treatment of the Securities could have possible withholding tax consequences to Non-U.S. Holders (as defined under "Section F.8—Taxation of Securities" in this Base Prospectus). Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the risk of such an event.

Possible U.S. Federal Withholding Tax under Section 871(m)

Section 871(m) (Section 871(m)) of the United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the Code), imposes a 30 per cent. (or lower treaty rate) withholding tax on certain "dividend equivalents" paid or deemed paid to Non-U.S. Holders (as defined under "Section F.8—Taxation of Securities" in this Base Prospectus) with respect to financial instruments linked to U.S. equities or indices that include U.S. equities under certain circumstances. Treasury regulations promulgated under Section 871(m) may require withholding on Non-U.S. Holders in respect of dividend equivalents deemed paid under certain Securities, regardless of whether the Securities are issued by the U.S. Issuer or the Non-U.S. Issuer (as defined under "Section F.8—Taxation of Securities" in this Base Prospectus). Under these regulations, this withholding regime generally applies to Securities that substantially replicate the economic performance of one or more underlying U.S. equities, as determined based on one of two tests set forth in the regulations. However, based on an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) notice, Securities issued prior to 2023 will generally be subject to withholding tax only if they have a "delta" of one with respect to the relevant underlying U.S. equity. The regulations provide certain other exceptions to this withholding regime, in particular for instruments linked to certain broad-based indices that meet requirements set forth in the regulations as well as instruments linked to securities that track such indices. The Issuer will not be required to pay any additional amounts in respect of amounts withheld under Section 871(m), and you may therefore receive a substantially reduced return on the Securities as compared to the return you would receive in the absence of such withholding.

Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of Section 871(m) to a particular Security.

If the Issuer determines that amounts paid with respect to the Securities or any underlying hedging arrangements of the Issuer in respect of the Securities will be subject to any withholding or reporting obligations pursuant to Section 871(m), the Issuer may redeem such Securities and, if and to the extent permitted by applicable law, may pay to each Securityholder in respect of each Security an amount equal to the fair market value of such Security, and may also deduct the cost to the Issuer and/or its Affiliates of unwinding any underlying related hedging arrangements from such amount. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

The United States Tax Treatment of Certain Securities is Unclear

For U.S. federal tax purposes, the proper treatment and characterisation of Securities that are not treated as debt instruments (generally, Securities that do not provide for the return at maturity of a holder's investment) and Securities that are Credit Linked Notes are unclear. As a result, the timing and character of income on such a Security are uncertain, and for a non-U.S. investor there is a risk that payments on such a Security may be subject to withholding tax. If withholding tax applies to a payment on such a Security, the Issuer will not be required to pay additional amounts in respect of amounts withheld, and you may therefore receive a substantially reduced return on the Securities as compared to the return you would receive in the absence of such withholding.

The U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS have requested comments on various issues regarding the U.S. federal income tax treatment of "prepaid forward contracts" and similar financial instruments and have indicated that such transactions may be the subject of future regulations or other guidance. In addition, members of Congress have proposed legislative changes to the tax treatment of derivative contracts. Any legislation, Treasury regulations or other guidance promulgated after consideration of these issues could materially and adversely affect the tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, possibly with retroactive effect.

Reportable Transactions

In 2015, the U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS released notices designating certain "basket options", "basket contracts" and substantially similar transactions as reportable transactions. The notices apply to specified transactions in which a taxpayer or its "designee" has, and exercises, discretion to change the assets or an algorithm underlying the transaction. While an exercise of the type of discretion that would give rise to such reporting requirements in respect of the Securities is not expected, if the Issuer, an index sponsor or calculation agent or other person were to exercise discretion under the terms of a Security or an index underlying a Security and were treated as a holder's "designee" for these purposes, unless an exception applied certain holders of the relevant Securities would be required to report certain information to the IRS, as set forth in the applicable Treasury regulations, or be subject to penalties. The Issuer might also be required to report information regarding the transaction to the IRS.

Prospective purchasers of the Securities are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal tax consequences of an investment in the Securities.

Risks relating to different governing laws in respect of certain Securities and guarantees

French Law Securities have the benefit of an English law guarantee

French Law Securities issued by CGMHI have the benefit of a guarantee of the CGMHI Guarantor pursuant to the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and French Law Securities issued by CGMFL have the benefit of a guarantee of the CGMFL Guarantor pursuant to the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee and the All Monies Guarantee. French Law Securities and any non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with them are governed by, and shall be construed in accordance with, French law and the Paris courts have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any dispute arising out of or in connection with the French Law Securities. However, each of the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee and the All Monies Guarantee and any non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with it are governed by, and shall be construed in accordance with, English law. In respect of the All Monies Guarantee, the English courts have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any dispute including a dispute relating to non-contractual obligations arising out of or in connection with it. Accordingly, it is possible that Securityholders wishing to enforce their rights in respect of French Law Securities may need to bring claims under differing governing laws and/or in different jurisdictions against the Issuer and the relevant Guarantor and this, in turn, could prolong and/or increase the costs to be incurred in respect of any proceedings in relation to such claims and, potentially, affect the ultimate payout.

RISKS RELATING TO SECURITIES LINKED TO UNDERLYING(S)

General risks relating to Securities linked to Underlying(s)

An investment in Securities linked to Underlying(s) has significant risks that are not associated with a similar investment in a conventional security (e.g. a debt instrument that has a pre-determined specified principal amount, is denominated in your currency and bears interest at either a fixed or a floating rate based on nationally published interest rate references), as amounts due or assets deliverable in respect of such Securities are linked to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

The risks associated with a particular Security linked to Underlying(s) will depend on factors over which none of the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor has any control and which cannot readily be foreseen, and the return on Securities linked to Underlying(s) may attract certain of the same risks as an actual investment in the relevant Underlying(s). These risks include economic and political events and the supply of, and demand for, any relevant Underlying(s).

Each of these risks may have an impact on the level, price, rate or other applicable value of an Underlying, which may go down as well as up throughout the term of the Securities, and such fluctuations may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

Furthermore, in recent years, prices for various Underlying(s) have been highly volatile. Such volatility may be expected in the future. Fluctuations in the rates, levels or prices that have occurred in the past are not necessarily indicative, however, of fluctuations that may occur during the term of any Securities linked to Underlying(s).

In addition, the value of any relevant Underlying(s) may be determined or published by any Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor or an affiliate of any such entity or determined or published by third parties or entities which are not subject to regulation under the laws of the United States, the EEA or the United Kingdom.

The risk of loss as a result of linking principal, interest and/or termination payments to Underlying(s) can be substantial and the payment of principal, interest and/or termination amounts may be contingent on the occurrence of certain events in respect of Underlying(s) which may not occur.

No rights of ownership in Underlying(s)

The Securities do not create an actual interest in, or ownership of, the relevant Underlying(s). Except in certain circumstances where the Securities are Physical Delivery Securities, a Security will not represent a claim against any Underlying and, in the event that the amount paid on redemption of the Securities is less than the nominal amount of the Securities, you, as a Securityholder, will not have recourse under any relevant Security to any security indices, inflation indices, commodity indices, commodities, shares, depositary receipts, exchange traded funds, mutual funds, currencies, warrants, proprietary indices, dividend futures contracts, interest rates, preference shares or other items which may comprise the relevant Underlying(s) in respect of such Securities. The exposure to the relevant Underlying(s) is notional and an investment in the Securities is not an investment in the relevant Underlying(s). Although the performance of the relevant Underlying(s) will have an effect on the Securities, the relevant Underlying(s) and the Securities are separate obligations of different legal entities. You will have no legal or beneficial interest in the relevant Underlying(s). Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on the Securities than you would have received had you invested directly in the Underlying(s) or through another product.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Security Indices

The level of a Security Index is generally based on the value of the component securities of that index (component securities) although the level of a Security Index may not include the reinvestment of the yield on the component securities. Global economic, financial and political developments, among other things, may have a material effect on the value of the component securities and/or the performance of a Security Index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

The risks of a particular Security linked to a Security Index will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include the possibility of significant changes in:

- the prices of the component securities and the weighting of each component security within the relevant index or indices;
- other objective prices; and
- economic or other measures making up the relevant Security Index or indices.

Market volatility reflects the degree of instability and expected instability of the performance of a Security Index and the component securities. The level of market volatility is largely determined by the prices for financial instruments supposed to protect you against such market volatility. The prices of these instruments are determined by forces of supply and demand in the options and derivative markets generally. These forces are, themselves, affected by factors such as actual market volatility, expected volatility, economic factors and speculation. In recent years, currency exchange rates and prices for component securities have been highly volatile. Such volatility may be expected in the future. Fluctuations in the rates or prices that have occurred in the past are not necessarily indicative, however, of fluctuations that may occur during the term of any Security relating to Security Indices.

The above factors may have an effect on the performance of a Security Index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

You should note that any dividends, other distributions assets and/or amounts paid to holders of the component securities will not be paid to the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) or to the holders of Securities. The return on Securities will thus not reflect any such assets and/or amounts which would otherwise be paid to investors that have made a direct investment in any such component securities. Consequently, the return on Securities may be less than the return from a direct investment in any such component securities.

In considering whether to purchase Securities relating to Security Indices, you should be aware that the calculation of amounts payable or, as applicable, assets due on Securities relating to Security Indices may involve reference to:

- an index determined by an affiliate of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (if applicable) and/or the CGMFL Guarantor (if applicable); or
- prices that are published solely by third parties or entities which are not regulated by the laws of the United States, the EEA, the United Kingdom or the jurisdiction of the particular investor.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to a Security Index than you would have received if you had invested in the components of such index directly or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 1 (Security Index Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Security Indices.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Security Indices

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Security Indices include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Security Index in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Security Index (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, (b) such Security Index (i) not being calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant index sponsor but instead being calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to the relevant index sponsor or (ii) being replaced by a successor index, or (c) any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Security Index that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Security Index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Security Index or, if the Securities are Exempt Securities, a Security Index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If the Calculation Agent determines that a Security Index Adjustment Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, in respect of a Security Index, the relevant index sponsor announcing that it will make a material change to a relevant Security Index, the index sponsor permanently cancelling the index and no successor index existing or the index sponsor or any other person or entity acting on its behalf failing to calculate and announce the relevant index), then the Calculation Agent may determine whether such Security Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the relevant Securities and, if so, shall either (A) calculate the relevant level of such Security Index in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating the relevant Security Index last in effect prior to the applicable change, cancellation or failure and/or (B) substitute the affected Security Index with a replacement index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Security Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities, a Security Index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and determine any adjustment necessary to the terms of the Securities to account for such substitution and/or (C) make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Security Index Adjustment Event. Any such calculation, substitution and/or adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Security Index Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made following a Security Index Adjustment Event, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you may be less than your initial investment and you may therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Inflation Indices

The risks of a particular Security relating to Inflation Indices will depend on the terms of that Security. Many economic and market factors may influence an Inflation Index and consequently the value of Securities relating to Inflation Indices, including general economic, financial, political or regulatory conditions and/or events; and/or fluctuations in the prices of various assets, goods, services and energy resources (including in response to supply of, and demand for, any of them); and/or the level of inflation in the economy of the relevant country and expectations of inflation. In particular, the level of an Inflation Index may be affected by factors unconnected with the financial markets. Any such factor may either offset or magnify one or more of the other factors.

The performance of an Inflation Index will affect the amounts payable in respect of Securities relating to Inflation Indices and may result in investors receiving less than their original investment and/or no return on their investment, or in certain circumstances zero.

The rate of interest (if any) payable in respect of Inflation Index-linked interest Securities will vary for each interest payment due and may be less than that which would be payable on a conventional fixed rate, non-callable debt security of the Issuer of comparable maturity.

See Underlying Schedule 2 (Inflation Index Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Inflation Indices.

Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Inflation Indices

If an underlying closing level for an Inflation Index for a specified reference month has not been published or announced by five business days prior to the relevant payment date, then the Calculation Agent shall determine a substitute index level. Any such substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for an Inflation Index in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Inflation Index (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) the imposition of increased or unexpected fees and costs for the use of such index on the Issuer and/or any of its affiliates by the relevant index sponsor which the Calculation Agent deems material), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If "Revision" is specified as applicable for an Inflation Index in the applicable Issue Terms, then any revision to an underlying closing level of an Inflation Index occurring before the relevant revision cut-off date shall be considered final and conclusive for the purpose of any determination made in respect of the Securities. If "No Revision" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms (or if "Revision" is not specified as applicable) then the first publication and announcement of an underlying closing level for such Inflation Index shall be final and conclusive. Further, if the Calculation Agent determines that the index sponsor of an Inflation Index has corrected an underlying closing level for such index to correct a manifest error no later than the earlier to occur of the relevant manifest error cut-off date and thirty calendar days following the first publication and announcement of such level, then the Calculation Agent may use the corrected level of such Inflation Index for the purposes of any calculation in respect of the relevant payment date. In the event of inconsistency between a revision and a manifest error correction, the manifest error correction shall prevail. Any such adjustment (or absence of an adjustment, for the purpose of the Securities) to any level of an Inflation Index may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities.

If the Calculation Agent determines that either (a) a level for an Inflation Index has not been published or announced for two consecutive months and/or (b) the relevant index sponsor announces that it will no longer continue to publish or announce such Inflation Index and/or (c) the relevant index sponsor cancels such Inflation Index then the Calculation Agent may replace the originally designated Inflation Index with a successor index. Any such adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities and, if no successor index can be determined, then an Early Redemption Event shall occur with respect to the Securities.

If an index sponsor announces, in respect of an Inflation Index, that it will make a material change to a relevant Inflation Index then the Calculation Agent shall make such consequential adjustments to the terms of the Securities as are consistent with any adjustment made to any relevant fallback bond or as are necessary for such modified Inflation Index to continue as an Inflation Index for the purpose of the Securities. Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, then an Early Redemption Event shall occur with respect to the Securities.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no successor index can be determined or no adjustment can reasonably be made following a material change to a relevant Inflation Index, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Commodity Indices

The level of a Commodity Index is generally based on the value of the commodities and/or other securities comprised in that Commodity Index and, as such, if investing in Securities relating to Commodity Indices you should also read "Risks associated with Securities linked to Commodities" below.

Global economic, financial and political developments, among other things, may have a material effect on the value of the commodities and/or futures contracts comprising a Commodity Index and/or the performance of such index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

The risks of a particular Security relating to a Commodity Index will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the prices of the commodities and/or futures underlying the relevant index or indices; another objective price; and economic or other measures making up the relevant index or indices.

The above factors may have an effect on the performance of a Commodity Index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

See Underlying Schedule 3 (Commodity Index Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Commodity Indices.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Commodity Indices

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Commodity Indices include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date or postponement of the valuation of a component of a Commodity Index due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Commodity Index in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Commodity Index (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, (b) such Commodity Index (i) not being calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant index sponsor but instead being calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to the relevant index sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent or (ii) being replaced by a successor index, (c) the imposition of increased or unexpected fees and costs for the use of such index on the Issuer and/or any of its affiliates by the relevant index sponsor which the Calculation Agent deems material, or (d) the imposition of, change in or removal of any tax relating to any component of such Commodity Index or commodity relating to such component (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) which the Calculation Agent deems material), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Commodity Index that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Commodity Index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Commodity Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities, a Commodity Index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If the Calculation Agent determines that a Commodity Index Adjustment Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, in respect of a Commodity Index, the relevant index sponsor announcing that it will make a material change to a relevant Commodity Index, the index sponsor permanently cancelling the index and no successor index existing or the index sponsor or any other person or entity on its behalf failing to calculate and announce the relevant index), then the Calculation Agent may determine whether such Commodity Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the relevant Securities and, if so, shall either (A) calculate the relevant level of such Commodity Index in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating the relevant Commodity Index last in effect prior to the applicable change, cancellation or failure and/or (B) substitute the affected Commodity Index with a replacement index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Commodity Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities, a Commodity Index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and determine any adjustment necessary to the terms of the Securities to account for such substitution and/or (C) make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event. Any such calculation, substitution and/or adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Commodity Index Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made following a Commodity Index Adjustment Event, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Commodities

Movements in the price of any relevant Commodities may be subject to significant fluctuations that may not correlate with changes in interest rates, currencies or other indices and the timing of changes in the relevant price of a Commodity or Commodities may affect the actual yield of the Securities, even if the average level is consistent with their expectations. In general, the earlier the change in the price or prices of the Commodities, the greater the effect on yield of the Securities.

Commodity futures markets are highly volatile. Commodity markets are influenced by, among other things, changing supply and demand relationships, weather, governmental, agricultural, commercial and trade programmes and policies designed to influence commodity prices, world political and economic events, and changes in interest rates. Moreover, investments in futures and options contracts involve additional risks including, without limitation, leverage (margin is usually a percentage of the face value of the contract and exposure can be nearly unlimited). A holder of a futures position may find such position becomes illiquid because certain commodity exchanges limit fluctuations in certain futures contract prices during a single day by regulations referred to as "daily price fluctuation limits" or "daily limits". Under such daily limits, during a single trading day no trades may be executed at prices beyond the daily limits. Once the price of a contract for a particular future has increased or decreased by an amount equal to the daily limit, positions in the future can neither be taken nor liquidated unless traders are willing to effect trades at or within the limit. This could prevent a holder from promptly liquidating unfavourable positions and subject it to substantial losses. Futures contract prices in various Commodities occasionally have exceeded the daily limit for several consecutive days with little or no trading. Similar occurrences could prevent the liquidation of unfavourable positions and could therefore have a material adverse impact on value of and return on the Securities.

See Underlying Schedule 4 (Commodity Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Commodities.

Risk related to the possible rolling mechanism of commodity futures contracts

The yield on Securities relating to Commodities may not perfectly correlate to the trend in the price of the underlying Commodities as the use of such future commodity contracts generally involves a rolling mechanism. This means that the commodity futures contracts which expire prior to the relevant payment date under the relevant Securities are replaced with future commodity contracts that have a later expiry date. You may therefore only marginally benefit from any rise/fall in prices on such Commodities.

You should also consider that the relevant commodity futures contract(s) could have a trend which differs significantly from that of the relevant commodity spot market(s). The trend in the price of a commodity futures contracts compared to the underlying Commodity is closely linked to the present and future level of the production of the underlying Commodity or to the level of estimated natural reserves, particularly in the case of energy Commodities. In addition, the price of the relevant commodity futures contract may not be considered an accurate prediction of a market price, since it also includes the so-called "carrying costs" (such as, for example, warehouse costs, insurance covering the goods, transportation etc.), which also contribute toward the determination of the price of the commodity futures contracts. These factors which directly influence the Commodities prices substantially explain the imperfect correlation between the commodity spot markets and the commodity futures contracts. Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more commodity futures contracts than you would have received if you had invested in relevant commodity spot market(s) or in another related product.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Commodities

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Commodities include alternative provisions for valuation and/or provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such alternative provisions for valuation or postponement may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for Commodities in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Commodity (being, in each case if applicable, the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) the occurrence of a disruption event and any relevant disruption fallbacks fail (or are deemed to fail) to provide a relevant price in respect of a Commodity and a valuation date, (c) any Additional Early Redemption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms (being an "abandonment of scheme" in relation to Commodities that are emissions) or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, any other event specified as such in the applicable Pricing Supplement, (d) a Section 871(m) Event or (e) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Shares

Securities linked to Shares will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of any share company, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such share company.

No issuer of such Shares will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with such offering with respect to the information concerning any such issuer of Shares contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the trading price of the Share will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such an issuer of Shares could affect the trading price of the Shares and therefore the trading price of the relevant Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have voting rights or rights to receive dividends or distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant Shares to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, in relation to Exempt Securities and if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of dividends, distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the relevant Shares. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any dividends or other distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in the relevant Shares. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Shares may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Shares.

The risks of a Security relating to Shares will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price(s) of the Share or Shares. The value of Shares may go down as well as up and the value of any Share on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Share or of the continued existence of any Share or share company. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the relevant Shares, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more Shares over a period of time and to Shares, the issuer(s) of which are incorporated outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Shares than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Shares or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 5 (Share Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Shares.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Shares

As the terms and conditions of the Securities relating to Shares include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Share in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a Share (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) a corporate action, de-listing, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, tender offer (and/or, in the case of a Stapled Share, any Component Share Additional Adjustment Event or De-stapling Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms) and/or any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Share that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Share selected by the Calculation Agent from an applicable reference index or otherwise selected by the Calculation Agent (regardless of whether such new Share is a Stapled Share) (and/or, in the case of a Stapled Share, the Calculation Agent may replace any Component Share of the Stapled Share with a new Component Share selected by the Calculation Agent (regardless of whether such new Component Share is contained in a relevant reference index)) or, in the case of Exempt Securities, selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment(s) or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Depositary Receipts

Securities linked to Depositary Receipts will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of any depositary or any underlying share company, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such depositary or underlying share company.

No issuer of such Depositary Receipts or any underlying shares related to such Depositary Receipts will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with such offering with respect to the information concerning any depositary or any related underlying share company contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the trading price of the Depositary Receipt or the underlying share will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such depositary or underlying share company could affect the trading price of the Depositary Receipts and therefore the trading price of the relevant Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have voting rights or rights to receive dividends or distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and, in relation to Exempt Securities only, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of dividends, distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the relevant Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any dividends or other distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in the relevant Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Depositary Receipts may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares.

The risks of a Security relating to Depositary Receipts will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price(s) of the Depositary Receipts. The value of Depositary Receipts may go down as well as up and the value of any Depositary Receipt on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Depositary Receipts or of the continued existence of any depositary and/or underlying share company. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of Depositary Receipts and relevant underlying shares, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more Depositary Receipts and the related underlying shares over a period of time and to Depositary Receipts and/or underlying shares, the issuer(s) of which are incorporated outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Depositary Receipts than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Depositary Receipts or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 6 (Depositary Receipt Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Depositary Receipts.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Depositary Receipts

As the terms and conditions of the Securities include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Depositary Receipt in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a Depositary Receipt and/or an underlying share (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging or (b) a corporate action, de-listing, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, tender offer, written instructions being given by an underlying share company to the relevant depositary to withdraw or surrender underlying shares or the termination of a relevant deposit agreement and/or any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Depositary Receipt and/or the underlying share that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Depositary Receipt selected by the Calculation Agent (referencing, where "same underlying share and currency" is specified as the Depositary Receipt Substitution Criteria in the applicable Issue Terms, the same underlying share and denominated in the same currency as the previous Depositary Receipt (and, if no such Depositary Receipt is selected or available, then the underlying share shall be substituted and a new Depositary Receipt selected in respect of such new underlying share) or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, in accordance with any other criteria specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement) and/or a new share selected by the Calculation Agent from an applicable reference index, or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, in accordance with the criteria (if any) specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment(s) or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to ETF Shares

Securities linked to ETF Shares will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of the issuer of any ETF Shares, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such issuer.

No issuer of ETF Shares will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with such offering with respect to the information concerning any such issuer of ETF Shares contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the trading price of the ETF Share will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such an issuer of ETF Shares could affect the trading price of the ETF Share and therefore the trading price of the relevant Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have voting rights or rights to receive dividends or distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant ETF Shares to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and in relation to Exempt Securities only, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of dividends, distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the relevant ETF Shares. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any dividends or other distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in relevant ETF Shares. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to ETF Shares may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant ETF Shares.

The risks of a Security relating to ETF Shares will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price(s) of the ETF Shares. The value of ETF Shares may go down as well as up and the value of any ETF Share on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any ETF Share or of the continued existence of any ETF Share or the issuer of such ETF Share. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of ETF Shares, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more ETF Shares over a period of time and to ETF Shares, the issuer(s) of which are established outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more ETF Shares than you would have received if you had invested directly in the ETF Shares or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 7 (Exchange Traded Fund (ETF) Share Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to ETF Shares.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to ETF Shares

As the terms and conditions of the Securities relating to ETF Shares include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for an ETF Share in the applicable Issue Terms. While ETF Shares are traded on an exchange and are therefore valued in a similar manner as a Share traded on an exchange, the Adjustment Events in relation to Securities linked to ETF Shares include certain adjustments which would be applicable to Securities linked to an underlying fund.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of an ETF Share (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) a corporate action, de-listing, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, tender offer, fund modification, strategy breach, regulatory action, cross-contamination and/or any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the ETF Share that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new ETF Share selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be an ETF Share which, where a "related index" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, tracks such related index, or an index substantially similar in formula and calculation method, or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, an index selected by the Calculation Agent with reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement). Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment(s) or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests

Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of any mutual fund administrator, adviser or manager in respect of a mutual fund, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such mutual fund administrator, adviser or manager.

No mutual fund administrator, adviser or manager in respect of a mutual fund will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with such offering with respect to the information concerning any such mutual fund contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the value of the Mutual Fund Interest will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such mutual fund could affect the value of the Mutual Fund Interest and therefore the trading price of the Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have voting rights or rights to receive dividends or distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant Mutual Fund Interests to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, in relation to Exempt Securities and if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of dividends, distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the Mutual Fund Interests. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any dividends or other distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in relevant Mutual Fund Interests. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Mutual Fund Interests.

The risks of a Security relating to Mutual Fund Interests will depend on the terms of that Security. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the value(s) of the Mutual Fund Interests. The value of Mutual Fund Interests may go down as well as up and the value of any Mutual Fund Interest on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Mutual Fund Interest or of the continued existence of any Mutual Fund Interest or the issuer of such Mutual Fund Interest. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the relevant Mutual Fund Interests, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, mutual funds may trade and invest in a broad range of investments such as debt and equity securities, commodities and foreign exchange and may enter into derivative transactions, including, without limitation, futures and options. Mutual Fund Interests may be illiquid and may only be traded on an infrequent basis. The trading strategies of mutual funds are often opaque. Mutual funds, as well as the markets and instruments in which they invest, are often not subject to review by governmental authorities, self-regulatory organisations or other supervisory authorities. Further, the value of Mutual Fund Interests may be affected by the performance of the relevant fund service providers and in particular the relevant fund adviser.

For the foregoing reasons, investing directly or indirectly in mutual funds is generally considered to be risky. If the underlying mutual fund does not perform sufficiently well, the value of the Securities will fall, and may in certain circumstances be zero.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more Mutual Fund Interests over a period of time and to Mutual Fund Interests, the issuer(s) of which are established outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Mutual Fund Interests than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Mutual Fund Interests or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 8 (Mutual Fund Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Mutual Fund Interests

As the terms and conditions of the Securities relating to Mutual Fund Interests include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for a Mutual Fund Interest in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a Mutual Fund Interest (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) a corporate action, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, adviser resignation event, fund modification, strategy breach, regulatory action, reporting disruption, cross-contamination, failure by a fund service provider and/or any Additional Disruption Event specified in the applicable Issue Terms), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event or the Calculation Agent may replace the Mutual Fund Interest that is the subject of the Adjustment Event with a new Mutual Fund Interest selected by the Calculation Agent (in a fund which provides daily liquidity, the shares or units of which may be subscribed, sold to or redeemed by the fund (subject to giving no more than two fund business days' notice and no charges being imposed by the fund), and which in the determination of the Calculation Agent, has the same or substantially similar strategies, and the same currency as, the affected mutual fund). Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment may also include a monetisation whereby the Calculation Agent shall determine the value of the Mutual Fund Interest affected by the relevant Adjustment Event on a date selected by the Calculation Agent and shall make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities so that the Securities reference such value (and interest thereon) rather than such Mutual Fund Interest. Any such adjustment(s) or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) the Calculation Agent determines that no Monetisation can reasonably be effected, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to currency exchange rates

An investment in Securities linked to currency exchange rates may bear similar market risks to a direct investment in foreign exchange.

Movements in currency exchange rates may be subject to significant fluctuations that may not correlate with changes in interest rates or other indices and the timing of changes in the currency exchange rates may affect the actual yield to you, even if the average level is consistent with your expectations. In addition, Securities linked to currency exchange rates may be linked to emerging market currencies and, as such, may experience greater volatility and less certainty as to future levels or as against other currencies. Emerging market currencies are highly exposed to the risk of a currency crisis happening in the future and this could result in the occurrence of a Disrupted Day.

Fluctuations in exchange rates and implied volatility of the relevant currency (or basket of currencies) will affect the value of the relevant Securities. Currency values may be affected by complex political and economic factors, including governmental action to fix or support the value of a currency/currencies, regardless of other market forces, which could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on your Securities (see "Changes in exchange rates and exchange controls could result in a loss of the value of the Securities and payments in respect thereof in relation to the currency of your jurisdiction").

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more currency exchange rates than you would have received if you had invested directly in the relevant currency or currencies or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 9 (FX Rate Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to currency exchange rates.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to currency exchange rates where the EMTA Provisions are not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms

As the terms and conditions of the Securities relating to currency exchange rates include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of the Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for currency exchange rates in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a currency exchange rate (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) a relevant country has lawfully converted or exchanged its currency for a successor currency), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustment(s) may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable

Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to currency exchange rates where the EMTA Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms

The terms and conditions of the Securities include provisions dealing with the consequences of a Disrupted Day. These consequences shall be determined in accordance with the Disruption Fallbacks specified in the applicable Issue Terms and may include (i) where Valuation Postponement is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, (ii) where First Fallback Reference Price or Second Fallback Reference Price is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, determination of the Underlying Closing Level for the relevant Valuation Date by reference to alternative prices for the applicable currency exchange rate, and (iii) where Calculation Agent Determination is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent determining the Underlying Closing Level for the relevant Valuation Date. Such alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of the Securities may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities. The Valuation Postponement provisions, if applicable, may result in a Securityholder receiving payments in respect of the Securities after the originally scheduled date for payment.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for currency exchange rates in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of a currency exchange rate (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, or (b) any relevant rate which as of the Trade Date is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced or adopted (or similar action) by the relevant Government Authority and any such rate cease to be so reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced or adopted (or similar action)), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs) and in the case of a successor rate, determination of the relevant rate by reference to the official successor rate. Any such adjustment(s) may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances where the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment(s) can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Currency Settlement Disruption Event

If, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, payment of any amount due in respect of the Securities cannot be made by it in the Specified Currency on any date on which payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities due to the occurrence of a Currency Settlement Disruption Event (being (a) the imposition of restrictions on the transferability, purchase and holding of the Specified Currency, (b) its non-acceptance by a clearing system or its disuse, (c) its illiquidity in the relevant market or (d) any other circumstances beyond the Issuer's control), then the Issuer shall be entitled to satisfy its obligations to Securityholders by either (i) delaying any such payment until after the Currency Settlement Disruption Event ceases to exist, or (ii) making such payment in United States dollars on, or as soon as reasonably practicable after, the relevant payment date. Any such delayed payment or payment in United States dollars will not constitute a default and Securityholders shall not be entitled to further interest or any other payment in respect of such delay.

See further FX Rate Condition 6(c) (Settlement Disruption) of Part A of Underlying Schedule 9 (FX Rate Conditions), and FX Rate Condition 6(e) (Settlement Disruption) of Part B of Underlying Schedule 9 (FX Rate Conditions).

Risks associated with Securities linked to Warrants

Securities linked to Warrants will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations of the issuer of any Warrant, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such issuer.

No issuer of such Warrants will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities and none of the Issuer, (if applicable) the Guarantor and any Dealer will make any investigation or enquiry in connection with the offering with respect to the information concerning any such issuer of Warrants or the assets, indices or other item(s) to which the Warrants relate contained in such Issue Terms or in the documents from which such information was extracted. Consequently, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the relevant issue date (including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the publicly available documents described in this paragraph or in any applicable Issue Terms) that would affect the trading price of the Warrants will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning such an issuer of Warrants or such assets, indices or other item(s) could affect the trading price of the Warrants and therefore the trading price of the relevant Securities.

Except as provided in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, Securityholders will not have rights to receive distributions or any other rights with respect to the relevant Warrants to which such Securities relate notwithstanding that, if so specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement and in relation to Exempt Securities only, Securityholders may be entitled to receive payments calculated by reference to the amount of distributions or other payments that would be received by a holder of the relevant Warrants. The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in the relevant Warrants. Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Warrants may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Warrants.

The risks of a Security relating to Warrants will depend on the terms of that Security and payments in respect of a Security relating to Warrants will depend upon the value of the relevant Warrants which will be dependent on the reference item or items underlying such Warrant (i.e. one or more indices, shares, depositary receipts, mutual fund interests, currencies, commodities, gilts or other reference items specified in the terms of the relevant Warrants). Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price(s) of the Warrants. The value of Warrants may go down as well as up and the value of any Warrant on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Warrant or of the continued existence of any Warrant or the issuer of the Warrants or the creditworthiness of the Warrant issuer. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the relevant Warrants, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the calculation of amounts payable on such Securities may involve reference to the performance of one or more Warrants over a period of time and to Warrants, the issuer(s) of which are incorporated outside the United States, the EEA and the United Kingdom.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Warrants than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Warrants or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 10 (Warrant Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Warrants.

Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Warrants

If an Early Redemption Event is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and occurs (being (a) the cancellation or termination of a relevant Warrant for any reason other than by reason of its scheduled exercise, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount determined as set out in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule and the applicable Issue Terms. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Citi Proprietary Indices

The level of a Citi Proprietary Index is generally based on the value of its components (each an index component), which may be securities, commodities, derivative instruments, indices or other types of assets or any combination of such assets, as described in the relevant index conditions and/or methodology and, as such, investors in Securities relating to Citi Proprietary Indices should also read the other risk factors relating to Securities linked directly to such index components. Global economic, financial and political developments, among other things, may have a material effect on the value of the index components of a Citi Proprietary Index and/or the performance of a Citi Proprietary Index, and this may in turn affect the value of and return on the Securities.

The risks of a Security relating to a Citi Proprietary Index will depend on the terms of that Security and the relevant index conditions and/or methodology. Such risks may include the possibility of significant changes in:

- the levels, prices, rates or values (as relevant) of the index components of such Citi Proprietary Index and the weighting of each such index component within such Citi Proprietary Index;
- other objective prices; and
- economic or other measures observed for the purposes of such Citi Proprietary Index.

The above risks may have an effect on the performance of a Citi Proprietary Index, and this may in turn have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

As disclosed in the relevant index conditions and/or methodology, any distribution, dividend and/or amount (distribution) paid to persons who have made an actual investment in any of the index components of a Citi Proprietary Index may not be reflected in the level of such Citi Proprietary Index. A distribution paid to persons who have made an actual investment in any of the index components of a Citi Proprietary Index will not be paid to the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) or to the holders of Securities relating to such Citi Proprietary Index. The return on such Securities will thus not reflect any such distribution. Consequently, the return on such Securities may be less than the return from a direct investment in any such index components.

A Citi Proprietary Index reflects the performance of notional investment positions in its index components. There is no actual portfolio of assets in respect of such Citi Proprietary Index to which any person is entitled or in which any person has any ownership interest, and no Citi Proprietary Index creates any obligation of any person connected with any index component. A Citi Proprietary Index merely identifies certain hypothetical investment positions, the performance of which will be used as a reference point for the purpose of calculating its level. The performance of a Citi Proprietary Index may be different from the result of any actual investment in any one or more of its index components. In particular, any notional fees or costs deducted in the calculation of the level of the relevant Citi Proprietary Index and any proportionate amount included in such level of any distribution in respect of any index component may be different from those arising in respect of any actual investment in any index component or combination of index components.

The strategy that a Citi Proprietary Index aims to reflect may not be successful and other strategies using constituents which are the same as the index components of such Citi Proprietary Index may perform better than such Citi Proprietary Index.

The index conditions and/or methodology of a Citi Proprietary Index describe the manner in which the relevant index calculation agent performs all calculations, determinations, rebalancings and adjustments in respect of such Citi Proprietary Index, and the limited circumstances in which the relevant index sponsor may amend the index conditions and/or methodology of such Citi Proprietary Index. In addition you should be aware that the calculation of amounts payable on Securities relating to a Citi Proprietary Index involves reference to an index that is administered and maintained and, in some cases, calculated and published by an affiliate of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor, the level of which may not be widely published. The index conditions and/or methodology of a Citi Proprietary Index describe the conflicts of interest which may arise for the relevant index calculation agent and its affiliates.

You should read the relevant index conditions and/or methodology if investing in Securities relating to a Citi Proprietary Index.

The Citi Proprietary Index may not perform as anticipated and you could therefore lose some or all of your investment in Securities linked to a Citi Proprietary Index.

See Underlying Schedule 11 (Proprietary Index Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Citi Proprietary Indices.

Disruption of an index component of a Citi Proprietary Index and determination of the level of such Citi Proprietary Index

The conditions and/or methodology of a Citi Proprietary Index will set out the frequency of the publication of its level. In the event that the level, price, rate or value (as relevant) of any of its index components is not available for any reason, the relevant index calculation agent may calculate the level of such Citi Proprietary Index for the relevant day by observing a valuation for the affected index component from a different day or may delay the calculation of the level of such Citi Proprietary Index. Any such postponement or alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

If "Component Valuation" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the level of the relevant Citi Proprietary Index has been published for a particular day, then if such day (a) is not a day on which valuations of an index component of such Citi Proprietary Index are scheduled to be observed, or (b) is a disrupted day for an index component of such Citi Proprietary Index (each, howsoever defined in the relevant index conditions and/or methodology of such Citi Proprietary Index), then any level of such Citi Proprietary Index calculated and published by the relevant index calculation agent for such day may be disregarded by the Calculation Agent and the Calculation Agent may itself calculate the level of such Citi Proprietary Index for such day in accordance with the then-current methodology of such Citi Proprietary Index but may do so by reference to the level, price, rate or value (as relevant) of the index components of such Citi Proprietary Index observed on subsequent days. This process may result in a level of such Citi Proprietary Index for such day being calculated by the Calculation Agent which is different to the published level of such Citi Proprietary Index and may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the relevant Securities.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Citi Proprietary Indices

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Citi Proprietary Indices include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, such postponement or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for Citi Proprietary Indices in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Citi Proprietary Index (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the relevant Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the relevant Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, (b) such Citi Proprietary Index (i) not being calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant index sponsor but instead being calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to the relevant index sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent or (ii) being replaced by a successor index, or (c) the imposition of, change in or removal of any tax relating to any index component of such Citi Proprietary Index or other asset relating to such index component (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), then (A) the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the relevant Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event, or (B) the Calculation Agent may replace the Citi Proprietary Index which is the subject of the Adjustment Event with either (1) a new index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Citi Proprietary Index, or (2) in the case of Exempt Securities only, a replacement index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments or substitution may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If a Proprietary Index Adjustment Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, in respect of a Citi Proprietary Index, (a) the relevant index sponsor announcing that it will make a material change to such Citi Proprietary Index, (b) the relevant index sponsor permanently cancelling such Citi Proprietary Index and no successor index existing, or (c) the relevant index sponsor or any other person or entity acting on its behalf failing to calculate and announce such Citi Proprietary Index), then the Calculation Agent may determine whether such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the relevant Securities and, if so, shall either (i) calculate the relevant level of such Citi Proprietary Index in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating such Citi Proprietary Index last in effect prior to the applicable change, cancellation or failure, and/or (ii) substitute such Citi Proprietary Index with a replacement index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Citi Proprietary Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, a replacement index selected by reference to such other criteria as specified in the applicable Issue Terms, and determine any adjustment necessary to account for such substitution, and/or (iii) make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event. Any such calculation, substitution and/or adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made following a Proprietary Index Adjustment Event, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), then the relevant Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the relevant Securities are redeemed early, then the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks relating to "big data" indices

Securities may reference indices which use "big data" analytical techniques, or inputs which are based on "big data" analytical techniques (collectively Big Data Analysis). Depending on the index, the Big Data Analysis may be performed by the index administrator or a separate organisation (the Analysis Provider). Indices using Big Data Analysis typically use a large number of underlying inputs and advanced analytical techniques, potentially including a form of artificial intelligence or machine learning (such as attempting to identify and react to patterns as opposed to specific events or circumstances that have been defined). Examples include indices with objectives related to the determination of market sentiment or ESG (environmental, social and governance) characteristics. Investors should be aware that the methodology for determining the Big Data Analysis may not be transparent and may not be fully disclosed in the index methodology document for the relevant index. The lack of full transparency may be due to a variety of reasons including, without limitation: challenges in describing a complex methodology in natural language; the use of a very large number of underlying data inputs from a wide range of sources (such that it is not practical either to list the individual inputs, or to do so without raising intellectual property and/or privacy issues); the Big Data Analysis could involve the exercise of discretion or judgement; and/or some or all of the methodology may be considered to be confidential or commercially sensitive. Investors should appreciate that the performance of such an index will be dependent on the Big Data Analysis, the underlying inputs, any changes over time in the determination methodology and/or underlying inputs, and any ongoing judgement or discretion exercised by the Analysis Provider. The use of Big Data Analysis may cause the index to perform in a manner that has not been anticipated in the design of the index, and, any such unanticipated performance may have an adverse impact on the performance and value of the Securities linked to it. Prior to investing in Securities linked to such an index, investors should carry out their own due diligence, without reliance on the Issuer or the relevant Guarantor, on the relevant index and the associated Big Data Analysis and Analysis Provider.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Dividend Futures Contracts

The value of a Dividend Futures Contract will generally track the dividends paid by the companies (each a Relevant Company) comprised in the equity index (the Relevant Index) relating to the relevant Dividend Futures Contract from time to time during one calendar year. Global economic, financial and political developments, among other things, may have a material effect on the performance of such Relevant Companies and therefore on the value of the dividends paid by such Relevant Companies and the value of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract, and this may in turn have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Securities relating to Dividend Futures Contracts will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor and will not give rise to any obligations under the relevant Dividend Futures Contract or any obligations of any Relevant Company, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any sponsor of such Dividend Futures Contract or any such Relevant Company. No sponsor of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract will have participated in the preparation of the applicable Issue Terms or in establishing the terms of the Securities.

Not all types of dividends paid by a Relevant Company may be relevant for the purpose of determining the price of a Dividend Futures Contract (for example, in general, ordinary dividends declared by a Relevant Company (paid in cash or shares) are considered as realised dividends, which, if so provided in the contract specifications for the relevant Dividend Futures Contract, are relevant for the purpose of determining the price of such Dividend Futures Contract, whereas special or extraordinary dividends are not generally considered as realised dividends and therefore, if so provided in the contract specifications for the relevant Dividend Futures Contract, will not be relevant for the purpose of determining the price of such Dividend Futures Contract). Further, the Relevant Companies may change from time to time in accordance with the rules of the Relevant Index and such a change in Relevant Companies may have an adverse effect on the price of the Dividend Futures Contract and amounts payable in respect of the Securities. You should refer to the contract specifications for the Dividend Futures Contract and the index rules relating to the Relevant Index for details regarding the calculation methodologies (including which dividends will be included in the calculation of the Dividend Futures Contract) and adjustments which may be made thereto (including to the Relevant Companies to be included in the Relevant Index). You should note that the performance of similar Dividend Futures Contracts in respect of prior contract periods will not necessarily be indicative of the performance of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract to which the Securities relate.

The market value of the Securities may, at any time, be affected by certain factors relating to Dividend Futures Contracts which may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in:

- the Relevant Companies comprised in the Relevant Index and expectations relating to the dividends to be announced in relation thereto;
- market interest and yield rates;
- the time remaining to the final settlement date of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract; and

- economic, political and macro-economic factors.

Accordingly, before purchasing Securities relating to Dividend Futures Contracts, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of Dividend Futures Contracts and the performance of the Relevant Companies comprised in the Relevant Index by reference to which amounts payable under the relevant Securities are calculated, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

In addition, the value of the dividends paid by the Relevant Companies may be influenced by many factors, including the earnings and dividend policy of each such Relevant Company, changes in applicable laws and regulations, global economic, financial and political developments and structural supply and demand factors. Relevant Companies may pay reduced dividends or no dividends in respect of the relevant contract period. The amount of dividends paid by Relevant Companies in respect of similar periods may bear no relation to dividends paid during the relevant contract period. Any such changes may have an adverse effect on the amount of relevant dividends paid by Relevant Companies and, in turn, the price of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract and amounts payable in respect of the Securities.

Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Dividend Futures Contracts than you would have received if you had invested directly in the Dividend Futures Contracts or in another product.

See Underlying Schedule 12 (Dividend Futures Contract Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Dividend Futures Contracts.

Adjustments to Valuation Dates, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Dividend Futures Contracts

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Dividend Futures Contracts may include provisions dealing with the postponement of a Valuation Date due to the occurrence of a Disrupted Day or the variation of a Valuation Date following the announcement by the relevant Dividend Futures Contract sponsor that the expiry date of a Dividend Futures Contract will occur on an alternative date to that originally contemplated, such postponement, variation or any alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for Dividend Futures Contracts in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Dividend Futures Contract (being, in each case if applicable, (a) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, (b) such Dividend Futures Contract (i) not being calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract sponsor but instead being calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to the relevant Dividend Futures Contract sponsor, or (ii) being replaced by a successor Dividend Futures Contract), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event including, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If a Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, (i) the relevant exchange and/or Dividend Futures Contract sponsor, as the case may be, announcing that it will make a material change or modification to a relevant Dividend Futures Contract, (ii) the relevant exchange and/or Dividend Futures Contract sponsor, as the case may be, permanently cancelling or discontinuing the Dividend Futures Contract or there otherwise being a permanent discontinuation in trading or trading never commencing in such Dividend Futures Contract and no successor Dividend Futures Contract existing, or (iii) any "final settlement price" not being displayed or published on the relevant electronic page or by the exchange at the relevant valuation time), then the Calculation Agent may determine whether such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities and, if so, shall either (A) calculate the "final settlement price" of such Dividend Futures Contract by calculating the value of the relevant dividends for the applicable contract period for such Dividend Futures Contract by reference to the formula for and the method of calculation last in effect of any related dividend point index or such other sources as it deems appropriate and/or (B) make such adjustments to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event, and/or (C) substitute such Dividend Futures Contract with a replacement Dividend Futures Contract and determine any adjustment necessary to account for such substitution. Any such calculation, substitution and/or adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of the Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation, adjustment or substitution can reasonably so be made, such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) no calculation, substitution or adjustment can reasonably be made following a Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event, (c) a Section 871(m) Event or (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Rates

The market value of the Securities may, at any time, be affected by certain factors relating to Rates which may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the level of the Rate, macroeconomic, political or financial factors, speculation and central bank and government intervention.

Fluctuations that have occurred in any Rate in the past are not necessarily indicative, however, of fluctuation that may occur in the Rate during the term of any Security. Accordingly, before purchasing Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the relevant Rates, as this may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Depending on the terms of the Securities, you may receive no amount(s) or assets because of the performance of the relevant Rates and you may lose a substantial portion of your investment. In addition, you should ensure that you review the terms of the Securities in question as these may provide for amounts due or assets deliverable to be determined by reference to an option or formulae linked to the relevant Rate rather than being a conventional debt security referencing a Rate, such as one which bears interest at a specified floating rate of interest. Accordingly, you may receive a lower return on Securities linked to one or more Rates than you would have received if you had invested in another product referencing a Rate.

See Underlying Schedule 13 (Rate Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Rates.

Disrupted Days, Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Rates

As the terms and conditions of Securities relating to Rates include provisions dealing with the consequences of a Disrupted Day, including referring to alternative price sources or determination of the relevant Rate by the Calculation Agent or by reference to quotes from reference dealers, such alternative provisions for valuation provided in the terms and conditions of such Securities may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on such Securities.

Certain events or occurrences described below will only be relevant if the associated Adjustment Events and Early Redemption Events are specified as being applicable for Rates in the applicable Issue Terms.

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Adjustment Event occurs in respect of any Rate (being, in each case if applicable, the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging), then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent determines necessary to account for the effect of such Adjustment Event. Any such adjustment may include, in the case of an Increased Cost of Hedging, adjustments to pass on to Securityholders any such Increased Cost of Hedging (including, but not limited to, reducing any amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities to reflect any such increased costs). Any such adjustments may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities and, if the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably so be made, such Adjustment Event shall be an Early Redemption Event.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being, in each case if applicable, (a) circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (b) a Section 871(m) Event or (c) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount calculated in accordance with the method specified in the applicable Issue Terms, as determined by the Calculation Agent. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Risks associated with Securities linked to Preference Shares

Preference Share Linked Securities will give rise to obligations of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor. The Preference Share Company will have no obligations to investors in the Preference Share Linked Securities, and accordingly you will have no recourse against any such Preference Share Company. In particular, you will not benefit from any voting rights or distributions from or in respect of the Preference Shares or any income attributable to any securities or constituent comprised in any relevant Preference Share Underlying (as defined below). All rights arising in respect of the Preference Shares shall reside exclusively with the holder of the relevant Preference Shares (expected to be Citigroup Global Markets Limited or another affiliate of the Issuer). The return on such Securities may thus not reflect any distributions which would be paid to you if you had made a direct investment in the relevant Preference Shares or Preference Share Underlying(s). Consequently, the return on Securities linked to Preference Shares may be less than the return from a direct investment in the relevant Preference Shares or Preference Share Underlying(s).

Preference Share Linked Securities give investment exposure to the value of the Class of Preference Shares to which the relevant Securities are linked. The value of the relevant Preference Shares will depend on the Preference Shares Terms and Conditions of the relevant Class (in particular the applicable defined return and the performance of the applicable Preference Share Underlying(s)) and the financial condition and standing of the Preference Share Company. If the value of the Preference Shares decreases the value of the Preference Share Linked Securities and the redemption amount payable at their maturity are expected to decrease correspondingly. If you invest in the Preference Shares Linked Securities you risk losing all or part of your investment if the value of the relevant Class of Preference Shares declines over the investment term of such Securities.

If the Preference Share Company were to experience financial difficulties the Preference Share Company may be unable to fulfil its obligations under the Preference Share Terms and Conditions of each Class. In this scenario the value of the Preference Shares would be adversely affected and could be zero. As the Preference Share Linked Securities track the change in value of the Preference Shares any such reduction in the value of the Preference Shares is expected to have a corresponding effect on the value of the Preference Shares Linked Securities and the redemption amount payable at their maturity.

You should note that while the redemption amount of the Preference Share Linked Securities is linked to the value of the Preference Shares of the relevant Class which will be influenced (positively or negatively) by the value of the Preference Share Underlying(s), any change may not be comparable to a direct investment in the Preference Share Underlying(s) and may be disproportionate.

The risks of a Security linked to Preference Shares will depend on the terms of that Security and the relevant Preference Share Terms and Conditions. Such risks may include, but are not limited to, the possibility of significant changes in the price of the relevant Preference Shares. The value of Preference Shares may go down as well as up and the value of any Preference Share on any date may not reflect its performance in any prior period. There can be no assurance as to the future value of any Preference Share or of the continued existence of any Preference Share or the Preference Share Company. Accordingly, before making an investment decision with respect to Securities, you should carefully consider, among other matters, the value and price volatility of the Preference Shares, as this may affect the value of and return on the Securities.

Preference Share Linked Securities are not principal protected. If you invest in such Securities you risk losing your entire investment if the value of the relevant Preference Shares and/or the relevant Preference Share Underlying(s) does not move in the anticipated direction.

Except for the publication of the value of the Preference Shares and as otherwise expressly set out in the conditions of the Securities, the Issuer will not have any obligation to keep the Securityholders informed as to matters arising in relation to the Preference Shares.

The issue price of the Preference Share Linked Securities may be more than the market value of such Securities as at the issue date, and more than the price at which the Securities can be sold in secondary market transactions.

The levels and basis of taxation on the Preference Share Linked Securities and any reliefs for such taxation will depend on your individual circumstances and could change at any time. The tax and regulatory characterisation of the Preference Share Linked Securities may change over the life of the Securities. This could have adverse consequences for you. You will therefore need to consult your tax advisers to determine the specific tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, transfer and redemption of the Preference Share Linked Securities.

Accordingly, you may lose some or all of your investment in Preference Share Linked Securities.

See Underlying Schedule 14 (Preference Share Conditions) for the specific terms and conditions in respect of Securities linked to Preference Shares.

Postponement of valuation and Early Redemption Events in relation to Securities linked to Preference Shares

As the terms and conditions of the Preference Shares include provisions dealing with the postponement of a valuation date, if any date used for the valuation or any determination of any Preference Share Underlying is delayed or the value/level of the relevant Preference Share Underlying(s) is determined using a fall-back in each case in accordance with the relevant Preference Share Terms and Conditions by reason of a non-scheduled trading day, a disrupted day or the occurrence of an adjustment event, such postponement or fall-back determined may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Preference Shares and in turn the Securities linked to the relevant Preference Shares.

The provisions relating to Adjustment Events will not apply to Preference Share Linked Securities however equivalent provisions are expected to be included in the Preference Share Terms and Conditions. The occurrence of any such equivalent adjustment event may result in an adjustment to the terms of the relevant Preference Shares or their early redemption. Any such adjustment will be reflected in the value of the Securities linked to the relevant Preference Shares and may have an adverse effect on the value of such Securities. If the Preference Shares are to be redeemed early, the Securities linked to such Preference Shares will also be redeemed early.

If an Early Redemption Event occurs (being (a) a corporate action, insolvency, merger event, nationalisation, tender offer, or the receipt by the Issuer of notice that the relevant Preference Shares are to be redeemed early, (b) the occurrence at any time of a change in law affecting any underlying hedging position in relation to the Securities or materially increasing the Issuer's costs in relation to performing its obligations in respect of the Securities or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, a Hedging Disruption or, except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates, an Increased Cost of Hedging, (c) a Section 871(m) Event, (d) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms), or (e) a Realisation Disruption Event), the Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of the relevant Securities. If the Securities are redeemed early, the Issuer will pay to each Securityholder an amount determined on the same basis as the final redemption amount of the Securities except that the "final reference level" for such purposes shall be deemed to be the fair market value of the Preference Share on the date of early redemption as determined by the Calculation Agent using its internal models and methodologies and taking into account such factor(s) as the Calculation Agent determines appropriate. The amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH SECURITIES LINKED TO RATES, BENCHMARK REFORM AND THE DISCONTINUANCE AND REPLACEMENT OF "IBORS"

The unavailability, disruption or discontinuance of any interest rate to which the Securities are linked will result in the application of certain fallback provisions

In relation to any event or circumstance affecting an interest rate, the fallback provisions described in Valuation and Settlement Condition 9 will be applied in the order set out therein, in each case where applicable for the relevant rate and the event or circumstance. If the first applicable option shown does not apply to the relevant interest rate and the relevant event or circumstance then the next option which does should be applied. It is possible that, following the application of such fallback provisions, the relevant rate could be determined on a different day than originally intended and/or may be determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) in its discretion. There is a risk that the determination of the relevant interest rate in accordance with any of these fallback provisions may result in lower amounts payable to you under the Securities and a reduction in their market value.

Any adjustments to the Conditions (including the determination of any spread or factor howsoever defined) which the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) determines are necessary or appropriate pursuant to the provisions of the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions, the Reference Rate Event Provisions, the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions and the Substitute or Successor Rates provisions set out in the Rate Conditions shall be made to the extent reasonably practicable, but also taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market) and may include, where applicable and without limitation:

- technical, administrative or operational changes that the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) decides are appropriate;
- the application of any adjustment factor or adjustment spread; and
- (subject to applicable laws) adjustments to reflect any increased costs to the Issuer of providing exposure to the replacement or successor rate(s) and/or benchmark(s).

Such adjustments may also be applied on more than one occasion, may be made as of one or more effective dates, may but does not have to involve the selection of a successor or replacement rate which is determined on a backwards-looking compounding basis by reference to a "risk-free rate" and which, unless the context otherwise requires or it is inappropriate, will be the relevant rate in relation to the then current and all future determination days.

Investors should refer to "Section C – Investment Considerations – Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks" for an overview of how and when such fallback provisions apply.

The regulation and reform of "benchmarks" may adversely affect the value of and return on Securities linked to or referencing such "benchmarks"

The Benchmark Regulation

The EU Regulation on indices used as benchmarks in financial instruments and financial contracts or to measure the performance of investment funds (the Benchmark Regulation) is a key element of the ongoing regulatory reform in the EU and has applied since 1 January 2018. The Benchmark Regulation has been amended by Regulation (EU) 2019/2089 as regards EU Climate Transition Benchmarks, EU Paris-aligned Benchmarks and sustainability-related disclosures and by Regulation (EU) 2019/2175 and is currently under review, with further amendments anticipated, in particular in relation to powers for regulators to mandate one or more replacement rates for critical or systemically important benchmarks in certain limited circumstances (see "Discontinuance and replacement of Interbank Offered Rates" below) and to introduce a limited exemption for certain foreign exchange rates. These amendments are currently being negotiated but are expected to be effective before the end of 2020.

In addition to so-called "critical benchmarks" such as the London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) and the Euro Interbank Offered Rate (EURIBOR), other interest rates, foreign exchange rates and certain indices, will in most cases be within scope of the Benchmark Regulation as "benchmarks" where they are used to determine the amount payable under, or the value of, certain financial instruments (including Securities listed on an EU regulated market or EU multilateral trading facility (MTF)), and in a number of other circumstances.

The Benchmark Regulation applies to the provision of benchmarks, the contribution of input data to a benchmark and the use of a benchmark within the EU. Among other things, it (i) requires benchmark administrators to be authorised or registered (or, if non-EU-based, to be subject to an equivalent regime or otherwise recognised or endorsed) and (ii) prevents certain uses by EU supervised entities (such as CGML) of "benchmarks" provided by administrators that are not authorised or registered (or, if non-EU based, not deemed equivalent or recognised or endorsed).

The Benchmark Regulation could have a material impact on any Securities linked to or referencing a "benchmark". For example:

- a rate or index which is a "benchmark" may not be used in certain ways by an EU supervised entity if (subject to applicable transitional provisions) its administrator does not obtain authorisation or registration (or, if a non-EU entity, does not satisfy the "equivalence" conditions and is not "recognised" pending an equivalence decision). If the benchmark administrator does not obtain or maintain (as applicable) such authorisation or registration or, if a non-EU entity, "equivalence" is not available and it is not recognised, then the Securities may be redeemed prior to maturity; and
- the methodology or other terms of the "benchmark" could be changed in order to comply with the requirements of the Benchmark Regulation, and such changes could reduce or increase the rate or level or affect the volatility of the published rate or level, and (depending on the terms of the particular Securities) could lead to adjustments to the terms of the Securities as the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) deems necessary or appropriate.

Any of the international or national reforms, or the general increased regulatory scrutiny of "benchmarks", could increase the costs and risks of administering or otherwise participating in the setting of a "benchmark" and complying with any such regulations or requirements. Such factors may have the following effects on certain "benchmarks": (i) discourage market participants from continuing to administer or contribute to the "benchmark"; (ii) trigger changes in the rules or methodologies used in the "benchmark" and/or (iii) lead to the disappearance of the "benchmark". Any of the above changes or any other consequential changes as a result of international or national reforms or other initiatives or investigations, could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on any Securities linked to or referencing a "benchmark" and the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent, as applicable, may be entitled to make corresponding adjustments to the conditions of the Securities.

Discontinuance and replacement of Interbank Offered Rates

Certain base rates, including LIBOR and EURIBOR, are the subject of ongoing national and international regulatory scrutiny and reform. Some of these reforms are already effective, while others are still to be implemented or formulated as follows:

(a) LIBOR

LIBOR (published in 7 maturities and 5 currencies) is expected to cease after 31 December 2021.

Regulatory authorities and central banks are strongly encouraging the transition away from LIBORs and have identified so-called "risk free rates" to replace such LIBORs as primary benchmarks. This includes (amongst others):

- (i) for GBP LIBOR, the Sterling Overnight Index Average (SONIA);

- (ii) for EUR LIBOR, the Euro Short-Term Rate (EuroSTR, ESTR or €STR); and
- (iii) for USD LIBOR, the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (SOFR).

Regulatory authorities and central banks have stated that market participants need to have removed dependencies on LIBOR by the end of December 2021 (and have also set various interim milestones for transitioning from IBORs to "risk free rates").

It is possible that a synthetic form of LIBOR could continue beyond the end of 2021 for certain tough legacy trades. In particular, proposed amendments to the UK onshored version of the Benchmark Regulation are expected to give UK regulators the powers in certain limited circumstances where the FCA has found that a critical benchmark is not representative of the market it seeks to measure to direct the administrator of a critical benchmark (post Brexit LIBOR is expected to be the only UK critical benchmark) to change the methodology of the benchmark if doing so would protect consumers and market integrity. However, such powers are only intended for a narrow pool of tough legacy contracts that cannot transition. The exact details and scope of such proposed powers are to be confirmed.

The EU has also published a proposal to amend the Benchmark Regulation to include a power for regulators to designate one or more replacement benchmarks in certain limited circumstances for critical benchmarks or systemically important benchmarks where certain triggers are satisfied, relating to non-representativeness, cessation or orderly wind-down of the benchmark or where its use by supervised entities in the European Union is no longer permitted. This proposal is also primarily intended to assist contracts that do not have fallbacks for permanent cessation. The detail of the legislative proposal is subject to change in particular in relation to key provisions such as contract scope, extraterritorial scope and triggers for the exercise of this power.

The Alternative Reference Rates Committee (the ARRC) has also published a proposal for New York (NY) legislation to assist the transition of certain financial contracts governed by NY law which reference USD LIBOR which (among other things) provides that, by operation of law, any contract that has a fallback based on USD LIBOR or no fallback will fallback to the recommended benchmark replacement plus spread adjustment. It is however possible that the NY solution will not be effective before the discontinuation of LIBOR and absent a United States federal legislative solution its application is expected to be limited.

Whilst the above proposed legislative solutions may assist some tough legacy trades, regulators have made clear that they are not an alternative to active transition. Parties who rely on potential legislative solutions will not have control over the economic terms of that action. Also there is a risk that such legislative solutions may not be effective in time, may not be able to address all issues or be practicable in all circumstances and the existence of different solutions in different jurisdictions could also give rise to potential conflicts of law.

(b) EURIBOR

Unlike LIBOR, EURIBOR is expected to continue to be published by the European Money Markets Institute (EMMI) past 2021, using a reformed or hybrid methodology, in compliance with the Benchmark Regulation. However, no assurance can be given this will be the case.

Key risks relating to the reform and eventual replacement of IBORs with risk free rates

The reform and eventual replacement of IBORs with risk-free rates may cause the relevant IBOR to perform differently than in the past, to disappear entirely, or have other consequences which cannot be predicted. Any of these developments could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on Securities linked to any such rates and in addition, the Group's business, financial condition and results of operations could be impacted materially adversely and/or it could be subject to disputes, litigation or other actions with counterparties or relative participants.

The risk-free rates have different calculation methodologies and other important differences from the IBORs they will eventually replace (see "Differences in methodologies" below). Market terms for Securities linked to such "risk free rates" may evolve over time, and trading prices of such Securities may be lower than those of later-issued Securities as a result. Furthermore, if the relevant risk-free rate

(such as SONIA or SOFR) fails to gain market acceptance or does not prove to be widely used in the capital markets, the trading price of Securities linked to risk free rates may be lower than those of Securities linked to rates that are more widely used and as a result, you may not be able to sell your Securities at all or may not be able to sell your Securities at prices that will provide you with a yield comparable to similar investments that have a developed secondary market, and may consequently suffer from increased pricing volatility and market risk.

To the extent that any Securities reference an IBOR or EURIBOR, prospective investors in Securities should understand (i) what fallbacks might apply in place of such rate (if any), (ii) when those fallbacks will be triggered and (iii) what unilateral amending rights (if any) on the part of the Issuer or Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) apply under the terms of such Securities. See the risk factors set out below.

Differences in methodologies

Risk-free rates may differ from LIBOR, EURIBOR or other interbank offered rates in a number of material respects, including (without limitation) by being backwards-looking in most cases or being calculated on a compounded or weighted average basis, whereas such interbank offered rates are generally expressed on the basis of a forward-looking term and include a risk-element based on interbank lending. As such, you should be aware that LIBOR, EURIBOR and other interbank offered rates and any risk-free rates may behave materially differently as interest reference rates for the Securities.

Interest on Securities which reference a backwards-looking risk-free rate is not determined until the end of the relevant interest calculation period. Therefore, you may be unable to reliably estimate the amount of interest which will be payable on such Securities. Also, some investors may be unable or unwilling to trade such Securities without changes to their information technology or other operational systems, which could adversely impact the liquidity of such Securities. Further, if the Securities become due and payable following an Event of Default, or are otherwise redeemed early on a date which is not an Interest Payment Date, the final Interest Rate payable in respect of such Securities shall be determined by reference to a shortened period ending immediately prior to the date on which the Securities become due and payable or are scheduled for redemption.

Developing markets for SONIA, SOFR and €STR and potential impact on performance and returns

The market continues to develop in relation to adoption of SONIA, SOFR and €STR as reference rates in the capital markets for sterling, U.S. dollar or euro bonds, respectively, and their adoption as alternatives to the relevant interbank offered rates. In addition, market participants and relevant working groups are exploring alternative reference rates based on risk-free rates, including term SONIA, SOFR and €STR reference rates (which seek to measure the market's forward expectation of an average SONIA rate, SOFR or €STR over a designated term).

The market or a significant part thereof may adopt an application of risk-free rates that differs significantly from that set out in the Conditions and used in relation to Securities that reference such risk-free rates issued under this Base Prospectus. Also, it is anticipated that term SONIA reference rates (which seek to measure the market's forward expectation of an average SONIA rate over a designated term) will be provisionally published from 2021. It is possible that market participants may seek to apply such compounded rate or term rates for capital markets issuances.

The Issuer may in the future also issue Securities referencing SONIA, SOFR, €STR or other risk-free rates that differ materially in terms of interest determination when compared with any previous SONIA, SOFR, €STR or other risk-free rate referenced Securities issued by it under this Base Prospectus.

The development of new risk-free rates could result in reduced liquidity or increased volatility, or could otherwise affect the market price of any Securities that reference a risk-free rate issued under this Base Prospectus from time to time.

The new risk free rates may have no established trading market, and an established trading market may never develop or may not be very liquid. Market terms for Securities indexed to the new risk free rates may evolve over time, and may lead to impacts on trading prices and values, and such Securities may not be able to be sold or may not be able to be sold at prices that will provide a yield comparable to similar investments that have a developed secondary market, and may consequently suffer from increased pricing volatility and market risk

Similarly, the manner of adoption or application of risk-free rates in the Eurobond markets may differ materially compared with the application and adoption of risk-free rates in other markets, such as the derivatives and loan markets. You should carefully consider how any mismatch between the adoption of such reference rates in the bond, loan and derivatives markets may impact any hedging or other financial arrangements which you may put in place in connection with any acquisition, holding or disposal of Securities referencing such risk-free rates.

Interest on Securities linked to USD LIBOR will be calculated using a Benchmark Replacement selected by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent if a Benchmark Transition Event occurs

USD LIBOR may be replaced by a successor or substitute interest rate

If the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions apply pursuant to Valuation and Settlement Condition 9, and if the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent determines that a Benchmark Transition Event and its related Benchmark Replacement Date have occurred with respect to USD LIBOR, then a Benchmark Replacement will be determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent and substituted for USD LIBOR for all purposes of the Securities (for an overview of how the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions apply, see "Section C – Investment Considerations – Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks"). Such a determination and any related decisions, determinations or elections made by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent in connection with implementing a Benchmark Replacement with respect to the Securities could result in adverse consequences to the relevant rate of interest, which could adversely affect the return on, value of and market for the Securities.

The occurrence of a Benchmark Transition Event and the potential reliance on SOFR to determine the rate of interest may adversely affect the return on and the market value of the Securities

Pursuant to the terms of Valuation and Settlement Condition 8, if the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent determines that a Benchmark Transition Event and its related Benchmark Replacement Date have occurred with respect to USD LIBOR, then an alternative rate based on SOFR (if it can be determined and assuming no interpolated benchmark or fallback rate selected or formulated by ISDA are available) will be substituted for USD LIBOR for all purposes of the Securities (unless a Benchmark Transition Event also occurs with respect to the Benchmark Replacements that are linked to SOFR, in which case the next-available Benchmark Replacement will be used). In the following discussion of SOFR, when we refer to SOFR-linked Securities, we mean Securities at any time when the applicable Benchmark Replacement is based on SOFR.

There is no guarantee that Term SOFR will be developed before LIBOR ceases and therefore the consequences of the occurrence of a Benchmark Transition Event in relation to Securities linked to USD LIBOR are uncertain

The Benchmark Replacements include Term SOFR, a forward-looking term rate which will be based on the Secured Overnight Financing Rate. Term SOFR is currently being developed under the sponsorship of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York (the NY Federal Reserve). However, sufficient liquidity is needed in the underlying swaps markets to develop a robust Term SOFR and there is no guarantee this will be possible before LIBOR ceases. If a Benchmark Transition Event and its related Benchmark Replacement Date occurs with respect to USD LIBOR, and if the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent cannot determine the relevant USD LIBOR rate by means of interpolating from other tenors of USD LIBOR or by reference to an ISDA Fallback Rate, and, at that time, a form of Term SOFR has not been selected or recommended by the Federal Reserve Board, the NY Federal Reserve, a committee thereof or successor thereto, then the next-available Benchmark Replacement will be substituted for USD LIBOR for all purposes of all subsequent determinations (unless a Benchmark Transition Event occurs with respect to that next-available Benchmark Replacement).

These replacement rates and adjustments may be selected or formulated by (i) the Relevant Governmental Body (such as the Alternative Reference Rates Committee of the NY Federal Reserve), or (ii) in certain circumstances, the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent. In addition, the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent may make changes with respect to, among other things, the timing and frequency of determining rates and making payments of interest. The Calculation Agent or Determination Agent may adopt further changes it decides appropriate, such as technical, administrative or operational changes with respect to the Benchmark Replacement (including, without limitation, changes to the timing and frequency of determining rates and making payments, rounding of amounts or tenors, the introduction of any time delay or lag between the calculation or observation period of a rate and the related payment dates and other administrative matters) to reflect the adoption of such Benchmark Replacement in a manner substantially consistent with market practice (or, if the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent decides that adoption of any portion of such market practice is not administratively feasible or if the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent determines that no market practice for use of the Benchmark Replacement exists, in such other manner as the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent determines is reasonably necessary). Such changes could result in adverse consequences to the return on and value of the Securities. Further, there is no assurance that the characteristics of any Benchmark Replacement will be similar to the then-current Benchmark that it is replacing, or that any Benchmark Replacement will produce the economic equivalent of the then-current Benchmark that it is replacing.

SOFR differs fundamentally from, and may not be a comparable replacement for, USD LIBOR

The NY Federal Reserve began to publish SOFR in April 2018 and began publishing SOFR Averages (a SOFR Index) in March 2020. SOFR is intended to be a broad measure of the cost of borrowing cash overnight collateralised by Treasury securities. The NY Federal Reserve reports that SOFR includes all trades in the Broad General Collateral Rate, plus bilateral Treasury repurchase agreement (repo) transactions cleared through the delivery-versus-payment service offered by the Fixed Income Clearing Corporation (the FICC), a subsidiary of The Depository Trust & Clearing Corporation (DTCC). SOFR is filtered by the NY Federal Reserve to remove a portion of the foregoing transactions considered to be "specials". According to the NY Federal Reserve, "specials" are repos for specific-issue collateral which take place at cash-lending rates below those for general collateral repos because cash providers are willing to accept a lesser return on their cash in order to obtain a particular security. The NY Federal Reserve reports that SOFR is calculated as a volume-weighted median of transaction-level tri-party repo data collected from The Bank of New York Mellon, which currently acts as the clearing bank for the tri-party repo market, as well as General Collateral Finance Repo transaction data and data on bilateral Treasury repo transactions cleared through the FICC's delivery-versus-payment service. The NY Federal Reserve notes that it obtains information from DTCC Solutions LLC, an affiliate of DTCC.

SOFR differs fundamentally from LIBOR. For example, SOFR is a secured overnight rate, while USD LIBOR is an unsecured rate that represents interbank funding over different maturities. In addition, because SOFR is a transaction-based rate, it is backward-looking, whereas USD LIBOR is forward-looking. Because of these and other differences, there can be no assurance that the SOFR will perform in the same way as USD LIBOR would have done at any time, and there is no guarantee that it is a comparable substitute for USD LIBOR.

Furthermore, the NY Federal Reserve notes on its publication page for SOFR that use of SOFR is subject to important limitations, indemnification obligations and disclaimers, including that the NY Federal Reserve may alter the methods of calculation, publication schedule, rate revision practices or availability of SOFR at any time without notice. There can be no guarantee that SOFR will not be discontinued or fundamentally altered in a manner that is materially adverse to holders of SOFR-linked Securities. If the manner in which SOFR is calculated is changed or if SOFR is discontinued, that change or discontinuance may adversely affect the return on and value of the relevant Securities.

No reliance on historical data

Although the NY Federal Reserve has also begun publishing historical indicative SOFR going back to 2014, such pre-publication historical data inherently involves assumptions, estimates and approximations. You should not rely on any historical changes or trends in SOFR as an indicator of the future performance of SOFR. Since the initial publication of SOFR, daily changes in the rate have, on occasion, been more volatile than daily changes in comparable benchmark or market rates. As a result, the return on and value of SOFR-linked Securities may fluctuate more than floating rate securities that are linked to less volatile rates.

The Calculation Agent or Determination Agent may make determinations or elections that could adversely affect the return on, value of and market for Securities linked to USD LIBOR

If the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent determines that a Benchmark Transition Event and its related Benchmark Replacement Date have occurred with respect to USD LIBOR, then it may make certain determinations, decisions and elections with respect to the rate of interest on such Securities. Any such determination, decision or election could affect the amount of interest payable on such Securities. For example, if the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent determines that a Benchmark Transition Event and its related Benchmark Replacement Date have occurred, then it will determine, among other things, the Benchmark Replacement Conforming Changes. Any exercise of discretion by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent under the terms and conditions of the Securities, could present a conflict of interest. In making the determinations, decisions and elections, the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent may have economic interests that are adverse to the interests of the holders of the Securities, and such determinations, decisions or elections could have a material adverse effect on the return on, value of and market for such Securities. All determinations, decisions or elections by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent pursuant to the Benchmark Transition Provisions will be conclusive and binding absent manifest error, will be made in the sole discretion of the Calculation Agent and Determination Agent and shall become effective without consent from the holders of Securities or any other party.

Interim adjustments

If, following a Benchmark Transition Event but prior to any adjustments or replacement having occurred, the relevant USD Benchmark is required for any determination in respect of the Securities and at that time, a Benchmark Replacement and any Benchmark Replacement Adjustment have not been determined and relevant Benchmark Replacement Conforming Changes have not been made and:

- (A) if the USD Benchmark is still available, and it is still permitted under applicable law or regulation for the Securities to reference the USD Benchmark, the USD Benchmark shall be determined pursuant to the terms that would apply to the determination of the USD Benchmark as if no Benchmark Transition Event had occurred; or
- (B) if the USD Benchmark is no longer available or it is no longer permitted under applicable law or regulation for the Securities to reference the USD Benchmark, the USD Benchmark shall be determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent in its sole and absolute discretion, after consulting any source it deems to be reasonable, as (a) a substitute or successor rate that it has determined is the industry-accepted (in the derivatives market) substitute or successor rate for USD LIBOR of the relevant tenor or (b) if it determines there is no such industry-accepted (in the derivatives market) substitute or successor rate, a substitute or successor rate that it determines is a commercially reasonable alternative to the USD Benchmark, taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market).

To the extent that any Securities reference a USD Benchmark with respect to which a Benchmark Transition Event is likely to occur during the term of such Securities, prospective investors should be aware that the consequence of the occurrence of a Benchmark Transition Event described above will be realised if such a Benchmark Transition Event occurs and the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions apply pursuant to Valuation and Settlement Condition 9.

The interests of the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent in making the determinations described above may be adverse to your interests as a holder of Securities. The selection of a Benchmark Replacement, and any decisions made by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent in connection with implementing a Benchmark Replacement with respect to the Securities, could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities. Further, there is no assurance that the characteristics of any Benchmark Replacement will be similar to the relevant USD Benchmark or that any Benchmark Replacement will produce the economic equivalent of such USD Benchmark. In particular, any of these fallback provisions may result in interest payments that are lower than, or do not otherwise correlate over time with, the payments that would have been made on the relevant Securities if the previous rate had continued being published in its current form.

Interest on Securities linked to a Reference Rate will be calculated using a Replacement Reference Rate selected by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) if a Reference Rate Event occurs

Occurrence of a Reference Rate Event

If the Reference Rate Event Provisions apply pursuant to Valuation and Settlement Condition 9, there is a risk that a Reference Rate Event may occur in respect of such Reference Rate (for an overview of how the Reference Rate Event Provisions apply, see "Section C – Investment Considerations – Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks").

It is uncertain as to if or when a Reference Rate Event may occur in respect of a Reference Rate and the circumstances which could trigger such an event are outside of the Issuer's control. Whether a Reference Rate Event has occurred will be determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable), and any subsequent use of a replacement Reference Rate is likely to result in changes to the Conditions (which could be extensive) and/or interest or other payments under the Securities that are lower than or that do not otherwise correlate over time with the payments that could have been made on such Securities if the relevant Reference Rate remained available in its current form.

Subject to the Conditions, each Securityholder will bear the risks arising from any such change and will not be entitled to any form of compensation as a result of any such change.

Determination of alternative benchmark and any Adjustment Spread

If the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) determines that a Reference Rate Event has occurred in respect of a Reference Rate, it will:

- (A) seek to identify a Replacement Reference Rate;
- (B) calculate the adjustment, if any, to the Replacement Reference Rate that it determines is required in order to reduce any transfer of economic value from (i) the Issuer to the Securityholders or (ii) the Securityholders to the Issuer, in each case that would otherwise arise as a result of the replacement of the Reference Rate with the Replacement Reference Rate (an Adjustment Spread);
- (C) determine such other amendments to the Securities which it considers are necessary and/or appropriate in order to account for the effect of the replacement of the relevant Reference Rate with the Replacement Reference Rate (as adjusted by the Adjustment Spread); and
- (D) determine the timing for when the Replacement Reference Rate, Adjustment Spread and such other adjustments will become effective in relation to the relevant Securities.

You should be aware that:

- (I) if, with respect to a Material Change Event Trigger, the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) determines that it is not possible or commercially reasonable to adjust the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such material change, then absent a determination that no Replacement Reference Rate or other amendments to the terms of the Securities are required, the relevant Securities may, at the Issuer's option, be subject to an early redemption, in which case you may lose some or all of your investment;
- (II) the application of any Replacement Reference Rate (notwithstanding the inclusion of any Adjustment Spread), together with any consequential amendments (or, if applicable, any changes made following a material change), could result in a lower amount being payable than would otherwise have been the case;
- (III) any such Replacement Reference Rate (as adjusted by any Adjustment Spread) and any consequential amendments (or, if applicable, any changes made following a material change) shall apply without requiring the consent of the holders of Securities; and
- (IV) if the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) determines that it is not possible or commercially reasonable to identify a Replacement Reference Rate or calculate an Adjustment Spread, the Securities may, at the Issuer's option, be the subject of an early redemption, in which case you may lose some or all of your investment. There is no guarantee that a Replacement Reference Rate will be identified or that an Adjustment Spread will be calculated by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable).

The Adjustment Spread may be positive, negative or zero and/or determined pursuant to a formula or methodology. There can be no assurance that the replacement adjustment will fully mitigate the transfer of economic value between the Issuer and holders and the proposed replacement adjustments are not intended, or able, to replicate the dynamic bank credit risk premium embedded in an IBOR.

Interim adjustments

If, following a Reference Rate Event but prior to any adjustments or replacement having occurred, the relevant Reference Rate is required for any determination in respect of the Securities and at that time, no amendments have occurred in accordance with the foregoing and:

- (A) if the Reference Rate is still available, and it is still permitted under applicable law or regulation for the Securities to reference the Reference Rate, the level of the Reference Rate shall be determined pursuant to the terms that would apply to the determination of the Reference Rate as if no Reference Rate Event had occurred; or
- (B) if the Reference Rate is no longer available or it is no longer permitted under applicable law or regulation for the Securities to reference the Reference Rate, the level of the Reference Rate shall be determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) in its sole and absolute discretion, after consulting any source it deems to be reasonable, as (a) a substitute or successor rate that it has determined is the industry-accepted (in the derivatives market) substitute or successor rate for the relevant Reference Rate or (b) if it determines there is no such industry-accepted (in the derivatives market) substitute or successor rate, a substitute or successor rate that it determines is a commercially reasonable alternative to the Reference Rate, taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market).

To the extent that any Securities reference a Reference Rate with respect to which a Reference Rate Event is likely to occur during the term of such Securities, prospective investors should be aware that the consequence of the occurrence of a Reference Rate Event described above will be realised if such a Reference Rate Event occurs.

The interests of the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) in making the determinations described above may be adverse to your interests as a holder of Securities. The selection of a Replacement Reference Rate, and any decisions made by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) in connection with implementing a Replacement Reference Rate with respect to the Securities, could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities. Further, there is no assurance that the characteristics of any Replacement Reference Rate will be similar to the relevant Reference Rate or that any Replacement Reference Rate will produce the economic equivalent of such Reference Rate. In particular, any of these fallback provisions may result in interest payments that are lower than, or do not otherwise correlate over time with, the payments that would have been made on the relevant Securities if the previous rate had continued being published in its current form.

Risks relating to the occurrence of an Administrator/Benchmark Event

The occurrence of an Administrator/Benchmark Event (if applicable) may mean adjustments are made to the Securities which may include selecting one or more successor benchmarks and making related adjustments to the Securities, including if applicable to reflect any increased costs of the Issuer of providing exposure to the replacement or successor rate(s) and/or benchmark(s). Alternatively, early redemption of the Securities may apply. For an overview of how the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions apply, see "Section C – Investment Considerations – Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks" below. Any such adjustment may have an adverse effect on the value of, return on or market for the Securities, and if the Securities are early redeemed, the amount repaid to you could be substantially less than your initial investment and you could therefore sustain a loss.

Failure by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) and/or the Issuer to give notice

Pursuant to the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions, the Reference Rate Event Provisions and the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions, the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) is required to notify the Issuer of certain determinations made in accordance with such provisions, and the Issuer is required to notify the Securityholders thereof or of certain elections to redeem the Securities. However, failure by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) to so notify the Issuer or failure by the Issuer to so notify the Securityholders will not affect the validity of any such determination or election.

Risks relating to the discontinuance or unavailability of a Rate

If (a) the provisions of Underlying Schedule 13 relating to the determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on any Scheduled Trading Day in the event of the occurrence of any Disrupted Day and the Substitute or Successor Rates provisions and (b) the provisions relating to the consequences of any such Disrupted Day set out in the Conditions apply pursuant to Valuation and Settlement Condition 9, if (i) a Rate has been discontinued or is permanently no longer being published, or (ii) there has been an official announcement or formal publication of information by the supervisor of the administrator and/or sponsor of such Rate that the Rate (x) is no longer representative, or (y) as of a specified future date will no longer be capable of being representative, of any relevant underlying market(s) or economic reality that the Rate is intended to measure (in the case of (y) provided such specified future date has then occurred), the Calculation Agent may determine, in its sole and absolute discretion, the underlying closing level for such Rate by reference to an industry-accepted substitute or successor rate (or, if none, a rate which it determines is a commercially reasonable alternative, taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market)) and may make such adjustments to the Conditions as it determines necessary or appropriate to reflect any industry-accepted practices for the successor Rate, including applying an adjustment factor. Any such amendments may result in payments under the Securities being different from those originally anticipated, and could have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

If a floating rate becomes unavailable it may be determined by reference to third party banks or in the Calculation Agent's or Determination Agent's (as applicable) discretion or by alternative methods

If the SRD Fallback Provisions in Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(a), the USD LIBOR SRD Fallback Provisions in Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(b) or the ISDA Determination provisions in Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(c) apply pursuant to Valuation and Settlement Condition 9, the relevant rate of interest may be determined by reference to quotations provided by third party banks and the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) will have no responsibility to the Issuer or any third party as a result of having acted on any such quotations. Further, if the relevant rate of interest cannot be determined by reference to bank quotations, then the rate of interest will be that determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to alternative benchmarks then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market). As a result, the return on your Securities may be lower than expected and/or the value of your Securities may be adversely affected.

If the SFRD (Non-Index) Fallback Provisions in Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(d)(i) apply pursuant to Valuation and Settlement Condition 9 and the SONIA rate is not available or has not otherwise been published on a relevant day, the amount of interest payable on such Securities will be determined using (a) the Bank of England's Bank Rate (for the purposes of this paragraph, the Bank Rate) for such day plus the mean of the spread of the SONIA rate to the Bank Rate, or (b) if the Bank Rate is not available on such day, the SONIA rate published for the first preceding London Banking Day on which the SONIA rate was published. In respect of (a), there is no assurance that the characteristics of the Bank Rate and spread calculation will be similar to, or will produce the economic equivalent of, the SONIA rate upon which compounded daily SONIA is based. If the said rate and spread calculation provisions or alternative provisions for determining the SONIA rate in respect of a particular day become applicable, this could result in adverse consequences to the amount of interest payable on the Securities, which could adversely affect the return on, value of and market for the Securities.

More generally, Swap Rates (as defined below) may be subject to reform in the future. These reforms may cause one or more Swap Rate(s) to be discontinued, to be modified, or to be subject to other changes. Any such consequence could also have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on Securities the payout of which is dependent on the performance of such Swap Rate.

Swap Rates may be materially amended or discontinued

EURIBOR, GBP LIBOR, USD LIBOR and other "IBORs" are used as the floating leg in the calculation of the EUR Swap Rate, GBP Swap Rate, USD Swap Rate and other swap rates (collectively, the Swap Rates, and each a Swap Rate), respectively. Consequently, if the calculation methodologies of EURIBOR, GBP LIBOR, USD LIBOR and/or other relevant "IBORs" are reformed, this could have a material effect on the calculation of the relevant Swap Rate(s). Furthermore, if EURIBOR, GBP LIBOR, USD LIBOR and/or other relevant "IBORs" are discontinued (the possibility of which is as described above), it may not be possible to calculate the relevant Swap Rate(s), and different fallback provisions would apply based on the fallback provisions described in Valuation and Settlement Condition 9. Such fallback provisions will be applied in the order set out therein. This may mean that any fallback provisions included as part of the ISDA Determination itself may not apply (including the fallback provisions within Supplement number 70 to the 2006 ISDA Definitions (Amendments to the 2006 ISDA Definitions to include new IBOR fallbacks)).

Risks in connection with "Shift" and "Lag" methodologies

Where SONIA Floating Rate Determination (Non-Index Determination) or SOFR Floating Rate Determination is specified in the applicable Issue Terms as the manner in which the Interest Rate is to be determined and, in respect of SOFR Floating Rate Determination, Index Determination is specified to be not applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, either "Shift" or "Lag" will be specified as applicable. "Shift" and "Lag" have emerged as conventions for daily compounding of rates in arrears. The conventions differ in the period that each method uses when weighting each business day's overnight rate for the relevant risk free rate. The "Shift" approach weights the relevant risk free rate according to the relevant number of days that apply in a separate observation period which 'shadows' the Interest Period (e.g. the observation period might start and end five business days preceding the relevant start and end of the Interest Period). The "Lag" approach weights the relevant risk free rate according to the number of days that apply in the relevant Interest Period. Investors should be aware that divergence between the "Shift" and "Lag" methodologies could lead to a difference in the interest being determined even where the relevant risk free rate is the same for the Securities and may not be what investors expected.

Methodologies for determining interest payable in respect of Securities linked to SONIA or SOFR may differ substantially

The amount of interest payable in respect of Securities linked to SONIA or SOFR will be calculated by reference to (i) the rate of return of a daily compound interest investment (with the daily SONIA or SOFR, as applicable, as the reference rate for the calculation of interest); or (ii) where SONIA Floating Rate Determination (Index Determination) or Index Determination in respect of SOFR Floating Rate Determination applies, a screen rate, formula or value as may be published by the administrator of SONIA or SOFR, as applicable. There can be no assurance that amounts of interest determined pursuant to (i) and (ii) will be similar, and over time the market may adopt an application of these methodologies that differs significantly from that set out in the Conditions. Further, investors should refer to "Developing markets for SONIA, SOFR and €STR and potential impact on performance and returns" above for a description of the key risks relating to the development of risk free rates across the market generally.

RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH CERTAIN TYPES OF SECURITIES AND CERTAIN PRODUCT FEATURES*Risks relating to Fixed Rate Securities or Securities which pay a Non-Contingent Interest Amount*

Investment in Fixed Rate Securities or Securities which pay a Non-Contingent Interest Amount involves the risk that if market interest rates subsequently increase above the rate or amount paid on such Securities, this will adversely affect the value of the Securities.

Risks relating to Fixed/Floating Rate Securities

Fixed/Floating Rate Securities may bear interest at a rate that converts from a fixed rate to a floating rate or from a floating rate to a fixed rate. Where the relevant Issuer has the right to effect such a conversion, this will affect the secondary market in, and the market value of, the Securities, since the relevant Issuer may be expected to convert the rate when it is likely to result in a lower overall cost of borrowing for the relevant Issuer. If the relevant Issuer converts from a fixed rate to a floating rate in such circumstances, the spread on the Fixed/Floating Rate Securities may be less favourable than then prevailing spreads on comparable Floating Rate Securities tied to the same reference rate. In addition, the new floating rate at any time may be lower than the rates on other floating rate Securities issued by the relevant Issuer. If the relevant Issuer converts from a floating rate to a fixed rate in such circumstances, the fixed rate may be lower than the prevailing market rates.

Risks relating to Range Accrual (Expanded) Securities

Range Accrual (Expanded) Securities have an interest rate multiplied by an accrual rate which is determined by reference to the number of days in the relevant interest period on which one or more accrual condition(s) are satisfied. An accrual condition may be satisfied on any relevant day if the relevant reference observation is, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) equal to or above the specified barrier; or
- (b) above the specified barrier; or
- (c) equal to or below the specified barrier; or
- (d) below the specified barrier, or the relevant reference observation is, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) either equal to or above, or above, the specified lower range; and
- (b) either equal to or below, or below, the specified upper range.

A reference observation may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms as (i) a single reference rate, (ii) a basket of two or more reference rates, (iii) the difference between two reference rates, (iv) the difference between the sums of two sets of reference rates or (v) a currency exchange rate.

The interest rate of Range Accrual (Expanded) Securities may be a rate equal or calculated by reference to a specified fixed interest rate, a floating interest rate or a CMS swap rate (or if specified in the applicable Issue Terms, either the lesser of or the difference between two CMS swap rates).

The accrual rate may be subject to a cap or a floor and may be multiplied by a leverage factor.

Accordingly, Range Accrual (Expanded) Securities may be subject to variable interest rates, can be volatile instruments, and/or may pay limited or no interest in respect of an interest period.

Where the applicable Issue Terms specify that the "Protected Range Accrual Provisions" apply, where the accrual factor is greater than the specified protection level, the accrual factor shall be deemed to be 100 per cent. and the full amount of the interest amount for the relevant interest period will be paid even if the relevant accrual condition(s) are not satisfied on each relevant day in the relevant interest period.

Risks relating to Spread Securities

Spread Securities have an interest rate determined by reference to any of:

- (a) one (1) minus the result of a specified spread rate minus another specified spread rate; or
- (b) a specified spread rate minus another specified spread rate; or
- (c) the lesser of: (i) a specified spread rate plus or minus a spread cap margin, and (ii) the sum of: (A) a specified percentage rate per annum, and (B) the product of (I) a multiplier, and (II) the difference between two specified spread rates, and, in each case, plus or minus a margin (if specified in the applicable Issue Terms), and multiplied by an interest participation rate (if specified in the applicable Issue Terms).

Each of the specified spread rates referred to in the preceding paragraph may be (i) a single specified rate, (ii) the sum of more than one specified rate or (iii) one specified rate minus another specified rate.

Accordingly, Spread Securities may be subject to variable interest rates, can be volatile instruments, and/or may pay limited or no interest in respect of an interest period.

Securities which are issued with variable interest rates or which are structured to include a multiplier or other leverage factor are likely to have more volatile market values than more standard securities.

Securities with variable interest rates can be volatile investments. If they are structured to include multipliers or other leverage factors, or caps or floors, or any combination of these features or other similar related features, their market values may be even more volatile than those for securities that do not include these features. Any such volatility may have a material adverse effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Mandatory early redemption or "autocall"

If "Mandatory Early Redemption Provisions" are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then such Issue Terms will specify what constitutes a "Mandatory Early Redemption Barrier Event" and, following the occurrence of a Mandatory Early Redemption Barrier Event, the Securities will be redeemed on the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Date and the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Amount specified in the applicable Issue Terms will become payable and no further amount shall be payable in respect of such Securities after the Mandatory Early Redemption Date. In this case, you are subject to a reinvestment risk, as you may not be able to replace your investment in such Securities with an investment that has a similar profile of chances and risks as the relevant Securities.

If any Securities are redeemed early in accordance with the above, the amount you receive will be limited to the Mandatory Early Redemption Amount irrespective of the price of the relevant Underlying(s) or any other reference factor(s) applicable to such Underlying(s). Furthermore, you will not benefit from any movement in the price of relevant Underlying(s) that may occur during the period between the relevant date of early redemption and the maturity date.

Unless the Mandatory Early Redemption Amount is a specified fixed amount and such amount is greater than your initial investment in the Securities, then you should note that, unless a scheduled minimum redemption amount is specified in all circumstances, then you may lose all or part of your investment.

Securities subject to optional redemption by the Issuer

An optional redemption feature of Securities, as set out in General Condition 6 (Redemption and Purchase) and any related provisions in the applicable Issue Terms, is likely to limit their market value. During any period when the Issuer may elect to redeem Securities, the market value of those Securities generally will not rise substantially above the price at which they can be redeemed. This also may be true prior to any redemption period.

The Issuer may be expected to redeem Securities when its cost of borrowing is lower than the interest rate on the Securities. At those times, an investor generally would not be able to reinvest the redemption proceeds at an effective interest rate as high as the interest rate on the Securities being redeemed and may only be able to do so at a significantly lower rate. You should consider reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at that time.

Securities subject to a cap

Where the terms of the Securities provide that the amount payable or deliverable is subject to a cap, your ability to participate in any change in the value of the Underlying(s) over the term of the Securities will be limited, no matter how much the level, price or other applicable value of the Underlying(s) rises above the cap level over the term of the Securities. Accordingly, the value of or return on the Securities may be significantly less than if you had purchased the Underlying(s) directly or through another product not subject to a cap.

Risks relating to Securities that are Physical Delivery SecuritiesSettlement disruption event and failure to deliver

In the case of Physical Delivery Securities, if a Settlement Disruption Event occurs or exists on any date specified for the delivery of the relevant Entitlement, settlement will be postponed until the next Settlement Business Day in respect of which there is no Settlement Disruption Event. The Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) in these circumstances may select to deliver the relevant Entitlement in such other commercially reasonable manner as it may select or it may pay the Disruption Cash Redemption Amount in lieu of delivering the Entitlement.

If, in relation to Physical Delivery Securities, "Failure to Deliver due to Illiquidity" is specified as applying in the applicable Issue Terms and it is impossible or impracticable, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, to deliver, when due, some or all of the Relevant Assets where such failure to deliver is due to illiquidity in the market for such Relevant Assets, the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) has the right to pay the Failure to Deliver Redemption Amount in lieu of delivering some or all of such Relevant Assets which are affected by such illiquidity.

If "Aggregation of Entitlements" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, Physical Delivery Securities which are held by the same Securityholder will be aggregated for the purpose of determining the aggregate Entitlements in respect of such Securities and such aggregate Entitlements will be rounded down to the nearest Tradeable Amount of the Relevant Asset(s), in such manner as the relevant Calculation Agent shall determine. If "Aggregation of Entitlements" is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Entitlement in respect of each Security will be rounded down to the nearest whole multiple of the Tradeable Amount of the Relevant Asset(s) in such manner as the relevant Calculation Agent shall determine. Amounts of the Relevant Asset less than the Tradeable Amount shall not be delivered and no cash or other adjustment will be made in respect of such rounding unless "Cash Adjustment" is specified as applying in the applicable Issue Terms, in which case, the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) shall pay you a cash amount equal to the value of any such lesser amount.

Consequently, Securityholders may not receive the Entitlements that they expect to receive, may receive less than they would otherwise expect or may receive a cash amount instead.

Issuer's option to Substitute Assets or to pay the Alternate Cash Redemption Amount

If the Securities are Physical Delivery Securities, the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) may, if the Calculation Agent determines that the Relevant Asset or Relevant Assets, as the case may be, comprises securities which are not freely tradeable and deliverable, elect either (i) to substitute a Substitute Asset or Substitute Assets, as the case may be, for the Relevant Asset or Relevant Assets, or (ii) not to deliver or procure the delivery of the relevant Entitlement or the relevant Substitute Asset or Substitute Assets, as the case may be, to the relevant Securityholders, but in lieu of such delivery to make payment to the relevant Securityholders on the maturity date of the Alternate Cash Redemption Amount. In these circumstances, Securityholders may receive assets which are different to, or cash instead of, the assets that they expected to receive.

Expenses

All Expenses arising from the delivery of the Entitlement in respect of Physical Delivery Securities shall be for the account of the relevant Securityholder.

Expenses in respect of Physical Delivery Securities shall be deducted by the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) from any cash amount owing to you and paid by the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) on your behalf or paid by the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) on your behalf by converting such amount of the Relevant Asset(s) due to be delivered as necessary to pay the Expenses, as specified by the Securityholder in the relevant Asset Transfer Notice. If any Expenses are not so paid, you shall be deemed to authorise the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) to convert and the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) may convert such amount of the Relevant Asset(s) into cash sufficient to cover the Expenses in respect of the relevant Security from which the relevant Intermediary shall deduct such Expenses.

Variation of Settlement

In respect of Physical Delivery Securities, the Issuer (where Settlement via Intermediary is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) or the relevant Intermediary (where Settlement via Intermediary is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms) has an option to vary settlement in respect of such Securities and, in lieu of delivering or procuring delivery of the relevant Entitlement, to pay an amount determined to be equal to the fair market value of the Entitlement on the Maturity Date.

In such circumstances, you will not receive any Relevant Assets as the Securities will only be cash settled and the redemption amount you receive may be significantly less than your initial investment in the Securities. Furthermore, you would not benefit from any increase in the price of the Relevant Assets that would have otherwise been deliverable if the Securities had been settled by physical delivery after the date of determination of such fair market value.

Risks relating to Securities that are Dual Currency Securities

If the Securities are Dual Currency Securities, then amounts payable in respect of the Securities will be determined by converting all amounts due under the Securities from the Denomination Currency into the Relevant Currency by multiplying such amount by the Dual Currency Exchange Rate for the last occurring valuation date. In such circumstances, amounts that you receive in respect of the Securities are also linked to the performance of the Underlying which is the exchange rate used for such conversions. You should therefore also have regard to the risk factors relating to Securities linked to a currency exchange rate as set out above (in particular the risk factor entitled "Risks associated with Securities linked to currency exchange rates").

RISKS SPECIFIC TO CREDIT LINKED NOTES AND/OR INDEX SKEW NOTES

Credit risk of the Reference Entity

Investors should note that a holder of a Credit Linked Note will be exposed to the credit of one or more Reference Entities, which exposure shall be, unless otherwise stated in the applicable Issue Terms, to the full extent of their investment in such Credit Linked Note or, in the case of Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes, to the extent that the aggregate losses exceed the "attachment point". Upon the occurrence of any specified Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, with respect to any Reference Entity, investors may suffer significant losses at a time when losses may be suffered by a direct investor in obligations of such Reference Entity. However, the holding of a Credit Linked Note may not reflect the impact of investing in an obligation of a Reference Entity, and losses in relation to the Credit Linked Notes could be considerably greater than would be suffered by a direct investor in the obligations of a Reference Entity and/or could arise for reasons unrelated to such Reference Entity.

In addition, the terms of the deliverable obligations of Reference Entities may not be standard, and holders of that debt may therefore incur additional losses that are not reflected in the relevant Credit Linked Notes. This is of greater force in the case where the Reference Entity is a sovereign. There are no common set of rules or practices that governs the manner in which a sovereign government, faced with deterioration in its fiscal position or the performance of its economy, may attempt to reach resolution with holders of its debt obligations. Due to, amongst other factors, the role of governments and international organisations as creditors, the ability of a sovereign to enact legislation that may affect holders of its debt obligations, and the role played by other governments, including those of the jurisdictions in which private creditors are located, the development of events is inherently unpredictable. As a result, specified Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, may not encompass all the circumstances in which holders of a sovereign Reference Entity's obligations may suffer credit-related losses.

Legal risks

Investors should note that a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, may still occur although (a) the Reference Entity/underlying obligor lacks capacity to enter into any obligation, (b) there is any actual or alleged unenforceability, illegality, impossibility or invalidity with respect to any obligation or (c) the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, results from (i) any applicable law, order, regulation, decree or notice or change in, the interpretation by any court, tribunal, regulatory authority or similar administrative or judicial body or (ii) the imposition of, or any change in, any exchange controls, capital restrictions or any other similar restrictions imposed by any monetary or other authority. Investors should note that such legal risks are borne by the investors and the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, that arises directly or indirectly as a result of these matters will not prevent the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, from occurring under the Credit Linked Notes which will result in redemption of the Credit Linked Notes, in full or in part.

Jurisdictional differences and assessment of Reference Entity

There can be less publicly available information about certain Reference Entities particularly where the laws in the jurisdiction of the Reference Entity do not subject the Reference Entity to reporting requirements. Furthermore, certain Reference Entities are subject to accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards that may differ from those applicable in other jurisdictions, and the relevant ways in which the legal regime of a Reference Entity operates can result in differences in outcomes across various jurisdictions. The differences highlighted herein may make it more difficult to make an accurate assessment of the creditworthiness of certain Reference Entities, and these differences may have a significant effect on the recovery on an underlying debt obligation in the event of bankruptcy or reorganisation of a Reference Entity. For example, once a bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding has commenced under the laws of certain jurisdictions, it may not be permissible to trade or accelerate the debt of the relevant issuer.

In making any assessment with respect to the creditworthiness of any Reference Entity or the Reference Entity generally, investors should also take into account, amongst other factors, (a) the name of the Reference Entity given that there can be confusion among market participants with respect to similarly named entities within a corporate group or failure to monitor any recent name changes or Successors identified with respect to a particular Reference Entity; (b) the obligor on any referenced obligation and its capacity, to the extent relevant for any Credit Linked Note; (c) the characteristics of any obligation referenced such as whether it is senior or subordinated, senior non preferred, freely transferrable, secured or unsecured, a bond, loan or a payment obligation not related to borrowed money which may either meet or fail to meet certain requirements specified in the Credit Linked Note relevant to either the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, or redemption following a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable; and (d) where there are multiple Reference Entities, whether each Reference Entity is weighted equally or whether some Reference Entities have greater weightings than others given a Reference Entity's weighting with respect to the relevant Credit Linked Note determines the portion of the principal amount of the Credit Linked Note that is attributable to that Reference Entity. Each of the above factors are important in making a decision whether to invest in Credit Linked Notes, as they may affect the creditworthiness of the Reference Entity(ies) in question and/or the value of and return on such Notes.

Actions of Reference Entities

Actions of Reference Entities (for example, merger or demerger or the repayment or transfer of indebtedness) may adversely affect the value of the Credit Linked Notes. The views of market participants and/or legal counsel may differ as to how certain terms should be interpreted in the context of such actions, or such terms may operate in a manner contrary to the expectations of investors.

A Reference Entity (which could equally be the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates) will not have any obligation to consider any investor's interest (as a holder of the Credit Linked Note) as to any corporate or sovereign actions that might be undertaken and as such, such actions could affect the value of the Credit Linked Notes and impact on the terms and conditions of such Credit Linked Notes. A Reference Entity may have an incentive to structure a transaction to produce a particular result for example, in order to induce holders of its debt obligations to take certain actions. In some cases, a Reference Entity may repay its outstanding liabilities or assign them to a different entity in a manner that does not give rise to the determination of a Successor to the Reference Entity. In such cases, with respect to that Reference Entity, there may no longer be any deliverable obligations (a circumstance commonly referred to as an "orphaning"), which may result in there being no appropriate Deliverable Obligations for an Auction to be determined with respect to the relevant Reference Entity or Physical Redemption to be effected.

Historical performance may not predict future performance

Individual Reference Entities may not perform as indicated by the historical performance of similar entities and no assurance can be given with respect to the future performance of any Reference Entities. Historical default statistics may not capture events that would constitute Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, for the purposes of the Credit Linked Notes.

Concentrated credit risk where Reference Entities are concentrated in the same sectors or regions

The credit risk to investors in the Credit Linked Notes, which are credit-linked to multiple Reference Entities may be increased, amongst other things, as a result of the concentration of Reference Entities in a particular industry sector or geographic area, or the exposure of the Reference Entities to similar financial or other risks as other Reference Entities.

Although at the Issue Date or Trade Date, as applicable, investors in Single Name Credit Linked Notes and Local Access Credit Linked Notes will have exposure to a single Reference Entity, investors should note that the risk set out above will equally apply to such Credit Linked Notes when multiple successors are identified in accordance with the Credit Linked Conditions.

Impact of a Credit Event or Risk Event on principal and interest

Following a Credit Event which is a Governmental Intervention or certain Restructuring Credit Events, an Asset Package Credit Event may occur and the amount of principal payable may be determined based on the value of a package of assets which a relevant obligation of a Reference Entity has been converted into or exchanged for (which may be worth significantly less than the principal amount of such original obligation of such Reference Entity or, where such original obligation has been expropriated for no compensation, may be zero). Prospective investors in such Credit Linked Notes should be aware that depending on the terms thereof (i) they may receive no or a limited amount of interest, (ii) payment of principal or interest or delivery of any specified assets may occur at a different time than expected and (iii) they may lose all or a substantial portion of their investment.

The occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, in relation to any Reference Entity from time to time may result in either full or partial redemption of the Credit Linked Notes on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date which shall depend on whether "Credit Payment on Maturity" or "Credit Payment Following Credit Event" applies and any recovery (which could be zero) or any incurred recovery amounts (to the extent that such recovery falls within the tranche to which the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes are exposed to (as applicable)) will be payable to the investor but the investor shall be exposed to all incurred losses (to the extent that such losses fall within the tranche to which the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes are exposed to (as applicable)), which will reduce its principal redemptions. Where "Physical Redemption" applies, the occurrence of a Credit Event may result in the redemption of the Credit Linked Notes based on the delivery of certain direct or indirect obligations of the affected Reference Entity, which may have a market value which is substantially less than their nominal amount.

Following the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, investors should note that interest will cease to accrue on a specified portion of the relevant Credit Linked Notes as set out in the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes depending on whether "Interest Accrual on Default" or "No Interest Accrual on Default" applies in the relevant Issue Terms.

If "No Interest Accrual on Default" is applicable, interest will cease from the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable or where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date. If "Interest Accrual on Default" is applicable, interest will cease to accrue on the first Business Day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable. In such case, interest shall accrue on the affected applicable proportion from (and including) the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable (or where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date) to (and including) the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable. With respect to the Index Tranch Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranch Credit Linked Notes, interest will cease to accrue on the Principal Writedown Amount with effect from the Credit Event Writedown Date, being the business day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date.

The Issuer may also suspend interest in certain circumstances where (a) an Applicable DC Credit Event Question has been submitted in respect of which a DC Resolution (including, but not limited to, a DC Credit Event Announcement, a DC No Credit Event Announcement or a DC Credit Event Question Dismissal) has not been published or the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not resolved whether it will convene a meeting to Resolve the Applicable DC Credit Event Question or (b) where the Calculation Agent has determined that Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, could occur but no Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice, as applicable, has been provided to the Issuer and/or the Securityholders. In such circumstances, investors should note that the Issuer would suspend the maximum amount of interest payable assuming the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, had occurred, in the case of an M(M)R Restructuring, as though no partial exercise occurred and where the amount to be withheld requires calculation of any recovery amount, assuming that fixed recovery of zero per cent. applies. Such suspension of interest shall be effected although no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date has occurred.

Investors should be aware that although payment of any interest wrongly suspended will be repayable in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes and where insufficient interest has been suspended, being the Interest Suspension Shortfall Amount, such interest shall be claimed by the Issuer from any amount payable or assets Delivered upon the redemption or write down in full of the relevant Credit Linked Notes (whether at maturity or upon early redemption). The Issuer however shall have no further claims against any investors for any Interest Suspension Shortfall Amount which cannot be deducted in full or in part (on account of the relevant redemption amount being insufficient).

Interest shall continue to be suspended until the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee makes the relevant announcements or the Calculation Agent determines that no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, can occur. In such circumstances, investors should note that they may not receive any interest for multiple Interest Periods.

Interest will otherwise continue to accrue as usual on any remaining portion of the Credit Linked Note unaffected by the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, to and excluding the earlier to occur of any full redemption at Scheduled Maturity Date or any relevant early redemption. Where "Credit Payment on Maturity applies", additional interest shall accrue on the Credit Linked Notes in respect of the Credit Payment on Maturity Amount at the funding interest rate.

Successors

Investors should note that, from time to time, the Reference Entity may be subject to change following the determination of any Successor or Successors to the Reference Entity, and any such change may affect the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes. "Successor" means, the entity or entities, if any, determined to have succeeded to a requisite amount of relevant obligations of the Reference Entity.

For a Sovereign Reference Entity, an entity may only be a Successor to a Reference Entity that is a sovereign following the occurrence of a unification, annexation, unification, secession, partition, dissolution, consolidation, reconstitution or other similar event.

The Credit Linked Conditions provide that if a Reference Entity has more than one successor entity, the Calculation Agent shall amend the terms of the Credit Linked Notes, without consent of the investors, to reflect that the relevant Reference Entity has been succeeded by more than one Successor and for the purposes of calculation, the affected notional representing such Reference Entity will be divided equally among the Successors. Following such determination, the Credit Linked Notes shall remain outstanding in an amount equal to the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount and interest will accrue on such amount in accordance with the adjustments determined by the Calculation Agent in its discretion, acting in a commercially reasonable manner to reflect the economic effects of the identification of more than one Successor, considered in the aggregate. The Calculation Agent will also be responsible for determining, as soon as reasonably practicable after it becomes aware of the relevant succession, the sovereign or entity, if any, that qualifies as the Successor. Investors should note that the Credit Linked Note may reference substantially different credit risks following the determination of one or more Successors. These credit risks could potentially be greater or lesser than the credit risk of the original Reference Entity, which could adversely impact the value of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should also be aware that the determination of a Successor will not necessarily result in the assumption of that obligation by the Successor either at all or in the same proportion as the allocation of the notional amount of the original Credit Linked Note.

Volatile prices

The market price of Credit Linked Notes may be volatile and will be affected by, amongst other things, (a) the actual or perceived creditworthiness and credit ratings of each Reference Entity and any guarantors or other supporters of its relevant obligations; (b) expected rates of recovery on obligations of the Reference Entity; (c) actions of a Reference Entity and its principal creditors; (d) the nature of each Reference Entity's outstanding indebtedness, including its maturity and subordination structure and any guarantees or other support that the Reference Entity has provided to other entities; (e) the contractually specified credit-related events with respect to a Reference Entity that may trigger settlement of the Credit Linked Notes; (f) optionality that a party may have, such as the ability to select the obligations of a Reference Entity that will be delivered or valued or to decide whether or not to trigger settlement; (g) correlation among the credit spreads and/or default probabilities of the components of a basket or index, if applicable; (h) market liquidity; (i) the time remaining to the maturity; or (j) economic, financial, political and regulatory or judicial events or conditions that affect a Reference Entity or its outstanding obligations, or the market for Credit Linked Notes or related financial markets, including credit spreads in the market. Such volatility could impact on the market value of the Credit Linked Notes.

Market liquidity

Various factors may affect the market liquidity for the Credit Linked Notes. Future regulation of Credit Linked Notes could limit market liquidity. In respect of an Index Untranching Credit Linked Note or an Index Tranching Credit Linked Note, certain tenors of the relevant Index referenced by the relevant Credit Linked Note may be more liquid than others. The market liquidity of an Index Untranching Credit Linked Note or Index Tranching Credit Linked Note may also vary significantly between the current series of the relevant Index referenced by the relevant Credit Linked Note and prior series. The market liquidity of instruments based on a bespoke portfolio of Reference Entities will generally be less than that of instruments linked to standardised indices and terms. The market liquidity of a single-name Reference Entity may be affected by the Reference Entity's inclusion or exclusion from a standardised index, with exclusion from an index generally expected to result in diminished market liquidity.

In addition, Credit Linked Notes with terms that differ from trading conventions may have substantially less market liquidity and price transparency. Consequently, market liquidity could vary during the term of a Credit Linked Note and will affect the value of such Credit Linked Note. There is no assurance that the Issuer, Dealer, Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates will be able to provide prices with respect to the Credit Linked Notes or that a secondary market can develop with respect to the Credit Linked Notes.

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees may make announcements, determinations and resolutions which may have a negative effect on the value of and return on Credit Linked Notes

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees make determinations that are relevant to the majority of the credit derivatives market and to promote transparency and consistency. In making any determination with respect to a Credit Event, Risk Event or a succession date, the Calculation Agent may have regard to announcements, determinations and resolutions made by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees. In certain circumstances (including, without limitation, the determination of the occurrence of an "Event Determination Date"), the Credit Linked Notes will be subject to the announcements, determinations and resolutions of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees. Such announcements, determinations and resolutions could affect the quantum and timing of payments of interest and principal on the Credit Linked Notes, and may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes.

Investors have no role in respect of the composition of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees or questions referred thereto

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees Rules ("DC Rules") (which may be amended by a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees) provide that eligible market participants may raise questions to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees which have the power to make binding decisions on critical issues such as, without limitation, whether a Credit Event has occurred, whether there is a Successor to a Reference Entity, which obligations of a Reference Entity are deliverable, whether or not an auction will be held and on matters of contractual interpretation relevant to the credit derivatives market generally. The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates has no duty to any investor to refer specific questions to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees.

In addition, Securityholders will have no role in the composition of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees. A separate criterion will apply to the selection of dealer and non-dealer institutions to serve on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees ("DC Member"), and investors will have no role in establishing such criteria. In addition, the composition of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees will change from time to time as the term of a member institution may expire or a member institution may be required to be replaced. Investors will have no control over the process for selecting institutions to participate on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees given the process is governed by the DC Rules. To the extent provided for in the Credit Linked Notes, the determinations of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees will be final and binding with respect to specific matters set out in the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes, where relevant.

Investors will not be notified of deliberations and resolutions of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees

Notices of issues submitted to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees, meetings convened to deliberate such questions and the results of binding votes of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees will be published on the website of the DC Secretary at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website). Neither the Issuer, Dealer, Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates shall be obliged to inform investors of such updates as published from time to time. Investors should carefully monitor the matters under consideration by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees and their determinations as such determinations may affect an investor's rights under the Credit Linked Notes.

Notwithstanding that an investor may be unaware of information relating to determinations of a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee as published on the DC Secretary's website, this will not impact any redemptions, reductions in interest write-downs or determinations made by the Calculation Agent and/or Issuer.

Investors will have no recourse against any of the institutions serving on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees or the external reviewers.

DC Members do not owe any duty to investors, and investors will be prevented from pursuing legal claims with respect to actions taken by such DC Member in its capacity as such under the DC Rules.

This equally applies to the Issuer, Dealer, Calculation Agent and/or one or more of their affiliates if any of them is a DC Member. DC Members have no duty to investigate, supplement or verify the accuracy of information on which a determination is based. In addition, the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees are not obligated to follow previous determinations or to apply principles of interpretation such as those that might guide a court in interpreting contractual provisions. Therefore, investors should be aware that a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee could reach a conflicting determination for a similar set of facts, which may affect the Credit Linked Notes in a way that was not originally expected by investors.

Requirement for publicly available information

The Credit Linked Notes may specify that only publicly available information regarding a relevant event may be used to trigger or modify the transaction. The Credit Linked Conditions contain standards as to what constitutes publicly available information. If a Credit Event, Risk Event or a succession occurs, amongst other events, but the requisite public information about the event is not available within the applicable time periods, then the event will not take effect under the Credit Linked Notes.

Investors should note that in certain circumstances it may be difficult to verify the occurrences of certain Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, as a party in possession of such information which may evidence such Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, may be contractually prohibited from disclosing information to another party by virtue of any credit agreement or other agreement with the Reference Entity, any underlying obligor, any affiliate of the Reference Entity or of the underlying Obligor or such party may be bound by or subject to a confidentiality obligation or agreement whereby the required information for verification may not be capable of disclosure without breaching such confidentiality undertakings. Accordingly, there may be circumstances when a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, may not be capable of trigger under the Credit Linked Notes due to lack of publicly available information.

In addition, there can be no assurance that all events occurring prior to the Trade Date and Issue Date, including events that would affect the accuracy or completeness of the public filings of the Reference Entity or the value of the underliers will have been publicly disclosed. Subsequent disclosure of any such events or the disclosure of or failure to disclose material future events concerning an issuer could adversely affect the value of the Credit Linked Notes, its usefulness for any investor's intended purpose, and the timing or amount of payments or deliveries.

Risks associated with Auction Redemption following a Credit Event

If "Auction Redemption" is applicable with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, then the amounts payable under the Credit Linked Notes will be determined on the basis of the final price determined pursuant to the auction procedure set out in the Credit Derivatives Auction Settlement Terms (available at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website)). In respect of specified obligations of the relevant Reference Entity, provided that the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that an applicable auction will be held, an auction final price determination date will occur. Credit losses determined pursuant to a market auction process may be greater or less than the losses which would have been determined in the absence of the auction. In particular, the auction process may be affected by technical factors or operational errors, which would not otherwise apply or may be the subject of actual or attempted manipulation. The administrator(s) specified in the auction settlement terms conduct auctions. Investors are subject to the risk that where a final price is determined in accordance with an auction, this may result in a lower recovery value than an obligation of the Reference Entity would have had if such final price had been determined pursuant to alternative methods.

In addition, the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee may amend the form of auction settlement terms for a particular auction. The DC Rules provide for certain amendments by resolution of a convened Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee. Other amendments may be made subject to a public comment period; however, the DC Rules permit the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to forego a public comment period by supermajority action. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the Credit Derivatives Auction Settlement Terms for a particular auction will be on similar terms to the form of auction settlement terms or the terms of previous auctions.

Where the only relevant Credit Event is a restructuring, several concurrent but separate auctions may occur with respect to the Reference Entity and such Credit Event. The auction settlement amount may be based on the price of one or more obligations of the Reference Entity having a final maturity date different from the restructured obligation.

Although auctions can generally be expected to be held for Reference Entities that are widely traded in the credit markets, there can be no assurance that an auction will be held for future Credit Events or that, if held, the auction will result in the determination of an auction final price. If an auction is not held or fails to result in the determination of an auction final price (as might occur if an auction is cancelled by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee due, for example, to an inability to obtain the requisite number of initial bids) and if "Auction Redemption" is applicable with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, then the "Fallback Redemption Method" shall apply which, depending on the nature of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed, may be cash redemption, or physical redemption. In such circumstances of cash redemption, the final price will be determined pursuant to the valuation method specified in the Credit Linked Notes.

Investors should carefully assess and understand the elections specified in relation to the relevant Credit Linked Notes and the circumstances and/or events as described above, which may affect the value of and return on such Credit Linked Notes.

Risks relating to Physical Redemption following a Credit Event or Risk Event

Where Physical Redemption applies to Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer must select obligations of the Reference Entity that satisfy specified deliverability criteria and deliver those obligations to the investor in an amount determined in accordance with the terms of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that physical redemption may not be possible to accomplish under some circumstances, including where the Issuer is unable to procure the specified or selected deliverable obligation(s) due to market dislocations or prior redemptions or refinancings by the Reference Entity, failure to receive necessary transfer consents (such as from a borrower or agent) or delays in receiving such consents, or court orders prohibiting transfers of an obligation. In such event, the terms of the Credit Linked Notes may provide the Issuer with alternative methods of settlement or permit partial cash settlement subject to certain conditions or specify other fallback consequences which may include redemption by way of payment of a cash amount.

Investors should understand the terms of the obligation and applicable securities laws as these may restrict their ability to take delivery of Deliverable Obligations. Investors should also note that delivery expenses will be taken into account in determining the Outstanding Principal Balance or Due and Payable Amount of the relevant Deliverable Obligations to be delivered.

Outstanding Principal Balance

The calculation of the outstanding principal balance of a deliverable obligation is determined by (i) first, ascertaining all principal payment obligations of a Reference Entity (ii) then deducting any delivery expenses and any interest suspension shortfall amounts and determining all or any portion of such principal payment obligations that are subject to a contingency (other than a Permitted Contingency (as defined below)) or prohibited action which need to be disregarded, leaving an amount equal to the non-contingent amount and (iii) finally, determining the quantum of the claim that could be validly asserted against a Reference Entity in respect of such non-contingent amount if the obligation was redeemed or accelerated which would be the outstanding principal balance. If payments of principal are subject to a contingency, the outstanding principal balance could be less than the principal balance (and depending upon the type of contingency, could be zero).

"Permitted Contingency" means, with respect to an obligation, any reduction to the Reference Entity's payment obligations: (a) as a result of the application of: (i) any provisions allowing a transfer, pursuant to which another party may assume all of the payment obligations of the Reference Entity; (ii) provisions implementing the subordination of the obligation; (iii) provisions allowing for a transfer of a qualifying guarantee (or provisions allowing for the release of the Reference Entity from its payment obligations in the case of any other guarantees); (iv) any solvency capital provisions if "Subordinated European Insurance Terms" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms; or (v) if "Financial Reference Entity Terms" is specified as applicable to the Reference Entity in the Issue Terms, provisions (a) which permit the Financial Reference Entity's obligations to be altered, discharged, released or suspended in circumstances which would constitute a governmental intervention; or (b) which is within the control of the holders of the obligation or a third party acting on their behalf (such as an agent or trustee).

Outstanding Principal Balance – Fallback Discounting

The definition of "Outstanding Principal Balance" provides for the quantum of the claim to be determined in accordance with any applicable laws that reduce or discount the size of the claim to reflect the original issue price or accrued value of the obligation. Where "Fallback Discounting" applies and if certain other conditions are met, being (i) the Outstanding Principal Balance of an obligation is not reduced or discounted in accordance with applicable law, and (ii) the relevant obligation is either a Bond that has an issue price less than 95 per cent. of the principal redemption amount or a Loan where the amount advanced is less than 95 per cent. of the principal repayment amount where, in each case, no provisions relating to the accretion over time of the amount which would be payable on an early redemption or repayment of such Bond or Loan that are customary for the applicable type of Bond or Loan as the case may be exists, prospective investors should note that Delivery by the Issuer of impacted Deliverable Obligations or LA Settlement Assets, as applicable, would need to account for the Outstanding Principal Balance which would be further reduced in such case which could result in an anticipated par claim being treated as less than par. In such circumstances, the Credit Linked Conditions provide that the Outstanding Principal Balance would instead be the lesser of (I) the Non-Contingent Amount; and (II) an amount determined by straight line interpolation between the issue price of the Bond or the amount advanced under the Loan and the principal redemption amount or principal repayment amount, as applicable.

Partial cash redemption and Fallback Cash Redemption

If all or any part of the Physical Redemption Assets that would be required to be Delivered to a Securityholder is not a whole integral multiple of the smallest unit of transfer for any such Physical Redemption Assets at the relevant time of Delivery, as determined by the Calculation Agent, the Issuer will only Deliver the portion of the Physical Redemption Assets specified by the Issuer which is as large a size as possible but less than the full Physical Redemption Assets, after consideration of such smallest unit or units of transfer and application of rounding. The value of the undelivered obligations will be deemed to be zero and the Issuer's obligations to an investor in respect of such portion shall be fully and effectively discharged in such circumstances.

Delivery of loans

Where Physical Redemption applies and to the extent investors would be required to receive loans as deliverable obligations under a Credit Linked Note, investors should be familiar with the documentation and settlement practices of the relevant secondary loan trading markets and applicable laws and regulations (including the legal consequences of furnishing or receiving non-public information regarding a Reference Entity).

Provisions of the Reference Entity's credit agreements may affect a party's ability to deliver or receive loans, the economic consequences of doing so and whether loans meet deliverability criteria. Accordingly, investors should review such agreements carefully, including the provisions governing assignments, any collateral allocation mechanisms i.e., a mandatory exchange of obligations for other obligations under a credit agreement, not all of which may be deliverable and provisions that may require or entitle a lender to advance funds.

Payment/Delivery Failure Event – failure to deliver

Investors should note that a Payment/Delivery Failure Event will occur where certain relevant definitive Credit Linked Notes and/or the Deliverable Obligation Notice are not delivered or there is a failure to duly execute, deliver and/or accept a transfer certificate or other transfer document on or before any Delivery Date and/or specify a date for transfer of the relevant Deliverable Obligation that is on or before any Delivery Date. In such case, investors should note that the obligations of the Issuer to procure Delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and make any payment shall cease until such time such event is cured whereupon deferred delivery shall apply or if "Fallback Cash Redemption" is specified to apply in the relevant Issue Terms, fallback cash settlement shall apply. Investors will not be entitled to any payment, whether of interest or otherwise, in the event of such deferred delivery or payment.

Risks associated with Cash Redemption following a Credit Event

If "Cash Redemption" applies to the Credit Linked Notes, then following the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, the Calculation Agent will be required to seek quotations in respect of selected obligations of the Reference Entity in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that such obligations may no longer exist and no qualifying substitute obligations may have been identified, such quotations may not be available, or the level of such quotations may be substantially reduced as a result of illiquidity in the relevant markets or as a result of factors other than the credit risk of the Reference Entity (for example, liquidity constraints affecting market dealers). Moreover, the market value of a Reference Entity's obligations may be highly volatile in the period following a Credit Event or Risk Event. Accordingly, any quotations so obtained may be significantly lower than the value of the relevant obligation which would be determined by reference to (for example) the present value of related cash flows or the value that a party could obtain if it controlled the disposition of the obligations. Furthermore, the price of the selected obligations of the Reference Entity may be deemed to be zero in the event that no such quotations are available. Further, valuation of the selected obligations will be determined at a particular determination date and as such the recovery price which would be adopted in any loss amount or incurred loss amount that would be suffered by an investor following the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, will reflect the value of relevant obligations at a given date. As such, the exposure to loss suffered by an investor or any principal write-down may be more than that ultimately realised by a holder of debt obligations of the Reference Entity, whether by means of enforcement of rights following a default or receipt of distributions following an insolvency or otherwise.

Further, where quotations are sought on an asset package, such asset package may contain assets which are hard to value and for which a valuation methodology may not be readily available or suitable, which may reduce the value of quotations or the availability of quotations that may otherwise have been obtained. Accordingly, investors should note that any quotations so obtained may be significantly lower than the value of the relevant obligation (or asset package) which would be determined by reference to (for example) the present value of related cash flows or the value that a party could obtain if it controlled the disposition of the obligations.

Fixed Recovery Redemption may be subject to a fixed recovery price

Where the Credit Event Redemption Amount of the Credit Linked Notes is calculated by reference to a fixed recovery price of the obligations of a Reference Entity(ies), the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, may result in the recovery being materially lower than the prevailing price of the relevant obligations of the relevant Reference Entity. Investors should note that Fixed Recovery Redemption could occur with a Fixed Recovery Percentage set at zero per cent. where the Issue Terms specify accordingly.

If the Fixed Recovery Percentage is zero, following the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the occurrence of the Cash Redemption Date or the Final Cash Redemption Date, the LA Cash Redemption Date or Final LA Cash Redemption Date, as applicable, shall fully and effectively discharge the Issuer's obligation to redeem the relevant Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that where the Fixed Recovery Percentage is zero, the loss amount in respect of the Affected Reference Entity will be 100 per cent. and, accordingly, no redemption amounts will be payable or assets deliverable to the Securityholders. Investors accordingly will bear the loss of their principal.

"Cheapest-to-Deliver" risk

Since the Issuer and/or Calculation Agent has discretion to choose the portfolio of obligations to be delivered or valued following a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, in respect of a Reference Entity, it is likely that the portfolio of obligations selected will be obligations of the Reference Entity with the lowest anticipated market value that are permitted to be selected pursuant to the terms of the Credit Linked Notes. This could result in a lower recovery value and hence greater losses for an investor. Obligations of differing maturities, currencies or payment priority (either contractual or under applicable insolvency law), among other characteristics, may diverge considerably in market value. Similar considerations apply where Auction Redemption applies given that the representative transaction that is priced in an auction generally allows a choice of deliverable obligations from a final list established by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee whereby participating bidders provide two way prices.

Payments of the Credit Linked Notes may be deferred or suspended

Investors should note that in certain circumstances, for example where (i) a Credit Event has occurred and the related credit loss, incurred loss amount or incurred recovery amount (in the case of Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes) has not been determined as at the relevant Scheduled Maturity Date or the Credit Event Redemption Date may occur after the Scheduled Maturity Date, (ii) where a potential Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, is determined to occur as at the scheduled maturity of the Credit Linked Notes (including Potential Failure to Pay if "Grace Period Extension" is specified as being applicable in the relevant Issue Terms or Potential Repudiation/Moratorium if "Repudiation/Moratorium" is specified as being applicable in the relevant Issue Terms), (iii) where a DC Credit Event Question has been submitted but the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not declared a DC Credit Event Announcement, announced a DC Credit Event Question Dismissal, declared a DC No Credit Event Announcement or resolved whether or not to convene to resolve any issue, or (iv) a Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice, as applicable, may be delivered after the Scheduled Maturity Date within an effective delivery period which may result in a Relevant Event Determination Date or a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurring, payment of the redemption amount of the Credit Linked Notes and/or interest on the Credit Linked Notes may be deferred for a material period in whole or part without compensation to an investor. In such circumstances, the Issuer is not obliged to take any action with respect to redemption in relation to the relevant Credit Linked Notes and no additional interest shall be payable to an investor in connection with such tolling or suspension of payments, including any final redemption amount. Once the relevant DC Credit Event Announcement or DC Credit Event Question Dismissal has occurred, the relevant timing requirements that pertain to settlement that have previously tolled or been suspended shall resume on the Business Day following such public announcement by the DC Secretary with the Issuer having the benefit of the full day notwithstanding when the tolling or suspension began.

Payment/Delivery Failure Event – failure to pay

Investors should note that where it is impossible, impracticable or illegal for the Issuer to pay (due to an event beyond the control of the Issuer including, without limitation, a failure by the investor to provide account details of its designee) or for a Securityholder to accept payment of (due to an event beyond the control of such Securityholder), the obligation of the Issuer to pay any amount scheduled to be paid will be postponed until such time that the event no longer exists or is cured but where the event continues to exist on the Payment Failure Cut-Off Date, no such payment will be made by the Issuer and the Issuer's obligations to the investor will be deemed to be fully discharged as of that date. Any postponement or deemed discharge of payment pursuant will not constitute an Event of Default hereunder (as defined in General Condition 11 (Events of Default)) and will not entitle the relevant Investors to any additional interest or other payment as a result thereof.

Determination of Event Determination Dates and Credit Event Redemption Dates post Scheduled Maturity Date

Investors should note that an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, which would give rise to a redemption could occur as a result of notices being provided during the prescribed notice delivery period or post dismissal additional period which may occur after the Scheduled Maturity Date or, in some cases 14 calendar days after a DC Credit Event Announcement Date as a result of requests submitted after the Scheduled Maturity Date by market participants to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee for the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to be convened to deliberate an issue. The Scheduled Maturity Date of the Credit Linked Note may also be extended where the last relevant Credit Event Redemption Date, Final Physical Redemption Cut Off Date with respect to physical redemption, the last Payment Failure Cut-Off Date or the RMB Currency Settlement Cut-Off Date occurs after the Scheduled Maturity Date (including any final Partial Cash Redemption Date or final Fallback Partial Cash Redemption Date, as applicable). In each of these circumstances, the scheduled maturity date of the Credit Linked Notes will be extended and investors should note that the final redemption amounts, if any would be payable on a date later than the Scheduled Maturity Date and no additional interest shall be payable to an investor in connection with such tolling or suspension of payments, including any final redemption amount.

Adjustments and amendments

Investors should note that the Credit Linked Notes may be subject to amendments without consent of the investors, where an Event Determination Date is deemed either to have occurred on a date that is different from the date that was originally determined to be the Event Determination Date or not to have occurred. Certain DC resolutions may reverse prior DC resolutions or the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date that has resulted in the identification of Successors, Substitute Reference Obligations or the occurrence of an Auction Final Price Determination Date, Physical Redemption Date, Valuation Date or Delivery Date, as applicable and depending on the circumstances, may have the effect of reversing the economic impact for the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that in these circumstances, the Calculation Agent in its sole and absolute discretion will determine the adjustment payment, if any, that is payable to investors, the date the adjustment payment is payable and no accruals of interest, if any, shall be taken into account when calculating any such adjustment payment and when making such adjustments, no further consent of the Securityholder shall be required.

Further, investors should note that the Calculation Agent may from time to time, without obtaining the consent of the Securityholders, amend provisions of the Credit Linked Conditions in any manner which the Calculation Agent determines (acting in a commercially reasonable manner) is necessary or desirable (i) to incorporate and/or reflect (x) further or alternative documents or protocols from time to time published by ISDA with respect to the documentation or redemption of Credit Linked Notes and/or (y) the operation or application of determinations by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees and/or (ii) to account for market practice to be reflected in the terms of the Credit Linked Notes. Any such amendment may affect the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes.

Potential conflicts of interest

The Calculation Agent and one or more of its affiliates is a leading dealer in the credit derivatives market. If "Auction Redemption" is applicable under the Credit Linked Notes and an auction is held in respect of a Reference Entity for which a Credit Event has occurred, there is a high probability that the Calculation Agent or one of its affiliates would act as a participating bidder in any such auction. In such capacity, it may take certain actions which may influence the final price determined pursuant to the auction, including, without limitation, (i) submitting bids, offers and physical settlement requests (on our own behalf or on behalf of customers) with respect to the representative auction settled transaction and (ii) providing rates of conversion to determine the applicable currency conversion rates to be used to convert any obligations that are not denominated in the auction currency into such currency for purposes of the auction. In deciding whether to take any such action, or whether to act as a participating bidder in any auction, the Calculation Agent or one or more of its affiliates (as applicable) shall be under no obligation to consider the interests of any investors and the effects of their participation may have a material adverse effect on the value of a Credit Linked Note.

The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates may also be a voting member on one or more of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees responsible for determining the occurrence of Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, for the purposes of certain credit derivatives transactions and may take certain actions that may influence the process and outcome of decisions of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees. Such entities may also have an inherent conflict of interest in the outcome of any such determinations. The actions taken by such entities may also be adverse to the interests of an investor and may result in an economic benefit accruing to the Issuer, the Dealer, Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates. In performing any duty under the DC Rules that govern the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates shall have no obligation however to consider the interests of an investor and may ignore any conflict of interests arising in respect of the Credit Linked Notes.

The Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may also have an interest in data sources that publish credit indices and may participate, together with other dealers, in the process or advisory committees by which the index sponsor determines the composition of the index CDS (as defined below) and makes certain other determinations with respect to the index, including the removal of Reference Entities or reference obligations from the index CDS or to determine changes in the composition of indices. The Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may also participate and vote in committees affecting the credit default swap industry generally. By virtue of such participation in each of the circumstances described above, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates has no obligation to consider the interests of any investor in their actions and decisions and investors should note that the activities of the Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates as described herein may present a conflict between the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates' obligations and the interests of an investor under the Credit Linked Notes.

The Issuer, the Dealer or the Calculation Agent may have dealings and information in relation to Reference Entities

The Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may, now or in the future, deal in obligations of the Reference Entities, make equity investments in a Reference Entity, engage in business with a Reference Entity, its affiliates and its competitors or any other person or entity having obligations relating to a Reference Entity, including making loans to, or otherwise extend credit to, and generally engage in any kind of commercial or investment banking or other business, including asset management or other advisory services, including merger and acquisition or bankruptcy-related advisory services. The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may also participate in loan restructurings or recapitalisations that may affect the Credit Linked Note and any reference obligations. In such circumstances, the Issuer, the Dealer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may act with respect to such dealings, business and advisory freely and without accountability to any investor in the same manner as if the Credit Linked Notes did not exist, and any such action might have an adverse effect on any investor (including, without limitation, any action that might give rise to a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable).

The Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or their respective affiliates may be, whether by virtue of the types of relationships described above or otherwise, at any time, in possession of information in relation to any Reference Entity (or any obligations thereof) which is or may be material in the context of the Credit Linked Notes and which is or may not be known to the general public or Securityholders. The Credit Linked Notes do not create any obligation to disclose to Securityholders any such relationship or information (whether or not confidential), notwithstanding that any such relationship or information may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes.

The Credit Linked Notes do not represent an interest in obligations of Reference Entities

The Credit Linked Notes do not represent or convey any interest in any obligations of Reference Entities or any direct or indirect obligation of any Reference Entity to an investor. The Issuer is not an agent of any investor for any purpose and an investor will not have rights equivalent to those of a holder of debt obligations of a Reference Entity, such as voting rights or rights to receive consent fees or other distributions from a Reference Entity. For example, if a restructuring occurs with respect to a Reference Entity, the investor, unlike a holder of a Reference Entity's obligations, will have no right to challenge or participate in any element of the restructuring. If the Issuer is the owner of one or more obligations of a Reference Entity, it may exercise its voting or control rights or otherwise act in its capacity as holder of such obligations without regard to the interests of an investor, and such actions could adversely affect the Credit Linked Notes held by an investor. Consequently, the investor's purchase of the Credit Linked Notes may be riskier than a direct investment in the obligations of a Reference Entity. The purchase of a Credit Linked Note differs from an offering of new obligations by a Reference Entity in that none of the subscription moneys paid with respect to the Credit Linked Note will go to a Reference Entity. The Issuer in addition does not grant any security interest over any such obligations of the Reference Entity.

Operational risks and notices

The Credit Linked Notes may require that certain notices be given in order to exercise rights, realize value or protect and preserve interests under the Credit Linked Notes, including but not limited to notices to investors by the Issuer of the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, or that describes a succession together with supporting information, the choice of obligations to be delivered or valued, certain potential Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable and the exercise of the right to utilize parallel auctions in the case of certain restructuring Credit Events and in the case of Physical Redemption, the provision of a Deliverable Obligation Notice by an investor.

Investors should have arrangements for delivering and receiving such notices and monitoring the actions of the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees, and be prepared to take the necessary or appropriate steps when it receives such notices or learn of such actions where an investor needs to take action pursuant to such notice. Failure to take the relevant steps or actions within the requisite time periods could adversely affect an investor's interests under a Credit Linked Note.

Investors should note that in some cases, determinations of a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee may substitute for a required notice, modify the effect of a previously delivered notice or alter the period during which a notice may be delivered which may impact on timings of notices provided by the Issuer. Where the relevant notice is to be provided by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or the Fiscal Agent, investors should note that a failure by any of such parties to deliver the relevant notices or any decision by any of them not to deliver a Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice to the investor shall not constitute an Event of Default under the relevant Credit Linked Notes. Investors should further note that where any notice is required to be delivered by the Issuer to investors, such notices shall be deemed to have been delivered to investors upon delivery of such notice to the Fiscal Agent by the Issuer. The failure of the Fiscal Agent to deliver any such notice to Securityholders shall not affect however (i) the effectiveness of any notice delivered by the Calculation Agent to the Issuer and/or the Issuer to the Fiscal Agent (ii) the effectiveness of any determinations made by any of them or (iii) the right of the Issuer to redeem (whether in whole or in part) the Credit Linked Notes or to write down any aggregate principal notional of the Credit Linked Notes pursuant to and in accordance with the relevant Credit Linked Conditions.

Interpretation of terms

The terms of the Credit Linked Notes are subject to interpretation and further evolution. In some instances, the views of market participants may differ as to how the terms of specific credit provisions should be interpreted in the context of specific events, entities and obligations in comparison to that of a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee or Calculation Agent where applicable. Accordingly, the consequences resulting from the interpretation of various terms could vary in the context of the Credit Linked Notes and result in unexpected losses, redemption, write-down, reduction in interest and other economic impact for an investor.

Foreign exchange risks

Investors should note that in certain circumstances, a currency conversion may be required to effect certain determinations, calculations in relation to any payment or delivery obligation with respect to the Credit Linked Notes. Delivery of an underlying obligation denominated in a currency that is different from the settlement currency of the Credit Linked Notes will have effects similar to a currency conversion. Investors should note that with respect to any auction in connection with Auction Redemption, the relevant exchange rates to be applied with respect to the auction, where relevant will be set by the auction administrators prior to any auction final price determination date. In such circumstances, the Credit Linked Notes will have foreign exchange rate risk, which may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes.

Discretionary powers of the Calculation Agent

The determination by the Calculation Agent of any amount or of any state of affairs, circumstance, event or other matter, or the formation of any opinion or the exercise of any discretion required or permitted to be determined, formed or exercised by the Calculation Agent shall (in the absence of manifest error) be final and binding on the Issuer and any Investor. In performing its duties pursuant to the Credit Linked Notes and making any determinations expressed to be made by it, the Calculation Agent shall either act in its sole and absolute discretion or act in a commercially reasonable manner, depending on the election specified in the relevant Issue Terms. Where the Calculation Agent acts in its sole and absolute discretion, it is under no obligation to act in the interests of any investor, nor will it be liable to account for any profit or other benefit which may accrue to it as a result of such determinations. Any determinations made or actions taken by the Calculation Agent may have a negative effect on the value of and return on the Securities.

Risks relating to Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes

The likelihood of a Credit Event occurring with respect to the n^{th} Reference Entity is affected significantly by the default correlation among the Reference Entities. Accordingly, the value of an Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note at any time will depend significantly on expectations about default correlation at that time, in addition to the valuation factors described above in the risk factor entitled "Volatile prices".

Moreover, because of the difficulty of predicting the likelihood that a given number of Reference Entities will default, the value of an Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note is subject to "model risk" – i.e., the risk that the model used by a party will fail to accurately predict the likelihood that the applicable number of Reference Entities default, causing unpredictable outcomes to potentially result in significant losses for an investor. See "Risks relating to Index Untranchéd Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranchéd Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranchéd Credit Linked Notes" below.

Securityholders should carefully review the terms of an Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note relating to: (i) whether and how substitution of a Reference Entity occurs upon certain events such as the determination of a Successor resulting in repetition of a Reference Entity in the basket of Reference Entities; (ii) how events that result in two or more Successors are addressed; and (iii) the manner and order in which defaulting Reference Entities are counted. These terms, as well as the provisions relating to the designation of a Successor, may affect the correlation among the Reference Entities and the number and timing of defaults that are deemed to have occurred.

Risks relating to Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes

With respect to Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes, investors should note that they could be exposed to significant losses which may result from changes in the market's perception of the credit quality of the underlying Reference Entities. The market's perception of the credit quality of the underlying Reference Entities may be highly volatile and may change very rapidly following the availability of new information. Investors should refer to the risk factors entitled "Credit risk of the Reference Entity", "Jurisdictional differences and assessment of Reference Entity", "Actions of Reference Entities", "Historical performance may not predict future performance", and "Concentrated credit risk where Reference Entities are concentrated in the same sectors or regions". Investors should carefully review the list of Reference Entities that constitute the Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and evaluate whether such exposure meets its stated objectives and is representative of the market to which exposure is required.

Investors should note that an investment in relation to a bespoke portfolio of Reference Entities may have significantly less liquidity than there is for an investment in an Index Untranchéd Credit Linked Note which is based on a standardised index CDS and accordingly there may be no or a limited secondary market in such Credit Linked Notes.

Risks relating to Index Untranchéd Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranchéd Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranchéd Credit Linked Notes

Investors could be exposed to significant losses which may result from changes in the market's perception of the credit quality of the underlying Reference Entities within the relevant index. The Reference Entities included in an index CDS will typically have certain specified characteristics in common, such as type of obligor (e.g., corporate, municipal or sovereign); geographic region (e.g., North America, Europe, Asia or emerging markets); and/or credit rating category (e.g., investment grade or high yield). These characteristics may be relevant to the probability of a Credit Event occurring under the Index Untranchéd Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranchéd Credit Linked Notes, as applicable, as Credit Events may be more likely for Reference Entities with certain of these characteristics than for others. The market's perception of the credit quality of the underlying Reference Entities may be highly volatile and may change very rapidly following the availability of new information. The market for index CDSs has been subject to significant distortions from time to time in the past as a result of the actions of one or a small number of market participants that may take large positions in an index CDS. These distortions have in the past led, and may in the future lead, to a high degree of volatility, as well as a wide and potentially unsustainable divergence between the market price of index CDSs and the price that would be expected based on the market price of credit default swaps on the underlying Reference Entities. The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates' trading activities may represent a significant portion of the market for particular index CDS and, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates may be a contributor to such volatility and distortions. Accordingly, investors should note that they could be exposed to the volatility with respect to the index CDS which could have an impact on the market value of the Index Untranchéd Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranchéd Credit Linked Notes, as applicable, over time.

Given that the risks of an index CDS will vary depending on the characteristics of the underlying Reference Entities, investors should carefully review the list of Reference Entities that constitute the index CDS referenced in the Issue Terms and evaluate whether such exposure meets its stated objectives and is representative of the market to which exposure is required. In addition, investors should understand that the Reference Entities in an index of investment grade Reference Entities may be investment grade rated only at inception of the index or relevant series of the index, and that such Reference Entities may be downgraded thereafter.

Investors should also note that there is no guarantee that there will be a liquid market for any particular index CDS. An index sponsor may publish a new series of an underlying index from time to time (for example, every six months). Market liquidity is often concentrated in the most recent series and may decline for a given index CDS when a new series of the index is published.

Investors should note that the index sponsor may calculate the published spread or price for an index CDS based on a poll of dealers. The Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their affiliates may be one of the dealers polled by the index sponsor and, if so, the actions of the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates in such circumstances could affect the published spread or price. In addition, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates may participate, together with other dealers, in the process or advisory committees by which the index sponsor determines the composition of the index CDS and makes certain other determinations with respect to the index, including the removal of Reference Entities or reference obligations from the index CDS. In taking any such actions, the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates has no obligation to consider the interests of any investor under the Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, as applicable. Investors should therefore be aware that any such action by the Issuer, the Dealer, the Calculation Agent or one or more of their respective affiliates could affect the index CDS and therefore also adversely affect the market value of the Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, as applicable. See also "Potential conflicts of interest" above.

Unless stated otherwise in the Issue Terms, a Merger Event will not apply to any Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes and therefore such Credit Linked Notes will not early redeem where a Reference Entity becomes an affiliate of the protection seller or one such entity merges with or makes a substantial asset transfer to the other.

In addition, investors are exposed to losses arising from Credit Events in relation to Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes only to the extent that aggregate losses exceed the "attachment point" but remain less than the "detachment point" of the tranche. The likelihood that an investor will be exposed to losses is therefore greater for more subordinated tranches (i.e. those with a lower attachment point in relation to portfolio size).

In addition, Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, as applicable (other than the most senior tranches) are leveraged instruments because investors may incur losses on an accelerated basis relative to aggregate losses on the portfolio. Investors will not owe any payment for losses unless and until aggregate losses on the portfolio exceed the attachment point, but investors will be exposed to losses equal to the entire notional amount of the Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes (as applicable) if aggregate losses on the portfolio reach the detachment point. Therefore, the smaller the tranche size relative to the implied notional amount of the entire portfolio, the greater the degree of leverage (except with respect to the most senior tranches). For any given portfolio of Reference Entities, the lower the attachment point and the greater the leverage, the greater the risk for the investor where acting as though it were a protection seller. However, this does not mean that the most senior tranches present low risks for protection sellers.

The value of such Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, as applicable, will be influenced by the valuation factors described above in the risk factor entitled "Volatile prices" but in addition, the value of such Credit Linked Note will be influenced by expectations about "default correlation," among other model-dependent factors. Default correlation refers to the likelihood of any given number of Reference Entities experiencing a Credit Event over any given time period. Changes in default correlation affect tranches of different seniority differently. In general, from the perspective of an investor acting as though it were a protection seller, holding all other factors constant: (a) a decrease in default correlation will decrease the value of the most junior tranche (i.e., the tranche with the lowest attachment point), because it will represent an increase in the expected probability of losses on that tranche; (b) an increase in default correlation will decrease the value of the most senior tranche (i.e., the tranche with the highest attachment point), because it will represent an increase in the expected probability of losses on that tranche; and (c) any increase or decrease in default correlation may either increase or decrease the value of mezzanine tranches (i.e., tranches between the most junior and most senior tranches), depending on a complex interplay of various factors.

The degree of default correlation among the Reference Entities in a given portfolio may be influenced by numerous factors, including whether the Reference Entities operate in similar industries or geographic regions and whether the Reference Entities have similar levels of leverage (i.e., debt relative to equity). Default correlation tends to increase during economic downturns and decrease during periods of economic growth. Accordingly, although the most senior tranches are generally less risky to a protection seller than the most junior tranches, the most senior tranches will tend to lose value from the perspective of the protection seller at a faster rate than the most junior tranches during an economic downturn. In a downturn that widely affects the Reference Entities in a portfolio, a protection seller under a senior tranche may incur losses equal to the entire notional amount, in which case the senior tranche will prove to have been no less risky than junior tranches. Default correlation may change significantly, and in some cases abruptly, with changes in market conditions.

Default correlation is difficult to estimate, and different market participants may calculate it in different ways and may change the ways in which they calculate it over time which may be adverse to an investor in an Index Tranching Credit Linked Note or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note, as applicable. Accordingly, the valuation of such Credit Linked Notes is subject to "model risk" (i.e., the risk that a valuation model does not accurately depict the value of a tranche or the relationship between tranche values) which may result in significant losses where certain strategies based on modelled relations between the values of tranches break down.

The terms and conditions of the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes, as applicable, may provide for changes in the constituents of the index or portfolio of Reference Entities, as applicable, upon the occurrence of certain events, such as the determination of a Successor. These changes may affect the level of default correlation among the Reference Entities in the portfolio and, therefore, the value of such Credit Linked Notes.

Investors should note that an investment in relation to Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note which is based on a bespoke portfolio of Reference Entity may have significantly less liquidity than there is for an investment in an Index Tranching Credit Linked Note which references a standardised index CDS. Accordingly, the valuation of the Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note which is more bespoke may be more complex and introduces greater model risk than the Index Tranching Credit Linked Note.

Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes - adjustments

Investors should further note that in the case of an Index Untranching Credit Linked Note, if a DC Credit Event Announcement occurs in respect of an M(M)R Restructuring with respect to a component Reference Entity of the relevant Index, such Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes will be amended without the consent of the Securityholders to reflect the creation of a "New Single Name Credit Linked Note" having economic terms as closely as possible preserving the economic equivalent of the relevant Credit Linked Notes immediately before the DC Credit Event Announcement which may be redeemed following exercise in accordance with the terms of the Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes. Any such amendment may adversely affect investors.

Risks relating to Local Access Credit Linked Notes

Local access risks

Credit Linked Notes may reference the obligations of a Reference Entity incorporated in or from a local access jurisdiction. An investment in such Credit Linked Notes involves risks associated with such jurisdictions, including potential risks of volatility, governmental intervention and the lack of a developed system of law.

Investors should note that it is a general feature of local access jurisdictions that they may be subject to rapid change and the risks involved may also change relatively quickly. With respect to any local access nation, there is the possibility of nationalisation, expropriation or confiscation, political changes, government regulation, social instability or other developments (including war) which could affect adversely the economies of such nations and/or the foreign exchange rates. Political or economic instability may affect investor confidence, which could in turn have a negative impact on the value of the obligation(s) of the local access Reference Entity or its creditworthiness and on foreign exchange markets.

Conditions in local access countries are associated with higher risks of the occurrence of a Risk Event, which may occur together with circumstances that would restrict the deliverability of any Reference Asset, or which may result in especially adverse pricing and liquidity conditions in which a market value for such Reference Asset is to be determined.

Local access debt typically comprises debt issued by non-highly rated issuers in respect of whom the possibility of default is greater than investment grade issuers. Local access considerations, in addition to and in combination with other conditions affecting the creditworthiness of a Reference Entity (including those resulting in a local access Reference Entity experiencing financial or economic difficulties), may significantly affect (a) the value of, and (b) any amounts paid on, its Obligation(s) and/or any Reference Obligation(s) and/or any Deliverable Obligation(s) and/or Reference Asset(s) (if any), each or all of which may be reduced to zero.

Local access debt may be difficult to buy and/or sell, particularly during adverse market conditions, and prices may be more volatile. In addition, settlement of trades in emerging or developing countries may be slower and more likely to be subject to failure than in more developed markets. This will affect the ability of the Issuer or the Calculation Agent (as the case may be) to obtain prices for the Obligation(s) of the Reference Entity or any Reference Obligation(s) or any Deliverable Obligation(s) or any Reference Asset(s) (if any).

Risk Events

Local Access Credit Linked Notes may be redeemed pursuant to the occurrence of any Credit Event or an Additional Risk Event (together, the "Risk Events") in respect of one or more Reference Entities and, in either case, unless the Local Access Credit Linked Notes are fixed recovery, on the value of certain specified assets of any such Reference Entities or where, if any of such events has occurred, on settlement the Issuer's obligation is to deliver certain specified assets. Any such settlement will be reduced to take into account any Unwind Costs and so will depend upon the level of such Unwind Costs.

Additional Risk Events are indicative of defaults or risks specific to certain local access jurisdictions and will apply to Local Access Credit Linked Notes to the extent that such events apply in the relevant Issue Terms. Prospective investors should note that not all possible Additional Risk Events are related directly to default or credit risk in respect of a Reference Entity or default in respect of the Reference Investor Assets and such Additional Risk Events may include, without limitation, the occurrence of one or more of the following:

- (a) an Inconvertibility Event - the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of any event or condition that has the effect of it being impossible, illegal or impracticable for, or of prohibiting, restricting or materially delaying the ability of, any Reference Investor (i) to convert currency; or (ii) to effect currency transactions on terms as favourable as those available to residents of the Reference Jurisdiction; or (iii) to freely and unconditionally transfer or repatriate any funds from accounts inside the Reference Jurisdiction to accounts outside the Reference Jurisdiction or between accounts inside the Reference Jurisdiction; or (iv) to receive the full value of any cash payment made under the Reference Investor Assets due to the introduction after the Additional Risk Event Start Date by any Governmental Authority of a new currency regime (including the introduction of a dual currency regime) or the imposition of currency exchange limitations;
- (b) an Ownership Restriction Event - the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of any event or existence of any condition that has the effect of it being illegal, impossible or impracticable for, or has the effect of prohibiting, restricting or materially delaying the ability of, any Reference Investor to purchase, hold, receive, sell, freely transfer or remain the owner of any Reference Investor Asset or any amount received in respect thereof; and
- (c) a Settlement/Custodial Event - (i) the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of the bankruptcy of any Custodian or (ii) in respect of the Reference Investor Assets owned by a Reference Investor or any amount received in respect thereof, a Custodian (A) fails to perform in a timely manner any or all of its obligations owed under any Reference Custodial/Settlement Arrangement, or (B) fails to take any action when instructed to do so by a Reference Investor, or (C) takes any action which is contrary to the terms of any Reference Custodial/Settlement Arrangement; in each case that affects or may affect, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the hedging arrangements of the Issuer and/or any of its Affiliates in respect of the Issuer's obligations with respect to the Local Access Credit Linked Note(s).

The loss incurred by an Investor may be unrelated to or disproportionate in comparison with the Additional Risk Event itself. Moreover, the Calculation Agent may designate an Additional Risk Event, which could cause such losses to be incurred by an Investor, if the Additional Risk Event occurs at any time during the term of the Local Access Credit Linked Notes, whether or not the Additional Risk Event is ongoing or effective or has been remedied or cured at the time such designation has been made.

Exposure to Reference Asset

In respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes for which "Reference Asset Only Settlement" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, following a Risk Event, the Local Access Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed by valuation or delivery (as applicable) of the Reference Asset in respect of a Reference Entity (rather than obligations of the relevant Reference Entity generally). It follows therefore that returns on such Local Access Credit Linked Notes may be adversely affected by circumstances affecting the Reference Asset even where other obligations of the Reference Entity are not affected. The creditworthiness or market value of the relevant Reference Asset may be less favourable than other obligations of the relevant Reference Entity due to liquidity, marketability, circumstances of origination, legal or validity risks, local access risks described below, or one or more other characteristics. Investors in the Local Access Credit Linked Notes should understand that their recovery in relation to the relevant Reference Asset may be substantially less than for more generally representative obligations of the relevant Reference Entity.

Adjustment following a Regulatory Change Event

If the Calculation Agent determines that a Regulatory Change Event has occurred or exists then any payment or delivery to an investor shall be reduced by an amount equal in value to the allocable proportion of the Regulatory Change Cost, as determined by the Calculation Agent in its sole discretion. Investors may therefore receive back less than their initial investment or, in the case of redemption following the occurrence of a Relevant Risk Event, losses may be greater than if the investor were to hold obligations of the Reference Entity directly.

Adjustment in respect of an Interest Tax Deduction Amount or Principal Tax Deduction Amount

If "Tax Deduction Event – Principal" and "Tax Deduction Event – Interest" is specified as applicable in the relevant Issue Terms and if the Calculation Agent determines that there would be an Interest Tax Deduction Amount and/or a Principal Tax Deduction Amount in respect of amounts that would be received by a Reference Investor in respect of the Reference Investor Assets, then any relevant payment of interest or principal (as applicable) or amount of LA Settlement Assets to be delivered to an investor shall be reduced by an amount equal in value to the allocable proportion of the Interest Tax Deduction Amount or Principal Tax Deduction Amount, as applicable, as determined by the Calculation Agent. Investors may therefore receive less than the anticipated amount(s) due in respect of the Local Access Credit Linked Notes.

Risks specific to Index Skew Notes

The Index Skew Notes are linked, through a Hypothetical Skew Transaction constituting a combination of (i) an index CDS and (ii) individual credit default swaps on the Reference Entities included in the index underlying the index CDS (the component CDSs). Where the Issuer is the protection seller under the index CDS it is the protection buyer under the component CDSs, and vice versa. The value of the combined positions reflects the difference (the skew) between the value of the index CDS and the aggregate value of its component CDSs. Although each constituent of the Hypothetical Skew Transaction is intended to give rise to an equal and opposite payment obligation on each Fixed Rate Payer Payment Date, Auction Settlement Date or Cash Settlement Date (as applicable), no actual payments will be due from the Issuer to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty or vice versa due to the application of payment netting.

The value of an index CDS may differ from the aggregate value of its component CDSs for several reasons, including (a) differences in liquidity and other characteristics in the markets for the index CDS the component CDSs; (b) differences in relevant terms of the index CDS and its component CDSs; (c) factors that affect the activities of arbitrageurs; and (d) changes in the default correlation among the Reference Entities included in the index CDS.

As the notional of the Hypothetical Skew Transactions may be far greater than the principal amount issued under the Index Skew Notes, the value of the Index Skew Notes may be very volatile and any Index Skew Early Redemption Amount will be linked to, inter alia, the difference between the pricing of credit protection on the relevant index and the market levels of the constituent single name Reference Entities that comprise the relevant index.

Liquidity differences may make a greater contribution to skew during periods of heightened volatility, as the value of the more liquid instrument(s) may change more quickly than the value of the less liquid instrument(s). Furthermore, during periods when transaction costs (such as funding costs and bid-ask spreads) to market participants increase, skew may become greater, as the increased transaction costs may reduce the activities of arbitrageurs (i.e. market participants that seek to profit from the skew and, in the process, tend to reduce it).

Although the payments under a Hypothetical Skew Transaction is intended to be equal to zero due to the application of payment netting as described above, if the Index Skew Notes were to be redeemed early, a termination payment would be determined in respect of the each constituent transaction within the relevant Hypothetical Skew Transactions and the aggregate of such termination payments may result in an amount being payable by the Issuer to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty or by the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty to the Issuer which could result in the Early Redemption Amount or Optional Early Redemption Amount (as the case may be) due to Securityholders being reduced further if the Issuer is required to make a payment to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty for such termination payment or if the Issuer is subject to further Unwind Costs.

In addition, prospective investors in the Index Skew Notes should be aware that no notifications shall be given by the Issuer or any other party to Securityholders following the occurrence of a Credit Event. To the extent that the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that a Credit Event has occurred in respect of a particular entity, information will be published on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees website at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

SECTION C – INVESTMENT CONSIDERATIONS

General

Before investing in Securities you should determine whether an investment in Securities is appropriate in your particular circumstances and should consult with your legal, business and tax advisers to determine the consequences of an investment in Securities and to arrive at your own evaluation of the investment. In particular, the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor recommend that you take independent tax advice before committing to purchase any Securities. None of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor provides tax advice and therefore responsibility for any tax implications of investing in any Securities rests entirely with you. You should note that the tax treatment will differ from jurisdiction to jurisdiction. You will assume and be solely responsible for any and all taxes of any jurisdiction or governmental or regulatory authority, including (without limitation) any state or local taxes or other similar assessment or charge that may be applicable to any payment in respect of the Securities.

An investment in Securities is only suitable for you if you:

- (a) have the requisite knowledge and experience in financial and business matters to evaluate the merits and risks of an investment in Securities;
- (b) have access to, and knowledge of, appropriate analytical tools to evaluate such merits and risks in the context of your financial situation;
- (c) are capable of bearing the economic risk of an investment in Securities for an indefinite period of time; and
- (d) recognise that it may not be possible to dispose of Securities for a substantial period of time, if at all.

You should make your own independent decision to invest in Securities and as to whether the investment in Securities is appropriate or proper for you based upon your own judgement and upon advice from such advisers as you may deem necessary. You should not rely on any communication (written or oral) of the Issuer, and (if applicable) the Guarantor, any Dealer or any of their affiliates or their respective officers or agents as investment advice or as a recommendation to invest in Securities, it being understood that information and explanations related to Securities shall not be considered to be investment advice or a recommendation to invest in Securities. No communication (written or oral) received from the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor, any Dealer or any of their affiliates or their respective officers or agents shall be deemed to be an assurance or guarantee as to the expected results of an investment in Securities.

Hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities

Any Issuer, and/or the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any of their affiliates may enter into arrangements to hedge the Issuer's and/or, the CGMHI Guarantor's and/or the CGMFL Guarantor's obligations under the Securities and/or the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee but are not required to do so. If they do so, any Issuer and/or the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any such affiliate will have certain rights under such hedging arrangements and may pursue actions and take steps that they deem appropriate to protect their own interests under such hedging arrangements without regard to the consequences for Securityholders. You will not have recourse to the applicable counterparty under any such hedging arrangements and any such hedging arrangements will not confer any rights or entitlements on any Securityholders and will constitute separate obligations of the Issuer and/or the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any such affiliate.

If you intend to purchase Securities to hedge against the market risk associated with investing in the particular Underlying(s), you should recognise the complexities of utilising Securities in this manner. For example, the value of the relevant Securities may not exactly correlate with the value of the relevant Underlying(s). Due to fluctuating supply and demand for Securities, there is no assurance that their value will correlate with movements of the Underlying(s). For these reasons, among others, it may not be possible to purchase or liquidate securities in a portfolio at the prices used to calculate the value of any relevant Underlying, and you may suffer a loss accordingly.

Leveraging

Borrowing to fund the purchase of the Securities (leveraging) can have a significant negative impact on the value of and return on the investment. If you consider leveraging the Securities, you should obtain further detailed information as to the applicable risks from the leverage provider.

Credit ratings may not reflect all risks of an investment in Securities

One or more independent credit rating agencies may assign credit ratings to securities issued under the Programme, including any Securities. The credit rating agencies may have different rating methodologies, criteria, models and requirements from one another. The ratings may not reflect the potential impact of all risks related to structure, market and other factors that may affect the value of the Securities. A credit rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be reduced, withdrawn or qualified by the rating agency at any time. If the ratings on any Securities are reduced, withdrawn or qualified, it could adversely affect the liquidity or the market value of such Securities.

Additionally, the global landscape of financial sector regulation itself is undergoing significant change. In the U.S., the Dodd-Frank Act, among other things, expands regulatory oversight of Citigroup Inc. (and its subsidiaries) and credit rating agencies. It is not clear how this expanded regulatory oversight will impact the ratings on the Securities or the rating of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and/or the CGMFL Guarantor.

In general, European (including United Kingdom) regulated investors are restricted under the CRA Regulation from using credit ratings for regulatory purposes, unless such ratings are issued by a credit rating agency established in the EU or the United Kingdom and registered under the CRA Regulation (and such registration has not been withdrawn or suspended, subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances). Such general restriction will also apply in the case of credit ratings issued by non-EU and non-UK credit rating agencies, unless the relevant credit ratings are endorsed by an EU-registered or UK-registered credit rating agency or the relevant non-EU or non-UK rating agency is certified in accordance with the CRA Regulation (and such endorsement action or certification, as the case may be, has not been withdrawn or suspended, subject to transitional provisions that apply in certain circumstances). If the status of the rating agency rating the Securities changes, European (including United Kingdom) regulated investors may no longer be able to use the rating for regulatory purposes and the Securities may have a different regulatory treatment. This may result in European (including United Kingdom) regulated investors selling the Securities which may impact the value of the Securities and any secondary market. The list of registered and certified rating agencies published by ESMA on its website in accordance with the CRA Regulation is not conclusive evidence of the status of the relevant rating agency included in such list, as there may be delays between certain supervisory measures being taken against a relevant rating agency and the publication of the updated ESMA list. Information relating to the current ratings of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI and CGML is available at www.citigroup.com.

Certain factors affecting the value and trading price of Securities

The amounts due and/or value of any assets to be delivered in respect of the Securities at any time prior to the relevant maturity date is typically expected to be less than the trading price of such Securities at that time. The difference between the trading price and such amounts due and/or value of any assets to be delivered, as the case may be, will reflect, among other things, the "time value" of the Securities. The "time value" of the Securities will depend partly upon the length of the period remaining to maturity and expectations concerning the value of the Underlying(s).

Securities pose some additional risks with regard to interim value. The interim value of Securities varies as the price or level of the Underlying(s) varies, as well as due to a number of other interrelated factors, including (i) the trading price of the relevant Securities, (ii) the value and volatility of the Underlying(s), (iii) the remaining tenor, (iv) in the case of Cash Settled Securities, the probable range of any Redemption Amounts, (v) any change(s) in interim interest rates and dividend yields if applicable, (vi) any change(s) in currency exchange rates, (vii) the depth of the market or liquidity of the Underlying(s) and (viii) any related transaction costs.

Any sale of Securities prior to their scheduled redemption may be at a substantial discount from the original purchase price and you may lose some or all of your investment.

Application of Fallback Provisions in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks

The fallback provisions described in Valuation and Settlement Condition 9 in respect of Reference Rates and Benchmarks apply as follows:

USD LIBOR:

- If a Benchmark Transition Event occurs and if the applicable Issue Terms specify USD LIBOR to be applicable in respect of the Securities, Valuation and Settlement Condition 8 (the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions) shall apply.
- A Benchmark Transition Event occurs with respect to a USD Benchmark (which could be USD LIBOR or the relevant Benchmark Replacement) where there has been a public statement or publication of information by, amongst others, the administrator of the USD Benchmark which states that the administrator of the USD Benchmark has ceased or will cease to provide the USD Benchmark permanently or indefinitely, or by the regulatory supervisor for the administrator of the USD Benchmark announcing that the USD Benchmark is no longer representative, or as of a specified future date will no longer be capable of being representative, of any relevant underlying market(s) or economic reality that such USD Benchmark is intended to measure.
- If the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent cannot determine the relevant USD Benchmark by interpolating from other tenors of the USD Benchmark, the next-available alternative under the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions will apply to replace the relevant USD Benchmark in respect of the Securities. In order, these replacement alternatives are as follows:
 - a) the replacement rate shall be the applicable fallback reference rate as determined by the International Swap Dealers Association, Inc. (ISDA), together with an adjustment
 - b) if a) is not available, if a form of Term SOFR has been selected or recommended by the Relevant Governmental Body, then the replacement rate shall be such Term SOFR, together with an adjustment;
 - c) if a) and b) are not available, if a form of compounded SOFR has been selected or recommended by the Relevant Governmental Body or alternatively the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent, then the replacement rate shall be such Compounded SOFR, together with an adjustment;
 - d) if a), b) and c) are not available, if an alternate rate of interest has been selected or recommended by the Relevant Governmental Body, then the replacement rate shall be such alternate rate, together with an adjustment;
 - e) if a), b), c) and d) are not available, then the replacement rate shall be as determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent, together with an adjustment.
- The Calculation Agent or Determination Agent has powers to make conforming changes to the terms of the Securities as it decides may be appropriate to reflect the adoption of the replacement rate, and to determine a USD Benchmark to apply in respect of the Securities on an interim basis. For related risks see "Interest on Securities linked to USD LIBOR will be calculated using a Benchmark Replacement selected by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent if a Benchmark Transition Event occurs".

Reference Rates:

- If a Reference Rate Event occurs and if the applicable Issue Terms specify any Reference Rate to be applicable in respect of the Securities, provided that the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions do not apply to the relevant Reference Rate as a result of the relevant event or circumstance, Valuation and Settlement Condition 7 (the Reference Rate Event Provisions) shall apply.
- A Reference Rate Event occurs with respect to a Reference Rate (which means any interest rate howsoever described in the Conditions and as amended from time to time pursuant to the provisions of the Reference Rate Event Provisions) where the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) determines that (i) the Reference Rate has been or will be materially changed (a Material Change Event Trigger), has ceased or will cease to be provided permanently or indefinitely, or a regulator or other official sector entity has prohibited or will prohibit the use of such Reference Rate in respect of the Securities; (ii) any authorisation or similar in respect of the Reference Rate or the administrator or sponsor of the Reference Rate has not been, or will not be, obtained or has been, or will be, refused or similar and as a result the Issuer or any other entity is not or will not be permitted under applicable law or regulation to use the relevant Reference Rate to perform its or their obligations under the Securities; (iii) unless the relevant Issue Terms specify that "Reference Rate Event (Limb (iii))" does not apply, it is not commercially reasonable to continue use of the Reference Rate due to licensing restrictions or changes in licensing costs; or (iv) a relevant supervisor or sponsor, central bank for the currency of the Reference Rate or other official body with applicable responsibility formally states or publicises that the Reference Rate is no longer representative, or as of a specified future date will no longer be capable of being representative, of any relevant underlying market(s) or economic reality that such Reference Rate is intended to measure.

- The Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) will seek to determine a replacement Reference Rate as follows:
 - a) if a replacement Reference Rate can be determined by interpolating from other tenors of the relevant Reference Rate, then the replacement Reference Rate shall be such interpolated Reference Rate, together with an adjustment;
 - b) if a) is not available, if a pre-nominated replacement Reference Rate has been specified in the applicable Issue Terms and such rate is not subject to a Reference Rate Event, then the replacement Reference Rate shall be the pre-nominated replacement Reference Rate, together with an adjustment; or
 - c) if a) and b) are not available, then the replacement Reference Rate shall be an index, benchmark or other price source or rate which is recognised or acknowledged as being the industry standard replacement for over-the-counter derivative transactions which reference such Reference Rate, together with an adjustment.
- In the alternative and only in the event of a Material Change Event Trigger, the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) may determine that no replacement Reference Rate is required or may adjust the term of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such material change. Where applicable, if no such determination or adjustments are made, and if the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) determines that it is not possible or commercially reasonable to identify a replacement Reference Rate or calculate the relevant adjustment, the Issuer may redeem the Securities early.
- The Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) has powers to make amendments to the terms of the Securities as it considers are necessary and/or appropriate to account for the effect of the replacement Reference Rate, and to determine the level of the Reference Rate to apply in respect of the Securities on an interim basis. For related risks see "Interest on Securities linked to a Reference Rate will be calculated using a Replacement Reference Rate selected by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) if a Reference Rate Event occurs".

Benchmarks:

- If an Administrator/Benchmark Event occurs with respect to the relevant rate, provided that the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions and the Reference Rate Event Provisions do not apply to the relevant event or circumstance, Valuation and Settlement Condition 3 (the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions) shall apply.
- An Administrator/Benchmark Event occurs with respect to a Benchmark (which means any figure or rate and where any amount payable or deliverable under the Securities, or the value of the Securities, is determined by reference in whole or in part to such figure or rate) where the Calculation Agent or, where a separate Determination Agent is appointed in respect of the Securities, the Determination Agent (such agent the Relevant Agent) determines that (i) a Benchmark is materially changed, cancelled or its use is prohibited by a regulator or other official sector entity in respect of the Securities; (ii) any authorisation or similar in respect of a relevant Benchmark or the administrator or sponsor of a relevant Benchmark has not been, or will not be, obtained or has been, or will be, rejected or similar with the effect that the Issuer or any other entity is not, or will not be, permitted under any applicable law or regulation to use the relevant Benchmark to perform its or their respective obligations under the Securities; (iii) unless the relevant Issue Terms specify that "Administrator/Benchmark Event (Limb (3))" does not apply, it is not commercially reasonable to continue use of the Benchmark due to licensing restrictions or changes in licence costs; or (iv) a relevant supervisor and/or sponsor officially announces the benchmark is no longer representative, or as of a specified future date will no longer be capable of being representative, of any relevant underlying market(s) or economic reality that such Benchmark is intended to measure.

- The Relevant Agent may make adjustment(s) to the terms of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of the relevant event or circumstance, including, without limitation, the selection of a successor benchmark. Alternatively and if applicable, the Issuer may redeem the Securities early. For related risks see "Risks relating to the occurrence of an Administrator/Benchmark Event" above.

Rate as an Underlying:

- If an event or circumstance occurs with respect to a Rate which is an Underlying and if the applicable Issue Terms specify a Rate as an Underlying, provided that none of the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions, the Reference Rate Event Provisions and the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions apply to the relevant rate as a result of such relevant event or circumstance, the provisions of Underlying Schedule 13 relating to the determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on any Scheduled Trading Day in the event of the occurrence of any Disrupted Day and the Substitute or Successor Rates provisions and the provisions relating to the consequences of any such Disrupted Day set out in the Conditions shall apply. For related risks, see "Risks relating to the discontinuance or unavailability of a Rate".

Screen Rate Determination, USD LIBOR Screen Rate Determination or ISDA Determination:

- If a floating rate cannot be determined and if the applicable Issue Terms specify any of Screen Rate Determination, USD LIBOR Screen Rate Determination or ISDA Determination to be applicable, provided that none of the USD LIBOR Fallback Provisions, the Reference Rate Event Provisions, the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions and the Rate Conditions apply to the relevant floating rate as a result of such relevant event or circumstance, the relevant provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(a), Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(b), or Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(c) (as the case may be) shall apply.
- Where Screen Rate Determination is applicable, if the Page is not available or if no offered quotation or fewer than three offered quotations appear (as applicable), in each case as at the Specified Time, or by 10.30 a.m. Sydney time in the case of BBSW, the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) will determine the Screen Rate as follows:
 - a) if two or more offered quotations are provided by Reference Banks, then the Screen Rate for the relevant date or period shall be the arithmetic mean of the offered quotations;
 - b) if a) is not available, if two or more Reference Banks communicate rates at which such banks were offered, at approximately the Specified Time on the relevant Interest Determination Date, certain deposits, then the Screen Rate shall be the rate per annum which the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) determines as being the arithmetic mean of such rates;
 - c) if a) and b) are not available, if one or more banks informs the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) that it is quoting, at approximately the Specified Time on the relevant Interest Determination Date, an offered rate or an arithmetic mean of offered rates for certain deposits to leading banks in the relevant reference rate interbank market, then the Screen Rate shall be such offered rate or such arithmetic mean of offered rates, as applicable; or

- d) if a), b) and c) are not available, then notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, the Screen Rate shall be determined as such rate as is determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to alternative benchmarks then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market).
- Where USD LIBOR Screen Rate Determination is applicable, if the relevant Reference Rate cannot be determined, the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) will determine the Reference Rate as follows:
 - a) if two or more offered quotations are provided by Reference Banks, then the Reference Rate for the relevant date or period will be the arithmetic average of such quotations;
 - b) if a) is not available, if three or more New York City banks selected by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) quote certain rates to leading European banks at approximately 11:00 a.m. (New York City time) on the relevant Interest Determination Date, then the Reference Rate for the relevant date or period will be the arithmetic average of such rates; or
 - c) if a) and b) are not available, then notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, the Reference Rate for the relevant date or period will be such rate as is determined by the Calculation Agent or Determination Agent (as applicable) in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to alternative benchmarks then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market).
- Where ISDA Determination is applicable, if the Calculation Agent determines that the ISDA Rate cannot be determined, then notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, the ISDA Rate for the relevant period and/or date shall be such rate as is determined by the Calculation Agent in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner having regard to alternative benchmarks then available and taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market). It should be noted, however, that even though relevant fallback provisions may be included in accordance with the terms of the ISDA Determination itself or the above provision, if prior ranking fallback provisions described in Valuation and Settlement Condition 9 apply then these prior ranking fallback provisions will be applied first, meaning that any fallback provisions included as part of the ISDA Determination itself may not apply.
- For related risks, see "If a floating rate becomes unavailable it may be determined by reference to third party banks or in the Calculation Agent's or Determination Agent's (as applicable) discretion".

SONIA Floating Rate Determination (Non-Index Determination), SONIA Floating Rate Determination (Index Determination) or SOFR Floating Rate Determination:

- If a floating rate cannot be determined and SONIA Floating Rate Determination (Non-Index Determination), SONIA Floating Rate Determination (Index Determination) and/or SOFR Floating Rate Determination are specified to be applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, provided that none of the Reference Rate Event Provisions, the Administrator/Benchmark Event provisions and the Rate Conditions apply to the relevant floating rate as a result of such relevant event or circumstance, the relevant provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(d)(i), Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(d)(ii) or Valuation and Settlement Condition 4.2(e)(iii) (as the case may be) shall apply.
- Where SONIA Floating Rate Determination (Non-Index Determination) is applicable, if the Calculation Agent determines that the SONIA rate is not available on the relevant Page or has not otherwise been published by the relevant authorised distributors on a relevant day, the Calculation Agent will determine such SONIA rate as being:

- a) (i) the Bank of England's Bank Rate (the Bank Rate) prevailing at close of business on such day in the relevant Observation Period; plus (ii) the mean of the spread of the SONIA rate to the Bank Rate over the previous five days on which a SONIA rate has been published, excluding the highest spread (or, if there is more than one highest spread, one only of those spreads) and the lowest spread (or, if there is more than one lowest spread, one only of those spreads) to the Bank Rate; or
- b) if the Bank Rate is not published by the Bank of England at close of business on such day in the relevant Observation Period, the SONIA rate published on the relevant Page (or otherwise published by the relevant authorised distributors) for the first preceding London Banking Day on which the SONIA rate was published on such Page (or otherwise published by the relevant authorised distributors).

Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event the Bank of England publishes guidance as to (A) how the SONIA rate is to be determined or (B) any rate that is to replace the SONIA rate, the Calculation Agent shall, to the extent that it is reasonably practicable, follow such guidance in order to determine the SONIA rate for the purpose of the Securities for so long as the SONIA rate is not available or has not been published by the authorised distributors. For related risks, see "If a floating rate becomes unavailable it may be determined by reference to third party banks or in the Calculation Agent's or Determination Agent's (as applicable) discretion".

- If in respect of any relevant determination date a SONIA Compounded Index value has not been provided or published by or on behalf of the relevant administrator (or any successor administrator) or authorised distributors or the relevant website is not available, the relevant SONIA Compounded Index value will be the last such value provided for the SONIA Compounded Index.
- If in respect of any relevant determination date a SOFR or SOFR Index value, as applicable, has not been provided or published by or on behalf of the relevant administrator (or any successor administrator) or authorised distributors or the relevant website is not available, the relevant SOFR or SOFR Index value, as applicable, will be the last such value provided for the SOFR or SOFR Index as applicable.

Citigroup Inc., Its Management and Its Businesses Must Continually Review, Analyse and Successfully Adapt to Ongoing Regulatory and Legislative Uncertainties and Changes in the U.S. and Globally

Despite the adoption of final regulations and laws in numerous areas impacting Citigroup Inc. and its businesses over the past several years, Citigroup Inc., its management and its businesses continually face ongoing regulatory and legislative uncertainties and changes, both in the United States of America (U.S.) and globally. While the areas of ongoing regulatory and legislative uncertainties and changes facing Citigroup Inc. are too numerous to list completely, various examples include, but are not limited to (i) potential fiscal, monetary, regulatory and other changes arising from the U.S. federal government and others; (ii) potential changes to various aspects of the regulatory capital framework applicable to Citigroup Inc.; and (iii) the terms of and other uncertainties resulting from the United Kingdom's (U.K.) exit from the European Union (EU). When referring to "regulatory", Citigroup Inc. is including both formal regulation and the views and expectations of its regulators in their supervisory roles.

Ongoing regulatory and legislative uncertainties and changes make Citigroup Inc.'s and its management's long-term business, balance sheet and budget planning difficult or subject to change. For example, U.S. and other regulators globally have implemented and continue to discuss various changes to certain regulatory requirements, which would require ongoing assessment by management as to the impact to Citigroup Inc., its businesses and business planning. Business planning is required to be based on possible or proposed rules or outcomes, which can change dramatically upon finalisation, or upon implementation or interpretive guidance from numerous regulatory bodies worldwide, and such guidance can change.

Moreover, U.S. and international regulatory and legislative initiatives have not always been undertaken or implemented on a coordinated basis, and areas of divergence have developed and continue to develop with respect to the scope, interpretation, timing, structure or approach, leading to inconsistent or even conflicting regulations, including within a single jurisdiction. For example, in May 2019, the European Commission adopted, as part of Capital Requirements Directive V, a new requirement for major banking groups headquartered outside the EU (which would include Citigroup Inc.) to establish an intermediate EU holding company where the foreign bank has two or more institutions (broadly meaning banks, broker-dealers and similar financial firms) established in the EU. While in some respects the requirement mirrors an existing U.S. requirement for non-U.S. banking organizations to form U.S. intermediate holding companies, the implementation of the EU holding company requirement could lead to additional complexity with respect to Citigroup Inc.'s resolution planning, capital and liquidity allocation and efficiency in various jurisdictions. Regulatory and legislative changes have also significantly increased Citigroup Inc.'s compliance risks and costs.

SECTION E – INFORMATION RELATING TO THE ISSUERS, THE CGMHI GUARANTOR AND THE CGMFL GUARANTOR

SECTION E.1 – DESCRIPTION OF CITIGROUP INC.

Citigroup Inc. (Citi, the Company, or Citigroup) is a global diversified financial services holding company whose businesses provide consumers, corporations, governments and institutions with a broad, yet focused, range of financial products and services. Citigroup Inc. has approximately 200 million customer accounts and does business in more than 160 countries and jurisdictions. Citigroup Inc. is a bank holding company within the meaning of the U.S. Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 registered with, and subject to examination by, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (the Federal Reserve). Some of Citi's subsidiaries are subject to supervision and examination by their respective federal and state authorities. At 31 December 2019, Citigroup Inc. had approximately 200,000 full-time employees worldwide.

Citigroup Inc.'s objects and purpose is to "engage in any lawful act or activity for which corporations may be organized under the General Corporation Law of Delaware", as stated in Article THIRD of Citi's Restated Certificate of Incorporation. Citigroup currently operates, for management reporting purposes, via two primary business segments: Global Consumer Banking and Institutional Clients Group, with the remaining operations in Corporate/Other. Its businesses conduct their activities across the North America, Latin America, Asia and Europe, Middle East and Africa regions. Citigroup's principal subsidiaries are Citibank, N.A., Citigroup Global Markets Inc. and Grupo Financiero Banamex, S.A. de C.V., each of which is a wholly owned, indirect subsidiary of Citigroup.

Citigroup Inc. is a holding company and services its obligations primarily by earnings from its operating subsidiaries. Citigroup Inc. may augment its capital through issuances of common stock, perpetual preferred stock and equity issued through awards under employee benefit plans, among other issuances. Citigroup Inc. and Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries that operate in the banking and securities businesses can only pay dividends if they are in compliance with the applicable regulatory requirements imposed on them by federal and state bank regulatory authorities and securities regulators in the United States. Citigroup Inc.'s subsidiaries may be party to credit agreements that also may restrict their ability to pay dividends. Citigroup Inc. currently believes that none of these regulatory or contractual restrictions on the ability of its subsidiaries to pay dividends will affect Citigroup Inc.'s ability to service its own debt. Citigroup Inc. must also maintain the required capital levels of a bank holding company, and must submit a capital plan, subjected to stress testing, to the Federal Reserve, to which the Federal Reserve does not object, before it may pay dividends on its stock.

Under longstanding policy of the Federal Reserve, a bank holding company is expected to act as a source of financial strength for its subsidiary banks. As a result of this regulatory policy, the Federal Reserve might require Citigroup Inc. to commit resources to its subsidiary banks when doing so is not otherwise in the interests of Citigroup Inc. or its shareholders or creditors.

Citi Resolution Plan (CSA, etc.) in relation to Securities issued by Citigroup Inc.

On 15 December 2016, the Federal Reserve issued a final total loss-absorbing capacity (TLAC) rule that will require Citigroup Inc. to (i) maintain minimum levels of external TLAC and long-term debt and (ii) adhere to various "clean holding company" requirements. Citigroup Inc. continues to review and consider the implications of the final TLAC rule, including the impact of (w) the amount of its debt securities issued prior to 31 December 2016 that will benefit from the grandfathering provided by the final TLAC rule, (x) the effectiveness date of 1 January 2019 for all aspects of the final TLAC rule, (y) a new anti-evasion provision that authorises the Federal Reserve to exclude from a holding company's outstanding eligible long-term debt any debt having certain features that would, in the Federal Reserve's view, "significantly impair" the debt's ability to absorb losses and (z) the consequences of any breach of the external long-term debt or clean holding company requirements. In response to the final TLAC rule, Citigroup Inc. has amended the Events of Default under the Securities, as required by the final TLAC rule.

Under Title I of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 (the Dodd-Frank Act), Citigroup Inc. has developed a "single point of entry" resolution strategy and plan under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code (the Resolution Plan). Under Citigroup Inc.'s Resolution Plan, only Citigroup Inc., the parent holding company, would enter into bankruptcy, while Citigroup Inc.'s material legal entities (as defined in the public section of its 2019 Resolution Plan, which can be found on the Federal Reserve and FDIC websites) would remain operational and outside of any resolution or insolvency proceedings. Citigroup Inc.'s Resolution Plan has been designed to minimize the risk of systemic impact to the U.S. and global financial systems, while maximizing the value of the bankruptcy estate for the benefit of Citigroup Inc.'s creditors. In addition, in line with the Federal Reserve's final total loss-absorbing capacity (TLAC) rule, Citigroup Inc. believes it has developed the Resolution Plan so that in the event of a Citigroup Inc. bankruptcy or other resolution proceeding, Citigroup Inc.'s losses and any losses incurred by its subsidiaries would be imposed first on Citigroup Inc.'s shareholders and then on its unsecured creditors, including the holders of Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. Further, in a bankruptcy or other resolution proceeding of Citigroup Inc., any value realized by holders of any Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. may not be sufficient to repay the amounts owed on such Securities. For more information about the final TLAC rule and its consequences for debt securities, you should refer to the section "Managing Global Risk — Liquidity Risks — Long-Term Debt — Total Loss-Absorbing Capacity (TLAC)" in Citigroup Inc.'s most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K.

In response to feedback received from the Federal Reserve and FDIC (together, the Agencies), Citigroup Inc. took the following actions:

- (i) Citicorp LLC (Citicorp), an existing wholly-owned subsidiary of Citigroup Inc., was established as an intermediate holding company (an IHC) for certain of Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities;
- (ii) Citigroup Inc. executed an inter-affiliate agreement with Citicorp, Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities and certain other affiliated entities pursuant to which Citicorp is required to provide liquidity and capital support to Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities in the event Citigroup Inc. were to enter bankruptcy proceedings (the Citi Support Agreement);
- (iii) pursuant to the Citi Support Agreement:
 - Citigroup Inc. made an initial contribution of assets, including certain high-quality liquid assets and inter-affiliate loans (the Contributable Assets), to Citicorp, and Citicorp became the business as usual funding vehicle for Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities;
 - Citigroup Inc. would be obligated to continue to transfer Contributable Assets to Citicorp over time, subject to certain amounts retained by Citigroup Inc. to, among other things, meet Citigroup Inc.'s near-term cash needs;
 - in the event of a Citigroup Inc. bankruptcy, Citigroup Inc. will be required to contribute most of its remaining assets to Citicorp; and
- (iv) the obligations of both Citigroup Inc. and Citicorp under the Citi Support Agreement, as well as the Contributable Assets, are secured pursuant to a security agreement.

The Citi Support Agreement provides two mechanisms, besides Citicorp's issuing of dividends to Citigroup Inc., pursuant to which Citicorp will be required to transfer cash to Citigroup Inc. during business as usual so that Citigroup Inc. can fund its debt service — including payments due on Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. — as well as other operating needs: (i) one or more funding notes issued by Citicorp to Citigroup Inc.; and (ii) a committed line of credit under which Citicorp may make loans to Citigroup Inc.

On 17 December 2019, the Agencies issued feedback on the resolution plans filed on 1 July 2019 by the eight U.S. G-SIBs, including Citigroup Inc. The Agencies identified one shortcoming, but no deficiencies, in Citigroup Inc.'s resolution plan relating to governance mechanisms. Citigroup Inc. submitted a plan to address the shortcoming, which the Agencies will take into account in determining the scope of Citigroup Inc.'s targeted resolution plan due on 1 July 2021.

In addition to Citigroup Inc.'s required Resolution Plan under Title I of the Dodd-Frank Act, Title II of the Dodd-Frank Act grants the FDIC the authority, under certain circumstances, to resolve systemically important financial institutions, including Citigroup Inc. This resolution authority is commonly referred to as the FDIC's "orderly liquidation authority". Under the FDIC's stated preferred "single point of entry" strategy for such resolution, Citigroup Inc. would be placed in receivership; the unsecured long-term debt and shareholders of the parent holding company would bear any losses; and the operating subsidiaries would be recapitalized. The Securities may be fully subordinated to interests held by the U.S. government in the event of a receivership, insolvency, liquidation or similar proceeding with respect to Citigroup Inc., including a proceeding under the "orderly liquidity authority" provisions of the Dodd-Frank Act.

Under the regulations of the Federal Reserve, a bank holding company is expected to act as a source of financial strength for its subsidiary banks. As a result of this regulatory policy, the Federal Reserve might require Citigroup Inc. to commit resources to its subsidiary banks when doing so is not otherwise in the interests of Citigroup Inc. or its shareholders or creditors.

Citi Resolution Plan (CSA, etc.) in relation to Securities issued by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc.

Under Title I of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 (the Dodd-Frank Act), Citigroup Inc. has developed a "single point of entry" resolution strategy and plan under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code (the Resolution Plan).

Under Citigroup Inc.'s Resolution Plan, only Citigroup Inc., the parent holding company, would enter into bankruptcy, while Citigroup Inc.'s material legal entities (as defined in the public section of its 2019 Resolution Plan, which can be found on the Federal Reserve and FDIC websites) would remain operational and outside of any resolution or insolvency proceedings. Citigroup Inc.'s Resolution Plan has been designed to minimize the risk of systemic impact to the U.S. and global financial systems, while maximizing the value of the bankruptcy estate for the benefit of Citigroup Inc.'s creditors. In addition, in line with the Federal Reserve's final total loss-absorbing capacity (TLAC) rule, Citigroup Inc. believes it has developed the Resolution Plan so that Citigroup Inc.'s shareholders and unsecured creditors – including creditors claiming under the Citigroup Inc. guarantee of Securities issued by CGMHI – bear any losses resulting from Citigroup Inc. bankruptcy or other resolution proceeding. For more information about the final TLAC rule and its consequences for debt securities, you should refer to the section "Managing Global Risk — Liquidity Risks — Long-Term Debt — Total Loss-Absorbing Capacity (TLAC)" in Citigroup Inc.'s most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K.

- (iii) pursuant to the Citi Support Agreement:
 - Citigroup Inc. made an initial contribution of assets, including certain high-quality liquid assets and inter-affiliate loans (the Contributable Assets), to Citicorp, and Citicorp became the business as usual funding vehicle for Citigroup Inc.'s operating material legal entities;

Citigroup Inc. submitted a plan to address the shortcoming, which the Agencies will take into account in determining the scope of Citigroup Inc.'s targeted resolution plan due on 1 July 2021.

Under the terms and conditions of the Securities, a Citigroup Inc. bankruptcy, insolvency or resolution proceeding will not constitute an event of default with respect to any series of Securities issued by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. Moreover, it will not constitute an event of default with respect to any series of Securities issued by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. if the guarantee of the Securities by Citigroup Inc. (as CGMHI Guarantor) ceases to be (or is claimed not to be) in full force and effect for any reason, including by Citigroup Inc.'s insolvency or resolution. Should the Citigroup Inc. guarantee no longer be in effect, Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc., will become the sole obligor under its Securities, and there can be no assurance that it would be able to continue to meet its obligations under such Securities.

In the event that Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. also enters bankruptcy, at the time of Citigroup Inc.'s bankruptcy filing or at a later time, you, as a holder of Securities issued by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. would be an unsecured creditor of Citigroup Inc. in respect of the Citigroup Inc. guarantee and, accordingly, you cannot be assured that the Citigroup Inc. guarantee would protect you against losses resulting from a default by Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc.

SECTION E.2 – DESCRIPTION OF CITIGROUP GLOBAL MARKETS HOLDINGS INC.

Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. (CGMHI), operating through its subsidiaries, engages in full-service investment banking and securities brokerage business. As used in this description, CGMHI refers to CGMHI and its consolidated subsidiaries. CGMHI operates in the Institutional Clients Group business segment.

CGMHI's parent, Citigroup Inc. (Citigroup or Citi) is a global diversified financial services holding company whose businesses provide consumers, corporations, governments and institutions with a broad, yet focused, range of financial products and services, including consumer banking and credit, corporate and investment banking, securities brokerage, trade and securities services and wealth management. Citi has approximately 200 million customer accounts and does business in more than 160 countries and jurisdictions.

Citigroup currently operates, for management reporting purposes, via two business segments: Global Consumer Banking and Institutional Clients Group, with the remaining operations in Corporate/Other.

The principal offices of CGMHI are located at 388 Greenwich Street, New York, NY 10013, telephone number +1 (212) 559-1000. CGMHI was incorporated in New York on 23 February 1977 and is the successor to Salomon Smith Barney Holdings Inc. On 7 April 2003, CGMHI filed a Restated Certificate of Incorporation changing its name from Salomon Smith Barney Holdings Inc. to Citigroup Global Markets Holdings Inc. CGMHI's Federal Employee Identification Number (FEIN or EIN) issued by the US Internal Revenue Service is 11-2418067. The website of CGMHI is www.citigroup.com. Unless specifically incorporated by reference herein, no information in such website should be deemed to be incorporated in, or form a part of, this Base Prospectus.

Institutional Clients Group

Institutional Clients Group (ICG) includes Banking and Markets and securities services. ICG provides corporate, institutional, public sector and high-net-worth clients around the world with a full range of wholesale banking products and services, including fixed income and equity sales and trading, foreign exchange, prime brokerage, derivative services, equity and fixed income research, corporate lending, investment banking and advisory services, private banking, cash management, trade finance and securities services. ICG transacts with clients in both cash instruments and derivatives, including fixed income, foreign currency, equity and commodity products.

ICG revenue is generated primarily from fees and spreads associated with these activities. ICG earns fee income for assisting clients with transactional services and clearing and providing brokerage and investment banking services and other such activities. Such fees are recognized at the point in time when Citigroup's performance under the terms of a contractual arrangement is completed, which is typically at the trade/execution date or closing of a transaction. Revenue generated from these activities is recorded in Commissions and fees and Investment banking. Revenue is also generated from assets under custody and administration, which is recognized as/when the associated promised service is satisfied, which normally occurs at the point in time the service is requested by the customer and provided by Citi. Revenue generated from these activities is primarily recorded in Fiduciary fees.

In addition, as a market maker, ICG facilitates transactions, including holding product inventory to meet client demand, and earns the differential between the price at which it buys and sells the products. These price differentials and the unrealized gains and losses on the inventory are recorded in Principal transactions (for additional information on Principal transactions revenue, see Note 3 to the CGMHI Consolidated Financial Statements included in the CGMHI 2019 Annual Report and Note 2 to the CGMHI Consolidated Financial Statements included in the CGMHI 2020 Half-Yearly Financial Report).

The amount and types of Markets revenues are impacted by a variety of interrelated factors, including market liquidity; changes in market variables such as interest rates, foreign exchange rates, equity prices, commodity prices and credit spreads, as well as their implied volatilities; investor confidence and other macroeconomic conditions. Assuming all other market conditions do not change, increases in client activity levels or bid/offer spreads generally result in increases in revenues. However, changes in market conditions can significantly impact client activity levels, bid/offer spreads and the fair value of product inventory. For example, a decrease in market liquidity may increase bid/offer spreads, decrease client activity levels and widen credit spreads on product inventory positions.

ICG's management of the Markets businesses involves daily monitoring and evaluation of the above factors at the trading desk as well as the country level. ICG does not separately track the impact on total Markets revenues of the volume of transactions, bid/offer spreads, fair value changes of product inventory positions and economic hedges because, as noted above, these components are interrelated and are not deemed useful or necessary individually to manage the Markets businesses at an aggregate level.

In the Markets businesses, client revenues are those revenues directly attributable to client transactions at the time of inception, including commissions, interest or fees earned. Client revenues do not include the results of client facilitation activities (e.g., holding product inventory in anticipation of client demand) or the results of certain economic hedging activities.

For more information on ICG's business activities, see "Institutional Clients Group" in the Citigroup Inc. 2019 Form 10-K.

ICG's international presence is supported by trading floors in approximately 80 countries and a proprietary network in 97 countries and jurisdictions. At 30 September 2020, ICG had $1.7 trillion in assets and $925 billion in deposits, while two of its businesses—securities services and issuer services—managed $21.5 trillion in assets under custody compared to $20.3 trillion at 31 December 2019 and $20.4 trillion at 30 June 2020.

SECTION E.5 – FORM OF CGMFL ALL MONIES GUARANTEE

THIS DEED OF GUARANTEE is made on 11 May 2017 by Citigroup Global Markets Limited (the Guarantor) in favour of each Beneficiary (as defined below).

NOW THIS DEED WITNESSES as follows:

1. DEFINITIONS

As defined herein:

Beneficiary means any person who is owed any sum or amount which is due and payable by CGMFL under or in respect of any Liability;

CGMFL means Citigroup Global Markets Funding Luxembourg S.C.A.;

Liabilities means all the liabilities of CGMFL of any kind and in any currency (whether present or future, actual or contingent and whether incurred alone or jointly with another) together with all the charges, commission, interest and expenses payable by CGMFL in connection with the relevant liability; and

Taxes includes all present and future income and other taxes, levies, duties, imposts, deductions charges, fees and withholdings, in each case as imposed or levied by or on behalf of the United Kingdom, together with interest thereon and penalties with respect thereto (if any).

Where the context so admits, the singular includes the plural and vice versa. Headings are for convenience of reference only.

2. DEED OF GUARANTEE

Subject as provided herein, the Guarantor irrevocably and unconditionally guarantees by way of deed poll to each Beneficiary that if, for any reason, CGMFL does not pay any sum payable by it to such Beneficiary under or in respect of any Liability including any premium or any other amounts of whatever nature or additional amounts which may become payable under the foregoing as and when the same shall become due and payable under any of the foregoing, the Guarantor will duly and promptly pay to such Beneficiary on the request of such Beneficiary the sum or the amount payable by CGMFL to or for such Beneficiary.

3. GUARANTOR AS PRINCIPAL OBLIGOR

Without affecting CGMFL's obligations, the Guarantor will be liable under this Deed of Guarantee as if it were the sole principal obligor and not merely a surety. Accordingly, it will not be discharged, nor will its liability be affected, by anything which would not discharge it or affect its liability if it were the sole principal obligor (including (a) any time, indulgence, waiver or consent at any time given to CGMFL or any other person, (b) any amendment to any Liability or to any security or other guarantee or indemnity, (c) the making or absence of any demand on CGMFL or any other person for payment, (d) the enforcement or absence of enforcement of any Liability or of any security or other guarantee or indemnity, (e) the release of any such security, guarantee or indemnity, (f) the dissolution, amalgamation, reconstruction or reorganisation of CGMFL or any other person, (g) the illegality, invalidity or unenforceability of or any defect in any provision of any Liability or any of CGMFL's obligations under or in respect of a Liability or (h) any other act, event or omission which but for this sub-Clause might operate to discharge, impair or otherwise affect the obligations expressed to be assumed by the Guarantor herein or any of the rights, powers or remedies conferred upon the Beneficiaries or any of them by this Deed of Guarantee or by law).

4. GUARANTOR'S OBLIGATIONS CONTINUING

The Guarantor's obligations under this Deed of Guarantee are irrevocable and are and will remain in full force and effect by way of continuing security in respect of any outstanding Liabilities. Furthermore, these obligations of the Guarantor are additional to, and not instead of, any security or other guarantee or indemnity at any time existing in favour of a Beneficiary, whether from the Guarantor or otherwise. The Guarantor irrevocably waives all notices and demands whatsoever.

5. REPAYMENT TO CGMFL

If any payment or amount received by a Beneficiary is, on the subsequent liquidation or insolvency of CGMFL, avoided under any laws relating to liquidation or insolvency, such payment will not be considered as having discharged or diminished the liability of the Guarantor and this Deed of Guarantee will continue to apply as if such payment or amount had at all times remained owing by CGMFL.

6. INDEMNITY

As a separate and alternative stipulation, the Guarantor unconditionally and irrevocably agrees that any sum amount expressed to be payable by CGMFL under or in respect of any Liability but which is for any reason (whether or not now known or becoming known to CGMFL, the Guarantor or any Beneficiary) not recoverable from the Guarantor on the basis of a guarantee will nevertheless be recoverable from it as if it were the sole principal debtor and will be paid by it to the Beneficiary on the request of such Beneficiary subject as provided herein. This indemnity constitutes a separate and independent obligation from the other obligations in this Deed of Guarantee, gives rise to a separate and independent cause of action and will apply irrespective of any indulgence granted by any Beneficiary.

7. STATUS OF DEED OF GUARANTEE

This Deed of Guarantee shall take effect as a deed poll for the benefit of each Beneficiary from time to time and for the time being, each of which shall be entitled severally to enforce this Deed of Guarantee against the Guarantor. The payment obligations of the Guarantor under this Deed of Guarantee constitute direct, unconditional, unsubordinated and unsecured obligations of the Guarantor and rank and will at all times at least rank pari passu with all other unsecured and unsubordinated outstanding obligations of the Guarantor, save for such obligations as may be preferred by provisions of law that are both mandatory and of general application.

8. SETTLEMENT CONDITIONAL

Any settlement or discharge between the Guarantor and the Beneficiaries or any of them shall be conditional upon no payment to the Beneficiaries or any of them by the Guarantor or any other person on the Guarantor's behalf being avoided or reduced by virtue of any laws relating to bankruptcy, insolvency, liquidation or similar laws of general application for the time being in force and, in the event of any such payment being so avoided or reduced, the Beneficiaries shall be entitled to recover the amount by which such payment is so avoided or reduced from the Guarantor subsequently as if such settlement or discharge had not occurred PROVIDED THAT such recovery is not contrary to any law applicable thereto.

9. NO PRIOR ACTION REQUIRED

No Beneficiary shall be obliged before exercising any of the rights, powers or remedies conferred upon it by this Deed of Guarantee or by law:

- (a) to make any demand of CGMFL;
- (b) to take any action or obtain judgment in any court against CGMFL; or
- (c) to make or file any claim or proof in a winding-up or dissolution of CGMFL, and the Guarantor hereby expressly waives presentment, demand, protest and notice of dishonour in respect of each Liability.

10. POSTPONEMENT OF GUARANTOR'S RIGHTS

The Guarantor agrees that, so long as any sums and or amounts are or may be owed by CGMFL under or in respect of the Liabilities or CGMFL is under any other actual or contingent obligation thereunder or in respect thereof, the Guarantor will not exercise any right which the Guarantor may at any time have by reason of the performance by the Guarantor of its obligations hereunder:

- (a) to claim any contribution from any other guarantor of CGMFL's obligations under or in respect of the Liabilities;
- (b) to take the benefit (in whole or in part) of any security enjoyed in connection with the Liabilities by any Beneficiary; or
- (c) to be subrogated to the rights of any Beneficiary against CGMFL in respect of amounts paid by the Guarantor under this Deed of Guarantee.

11. TAXATION

All payments by the Guarantor under or in connection with this Deed of Guarantee shall be made free and clear of and without deduction for or on account of all Taxes. All Taxes in respect of this Deed of Guarantee and payments thereunder shall be for the account of and shall be paid by the Guarantor for its own account prior to the date on which penalties attach thereto. If the Guarantor is compelled by law to make payment subject to any Tax and a Beneficiary does not actually receive for its own benefit on the due date the full amount provided for hereunder, the Guarantor will pay all necessary additional amounts to ensure receipt by the Beneficiary of the full amount so provided for. The Guarantor will indemnify each Beneficiary in respect of all such Taxes.

12. POWER TO EXECUTE

The Guarantor hereby warrants, represents and covenants with each Beneficiary that it has all corporate power, and that it has taken all necessary corporate or other steps, to enable it to execute, deliver and perform this Deed of Guarantee, and that this Deed of Guarantee constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of the Guarantor in accordance with its terms.

13. NO SET-OFF OR COUNTERCLAIM

All payments to be made by the Guarantor under this Deed of Guarantee will be calculated and be made without (and free and clear of any deduction for) set-off or counterclaim.

14. PRODUCTION OF DEED OF GUARANTEE

The Guarantor hereby acknowledges the right of every Beneficiary to the production of, and the right of every Beneficiary to obtain (upon payment of a reasonable charge) a copy of, this Deed of Guarantee, and further acknowledges and covenants that the obligations binding upon it contained herein are owed to, and shall be for the account of, each and every Beneficiary, and that each Beneficiary shall be entitled severally to enforce the said obligations against the Guarantor.

15. STAMP DUTIES

The Guarantor shall pay all stamp, registration and other taxes and duties (including any interest and penalties thereon or in connection therewith) which are payable upon or in connection with the execution and delivery of this Deed of Guarantee, and shall indemnify each Beneficiary against any claim, demand, action, liability, damages, cost, loss or expense (including, without limitation, legal fees and any applicable value added tax) which it incurs as a result or arising out of or in relation to any failure to pay or delay in paying any of the same.

16. PARTIAL INVALIDITY

If at any time any provision thereof is or becomes illegal, invalid or unenforceable in any respect under the laws of any jurisdiction, neither the legality, validity or enforceability of the remaining provisions hereof nor the legality, validity or enforceability of such provision under the laws of any other jurisdiction shall in any way be affected or impaired thereby.

17. NOTICES

All notices, demands and other communications to the Guarantor hereunder shall be made in writing (by letter) and shall be sent to the Guarantor at:

Citigroup Centre
Canada Square, Canary Wharf

Attention: Company Secretary

or to such other address or for the attention of such other person or department as the Guarantor has notified to the Beneficiaries.

SECTION F.2 – ISSUE OF SECURITIES

Securities will be issued on a continuous basis in series (each a Series). The Securities of each Series are intended to be interchangeable with all other Securities of that Series.

Each Series of Securities may be issued in tranches (each a Tranche) having different issue dates but the terms otherwise identical to other Tranches constituting such series (or identical other than in respect of the first payment of interest).

The specific terms of each Tranche will be set forth in the applicable Issue Terms.

SECTION F.3 – DESCRIPTION OF THE RETURN ON THE SECURITIES

The Securities may be Securities which do not bear interest, interest bearing securities, securities which pay a fixed amount on redemption, and/or securities whose return (in respect to any interest payable on such securities and/or their redemption amount) is linked to one or more Underlyings. This section provides information in respect of certain product features and/or characteristics which may have an effect on the return on the Securities. Investors should note that the product features and/or characteristics and their effect on the return on the Securities as described in this Section are not intended to be exhaustive. Investors should also read the risk factors set out in Section B above and the Conditions.

Interest

The Securities may or may not be expressed to bear interest in the applicable Issue Terms. Where the Securities are expressed to bear interest, then amounts in respect of interest due under the Securities will be determined by reference to the applicable fixed rate amount, floating rate, inflation rate or performance amount rate (determined by reference to the relevant Underlying(s)) but, unless the applicable Issue Terms specify that the provisions relating to Interest Barrier Events are applicable, whether interest is due or not shall not otherwise be determined by reference to the performance of the relevant rate(s), inflation index or Underlying(s).

Where the applicable Issue Terms specifies that the provisions relating to Interest Barrier Event are applicable, then whether interest is due or not may be determined by reference to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s). The applicable Issue Terms may specify that, if an Interest Barrier Event does not occur in respect of the relevant Interest Payment Date, then no amount in respect of interest shall be paid on that Interest Payment Date.

If the Interest Barrier Event provisions are applicable and, in accordance with their terms, interest is to be calculated in respect of the relevant Interest Payment Date, the amount of interest due on such Interest Payment Date will also be determined by reference to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s) if Interim Performance Interest Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms or, otherwise, the amount of interest due on such Interest Payment Date will be an amount determined by reference to the applicable fixed rate or amount, floating rate or inflation rate provisions set out in the applicable Issue Terms.

In addition to the features described under "Barrier Events" below, an Interest Barrier Event will occur (a) if "Interest Barrier Event Lock-In" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, if the relevant interest lock-in condition has been satisfied in respect of a prior Interest Payment Date (such that, once the relevant Interest Lock-in Level has been satisfied in respect of an Interest Payment Date, then an Interest Barrier Event will occur in respect of each subsequent Interest Payment Date); and (b) if "Multi-Chance Provisions" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, only if an Interest Barrier Event has occurred in respect of a specified minimum number of relevant Underlying(s) and in such circumstances the amount of interest due may then depend on the exact number of relevant Underlying(s) above such minimum number in respect of which an Interest Barrier Event has occurred for such Interest Payment Date; and (c) if "Range Accrual" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, on each range accrual observation date during the relevant interest period and the amount of interest due will accrue in respect of each such date on which an Interest Barrier Event occurs; if an Interest Barrier Event occurs on no date during the relevant interest period, then no amount in respect of interest shall be due.

Securities may, in addition to any amounts in respect of interest due as described above pay a Non-Contingent Interest Amount on each Non-Contingent Interest Payment Date, but only if the Non-Contingent Interest Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms.

If you invest in Securities to which an Interest Barrier Event applies, you should be aware that you may not receive any amount in respect of interest during the term of the Securities.

Mandatory early redemption or "autocall"

If "Mandatory Early Redemption Provisions" are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then such Issue Terms will specify what constitutes a "Mandatory Early Redemption Barrier Event" and, following the occurrence of a Mandatory Early Redemption Barrier Event, the Securities will be redeemed on the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Date and the relevant Mandatory Early Redemption Amount specified in the applicable Issue Terms will become payable and no further amount shall be payable in respect of such Securities after the Mandatory Early Redemption Date. In this case, you are subject to a reinvestment risk, as you may not be able to replace your investment in such Securities with an investment that has a similar profile of chances and risks as the relevant Securities.

If any Securities are redeemed early in accordance with the above, the amount you receive will be limited to the Mandatory Early Redemption Amount irrespective of the price of the relevant Underlying(s) or any other reference factor(s) applicable to such Underlying(s). Furthermore, you will not benefit from any movement in the price of relevant Underlying(s) that may occur during the period between the relevant date of early redemption and the maturity date.

Unless the Mandatory Early Redemption Amount is a specified fixed amount and such amount is greater than your initial investment in the Securities, then you should note that, unless a scheduled minimum redemption amount is specified in all circumstances, then you may lose all or part of your investment.

Securities subject to optional redemption by the Issuer

An optional redemption feature of Securities, as set out in General Condition 6 (Redemption and Purchase) and any related provisions in the applicable Issue Terms, is likely to limit their market value. During any period when the Issuer may elect to redeem Securities, the market value of those Securities generally will not rise substantially above the price at which they can be redeemed. This also may be true prior to any redemption period.

The Issuer may be expected to redeem Securities when its cost of borrowing is lower than the interest rate on the Securities. At those times, an investor generally would not be able to reinvest the redemption proceeds at an effective interest rate as high as the interest rate on the Securities being redeemed and may only be able to do so at a significantly lower rate. You should consider reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at that time.

Redemption amount or Entitlement due on the maturity date

Where the Underlying Linked Securities Redemption Provisions are specified as not applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then a fixed redemption amount shall be due in respect of each Security on the Maturity Date. Such amount shall not be linked to the performance of any Underlying.

Where the Underlying Linked Securities Redemption Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the provisions relating to Redemption Barrier Event are specified as not applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then the redemption amount due or assets deliverable shall in all circumstances be linked to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

Where the Underlying Linked Securities Redemption Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the provisions relating to Redemption Barrier Event are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then the redemption amount due or assets deliverable shall depend on whether a Redemption Barrier Event has occurred and, if the provisions relating to Redemption Upper Barrier Event are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, if a Redemption Upper Barrier Event has occurred. The applicable Issue Terms will specify what constitutes a "Redemption Barrier Event" and any "Redemption Upper Barrier Event". Such alternate amounts may either be expressed as being a fixed redemption amount shall be due in respect of each Security or as being a redemption amount due or assets deliverable that is linked to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

Where the redemption amount or assets deliverable at maturity is determined by reference to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s), unless a scheduled minimum redemption amount is specified in all circumstances, then you may lose all or part of your investment.

Features which determine amounts due or assets deliverable in respect of Securities linked to the performance of the Underlying(s)

Where the Securities are linked to the performance of Underlying(s), then certain features of such Securities (as described below) may determine amounts due or assets deliverable thereunder.

Performance

Interim Performance, Mandatory Early Redemption Performance and Final Performance may be determined in respect of one or more Underlyings as follows:

- "single underlying observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the Underlying performance of a single Underlying for the relevant payment date (assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of the relevant Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined as provided in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities). As such, amounts due or assets deliverable where such provisions apply are linked only to the performance of that Underlying.
- "best of basket observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the Underlying having the specified highest performance for the relevant payment date (assessed as the appreciation in level of such Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined as provided in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities). As such, amounts due or assets deliverable where such provisions apply are linked to such specified highest performing Underlying(s) only. Where the "Himalaya Interim Performance – European Observation" provisions apply, then once an Underlying has had the highest performance for any Interest Payment Date, such Underlying's performance shall be disregarded for each subsequent Interest Payment Date.
- "worst of basket observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the Underlying having the specified lowest performance for the relevant payment date (assessed as the depreciation in level of such Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities). As such, amounts due or assets deliverable where such provisions apply are linked to such specified lowest performing Underlying(s) only and, for example where the "first lowest performance" applies, if one Underlying performs negatively, then any positive performance of all other Underlying(s) will be irrelevant in the determination of the applicable amount(s) due or assets deliverable.
- "Himalaya interim performance – Asian observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the arithmetic average of the performance of the Underlying having the highest performance for each relevant Valuation Date relating to the relevant payment date (assessed as the appreciation in level of such Underlying on each such relevant Valuation Date compared with the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined as provided in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities) but PROVIDED THAT, once an Underlying has had the highest performance for any valuation date relating to that payment date, such Underlying's performance shall be disregarded for each subsequent Valuation Date relating to that payment date (but shall not be disregarded in respect of subsequent Interest Payment Dates). As such, amounts due or assets deliverable are not directly linked to any one Underlying(s) and positive performance of some Underlying(s) may be negated by negative performance of other Underlying(s), particularly as a consistently high performing Underlying will only have its first-occurring highest performance included in the calculation of the arithmetic average performance for the relevant payment date.
- "weighted basket observation" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the performance of a weighted basket of Underlying(s) (assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of such Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s)) and multiplied by the weighting. As such, amounts due or assets deliverable are not directly linked to the performance of any one Underlying and positive performance of some Underlying(s) may be negated by negative performance of other Underlying(s), particularly when the weighting attributed to such Underlying(s) having a negative performance is greater than that attributed to those Underlying(s) having a positive performance. Where "rainbow weighting" is applicable, the higher the weighting attributed to the relevant Underlying having the lowest performance for the relevant Valuation Date, the lower the Interim Performance, Mandatory Early Redemption Performance or Final Performance, as the case may be.

- "outperformance" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the difference in the performance of the Underlying or Underlyings comprising the Outperformance A Underlyings and the Underlying or Underlyings comprising the Outperformance B Underlying. Therefore, the performance will be positive where the performance of the Outperformance A Underlyings is greater than the performance of the Underlying or Underlyings comprising the Outperformance B Underlying. In determining which Underlyings comprise each of the Outperformance A Underlyings and the Outperformance B Underlyings, any of the above observation provisions may apply, as further detailed in the applicable Issue Terms.
- "arithmetic mean underlying return" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to the arithmetic average of the underlying returns of a basket of Underlying(s). Each underlying return being assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of each such Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date(s) compared with the relevant strike date(s) or a capped, floored, collared or fixed percentage (which may be zero) instead of such appreciation or depreciation for that Underlying, all as further detailed in the terms and conditions of the Securities. As such, amounts due or assets deliverable are not directly linked to the performance of any one specified Underlying.
- "cliquet" means that the relevant performance is calculated by reference to, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the sum or product of the re-setting performance of a single Underlying for each relevant Valuation Date relating to that payment date (assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of the Underlying on the relevant Valuation Date compared with its value on the last relevant Valuation Date(s) or, if none, the relevant strike date(s) or as otherwise determined as provided in the applicable terms and conditions of the Securities). If period performance provisions apply, then that sum or product of the re-setting performance of the Underlying shall be subtracted from the performance of the single Underlying for the period relating to the relevant payment date (such performance for the period being assessed as the appreciation or depreciation in level of the Underlying on the relevant last occurring Valuation Date relating to the payment date compared with its value on first occurring Valuation Date relating to that payment date or, if none, the strike date(s)) or vice versa. As such, amounts due or assets deliverable where such provisions apply are linked only to the performance of that Underlying.

You must ensure that you read and understand the relevant performance provisions in respect of the Securities as these will influence if certain amounts are paid or delivered and may impact the relevant amount or assets due in respect of the Securities.

Barrier Events

Whether a Barrier Event has occurred or not may be determined by reference (a) to one or more Underlying(s) and, in the case of each such Underlying, whether it is less than, less than or equal to, greater than, greater than or equal to or within specified barrier levels; (b) to specified dates only ("European" observation) or during a period ("American" observation); (c) the aggregate interest amounts calculated by reference to the performance of such Underlying(s) and paid in respect of the Securities; and/or (d) to the performance of such Underlying(s) as detailed under Performance above, or by reference to the closing level or the level of the relevant Underlying(s) continuously observed of the relevant Underlying.

You must ensure that you read and understand what constitutes each relevant Barrier Event in respect of the Securities as the relevant contingencies will influence if certain amounts are paid or delivered and may impact the relevant amount or assets due in respect of the Securities.

Participation rates, caps, floors and collars applied to formulae

Certain formulae for determining amounts due or assets deliverable under the Securities may be subject to one or a combination of the following features:

- A maximum amount (a cap)
- A minimum amount (a floor)

- A maximum amount and a minimum amount (a collar)
- An "absolute value" (meaning that the relevant calculation, if resulting in a negative number, will be determined as if it were a positive number)
- One or more participation rates
- Addition or subtraction of a specified adjustment amount
- An "fx performance" feature (meaning that the formulae shall be adjusted to take into account the performance or change in value of a specified fx rate from a specified initial valuation date to a specified final valuation date)

In such circumstances, the relevant calculation will not be made only by reference to the performance of the relevant Underlying(s) and the application of such features may result in the calculation being subject to a minimum and/or maximum amount or otherwise increasing or decreasing the amount that would otherwise have been calculated had no such feature(s) been applicable. Movements in the value of the relevant Underlying will be magnified where a participation rate applies and may therefore result in greater gains or losses than if no participation rate applied. Therefore, amounts due or assets deliverable in respect of the Securities will also be linked to the performance of the relevant exchange rate and negative performance of such exchange rate could negate positive performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

Swaption provisions

Where the Performance Linked Redemption Amount is determined by reference to the "Swaption" provisions, the value of the Annuity will go down as the value of the relevant underlying Rate goes up. In addition, you should note that, if the Annuity Factor is negative, the Performance Linked Redemption Amount will increase as the underlying Rate decreases or, if the Annuity Factor is positive, the Performance Linked Redemption Amount will decrease as the underlying Rate increases. Changes in market interest rates may therefore adversely affect the value of the relevant Securities.

FX

Where FX Provisions are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and a relevant Underlying is denominated in a currency other than the relevant Specified Currency of the Securities then values of such Underlying will be converted into the relevant Specified Currency. Such conversion may, as provided in the terms and conditions of the Securities, be determined by referring to a cross rate (meaning that such conversion will be determined via the exchange rate of a third currency). Therefore, amounts due or assets deliverable in respect of the Securities will also be linked to the performance of the relevant exchange rate and negative performance of such exchange rate could negate positive performance of the relevant Underlying(s).

Credit Linked Notes and/or Index Skew Notes

Credit Events

The amount of principal and/or interest payable is dependent upon whether bankruptcy has occurred with respect to the Reference Entity and whether certain credit events (Credit Events) have occurred in respect of obligations of the Reference Entity that fall within a specified category (e.g., bonds, loans, borrowed money) and where applicable have specified characteristics (e.g., subordination, currency, governing law). Whereas bankruptcy is a Credit Event that relates to the Reference Entity itself, other Credit Events, such as failure to pay or restructuring, relate to obligations of the Reference Entity and only in the case of a restructuring credit event and in certain cases relating to failure to pay where "Credit Deterioration Requirement" applies in the relevant Issue Terms, deterioration of creditworthiness of the Reference Entity is a pre-condition for a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, to occur. Depending on the terms of the Credit Linked Note, obligations for which the Reference Entity acts in a capacity other than direct obligor (for example, as a guarantor or insurer) may or may not be within the class of obligations that is relevant for purposes of determining whether a Credit Event has occurred. Investors should additionally be aware that a Reference Entity may decide to restructure only certain classes of its obligations and such a selective restructuring may not result in a Credit Event for the classes of obligations that are relevant for a particular Credit Linked Note. Investors should therefore carefully review the applicable Credit Events and their definitions under the Credit Linked Notes and independently evaluate its appropriateness to the objective for purchasing the Credit Linked Notes.

Impact of a Credit Event or Risk Event on principal and interest

Following a Credit Event which is a Governmental Intervention or certain Restructuring Credit Events, an Asset Package Credit Event may occur and the amount of principal payable may be determined based on the value of a package of assets which a relevant obligation of a Reference Entity has been converted into or exchanged for (which may be worth significantly less than the principal amount of such original obligation of such Reference Entity or, where such original obligation has been expropriated for no compensation, may be zero). Prospective investors in such Credit Linked Notes should be aware that depending on the terms thereof (i) they may receive no or a limited amount of interest, (ii) payment of principal or interest or delivery of any specified assets may occur at a different time than expected and (iii) they may lose all or a substantial portion of their investment.

The occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, in relation to any Reference Entity from time to time may result in either full or partial redemption of the Credit Linked Notes on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date which shall depend on whether "Credit Payment on Maturity" or "Credit Payment Following Credit Event" applies and any recovery (which could be zero) or any incurred recovery amounts (to the extent that such recovery falls within the tranche to which the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes are exposed to (as applicable)) will be payable to the investor but the investor shall be exposed to all incurred losses (to the extent that such losses fall within the tranche to which the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes are exposed to (as applicable)), which will reduce its principal redemptions. Where "Physical Redemption" applies, the occurrence of a Credit Event may result in the redemption of the Credit Linked Notes based on the delivery of certain direct or indirect obligations of the affected Reference Entity, which may have a market value which is substantially less than their nominal amount.

Following the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, investors should note that interest will cease to accrue on a specified portion of the relevant Credit Linked Notes as set out in the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes depending on whether "Interest Accrual on Default" or "No Interest Accrual on Default" applies in the relevant Issue Terms.

If "No Interest Accrual on Default" is applicable, interest will cease from the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable or where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date. If "Interest Accrual on Default" is applicable, interest will cease to accrue on the first Business Day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable. In such case, interest shall accrue on the affected applicable proportion from (and including) the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable (or where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date) to (and including) the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable. With respect to the Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes, interest will cease to accrue on the Principal Writedown Amount with effect from the Credit Event Writedown Date, being the business day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date.

The Issuer may also suspend interest in certain circumstances where (a) an Applicable DC Credit Event Question has been submitted in respect of which a DC Resolution (including, but not limited to, a DC Credit Event Announcement, a DC No Credit Event Announcement or a DC Credit Event Question Dismissal) has not been published or the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not resolved whether it will convene a meeting to Resolve the Applicable DC Credit Event Question or (b) where the Calculation Agent has determined that Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, could occur but no Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice, as applicable, has been provided to the Issuer and/or the Securityholders. In such circumstances, investors should note that the Issuer would suspend the maximum amount of interest payable assuming the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, had occurred, in the case of an M(M)R Restructuring, as though no partial exercise occurred and where the amount to be withheld requires calculation of any recovery amount, assuming that fixed recovery of zero per cent. applies. Such suspension of interest shall be effected although no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date has occurred.

Investors should be aware that although payment of any interest wrongly suspended will be repayable in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes and where insufficient interest has been suspended, being the Interest Suspension Shortfall Amount, such interest shall be claimed by the Issuer from any amount payable or assets Delivered upon the redemption or write down in full of the relevant Credit Linked Notes (whether at maturity or upon early redemption). The Issuer however shall have no further claims against any investors for any Interest Suspension Shortfall Amount which cannot be deducted in full or in part (on account of the relevant redemption amount being insufficient).

Interest shall continue to be suspended until the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee makes the relevant announcements or the Calculation Agent determines that no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, can occur. In such circumstances, investors should note that they may not receive any interest for multiple Interest Periods and no liability will attach to the Issue for any such non-payment of interest.

Interest will otherwise continue to accrue as usual on any remaining portion of the Credit Linked Note unaffected by the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, to and excluding the earlier to occur of any full redemption at Scheduled Maturity Date or any relevant early redemption. Where "Credit Payment on Maturity applies", additional interest shall accrue on the Credit Linked Notes in respect of the Credit Payment on Maturity Amount at the funding interest rate.

Investors should note that the Issuer is not obliged to suffer any loss as a result of a Credit Event or Risk Event. Credit losses on Credit Linked Notes will be calculated irrespective of whether the Issuer has suffered an actual loss in relation to a Reference Entity or any obligations thereof. The Issuer is not obliged to account for any recovery which it may subsequently make in relation to such Reference Entity or its obligations.

Successors

Investors should note that, from time to time, the Reference Entity may be subject to change following the determination of any Successor or Successors to the Reference Entity, and any such change may affect the value of and return on the Credit Linked Notes. "Successor" means, the entity or entities, if any, determined to have succeeded to a requisite amount of relevant obligations of the Reference Entity. For a Sovereign Reference Entity, an entity may only be a Successor to a Reference Entity that is a sovereign following the occurrence of a unification, annexation, unification, secession, partition, dissolution, consolidation, reconstitution or other similar event.

The Credit Linked Conditions provide that if a Reference Entity has more than one successor entity, the Calculation Agent shall amend the terms of the Credit Linked Notes, without consent of the investors, to reflect that the relevant Reference Entity has been succeeded by more than one Successor and for the purposes of calculation, the affected notional representing such Reference Entity will be divided equally among the Successors. Following such determination, the Credit Linked Notes shall remain outstanding in an amount equal to the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount and interest will accrue on such amount in accordance with the adjustments determined by the Calculation Agent in its discretion, acting in a commercially reasonable manner to reflect the economic effects of the identification of more than one Successor, considered in the aggregate. The Calculation Agent will also be responsible for determining, as soon as reasonably practicable after it becomes aware of the relevant succession, the sovereign or entity, if any, that qualifies as the Successor. Investors should note that the Credit Linked Note may reference substantially different credit risks following the determination of one or more Successors. These credit risks could potentially be greater or lesser than the credit risk of the original Reference Entity, which could adversely impact the value of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should also be aware that the determination of a Successor will not necessarily result in the assumption of that obligation by the Successor either at all or in the same proportion as the allocation of the notional amount of the original Credit Linked Note.

Exposure to Credit Events and successions prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date

Investors should note that a Credit Event occurring prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date may result in a Credit Event being triggered under the Credit Linked Notes as the Credit Linked Notes have a "Credit Event Backstop Date", which is a look-back period of 60 calendar days from the Credit Event Resolution Request Date or the effective date of the Credit Event Notice. Credit Linked Notes may also be exposed to Successor determinations in respect of events occurring prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date as the Credit Linked Notes have a similar "Successor Backstop Date", which is a look-back period of 90 calendar days prior to the date of a request to convene the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee (or, if applicable, the effective date of a notice to the investor describing the relevant succession) is applicable for purposes of any Successor determination. In both cases, investors should note that a Credit Event or succession that occurred prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date could affect the relevant Credit Linked Notes. Where on or after 1 January 2014, an entity assumes all of the obligations (including at least one relevant obligation) of a Reference Entity which is not a sovereign, in circumstances where a Reference Entity has ceased to exist, or is in the process of being dissolved and has not issued or incurred any borrowed money obligation at any time since the legally effective date of the assumption (such entity, a Universal Successor), the look-back period of 90 calendar days will not apply.

Investors should conduct their own review of any recent developments with respect to any Reference Entity(ies) by consulting publicly available information. If, prior to the Trade Date or Issue Date, a request to convene a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to determine whether a Credit Event or Successor determination has occurred with respect to a Reference Entity has been made, details of such request may be found on the DC Secretary's webpage at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website). If a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not been convened to determine such matter as of the Trade Date or Issue Date, investors should note that one may still be convened after the Trade Date or Issue Date in respect of an event that has occurred which occurs up to 60 days (in the case of a Credit Event), 90 days in the case of the determination of a Successor) or any time (in the case of the determination of a Universal Successor) before the date of a request to convene such Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to make the relevant determinations. Equally, Credit Events and successions may occur but where issues are not raised within the requisite time period to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to qualify for a Credit Event or a qualifying succession, the events will not impact the relevant Credit Linked Notes, subject to any further actions undertaken by the Calculation Agent (where applicable).

Reference Obligations under the Credit Linked Notes

Where "Standard Reference Obligation" is specified as "Applicable" in the relevant Issue Terms, the reference obligation will be the obligation specified as the market standard reference obligation for the relevant Reference Entity for the relevant seniority level (the Standard Reference Obligation or SRO) when such SRO is published on the relevant SRO list and from the date of such publication any non-standard reference obligation set out in the relevant Issue Terms (if any) will no longer be the reference obligation. The rules outlining the selection and replacement of the Standard Reference Obligation are contained within the rules relating to Standard Reference Obligation, as published by ISDA (www.isda.org or any successor website) and as amended and/or supplemented from time to time in accordance with the terms thereof (the SRO Rules). The SRO for a relevant seniority level will only be replaced by the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee by majority vote in certain circumstances set out in the SRO Rules (for example, if the Standard Reference Obligation matures, is redeemed or is no longer an obligation of the Reference Entity, or in the case of where Financial Reference Entities is stated to be applicable in the Issue Terms and where Mod R or Mod Mod R applies, if the Standard Reference Obligation has less than one year remaining maturity and a replacement Standard Reference Obligation is available in the first maturity bucket, amongst others) after performing the necessary legal review and the Calculation Agent, the Issuer, the Dealer and/or one or more of their respective affiliates are not under an obligation to replace the SRO if a substitution event occurs. The Issue Terms may specify that Standard Reference Obligation does not apply, in which case the Reference Obligation will be the non-standard reference obligation specified in the Issue Terms, if any. Where certain substitution events occur with respect to such non-standard reference obligations, the Calculation Agent will attempt to substitute the same in accordance with the criteria and conditions set out in the Credit Linked Notes.

Where a Reference Obligation Only Series is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms, the Credit Linked Notes shall early redeem without any substitution of the reference obligation where the reference obligation is redeemed in whole but otherwise, no substitution will be required if the aggregate amounts under the said obligation have reduced or it no longer is an obligation of the Reference Entity.

Asset Package Delivery

Under the Credit Linked Conditions, asset package delivery provisions may apply in respect of a Financial Reference Entity in certain circumstances if either (i) a "Governmental Intervention" Credit Event has occurred or (ii) if "Restructuring" is an applicable Credit Event, a restructuring has occurred in respect of the reference obligation of a Financial Reference Entity, and such restructuring does not constitute a "Governmental Intervention" Credit Event. Asset package delivery options may also apply in respect of certain Sovereigns subject to restructuring of a package observable bond if Package Observable Bonds, being a certain number of deliverable bonds of the sovereign, exist. Following a "Governmental Intervention" Credit Event or a restructuring of a reference obligation, in each case in respect of a Financial Reference Entity, or in the case of certain sovereigns subject to restructuring of a package observable bond, provided that there was an existing obligation of the Reference Entity which, immediately prior to the relevant event constituted a deliverable obligation (a "Prior Deliverable Obligation" in the case of a Financial Reference Entity and "Package Observable Bond" in the case of certain sovereigns), the assets which result from such Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond can be used for purposes of redeeming the Credit Linked Notes (such redemption "Asset Package Delivery").

Asset Package Delivery may apply if an Asset Package Credit Event occurs unless (i) such Asset Package Credit Event occurs prior to the Credit Event Backstop Date determined in respect of the Credit Event that triggered redemption, (ii) the Reference Entity is a Sovereign and no Package Observable Bond exists immediately prior to such Asset Package Credit Event, or (iii) the Reference Entity is a Sovereign and "Sovereign Reference Entity No Asset Package Delivery" is specified as "Applicable" in the relevant Issue Terms (even if such a Package Observable Bond has been published by ISDA or any other successor entity).

Asset Package Delivery may apply in circumstances where the deliverable obligation has either been converted into something that does not constitute a deliverable obligation (e.g. equity), written-down in part (such that it becomes uneconomic to deliver) or written-down in full (such that it is uneconomic to deliver, but in any event, there is no obligation that can actually be delivered). In such circumstances, investors should note that the Outstanding Principal Balance will be treated to be the Outstanding Principal Balance immediately prior to the relevant Asset Package Credit Event and where the Outstanding Principal Balance is deemed to be written down to zero, the Asset Package shall be deemed to be zero and delivery of the Package Observable Bond or Prior Deliverable Obligation will be deemed to have been satisfied in full. For purposes of Asset Package Delivery, the asset package for any holder of the relevant Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond will consist of all of the assets in the proportion received or retained by such holder in connection with the Asset Package Credit Event. The relevant asset package must be delivered in the proportion received or retained by such a holder. If the asset package is not capable of being transferred (excluding due to market conditions) or is not of the type typically traded in, or suitable for being traded in, financial markets, the asset shall be deemed to be an amount of cash equal to the market value thereof by the calculation agent by reference to an appropriate specialist valuation or in accordance with the methodology determined by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee. In such case, Asset Package Delivery will occur by payment of such cash amount.

Sovereign Restructured Deliverable Obligations

Investors should note that where Asset Package Delivery is not applicable, an Obligation of a Reference Entity which is a Sovereign (either directly or as provider of a Relevant Guarantee) (a) in respect of which a Restructuring that is the subject of the Credit Event Notice or DC Credit Event Announcement has occurred and (b) which meets the deliverable obligation criteria falling within the specific category (Bond and/or Loan) and meeting certain characteristics immediately preceding the date on which such Restructuring is legally effective in accordance with the terms of the documentation governing such Restructuring remains a good deliverable for the purposes of inclusion on any Final List or Physical Redemption save that unlike in the case of Asset Package Delivery, the outstanding principal balance will not be deemed to be such outstanding principal balance prior to the restructuring credit event but will be assessed as per the terms of the Credit Linked Note at the time of determination. Accordingly, the Issuer may be required to deliver additional deliverable obligations in order to meet the outstanding principal balance requirements for delivery.

M(M)R Restructuring and Movement Option

If "Restructuring Maturity Limitation and Fully Transferable Obligation Applicable" or "Modified Restructuring Maturity Limitation and Conditionally Transferable Obligation Applicable" is specified in the relevant Issue Terms and M(M)R Restructuring occurs, investors should note that the deliverable obligations which qualify for inclusion on the Final List or for "Physical Redemption" must not only meet the specific deliverability obligation category or characteristics but is further restricted by virtue of its tenor to maturity. Accordingly, the loss suffered by an investor will depend on the recovery (expressed as a percentage) for the relevant deliverables. Longer dated obligations are subjected to lower recovery in comparison with the shorter dated obligations. Where the Calculation Agent determines in respect of an M(M)R Restructuring that a No Auction Announcement Date has occurred in certain circumstances, it may elect (in its sole and absolute discretion) to deliver a Notice to Exercise Movement Option to the Issuer in order for redemption to be effected by virtue of the relevant Auction Redemption Amount being determined by reference to a "Parallel Auction" identified by the Calculation Agent in the Notice to Exercise Movement Option, where the permissible deliverables are more limited in order to accommodate "Auction Redemption". Accordingly, in these circumstances, the loss suffered by an investor will depend on the recovery for the deliverable obligations associated with the particular "Parallel Auction".

Auction Redemption following a Credit Event

If "Auction Redemption" is applicable with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, then the amounts payable under the Credit Linked Notes will be determined on the basis of the final price determined pursuant to the auction procedure set out in the Credit Derivatives Auction Settlement Terms (available at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website)). In respect of specified obligations of the relevant Reference Entity, provided that the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that an applicable auction will be held, an auction final price determination date will occur. Credit losses determined pursuant to a market auction process may be greater or less than the losses which would have been determined in the absence of the auction. In particular, the auction process may be affected by technical factors or operational errors, which would not otherwise apply or may be the subject of actual or attempted manipulation. The administrator(s) specified in the auction settlement terms conduct auctions. Investors are subject to the risk that where a final price is determined in accordance with an auction, this may result in a lower recovery value than an obligation of the Reference Entity would have had if such final price had been determined pursuant to alternative methods.

In addition, the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee may amend the form of auction settlement terms for a particular auction. The DC Rules provide for certain amendments by resolution of a convened Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee. Other amendments may be made subject to a public comment period; however, the DC Rules permit the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee to forego a public comment period by supermajority action. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the Credit Derivatives Auction Settlement Terms for a particular auction will be on similar terms to the form of auction settlement terms or the terms of previous auctions.

Where the only relevant Credit Event is a restructuring, several concurrent but separate auctions may occur with respect to the Reference Entity and such Credit Event. The auction settlement amount may be based on the price of one or more obligations of the Reference Entity having a final maturity date different from the restructured obligation.

Although auctions can generally be expected to be held for Reference Entities that are widely traded in the credit markets, there can be no assurance that an auction will be held for future Credit Events or that, if held, the auction will result in the determination of an auction final price. If an auction is not held or fails to result in the determination of an auction final price (as might occur if an auction is cancelled by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee due, for example, to an inability to obtain the requisite number of initial bids) and if "Auction Redemption" is applicable with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, then the "Fallback Redemption Method" shall apply which, depending on the nature of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed, may be cash redemption, or physical redemption. In such circumstances of cash redemption, the final price will be determined pursuant to the valuation method specified in the Credit Linked Notes.

Investors should carefully assess and understand the elections specified in relation to the relevant Credit Linked Notes and the circumstances and/or events as described above, which may affect the value of and return on such Credit Linked Notes.

Physical Redemption following a Credit Event or Risk Event

Where Physical Redemption applies to Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer must select obligations of the Reference Entity that satisfy specified deliverability criteria and deliver those obligations to the investor in an amount determined in accordance with the terms of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that physical redemption may not be possible to accomplish under some circumstances, including where the Issuer is unable to procure the specified or selected deliverable obligation(s) due to market dislocations or prior redemptions or refinancings by the Reference Entity, failure to receive necessary transfer consents (such as from a borrower or agent) or delays in receiving such consents, or court orders prohibiting transfers of an obligation. In such event, the terms of the Credit Linked Notes may provide the Issuer with alternative methods of settlement or permit partial cash settlement subject to certain conditions or specify other fallback consequences which may include redemption by way of payment of a cash amount.

Investors should understand the terms of the obligation and applicable securities laws as these may restrict their ability to take delivery of Deliverable Obligations. Investors should also note that delivery expenses will be taken into account in determining the Outstanding Principal Balance or Due and Payable Amount of the relevant Deliverable Obligations to be delivered.

Outstanding Principal Balance

The calculation of the outstanding principal balance of a deliverable obligation is determined by (i) first, ascertaining all principal payment obligations of a Reference Entity (ii) then deducting any delivery expenses and any interest suspension shortfall amounts and determining all or any portion of such principal payment obligations that are subject to a contingency (other than a Permitted Contingency (as defined below)) or prohibited action which need to be disregarded, leaving an amount equal to the non-contingent amount and (iii) finally, determining the quantum of the claim that could be validly asserted against a Reference Entity in respect of such non-contingent amount if the obligation was redeemed or accelerated which would be the outstanding principal balance. If payments of principal are subject to a contingency, the outstanding principal balance could be less than the principal balance (and depending upon the type of contingency, could be zero).

"Permitted Contingency" means, with respect to an obligation, any reduction to the Reference Entity's payment obligations: (a) as a result of the application of: (i) any provisions allowing a transfer, pursuant to which another party may assume all of the payment obligations of the Reference Entity; (ii) provisions implementing the subordination of the obligation; (iii) provisions allowing for a transfer of a qualifying guarantee (or provisions allowing for the release of the Reference Entity from its payment obligations in the case of any other guarantees); (iv) any solvency capital provisions if "Subordinated European Insurance Terms" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms; or (v) if "Financial Reference Entity Terms" is specified as applicable to the Reference Entity in the Issue Terms, provisions (a) which permit the Financial Reference Entity's obligations to be altered, discharged, released or suspended in circumstances which would constitute a governmental intervention; or (b) which is within the control of the holders of the obligation or a third party acting on their behalf (such as an agent or trustee).

Outstanding Principal Balance – Fallback Discounting

The definition of "Outstanding Principal Balance" provides for the quantum of the claim to be determined in accordance with any applicable laws that reduce or discount the size of the claim to reflect the original issue price or accrued value of the obligation. Where "Fallback Discounting" applies and if certain other conditions are met, being (i) the Outstanding Principal Balance of an obligation is not reduced or discounted in accordance with applicable law, and (ii) the relevant obligation is either a Bond that has an issue price less than 95 per cent. of the principal redemption amount or a Loan where the amount advanced is less than 95 per cent. of the principal repayment amount where, in each case, no provisions relating to the accretion over time of the amount which would be payable on an early redemption or repayment of such Bond or Loan that are customary for the applicable type of Bond or Loan as the case may be exists, prospective investors should note that Delivery by the Issuer of impacted Deliverable Obligations or LA Settlement Assets, as applicable, would need to account for the Outstanding Principal Balance which would be further reduced in such case which could result in an anticipated par claim being treated as less than par. In such circumstances, the Credit Linked Conditions provide that the Outstanding Principal Balance would instead be the lesser of (I) the Non-Contingent Amount; and (II) an amount determined by straight line interpolation between the issue price of the Bond or the amount advanced under the Loan and the principal redemption amount or principal repayment amount, as applicable. Further details relating to determinations as to whether the issue price of a Bond or the amount advanced under a Loan is less than 95 per cent. of the principal redemption amount or principal repayment amount (as applicable) or, where applicable, for applying straight line interpolation in the context of exchanges are set out in the Credit Linked Conditions.

Partial cash redemption and Fallback Cash Redemption

If all or any part of the Physical Redemption Assets that would be required to be Delivered to a Securityholder is not a whole integral multiple of the smallest unit of transfer for any such Physical Redemption Assets at the relevant time of Delivery, as determined by the Calculation Agent, the Issuer will only Deliver the portion of the Physical Redemption Assets specified by the Issuer which is as large a size as possible but less than the full Physical Redemption Assets, after consideration of such smallest unit or units of transfer and application of rounding. The value of the undelivered obligations will be deemed to be zero and the Issuer's obligations to an investor in respect of such portion shall be fully and effectively discharged in such circumstances.

The Issuer may elect in lieu of delivering all or any part of the Asset Package to pay cash instead to investors the asset market value" of any non delivered asset package converted if necessary, into the currency of denomination of the Credit Linked Notes at the prevailing market rate of exchange determined by the Calculation Agent in good faith. Such asset market value may be determined by the Calculation Agent based on any specialised valuation or methodology determined by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee or the Calculation Agent or based on a value obtained as though Cash Redemption were to apply on a Valuation Date selected by the Calculation Agent.

Final Physical Redemption Cut-Off Date

The terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes allow for the Issuer in certain circumstances to attempt to continue performing its delivery obligations after the Physical Redemption Date. If Delivery is not completed in full by the Latest Permissible Physical Settlement Date, in certain circumstances when the event affecting Delivery is cured, the Issuer may be required to complete Delivery on or prior to the Final Physical Redemption Cut-Off Date.

Delivery of loans

Where Physical Redemption applies and to the extent investors would be required to receive loans as deliverable obligations under a Credit Linked Note, investors should be familiar with the documentation and settlement practices of the relevant secondary loan trading markets and applicable laws and regulations (including the legal consequences of furnishing or receiving non-public information regarding a Reference Entity).

Provisions of the Reference Entity's credit agreements may affect a party's ability to deliver or receive loans, the economic consequences of doing so and whether loans meet deliverability criteria. Accordingly, investors should review such agreements carefully, including the provisions governing assignments, any collateral allocation mechanisms i.e., a mandatory exchange of obligations for other obligations under a credit agreement, not all of which may be deliverable and provisions that may require or entitle a lender to advance funds.

Payment/Delivery Failure Event – failure to deliver

Investors should note that a Payment/Delivery Failure Event will occur where certain relevant definitive Credit Linked Notes and/or the Deliverable Obligation Notice are not delivered or there is a failure to duly execute, deliver and/or accept a transfer certificate or other transfer document on or before any Delivery Date and/or specify a date for transfer of the relevant Deliverable Obligation that is on or before any Delivery Date. In such case, investors should note that the obligations of the Issuer to procure Delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and make any payment shall cease until such time such event is cured whereupon deferred delivery shall apply or if "Fallback Cash Redemption" is specified to apply in the relevant Issue Terms, fallback cash settlement shall apply. Investors will not be entitled to any payment, whether of interest or otherwise, in the event of such deferred delivery or payment.

Cash Redemption following a Credit Event

If "Cash Redemption" applies to the Credit Linked Notes, then following the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, the Calculation Agent will be required to seek quotations in respect of selected obligations of the Reference Entity in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that such obligations may no longer exist and no qualifying substitute obligations may have been identified, such quotations may not be available, or the level of such quotations may be substantially reduced as a result of illiquidity in the relevant markets or as a result of factors other than the credit risk of the Reference Entity (for example, liquidity constraints affecting market dealers). Moreover, the market value of a Reference Entity's obligations may be highly volatile in the period following a Credit Event or Risk Event. Accordingly, any quotations so obtained may be significantly lower than the value of the relevant obligation which would be determined by reference to (for example) the present value of related cash flows or the value that a party could obtain if it controlled the disposition of the obligations. Furthermore, the price of the selected obligations of the Reference Entity may be deemed to be zero in the event that no such quotations are available. Further, valuation of the selected obligations will be determined at a particular determination date and as such the recovery price which would be adopted in any loss amount or incurred loss amount that would be suffered by an investor following the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, will reflect the value of relevant obligations at a given date. As such, the exposure to loss suffered by an investor or any principal write-down may be more than that ultimately realised by a holder of debt obligations of the Reference Entity, whether by means of enforcement of rights following a default or receipt of distributions following an insolvency or otherwise.

Investors should note that if an Asset Package Credit Event has occurred, (A) valuation of a Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond may be satisfied by valuation of the related Asset Package and such Asset Package shall be treated as having the same currency and Outstanding Principal Balance as that of the Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond, as applicable, to which it corresponds immediately prior to the Asset Package Credit Event, (B) if the Asset Package is zero, a Quotation shall be deemed to have been obtained for the Outstanding Principal Balance of the Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond, as applicable, equal to zero.

Further, where quotations are sought on an asset package, such asset package may contain assets which are hard to value and for which a valuation methodology may not be readily available or suitable, which may reduce the value of quotations or the availability of quotations that may otherwise have been obtained. Accordingly, investors should note that any quotations so obtained may be significantly lower than the value of the relevant obligation (or asset package) which would be determined by reference to (for example) the present value of related cash flows or the value that a party could obtain if it controlled the disposition of the obligations.

Fixed Recovery Redemption may be subject to a fixed recovery price

Where the Credit Event Redemption Amount of the Credit Linked Notes is calculated by reference to a fixed recovery price of the obligations of a Reference Entity(ies), the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, may result in the recovery being materially lower than the prevailing price of the relevant obligations of the relevant Reference Entity. Investors should note that Fixed Recovery Redemption could occur with a Fixed Recovery Percentage set at zero per cent. where the Issue Terms specify accordingly.

If the Fixed Recovery Percentage is zero, following the occurrence of a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the occurrence of the Cash Redemption Date or the Final Cash Redemption Date, the LA Cash Redemption Date or Final LA Cash Redemption Date, as applicable, shall fully and effectively discharge the Issuer's obligation to redeem the relevant Credit Linked Notes. Investors should be aware that where the Fixed Recovery Percentage is zero, the loss amount in respect of the Affected Reference Entity will be 100 per cent. and, accordingly, no redemption amounts will be payable or assets deliverable to the Securityholders. Investors accordingly will bear the loss of their principal.

No early redemption or frustration

Investors should note that the Credit Linked Notes will not early redeem and no frustration shall occur solely because the Reference Entity does not exist on, or ceases to exist on or following, the Trade Date or Issue Date or Obligations, Deliverable Obligations or the Reference Obligation do not exist on, or cease to exist on or following, the Trade Date or Issue Date. Accordingly, investors should conduct their own investigation as to the existence of a Reference Entity and/or relevant obligations prior to the purchase of the Credit Linked Notes to ensure that the exposure to the particular Reference Entity is within the contemplated objectives of the investor.

Early redemption, merger event redemption and redemption in respect of Reference Obligation Only Series

If "Redemption following Merger" is specified as being applicable in the relevant Issue Terms, investors should note that the Credit Linked Notes (other than Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes) may be redeemed earlier by the Issuer where it or the Calculation Agent determines that the Issuer or a Reference Entity consolidates or amalgamates with, or merges into, or transfers all or substantially all of its respective assets to, a Reference Entity or the Issuer, as applicable, or the Issuer and a Reference Entity become Affiliates. Accordingly, a Merger Event will result in the relevant Credit Linked Notes being redeemed in full or in part at the Merger Redemption Amount.

If a Reference Obligation is fully redeemed with respect to a Reference Obligation for a Series of Credit Linked Notes in respect of a Reference Entity to which "Reference Obligation Only" applies, investors should note that the relevant Credit Linked Notes shall be redeemed in part or in full at the Substitution Event Redemption Amount.

If the Credit Linked Notes are so redeemed early in the circumstances described above, the Issuer will pay to investors, as holder of such Securities, an amount specified in the General Conditions or the Credit Linked Conditions or such other amount (or method for calculating the amount) specified in the applicable Issue Terms. There is no guarantee that the amount repaid to any investor will be equal to or higher than the initial investment in the relevant Credit Linked Notes and such amount may be substantially less than such initial investment.

Relevant Credit Events and Relevant Risk Events disregarded

Where a Relevant Credit Event or a Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, occurs immediately after an event triggering early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes, the occurrence of the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, will be disregarded (to the extent that the relevant Credit Linked Notes have not already been redeemed in full and cancelled) and the Early Redemption Amount, Optional Redemption Amount, Merger Redemption Amount or the Substitution Event Redemption Amount, as applicable, payable to Securityholders will be determined on the basis of the event triggering early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes only.

Local Access Credit Linked Notes

Risk Events

Local Access Credit Linked Notes may be redeemed pursuant to the occurrence of any Credit Event or an Additional Risk Event (together, the Risk Events) in respect of one or more Reference Entities and, in either case, unless the Local Access Credit Linked Notes are fixed recovery, on the value of certain specified assets of any such Reference Entities or where, if any of such events has occurred, on settlement the Issuer's obligation is to deliver certain specified assets. Any such settlement will be reduced to take into account any Unwind Costs and so will depend upon the level of such Unwind Costs.

Additional Risk Events are indicative of defaults or risks specific to certain local access jurisdictions and will apply to Local Access Credit Linked Notes to the extent that such events apply in the relevant Issue Terms. Prospective investors should note that not all possible Additional Risk Events are related directly to default or credit risk in respect of a Reference Entity or default in respect of the Reference Investor

Assets and such Additional Risk Events may include, without limitation, the occurrence of one or more of the following:

- (a) an Inconvertibility Event - the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of any event or condition that has the effect of it being impossible, illegal or impracticable for, or of prohibiting, restricting or materially delaying the ability of, any Reference Investor (i) to convert currency; or (ii) to effect currency transactions on terms as favourable as those available to residents of the Reference Jurisdiction; or (iii) to freely and unconditionally transfer or repatriate any funds from accounts inside the Reference Jurisdiction to accounts outside the Reference Jurisdiction or between accounts inside the Reference Jurisdiction; or (iv) to receive the full value of any cash payment made under the Reference Investor Assets due to the introduction after the Additional Risk Event Start Date by any Governmental Authority of a new currency regime (including the introduction of a dual currency regime) or the imposition of currency exchange limitations;
- (b) an Ownership Restriction Event - the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of any event or existence of any condition that has the effect of it being illegal, impossible or impracticable for, or has the effect of prohibiting, restricting or materially delaying the ability of, any Reference Investor to purchase, hold, receive, sell, freely transfer or remain the owner of any Reference Investor Asset or any amount received in respect thereof; and
- (c) a Settlement/Custodial Event - (i) the occurrence after the Additional Risk Event Start Date of the bankruptcy of any Custodian or (ii) in respect of the Reference Investor Assets owned by a Reference Investor or any amount received in respect thereof, a Custodian (A) fails to perform in a timely manner any or all of its obligations owed under any Reference Custodial/Settlement Arrangement, or (B) fails to take any action when instructed to do so by a Reference Investor, or (C) takes any action which is contrary to the terms of any Reference Custodial/Settlement Arrangement; in each case that affects or may affect, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the hedging arrangements of the Issuer and/or any of its Affiliates in respect of the Issuer's obligations with respect to the Local Access Credit Linked Note(s).

The loss incurred by an Investor may be unrelated to or disproportionate in comparison with the Additional Risk Event itself. Moreover, the Calculation Agent may designate an Additional Risk Event, which could cause such losses to be incurred by an Investor, if the Additional Risk Event occurs at any time during the term of the Local Access Credit Linked Notes, whether or not the Additional Risk Event is ongoing or effective or has been remedied or cured at the time such designation has been made.

Exposure to Reference Asset

In respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes for which "Reference Asset Only Settlement" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, following a Risk Event, the Local Access Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed by valuation or delivery (as applicable) of the Reference Asset in respect of a Reference Entity (rather than obligations of the relevant Reference Entity generally). It follows therefore that returns on such Local Access Credit Linked Notes may be adversely affected by circumstances affecting the Reference Asset even where other obligations of the Reference Entity are not affected. The creditworthiness or market value of the relevant Reference Asset may be less favourable than other obligations of the relevant Reference Entity due to liquidity, marketability, circumstances of origination, legal or validity risks, local access risks described below, or one or more other characteristics. Investors in the Local Access Credit Linked Notes should understand that their recovery in relation to the relevant Reference Asset may be substantially less than for more generally representative obligations of the relevant Reference Entity.

Index Skew Notes

The Index Skew Notes are linked, through a Hypothetical Skew Transaction constituting a combination of (i) an index CDS and (ii) individual credit default swaps on the Reference Entities included in the index underlying the index CDS (the component CDSs). Where the Issuer is the protection seller under the index CDS it is the protection buyer under the component CDSs, and vice versa. The value of the combined positions reflects the difference (the skew) between the value of the index CDS and the aggregate value of its component CDSs. Although each constituent of the Hypothetical Skew Transaction is intended to give rise to an equal and opposite payment obligation on each Fixed Rate Payer Payment

Date, Auction Settlement Date or Cash Settlement Date (as applicable), no actual payments will be due from the Issuer to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty or vice versa due to the application of payment netting.

The value of an index CDS may differ from the aggregate value of its component CDSs for several reasons, including (a) differences in liquidity and other characteristics in the markets for the index CDS the component CDSs; (b) differences in relevant terms of the index CDS and its component CDSs; (c) factors that affect the activities of arbitrageurs; and (d) changes in the default correlation among the Reference Entities included in the index CDS.

As the notional of the Hypothetical Skew Transactions may be far greater than the principal amount issued under the Index Skew Notes, the value of the Index Skew Notes may be very volatile and any Index Skew Early Redemption Amount will be linked to, inter alia, the difference between the pricing of credit protection on the relevant index and the market levels of the constituent single name Reference Entities that comprise the relevant index.

Liquidity differences may make a greater contribution to skew during periods of heightened volatility, as the value of the more liquid instrument(s) may change more quickly than the value of the less liquid instrument(s). Furthermore, during periods when transaction costs (such as funding costs and bid-ask spreads) to market participants increase, skew may become greater, as the increased transaction costs may reduce the activities of arbitrageurs (i.e. market participants that seek to profit from the skew and, in the process, tend to reduce it).

Although the payments under a Hypothetical Skew Transaction is intended to be equal to zero due to the application of payment netting as described above, if the Index Skew Notes were to be redeemed early, a termination payment would be determined in respect of the each constituent transaction within the relevant Hypothetical Skew Transactions and the aggregate of such termination payments may result in an amount being payable by the Issuer to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty or by the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty to the Issuer which could result in the Early Redemption Amount or Optional Early Redemption Amount (as the case may be) due to Securityholders being reduced further if the Issuer is required to make a payment to the Hypothetical Swap Counterparty for such termination payment or if the Issuer is subject to further Unwind Costs.

In addition, prospective investors in the Index Skew Notes should be aware that no notifications shall be given by the Issuer or any other party to Securityholders following the occurrence of a Credit Event. To the extent that the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that a Credit Event has occurred in respect of a particular entity, information will be published on the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees website at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

SECTION F.4 – FORM OF THE SECURITIES

Subject as provided below in relation to Swedish Securities, Finnish Securities and French Law Securities, the Securities of each Series will be in registered form. Registered Securities may be offered and sold either outside the United States to non-U.S. persons in reliance on Regulation S under the Securities Act (Regulation S) or, in the case of Registered Securities representing Notes issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI, within the United States to QIBs (as defined below) in reliance on Rule 144A under the Securities Act (Rule 144A).

Securities that are not Swedish Securities or Finnish Securities and are Registered Securities

The Registered Securities of each Tranche offered and sold in reliance on Regulation S, which will be sold in offshore transactions to persons that are not U.S. persons (as defined in Regulation S) outside the United States, will be represented by a Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate (a Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate). Beneficial interests in a Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate may not be offered, sold or transferred at any time in the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, a U.S. person and may not be held otherwise than through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) and such Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate will bear a legend regarding such restrictions on transfer.

Each Security Certificate will be numbered serially with an identifying number which will be recorded in the Register.

The Registered Securities representing Notes of each Tranche offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A, which may only be issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI, may only be offered and sold in private transactions to "qualified institutional buyers" within the meaning of Rule 144A (QIBs). The Registered Securities representing Notes of each Tranche sold to QIBs will be represented by a Rule 144A Global Registered Security Certificate (a Rule 144A Global Registered Security Certificate and, together with a Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate, the Global Registered Security Certificates), and beneficial interests in such Global Registered Security Certificates may not be offered, sold or otherwise transferred at any time except to a QIB purchasing (or holding) the Notes for its account or for the account of one or more QIBs in reliance on Rule 144A.

Global Registered Security Certificates will either (i) be deposited with a custodian for, and registered in the name of a nominee of, the Depository Trust Company (DTC) for the accounts of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg or (ii) be deposited with a common depositary or if the Global Registered Security Certificate is to be held under the new safekeeping structure (the NSS) a common safekeeper (the Common Safekeeper), as the case may be, for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg, and registered in the name of a common nominee of a common depositary for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg or in the name of a nominee of the Common Safekeeper, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms. Persons holding beneficial interests in Global Registered Security Certificates will be entitled or required, as the case may be, to receive physical delivery of definitive Securities in fully registered form.

Where the Global Registered Security Certificate issued in respect of any Tranche is intended to be held under the NSS, the applicable Issue Terms will indicate whether or not such Global Registered Security Certificate is intended to be held in a manner which would allow Eurosystem eligibility. Any indication that the Global Registered Security Certificate are to be so held does not necessarily mean that the Securities of the relevant Tranche will be recognised as eligible collateral for Eurosystem monetary policy and intra-day credit operations by the Eurosystem either upon issue or at any time during their life as such recognition depends upon satisfaction of the Eurosystem eligibility criteria. The common safekeeper for a Global Registered Security Certificate held under the NSS will be either Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or another entity approved by Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg.

The Rule 144A Global Registered Security Certificate will be subject to certain restrictions on transfer described in such Rule 144A Global Registered Security Certificate and will bear a legend regarding such restrictions.

No Securities represented by a Combined Global Registered Note Certificate (as defined in the Fiscal Agency Agreement) will be issued under this Base Prospectus.

Swedish Securities

Swedish Securities will be issued in dematerialised and uncertificated book-entry form in accordance with the Swedish Act on Central Securities Depositories and Financial Instruments Accounts (Sw; lag (1998:1479) om värdepapperscentraler och kontoföring av finansiella instrument) (the SFIA Act), other applicable Swedish legislation and the rules and regulations applicable to, and/or issued by, Euroclear Sweden. Swedish Securities will not be issued in definitive or global form.

Swedish Securities will be registered in a register kept by Euroclear Sweden on behalf of the Issuer (the Swedish Securities Register) and payments of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts on Swedish Securities will be made by Euroclear Sweden on behalf of the Issuer to the persons registered as holders of such Swedish Securities in the Swedish Securities Register on the fifth Stockholm Banking Day prior to the due date of the relevant payment.

Finnish Securities

Finnish Securities will be issued in uncertificated and dematerialised book-entry-form in accordance with the Finnish Act on the Book-Entry System and Clearing Operations, (Fin. laki arvo-osuusjärjestelmästä ja selvitystoiminnasta (348/2017, as amended)) and with the Finnish Act on Book-Entry Accounts, (Fin. laki arvo-osuustileistä (827/1991, as amended)) other applicable Finnish legislation and the rules, regulations and decisions applicable to, and/or issued by, Euroclear Finland. Finnish Securities will not be issued in definitive form.

French Law Securities

French Law Securities will be issued in dematerialised form. French Law Securities must at all times be in book-entry form in compliance with Articles L.211–3 and R.211–1 of the French Code monétaire et financier. French Law Securities shall constitute "obligations" within the meaning of Article L.213–5 of the French Code monétaire et financier.

No global or definitive French Law Securities will be issued. The French Law Securities will be transferable only in accordance with the rules and procedures of Euroclear France.

French Law Securities may be issued, at the option of the Issuer, in either: (i) bearer dematerialised form (au porteur), which will be inscribed in the books of Euroclear France which shall credit the accounts of an accountholder (being any authorised financial intermediary institution entitled to hold accounts directly or indirectly on behalf of its customers with Euroclear France) (the Euroclear France Accountholder); or (ii) in registered dematerialised form (au nominatif) and, at the option of the Securityholder in either administered registered form (au nominatif administré) inscribed in the books of a Euroclear France Accountholder (and mirroring the inscriptions in the books maintained by the Issuer or the French Law Securities Registration Agent acting on behalf of the Issuer, if applicable) or in fully registered form (au nominatif pur) inscribed in an account held by Euroclear France and in the books maintained by the Issuer (or the French Law Securities Registration Agent acting on behalf of the Issuer, if applicable).

Relationship of Accountholders with Clearing Systems

For so long as any of the Securities is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate held on behalf of Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France), each person (other than Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg or Euroclear France) who is for the time being shown in the records of Euroclear or of Clearstream, Luxembourg (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) as the holder of a particular principal amount or number of such Securities (in which regard any certificate or other document issued by Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) as to the principal amount or number of such Securities standing to the account of any person shall be conclusive and binding for all purposes save in the case of manifest error) shall be treated by the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and the Agents as the holder of such principal amount or number of such Securities for all purposes other than with respect to the payment of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts in respect of the Securities, for which purpose the registered holder of the relevant Global Registered Security Certificate shall be treated by the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL

Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and each Agent as the holder of such principal amount or number of such Securities in accordance with and subject to the terms of the relevant Global Registered Security Certificate, and the expressions Securityholder and holder of Securities and related expressions shall be construed accordingly.

So long as DTC or its nominee is the registered owner or holder of a Global Registered Security Certificate, DTC or such nominee, as the case may be, will be considered the sole owner or holder of the Securities represented by such Global Registered Security Certificate for all purposes under the Fiscal Agency Agreement and such Securities except to the extent that, in accordance with DTC's published rules and procedures, any ownership rights may be exercised by its participants or beneficial owners through participants.

Securities which are represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate will be transferable only in accordance with the rules and procedures for the time being of Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg and/or DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France), as the case may be, subject to the restrictions on transfer described in this Base Prospectus. Each of the persons shown in the records of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) as the beneficial holder of a particular principal amount or number of Securities represented by such Global Registered Security Certificate must look solely to Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France), as the case may be, for his share of each payment made by the Issuer or, where the Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor or, where the Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor to the holder of such Global Registered Security Certificate and the obligations of the Issuer in respect of the relevant Securities will be discharged by payment to the holder of such Global Registered Security Certificate in respect of each amount so paid.

Exchanges

Exchange of Global Registered Security Certificates

A Global Registered Security Certificate may be exchanged in whole but not in part (free of charge) for definitive Registered Security Certificates only upon the occurrence of an Exchange Event.

An Exchange Event means:

- (a) an Event of Default (as defined in General Condition 11 (Events of Default)) has occurred and is continuing; or
- (b) if the Global Registered Security Certificate is registered in the name of a nominee for a common depository for Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg or in the name of a nominee of the Common Safekeeper, as the case may be, the Issuer has been notified that Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as the case may be, has/have been closed for business for a continuous period of 14 days (other than by reason of holiday, statutory or otherwise) or has/have announced an intention permanently to cease business or has/have in fact done so and no successor clearing system is available; or
- (c) if the Global Registered Security Certificate is registered in the name of a nominee for DTC, either DTC has notified the Issuer that it is unwilling or unable to continue to act as depository for the Securities and no alternative clearing system is available or DTC has ceased to constitute a clearing agency registered under the Exchange Act and no successor clearing system is available; or
- (d) the Issuer has or will become subject to adverse tax consequences which would not be suffered were the Securities represented by the Registered Security Certificate in definitive form.

The Issuer will promptly give notice to Securityholders upon the occurrence of an Exchange Event. In the event of the occurrence of an Exchange Event as described in (a) to (c) above, Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg, and/or DTC, as the case may be, acting on the instructions of any holder of an interest in such Global Registered Security Certificate may give notice to the Registrar requesting exchange and, in the event of the occurrence of an Exchange Event as described in (a) to (d) above, the Issuer may also give notice to the Registrar requesting exchange. Any exchange shall occur no later than 10 days after the date of receipt of the relevant notice by the Registrar.

Any exchanges of a Global Registered Security Certificate will be made upon presentation of the Global Registered Security Certificate at the specified office of the Registrar by the holder of it on any day (other than a Saturday or Sunday) on which banks are open for general business in the city of the specified office of the Registrar.

Deed of Covenant

Where any Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and (a) the Global Registered Security Certificate (or any part of such Global Registered Security Certificate) has become due and repayable in accordance with the Conditions of such Securities or the Maturity Date has occurred and, in either case, payment in full of the amount due has not been made to the holder of an interest in such Global Registered Security Certificate through the relevant Clearing System(s) on such date, or (b) following an Exchange Event, the Global Registered Security Certificate is not duly exchanged for Registered Security Certificates in definitive form by the date provided in the Global Registered Security Certificate, then from 8.00 p.m. (London time) on such date each holder of an interest in such Global Registered Security Certificate through the relevant Clearing System(s) will become entitled to proceed directly against the Issuer on, and subject to, the terms of the relevant Deed of Covenant, the relevant registered holder will have no further rights under the Global Registered Security Certificate (but without prejudice to the rights any person may have under the relevant Deed of Covenant).

Clearing Systems

Any reference in this Base Prospectus to Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg, DTC, Euroclear Sweden, Euroclear Finland and/or Euroclear France shall, whenever the context so permits, be deemed to include a reference to any additional or alternative clearance system specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

SECTION F.5 – BOOK ENTRY CLEARANCE SYSTEMS

The information set out below is subject to any change in or reinterpretation of the rules, regulations and procedures of DTC, Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg, Euroclear Sweden, Euroclear Finland or Euroclear France (together, the Clearing Systems) currently in effect.

The information in this section concerning the Clearing Systems has been obtained from sources that the Issuers believe to be reliable, but none of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and any Dealer takes any responsibility for the accuracy of such information, except that the Issuers and the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) accept responsibility for accurately reproducing such information and, as far as the Issuers and the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) are aware and are able to ascertain from information published by the relevant Clearing Systems, no facts have been omitted which would render the reproduced information inaccurate or misleading.

Investors wishing to use the facilities of any of the Clearing Systems are advised to confirm the continued applicability of the rules, regulations and procedures of the relevant Clearing System. None of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor, and any other party to the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement or the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, as the case may be, will have any responsibility or liability for any aspect of the records relating to, or payments made on account of, beneficial ownership interests in the Securities held through the facilities of any Clearing System or for maintaining, supervising or reviewing any records relating to such beneficial ownership interests.

Book-entry Systems

DTC

DTC has advised the Issuers that it is a limited purpose trust company organised under the New York Banking Law, a banking organisation within the meaning of the New York Banking Law, a member of the Federal Reserve System, a clearing corporation within the meaning of the New York Uniform Commercial Code and a clearing agency registered pursuant to Section 17A of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. DTC holds securities that its participants (Direct Participants) deposit with DTC. DTC also facilitates the settlement among Direct Participants of sales and other securities transactions, such as transfers and pledges, in deposited securities through electronic computerised book-entry changes in Direct Participants' accounts, thereby eliminating the need for physical movement of securities certificates. Direct Participants include both U.S. and non-U.S. securities brokers and dealers, banks, trust companies, clearing corporations and certain other organisations. DTC is a wholly-owned subsidiary of The Depository Trust & Clearing Corporation (DTCC). DTCC is the holding company for DTC, National Securities Clearing Corporation and Fixed Income Clearing Corporation, all of which are registered clearing agencies. DTCC is owned by the users of its regulation subsidiaries. Access to the DTC System is also available to others such as securities brokers and dealers, banks and trust companies that clear through or maintain a custodial relationship with a Direct Participant, either directly or indirectly (Indirect Participants and, together with Direct Participants, Participants). More information about DTCC can be found at www.dtcc.com.

Under the rules, regulations and procedures creating and affecting DTC and its operations (the DTC Rules), DTC makes book-entry transfers of Registered Securities among Direct Participants on whose behalf it acts with respect to Securities accepted into DTC's book-entry settlement system (DTC Securities) as described below and receives and transmits distributions of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts due on DTC Securities. The DTC Rules are on file with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Direct Participants and Indirect Participants with which beneficial owners of DTC Securities (Owners) have accounts with respect to the DTC Securities similarly are required to make book-entry transfers and receive and transmit such payments on behalf of their respective Owners. Accordingly, although Owners who hold DTC Securities through Direct Participants or Indirect Participants will not possess Registered Securities, the DTC Rules, by virtue of the requirements described above, provide a mechanism by which Direct Participants will receive payments and will be able to transfer their interest in respect of the DTC Securities.

Purchases of DTC Securities under the DTC system must be made by or through Direct Participants, which will receive a credit for the DTC Securities on DTC's records. The ownership interest of each actual purchaser of each DTC Security (Beneficial Owner) is in turn to be recorded on the Direct Participant's and Indirect Participant's records. Beneficial Owners will not receive written confirmation from DTC of their purchase, but Beneficial Owners are expected to receive written confirmations providing details of the transaction, as well as periodic statements of their holdings, from the Direct Participant or Indirect Participant through which the Beneficial Owner entered into the transaction. Transfers of ownership interests in the DTC Securities are to be accomplished by entries made on the books of Participants acting on behalf of Beneficial Owners. Beneficial Owners will not receive certificates representing their ownership interests in DTC Securities, except in the event that use of the book-entry system for the DTC Securities is discontinued.

To facilitate subsequent transfers, all DTC Securities deposited by Participants with DTC are registered in the name of DTC's partnership nominee, Cede & Co, or such other name as may be requested by an authorised representative of DTC. The deposit of DTC Securities with DTC and their registration in the name of Cede & Co. or such other DTC nominee effect no change in beneficial ownership. DTC has no knowledge of the actual Beneficial Owners of the DTC Securities; DTC's records reflect only the identity of the Direct Participants to whose accounts such DTC Securities are credited, which may or may not be the Beneficial Owners. The Participants will remain responsible for keeping account of their holdings on behalf of their customers.

Conveyance of notices and other communications by DTC to Direct Participants, by Direct Participants to Indirect Participants, and by Direct Participants and Indirect Participants to Beneficial Owners will be governed by arrangements among them, subject to any statutory or regulatory requirements as may be in effect from time to time.

Redemption notices shall be sent to DTC. If less than all of the DTC Securities within an issue are being redeemed, DTC's practice is to determine by lot the amount of the interest of each Direct Participant in such issue to be redeemed.

Neither DTC nor Cede & Co. (nor any other DTC nominee) will consent or vote with respect to DTC Securities unless authorised by a Direct Participant in accordance with DTC's MMI Procedures. Under its usual procedures, DTC mails an Omnibus Proxy to the Issuer as soon as possible after the record date. The Omnibus Proxy assigns Cede & Co.'s consenting or voting rights to those Direct Participants to whose accounts the DTC Securities are credited on the record date (identified in a listing attached to the Omnibus Proxy).

Principal, interest, termination or any other amounts due on the DTC Securities will be made to Cede & Co., or such other nominee as may be requested by an authorised representative of DTC. DTC's practice is to credit Direct Participants' accounts upon DTC's receipt of funds and corresponding detail information from the Issuer or the relevant agent (or such other nominee as may be requested by an authorised representative of DTC), on the relevant payment date in accordance with their respective holdings shown in DTC's records. Payments by Participants to Beneficial Owners will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices, as is the case with securities held for the accounts of customers, and will be the responsibility of such Participant and not of DTC or the Issuer, subject to any statutory or regulatory requirements as may be in effect from time to time. Payment of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts to DTC is the responsibility of the Issuer, disbursement of such payments to Direct Participants is the responsibility of DTC, and disbursement of such payments to the Beneficial Owners is the responsibility of Direct Participants and Indirect Participants.

Under certain circumstances, DTC will exchange the DTC Securities for definitive Registered Securities, which it will distribute to its Participants in accordance with their proportionate entitlements and which will be legended as set forth under "Subscription and Sale and Transfer and Selling Restrictions".

A Beneficial Owner shall give notice to elect to have its DTC Securities purchased or tendered, through its Participant, to the relevant agent, and shall effect delivery of such DTC Securities by causing the Direct Participant to transfer the Participant's interest in the DTC Securities, on DTC's records, to the relevant agent. The requirement for physical delivery of DTC Securities in connection with an optional tender or a mandatory purchase will be deemed satisfied when the ownership rights in the DTC Securities are transferred by Direct Participants on DTC's records and followed by a book-entry credit of tendered DTC Securities to the relevant agent's DTC account.

DTC may discontinue providing its services as depository with respect to the DTC Securities at any time by giving reasonable notice to the Issuer or the relevant agent. Under such circumstances, in the event that a successor depository is not obtained, DTC Security certificates are required to be printed and delivered.

The Issuer may decide to discontinue use of the system of book-entry-only transfers through DTC (or a successor securities depository). In that event, DTC Security certificates will be printed and delivered to DTC.

Since DTC may only act on behalf of Direct Participants, who in turn act on behalf of Indirect Participants, any Owner desiring to pledge DTC Securities to persons or entities that do not participate in DTC, or otherwise take actions with respect to such DTC Securities, will be required to withdraw its Registered Securities from DTC as described below.

Euroclear Sweden

Euroclear Sweden is a subsidiary within the Euroclear group of companies. It is authorised and regulated by the Swedish Financial Supervisory Authority (Sw. Finansinspektionen) as a central securities depository within the meaning of the Regulation (EU) No 909/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 23 July 2014 on improving securities settlement in the European Union and on central securities depositories and amending Directives 98/26/EC and 2014/65/EU and Regulation (EU) No 236/2012, the SFIA Act and as a clearing organisation within the meaning of the Swedish Securities Market Act (2007:528 (as amended)). Swedish Securities will be issued in registered, uncertificated and dematerialised book-entry form with Euroclear Sweden. No physical notes, certificates or other physical instruments (whether in global, temporary or definitive form) will be issued in respect of the Swedish Securities. All transactions relating to the Swedish Securities (such as issuance, sale and transfer, pledge arrangements and other dispositions and redemptions) are executed as computerised book-entry registrations. Consequently, in order to effect such entries holders must establish a book-entry account through a credit institution or a securities firm acting as an account operator at Euroclear Sweden. More information regarding Euroclear Sweden and its rules and operating procedures can be found at its internet web site at <http://www.euroclear.com/sweden/sv.html>.

Euroclear Finland

Euroclear Finland, a subsidiary within the Euroclear group of companies, is authorised and regulated as a central securities deposit within the meaning of the Finnish Act on the Book-Entry System and Clearing Operations (Fin. laki arvo-osuusjärjestelmästä ja selvitystoiminnasta (348/2017, as amended)). Euroclear Finland holds securities for its customers and facilitates the clearance and settlement of securities transactions by electronic book-entry transfer between its account holders. Euroclear Finland offers clearing and settlement of securities denominated in EUR through its systems. The systems support different types of securities, equities and interest-bearing cash instruments as well as the respective derivatives. Euroclear Finland does not act as a qualified intermediary.

Euroclear France

Euroclear France is a subsidiary within the Euroclear group of companies. It is regulated by The Banque de France and the Autorité des Marchés financiers (AMF) and handles the full range of French government and corporate debt securities, global bonds, equities, warrants and investment funds. French Law Securities are issued in dematerialised form. French Law Securities must at all times be in book-entry form in compliance with Articles L.211–3 and R.211–1 of the French Code monétaire et financier. No physical notes, certificates or other physical instruments (whether in global, temporary or definitive form) will be issued in respect of the French Law Securities. All transactions relating to the French Law Securities (such as issuance, sale and transfer, pledge arrangements and other dispositions and redemptions) are executed as computerised book-entry registrations. Consequently, in order to effect such entries holders must establish a book-entry account through a credit institution or a securities firm having an account at Euroclear France.

Book-entry Ownership of and Payments in respect of DTC Securities

The Issuer may apply to DTC in order to have any Tranche of Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted in its book-entry settlement system. Upon the issue of any such Global Registered Security Certificate, DTC or its custodian will credit, on its internal book-entry system, the respective principal amounts or number of the individual beneficial interests represented by such Global Registered Security Certificate to the accounts of persons who have accounts with DTC. Such accounts initially will be designated by or on behalf of the relevant Dealer. Ownership of beneficial interests in such a Global Registered Security Certificate will be limited to Direct Participants or Indirect Participants, including, in the case of any Regulation S Global Registered Security Certificate, the respective depositories of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg. Ownership of beneficial interests in a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted by DTC will be shown on, and the transfer of such ownership will be effected only through, records maintained by DTC or its nominee (with respect to the interests of Direct Participants) and the records of Direct Participants (with respect to interests of Indirect Participants).

Payments in U.S. dollars of principal, interest, termination or any other amounts in respect of a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted by DTC will be made to the order of DTC or its nominee as the registered holder of such Security. In the case of any payment in a currency other than U.S. dollars, payment will be made to the Exchange Agent on behalf of DTC or its nominee and the Exchange Agent will (in accordance with instructions received by it) remit all or a portion of such payment for credit directly to the beneficial holders of interests in the Global Registered Security Certificate in the currency in which such payment was made and/or cause all or a portion of such payment to be converted into U.S. dollars and credited to the applicable Participants' account.

The Issuer expects DTC to credit accounts of Direct Participants on the applicable payment date in accordance with their respective holdings as shown in the records of DTC unless DTC has reason to believe that it will not receive payment on such payment date. The Issuer also expects that payments by Participants to beneficial owners of Securities will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices, as is the case with securities held for the accounts of customers, and will be the responsibility of such Participant and not the responsibility of DTC, the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) or any Agent. Payment of principal, premium, interest, termination or any other amounts, if any, on Securities to DTC is the responsibility of the Issuer.

Transfers of Securities Represented by Global Registered Security Certificates

Transfers of any interests in Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate within Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) will be effected in accordance with the customary rules and operating procedures of the relevant clearing system and will be subject to the transfer restrictions described in this Base Prospectus. The laws in some States within the United States require that certain persons take physical delivery of securities in definitive form. Consequently, the ability to transfer Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate to such persons may depend upon the ability to exchange such Securities for Securities in definitive form. Similarly, because DTC can only act on behalf of Direct Participants in the DTC system who in turn act on behalf of Indirect Participants, the ability of a person having an interest in Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted by DTC to pledge such Securities to persons or entities that do not participate in the DTC system or otherwise to take action in respect of such Securities may depend upon the ability to exchange such Securities for Securities in definitive form. The ability of any holder of Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate accepted by DTC to resell, pledge or otherwise transfer such Securities may be impaired if the proposed transferee of such Securities is not eligible to hold such Securities through a Direct Participant or Indirect Participant in the DTC system.

Subject to compliance with the transfer restrictions applicable to the Registered Securities described under "Subscription and Sale and Transfer and Selling Restrictions", cross-market transfers between DTC, on the one hand, and directly or indirectly through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg accountholders, on the other, will be effected by the relevant clearing system in accordance with its rules and through action taken by the Registrar, the Fiscal Agent and any custodian with whom the relevant Global Registered Security Certificates have been deposited.

On or after the Issue Date of the first Tranche of any Series, transfers of Securities of such Series between accountholders in Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and transfers of Securities of such Series between participants in DTC will generally have a settlement date three business days after the trade date (T+3). The customary arrangements for delivery versus payment will apply to such transfers.

On or after the Issue Date of the first Tranche of any Series, transfers of French Cleared Securities of such Series between accountholders in Euroclear France will generally have a settlement date two business days after the trade date (T+2) in the case of transactions conducted on trading venues. The customary arrangements for delivery versus payment will apply to such transfers.

Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) have each published rules and operating procedures designed to facilitate transfers of beneficial interests in Global Registered Security Certificates among participants and accountholders of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg and DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France). However, they are under no obligation to perform or continue to perform such procedures, and such procedures may be discontinued or changed at any time. None of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, the Agents and any Dealer will be responsible for any performance by Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or DTC (or in the case of French Cleared Securities only, Euroclear France) or their Direct or Indirect Participants or accountholders of their obligations under the rules and procedures governing their operations nor will any of them have any liability for any aspect of the records relating to or payments made on account of beneficial interests in the Securities represented by Global Registered Security Certificates or for maintaining, supervising or reviewing any records relating to such beneficial interests.

Euroclear UK and Ireland (CREST)

If so specified in the applicable Issue Terms, indirect interests in Securities will be accepted for settlement through Euroclear UK & Ireland Limited (formerly known as CRESTCo Limited) (CREST). Following their delivery into a clearing system, interests in the relevant Securities may be delivered, held and settled in CREST by means of the creation of CREST Depository Interests (CDIs) representing the interests in the relevant Securities. The CDIs will be issued by the CREST Depository Limited (the CREST Depository) to investors (CDI Holders) and will be governed by English law.

The CDIs will represent indirect interests in the interest of CREST International Nominees Limited or any other body appointed to act as nominee on behalf of the CREST Depository (the CREST Nominee) in the relevant Securities. Pursuant to the documents setting out the legal relationship of CREST with its users and Participants (the CREST Manual), Securities held in global form by a common depository may be settled through CREST, and the CREST Depository will issue CDIs. The CDIs will be independent securities, constituted under English law which may be held and transferred through CREST.

Interests in the relevant Securities will be credited to the CREST Nominee's account with Euroclear and the CREST Nominee will hold such interests as nominee for the CREST Depository which will issue CDIs to the relevant CREST participants.

Each CDI will be treated by the CREST Depository as if it were a relevant Security, for the purposes of determining all rights and obligations and all amounts payable in respect of such CDI. The CREST Depository will pass on to CDI Holders any interest or other amounts received by it as holder of the relevant Securities on trust for such CDI Holder. CDI Holders will also be able to receive from the CREST Depository notices of meetings of holders of the relevant Securities and other relevant notices issued by the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL).

Transfers of interests in Securities by a CREST participant to a participant of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg will be effected by cancellation of the CDIs and transfer of an interest in such Securities to the account of the relevant participant with Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg.

The CDIs will have the same ISIN as the ISIN of the relevant Securities and will not require a separate listing.

Prospective subscribers for Securities represented by CDIs are referred to Chapter 8 of the CREST International Manual which contains the form of the CREST Global Deed Poll (the CREST Deed Poll) to be entered into by the CREST Depository. The rights of the CDI Holders will be governed by the arrangements between CREST, Euroclear, Clearstream, Luxembourg and the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) and the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) including the CREST Deed Poll (in the form contained in Chapter 8 of the CREST International Manual (as defined below)) executed by the CREST Depository. These rights may be different from those of holders of Securities which are not represented by CDIs.

CDIs will be delivered, held and settled in CREST, by means of the CREST International Settlement Links Service (the CREST International Settlement Links Service). The settlement of the CDIs by means of the CREST International Settlement Links Service has the following consequences for CDI Holders:

- (a) CDI Holders will not be the legal owners of the relevant Securities. The CDIs are separate legal instruments from such Securities and represent an indirect interest in such Securities.
- (b) The relevant Securities themselves (as distinct from the CDIs representing indirect interests in such Securities) will be held in account with a custodian. The custodian will hold the relevant Securities through a clearing system. Rights in the relevant Securities will be held through custodial and depository links through the appropriate clearing systems. The legal title to the relevant Securities or to interests in such Securities will depend on the rules of the clearing system in or through which the relevant Securities are held.
- (c) Rights under the relevant Securities cannot be enforced by CDI Holders except indirectly through the intermediary depositories and custodians described above. The enforcement of rights under the relevant Securities will therefore be subject to the local law of the relevant intermediary. The rights of CDI Holders to the relevant Securities are represented by the entitlements against the CREST Depository which (through the CREST Nominee) holds interests in the relevant Securities. This could result in an elimination or reduction in the payments that otherwise would have been made in respect of the relevant Securities in the event of any insolvency or liquidation of the relevant intermediary, in particular where the relevant Securities held in clearing systems are not held in special purpose accounts and are fungible with other securities held in the same accounts on behalf of other customers of the relevant intermediaries.
- (d) The CDIs issued to CDI Holders will be constituted and issued pursuant to the CREST Deed Poll. CDI Holders will be bound by all provisions of the CREST Deed Poll and by all provisions of, or prescribed pursuant to, the CREST International Manual dated 3 January 2018 as amended, modified, varied or supplemented from time to time (the CREST International Manual) and the CREST Rules dated 1 October 2018, as amended, modified, varied or supplemented from time to time (the CREST Rules) (which, in each case, form part of the CREST Manual) applicable to the CREST International Settlement Links Service and CDI Holders must comply in full with all obligations imposed on them by such provisions.
- (e) Potential investors should note that the provisions of the CREST Deed Poll, the CREST International Manual and the CREST Rules contain indemnities, warranties, representations and undertakings to be given by CDI Holders and limitations on the liability of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and the CREST Depository.

- (f) CDI Holders may incur liabilities resulting from a breach of any such indemnities, warranties, representations and undertakings in excess of the money invested by them. The attention of potential investors is drawn to the terms of the CREST Deed Poll, the CREST International Manual and the CREST Rules, copies of which are available from CREST at 33 Cannon Street, London EC4M 5SB or by calling +44 (0) 207 849 0000 or from the CREST website at www.euroclear.com/site/public/EUI.
- (g) Potential investors should note CDI Holders may be required to pay fees, charges, costs and expenses to the CREST Depository in connection with the use of the CREST International Settlement Links Service. These will include the fees and expenses charged by the CREST Depository in respect of the provision of services by it under the CREST Deed Poll and any taxes, duties, charges, costs or expenses which may be or become payable in connection with the holding of the CDIs through the CREST International Settlement Links Service.
- (h) Potential investors should note that none of the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL), any Dealer, any distributor, any Paying Agent, the Registrar and any Transfer Agent will have any responsibility for the performance by any intermediaries or their respective direct or indirect participants or accountholders of their respective obligations under the rules and procedures governing their operations.

SECTION F.6 – ERISA MATTERS

The U.S. Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (ERISA), prescribes rules pertaining to the management of "plan assets" of pension and other employee benefit plans subject to ERISA (ERISA Plans) and the appointment of parties who may manage such assets. Section 406 of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code prohibit ERISA Plans, as well as those plans and other arrangements that are not subject to ERISA but that are subject to Section 4975 of the Code, such as individual retirement accounts and Keogh plans (together with ERISA Plans, Plans), and certain entities in which Plans invest, from engaging in certain transactions involving "plan assets" with persons who are "parties in interest" under ERISA or "disqualified persons" under Section 4975 of the Code with respect to such Plans.

The rules and regulations applicable under ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code contain certain "look-through" provisions. Under these provisions, if a Plan invests in an equity interest of an entity, the assets of the Plan will be deemed to include not only the equity interest but also an undivided interest in each of the underlying assets of the entity, unless an exception to the look-through rule were to apply. An "equity interest" is defined under the rule as any interest in an entity other than an instrument treated as indebtedness under applicable local law that has no substantial equity features. No assurance can be given that the Securities will not be treated as equity interests for these purposes. The look-through rule would not apply if the Securities or the Issuer qualified for an exception available under applicable rules. If a Plan were to acquire an interest in the Securities, and no exception to the look-through rule were to apply, the Issuer could be regarded as a plan asset entity and its assets and transactions could be attributed to the Plan investor. In this event, the Plan investor could be viewed as having improperly delegated to the Issuer responsibility for the management of the Plan's assets, and the transactions and holdings of the Issuer might result in violations of the prohibited transaction rules of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code, as well as violations of other rules applicable under ERISA.

In addition, certain governmental plans, church plans and non-U.S. plans (Non-ERISA Arrangements) are not subject to such provisions of ERISA or the Code, but may be subject to similar rules under other applicable laws or regulations.

Based on the foregoing, the Securities may not be acquired or held by a Plan or Non-ERISA Arrangement or any party acting on behalf of or using the assets of a Plan or Non-ERISA Arrangement. Any purchaser or subsequent transferee of the Securities or any interest therein will be deemed to have represented by its purchase or holding of the Securities or any interest therein that it is not a Plan or Non-ERISA Arrangement and is not acting on behalf of or using the assets of a Plan or Non-ERISA Arrangement.

SECTION F.7 – SUBSCRIPTION AND SALE AND TRANSFER AND SELLING RESTRICTIONS

Subject to the terms and conditions contained in an amended and restated Dealership Agreement dated 11 December 2020 (as further amended, supplemented and/or restated, the Dealership Agreement) between, inter alia, Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, the Arranger and the Dealers (as defined in the Dealership Agreement), the Securities will be offered on a continuous basis by the Issuer to the Dealers. However, each Issuer reserves the right to sell Securities directly on its own behalf to other entities and to offer Securities in specified jurisdictions directly to the public through distributors, in accordance with all applicable rules and regulations. Securities may be resold at prevailing market prices, or at prices related thereto, at the time of such resale, as determined by the Issuer or the relevant Dealer. The Securities may also be sold by the Issuer through the Dealers, acting as agent of the Issuer. The Dealership Agreement also provides for Securities to be issued in syndicated Tranches which are jointly and severally underwritten by two or more Dealers.

The Issuer and the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) have agreed to indemnify the Dealers against certain liabilities in connection with the offer and sale of the Securities issued by such Issuer, including in relation to liabilities arising under the Securities Act. The Dealership Agreement may be terminated in relation to all the Dealers and the Arranger or any of them by Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor or, in relation to itself and Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor, by any Dealer or the Arranger, at any time on giving not less than ten days' notice.

Transfer Restrictions

As a result of the following restrictions, purchasers of Securities are advised to consult legal counsel prior to making any purchase, offer, sale, resale or other transfer of such Securities.

Each purchaser of Securities or any beneficial interest therein, by its acquisition or acceptance thereof will be deemed to acknowledge, represent and agree as follows (terms used in this paragraph that are defined in Rule 144A or in Regulation S are used in this Base Prospectus as defined in Rule 144A or in Regulation S):

- (i) that it has been afforded an opportunity to request from the Issuer (and the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor, if applicable) and to review all additional information it considers to be necessary to verify the accuracy of the information contained in this Base Prospectus and the applicable Issue Terms or otherwise and it has not relied on the Dealers or any person affiliated with the Dealers in connection with its investigation of the accuracy of such information or its investment decision; and

- (j) that the Issuer and others will rely upon the truth and accuracy of the foregoing acknowledgements, representations and agreements and agrees that if any of such acknowledgements, representations or agreements made by it are no longer accurate, it shall promptly notify the Issuer; and if it is acquiring any Securities as a fiduciary or agent for one or more accounts it represents that it has sole investment discretion with respect to each such account and that it has full power to make the foregoing acknowledgements, representations and agreements on behalf of each such account.

No sale of Notes in the United States in reliance on Rule 144A to any one purchaser will be for less than U.S.$100,000 (or its foreign currency equivalent) in principal amount and no Note will be issued in connection with such a sale in a smaller principal amount. If the purchaser is a non-bank fiduciary acting on behalf of others, each person for whom it is acting must purchase at least U.S.$100,000 (or its foreign currency equivalent) in principal amount of Registered Securities.

United States of America

The Securities, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee have not been and will not be registered under the Securities Act or any state securities laws. Trading in the Securities has not been approved by the United States Commodity Futures Trading Commission under the United States Commodity Exchange Act, as amended. No issue of Securities may be offered or sold within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons except, in the case of Notes issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI and offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A, to "qualified institutional buyers" ("QIBs"), each purchasing (or holding) for its own account or for the account of one or more QIBs, in a transaction meeting the requirements of Rule 144A and in accordance with all applicable securities laws of the States of the United States and any other jurisdiction. The Securities, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee, the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee and any Entitlements to be delivered in respect of any Physical Delivery Securities do not constitute, and have not been marketed as, contracts of sale of a commodity for future delivery (or options thereon) subject to the United States Commodity Exchange Act, as amended, and trading in the Securities has not been approved by the United States Commodity Futures Trading Commission under the United States Commodity Exchange Act, as amended. Terms used in this section have the meanings given to them by Regulation S or Rule 144A under the Securities Act.

Each Dealer has represented and agreed that it, its affiliates (if any) and any person acting on its or their behalf (i) have not offered or sold and will not offer or sell any Securities at any time within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons, except, in the case of Notes issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI and offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms, to persons it reasonably believes to be QIBs, each purchasing (or holding) for its own account or for the account of one or more QIBs and (ii) at or prior to confirmation of sale of Securities offered in reliance on Regulation S, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms, it will have sent to each distributor, dealer or person receiving a selling concession, fee or other remuneration that purchases such Securities from it a confirmation or other notice stating that such distributor, dealer or person is subject to the restrictions on offers and sales of such Securities within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons that are set forth herein.

An offer or sale of Securities within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, a U.S. person by any dealer (whether or not participating in the offering) at any time may violate the registration requirements of the Securities Act if such offer or sale is made otherwise than in accordance with an available exemption from registration under the Securities Act.

Dealers, directly or through their respective U.S. broker dealer affiliates, may arrange for the resale of Notes issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI and offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A to QIBs pursuant to Rule 144A and each purchaser of such Notes is hereby notified that the Dealers are relying on the exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act provided by Rule 144A and one or more exemptions and/or exclusions from regulation under the United States Commodity Exchange Act, as amended. The minimum aggregate principal amount of Notes which may be purchased by a QIB pursuant to Rule 144A is U.S.$100,000 (or the approximate equivalent thereof in any other Specified Currency). To the extent that Citigroup Inc. is not subject to or does not comply with the reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Exchange Act or the information furnishing requirements of Rule 12g3-2(b) thereunder, Citigroup Inc. and CGMHI have agreed to furnish to holders of Notes offered and sold in reliance on Rule 144A and to prospective purchasers designated by such holders, upon request, such information as may be required by Rule 144A(d)(4).

Each issuance of Securities shall be subject to such additional U.S. selling restrictions as the Issuer and the relevant Dealer(s) may agree with the Issuer as a term of the issuance and purchase or, as the case may be, subscription of such Securities. Each Dealer agrees that it shall offer, sell and deliver such Securities only in compliance with such additional U.S. selling restrictions.

CGMFL does not intend to issue, offer or sell any Securities within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, any U.S. person.

Prohibition of Sales to EEA and UK Retail Investors

Other than as may be provided in the applicable Issue Terms, each Dealer has represented and agreed, and each further Dealer appointed under the Programme will be required to represent and agree, that it has not offered, sold or otherwise made available and will not offer, sell or otherwise make available any Securities which are the subject of the offering contemplated by this Base Prospectus as completed by the Issue Terms in relation thereto to any retail investor in the EEA or the United Kingdom. For the purposes of this provision:

- (a) the expression "retail investor" means a person who is one (or more) of the following:
 - (i) a retail client as defined in point (11) of Article 4(1) of Directive 2014/65/EU (as amended, varied or replaced from time to time, MiFID II); or
 - (ii) a customer within the meaning of Directive (EU) 2016/97 (the Insurance Distribution Directive), where that customer would not qualify as a professional client as defined in point (10) of Article 4(1) of MiFID II; or
 - (iii) not a qualified investor as defined in Regulation (EU) 2017/1129 (as amended, the Prospectus Regulation); and
- (b) the expression an "offer" includes the communication in any form and by any means of sufficient information on the terms of the offer and the Securities to be offered so as to enable an investor to decide to purchase or subscribe for the Securities.

Where the applicable Issue Terms in respect of any Securities specifies "Prohibition of Sales to EEA and UK Retail Investors" as "Not Applicable" or as applicable other than with respect to offers of the Securities in certain specified jurisdiction(s) and/or for specified periods of time, then, if "Not Applicable" is so specified, in relation to each Member State of the EEA and the United Kingdom (each a Relevant State) or, if "Prohibition of Sales to EEA and UK Retail Investors" is specified as applicable other than with respect to offers of the Securities in certain Relevant States and/or for specified periods of time, in relation to each such Relevant State and (if applicable) such period(s) of time, each Dealer has represented and agreed, and each further Dealer appointed under the Programme will be required to represent and agree, that it has not made and will not make an offer of Securities which are the subject of the offering contemplated by this Base Prospectus as completed by the final terms in relation thereto to the public in that Relevant State except that it may make an offer of such Securities to the public in that Relevant State and/or for the specified periods:

- (a) if the final terms in relation to the Securities specify that an offer of those Securities may be made other than pursuant to Article 1(4) of the Prospectus Regulation in that Relevant State (a Non-exempt Offer), following the date of publication of a prospectus in relation to such Securities which has been approved by the competent authority in that Relevant State or, where appropriate, approved in another Relevant State and notified to the competent authority in that Relevant State, PROVIDED THAT any such prospectus has subsequently been completed by the final terms contemplating such Non-exempt Offer, in accordance with the Prospectus Regulation, in the period beginning and ending on the dates specified in such prospectus or final terms, as applicable and the Issuer has consented in writing to its use for the purpose of that Non-exempt Offer;

- (b) at any time to any legal entity which is a qualified investor as defined in the Prospectus Regulation;
- (c) at any time to fewer than 150 natural or legal persons (other than qualified investors as defined in the Prospectus Regulation), subject to obtaining the prior consent of the relevant Dealer or Dealers nominated by the Issuer for any such offer; or
- (d) at any time in any other circumstances falling within Article 1(4) of the Prospectus Regulation,

General

These selling restrictions may be amended by the agreement of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI), the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) and the relevant Dealers. Any such amendment will be set out in either the subscription agreement or the dealer accession letter, as relevant, and/or the Pricing Supplement issued in respect of the issue of Securities to which it relates or in a supplement to this Base Prospectus.

No action has been taken or will be taken in any jurisdiction that would permit a public offering of any of the Securities, or possession or distribution of this Base Prospectus or any other offering material or any Issue Terms, in any country or jurisdiction where, or under circumstances in which, action for that purpose is required and has not been taken. No offers, sales, resales or deliveries of any Securities, or distribution of any offering material relating to any Securities, may be made in or from any jurisdiction except in circumstances which will result in compliance with any applicable laws and regulations and which will not impose any obligation on any of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and/or any Dealer.

Each Dealer has agreed that it will comply with all relevant laws, regulations and directives in each jurisdiction in which it purchases, offers, sells or delivers Securities or has in its possession or distributes this Base Prospectus, any other offering material or any Issue Terms, in all cases at its own expense, and none of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor and any other Dealer shall have responsibility therefor.

SECTION F.8 – TAXATION OF SECURITIES

GENERAL

Purchasers of Securities may be required to pay taxes (including stamp taxes) and other charges in accordance with the laws and practices of the country of purchase in addition to the issue price of each Security.

TRANSACTIONS INVOLVING SECURITIES MAY HAVE TAX CONSEQUENCES FOR POTENTIAL PURCHASERS WHICH MAY DEPEND, AMONGST OTHER THINGS, UPON THE STATUS OF THE POTENTIAL PURCHASER AND LAWS RELATING TO TRANSFER AND REGISTRATION TAXES. INVESTORS SHOULD ALSO BE AWARE THAT THE TAX LEGISLATION OF THE COUNTRY IN WHICH THE INVESTOR IS RESIDENT AND OF THE RELEVANT ISSUER'S COUNTRY OF INCORPORATION MAY HAVE AN IMPACT ON THE INCOME RECEIVED FROM THE SECURITIES. POTENTIAL PURCHASERS WHO ARE IN ANY DOUBT ABOUT THE TAX POSITION OF ANY ASPECT OF TRANSACTIONS INVOLVING SECURITIES SHOULD CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS.

Unless otherwise expressly provided below, the relevant Issuer, where the relevant Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and, where the relevant Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, do not accept responsibility for the withholding of taxes at source. This statement should be read in conjunction with General Condition 9 (Taxation).

References in this Section F.8 to a "Member State" shall be to a Member State of the EEA (and for these purposes, references to the EEA include the United Kingdom).

UNITED STATES FEDERAL TAX CONSIDERATIONS

General

The following is a summary of certain U.S. federal income tax consequences that may be relevant to the ownership and disposition of Securities that are in registered form for U.S. federal income tax purposes. This summary does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all of the tax consequences that may be relevant to the decision to purchase Securities by any particular investor, including tax consequences that arise from rules of general application to all taxpayers or to certain classes of taxpayers or that are generally believed to be known by investors. For example, this summary does not address the tax consequences to (i) persons that may be subject to special treatment under U.S. federal income tax law, such as banks, insurance companies, thrift institutions, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, tax-exempt organisations, traders in securities that elect to mark to market for tax purposes and dealers in securities, (ii) persons that will hold the Securities as part of a "straddle", "conversion" or other integrated investment transaction or a constructive sale for U.S. federal income tax purposes, (iii) U.S. Holders (as defined below) whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar, (iv) Non-U.S. Holders (as defined below) who recognise gain in respect of a Security in a taxable year in which the Non-U.S. Holder is present in the United States for 183 days or more, (v) persons that do not hold the Securities as capital assets, or (vi) except where the context indicates otherwise, persons that did not purchase the Securities in the initial offering.

This summary is based on the Code, U.S. Treasury regulations and judicial and administrative interpretations thereof, in each case as in effect on the date hereof. Changes to any of the foregoing could affect the tax consequences described below, possibly with retroactive effect. Further, this summary does not describe any tax consequences arising out of the tax laws of any state, local or non-U.S. jurisdiction, or any U.S. federal taxes other than income taxes and, to a limited extent, estate taxes. Accordingly, this summary does not address alternative minimum tax consequences, special tax accounting rules under Section 451(b) of the Code, or the Medicare tax on investment income. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal, state, local and non-U.S. tax consequences of owning and disposing of Securities in light of their own particular circumstances.

This discussion does not address the U.S. federal tax consequences of the ownership or disposition of the Underlying that a beneficial owner may receive in respect of a Physical Delivery Security. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the relevant U.S. federal tax consequences of the ownership and disposition of the Underlying.

The Issuer will not attempt to ascertain whether any issuer of any Shares, shares that underlie an Index, or any other equity interest, to which the Securities relate should be treated as a "passive foreign investment company" (PFIC) within the meaning of Section 1297 of the Code or a "United States real property holding corporation" (USRPHC) within the meaning of Section 897 of the Code (including a non-corporate entity treated as a USRPHC for relevant purposes of Section 897 of the Code). If any relevant issuer were so treated, certain adverse U.S. federal income tax consequences might apply to a Non-U.S. Holder, in the case of a USRPHC, and to a U.S. Holder, in the case of a PFIC, upon the sale, exchange or other disposition of the Securities. If a U.S. Holder owns or is deemed to own an equity interest in a PFIC for any taxable year, the U.S. Holder would generally be required to file IRS Form 8621 with its annual U.S. federal income tax return for that year, subject to certain exceptions. Failure to timely file the form may extend the time for tax assessment by the IRS. Prospective purchasers of the Securities are urged to refer to information filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission or another governmental authority by the relevant issuers and consult their tax advisors regarding the possible consequences if any relevant issuer is or becomes a USRPHC or PFIC.

For the purposes hereof, the term U.S. Holder means a beneficial owner of the Securities that for U.S. federal income tax purposes is (i) an individual citizen or resident of the United States, (ii) a corporation organised in or under the laws of the United States or any state thereof or the District of Columbia or (iii) an estate or trust the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income taxation regardless of its source. The term Non-U.S. Holder means a beneficial owner of the Securities that for U.S. federal income tax purposes is a non-resident alien individual, a foreign corporation or a foreign estate or trust.

If a partnership (including any entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes) holds the Securities, the tax treatment of a partner generally will depend on the status of the partner and upon the activities of the partnership. Prospective purchasers that are partnerships should consult their tax advisors regarding the tax consequences to their partners of an investment in the Securities.

Because the Issuer does not expect to issue (i) Preference Share Linked Securities, (ii) Securities with Target Redemption Barrier Event or (iii) certain Securities designated as "Non-U.S. Securities" (as discussed below) to U.S. Holders, the discussion below does not address the U.S. federal income tax consequences to a U.S. Holder of purchasing, owning, and disposing of such Securities.

This discussion may be supplemented, modified or superseded by further discussion regarding U.S. federal tax considerations set out in the applicable Issue Terms, which a prospective purchaser is urged to read before making a decision to invest in the relevant Securities.

Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders

Securities Treated as Debt

The following discussion applies only to Securities that the Issuer intends to treat as debt instruments for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as evidenced by the statement under "United States Tax Considerations" in the applicable Issue Terms.

It generally assumes that the Issuer's intended treatment of the Securities as debt instruments, as well as any specific treatments indicated in the applicable Issue Terms (e.g., as variable rate debt instruments or contingent payment debt instruments, each as discussed below), are respected. The Issuer's intended treatment of the Securities is not binding on the IRS, and the IRS could disagree with it, in which case the timing and character of a U.S. Holder's taxable income in respect of the Securities could be adversely affected. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors about the risk that the IRS challenges the Issuer's treatment of the Securities. Please review the discussion under "Possible Alternative Tax Treatment" regarding the risk of an alternate treatment of the Securities.

If the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or there is another change to the Securities that results in the Securities being treated as reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as discussed in "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code", the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Except where specifically stated, the discussion herein assumes that no such deemed retirement and reissuance has occurred.

The general discussion below is subject to special rules applicable to Short-Term Securities, Contingent Securities and Foreign Currency Contingent Securities as described below.

Interest Payments on Securities

Payments of qualified stated interest, as defined below under "Original Issue Discount", will be taxable to a U.S. Holder as ordinary interest income at the time that such payments are accrued or are received, in accordance with the U.S. Holder's method of tax accounting.

If such payments of interest are made in respect of a Security that is denominated in a single currency other than the U.S. dollar (for purposes of this discussion, a foreign currency), the amount of interest income realised by a U.S. Holder that uses the cash method of tax accounting (a cash-method holder) will be the U.S. dollar value of the currency payment based on the spot rate of exchange on the date of receipt regardless of whether the payment in fact is converted into U.S. dollars. No foreign currency gain or loss should be recognised by a cash-method holder with respect to the receipt of such payment (other than foreign currency gain or loss realised on the disposition of the currency received). In the case of a Security that provides for payments in U.S. dollars determined by reference to a single foreign currency, a cash-method holder generally should recognise interest income on the Security in an amount equal to the U.S. dollars received. Both types of Securities are referred to herein as "Foreign Currency Securities". A U.S. Holder that uses the accrual method of tax accounting (an accrual-method holder) will accrue interest income on a Foreign Currency Security in the relevant foreign currency and translate the amount accrued into U.S. dollars based on:

- the average exchange rate in effect during the interest accrual period, or portion thereof within the holder's taxable year; or
- at the holder's election, at the spot rate of exchange on (1) the last day of the accrual period, or the last day of the taxable year within the accrual period if the accrual period spans more than one taxable year, or (2) the date of receipt, if that date is within five business days of the last day of the accrual period.

Such an election must be applied consistently by the accrual-method holder to all foreign currency debt instruments from year to year and can be changed only with the consent of the IRS. An accrual-method holder will recognise foreign currency gain or loss on the receipt of an interest payment made on a Foreign Currency Security if the spot rate of exchange on the date the payment is received differs from the rate applicable to a previous accrual of that interest income. Such foreign currency gain or loss will be treated as ordinary income or loss, but generally will not be treated as an adjustment to interest income received on the Security.

Taxable Disposition of Securities

A U.S. Holder's tax basis in a Security generally will equal the cost of that Security to the holder, increased by any amounts includible in income by the holder as original issue discount (OID) and market discount (each as described below) and reduced by any amortised premium and any payments on the Security other than payments of qualified stated interest (each as described below).

In the case of a Foreign Currency Security, the cost of the Security to a U.S. Holder generally should be the U.S. dollar value of the foreign currency purchase price on the date of purchase. In the case of a Foreign Currency Security that is traded on an established securities market, a U.S. Holder generally should determine the U.S. dollar value of the cost of the Security by translating the amount paid in foreign currency into its U.S. dollar value at the spot rate of exchange (1) on the settlement date of the purchase, in the case of a cash-method holder, and (2) on the trade date, in the case of an accrual-method holder, unless the holder elects to use the spot rate applicable to cash-method holders. Such an election by an accrual-method holder must be applied consistently by the accrual-method holder to all debt instruments from year to year and can be changed only with the consent of the IRS. The amount of any subsequent adjustments to a U.S. Holder's tax basis in a Foreign Currency Security in respect of OID, market discount and premium will be determined in the manner described under "Original Issue Discount", "Market Discount" and "Securities Purchased at a Premium" below.

Upon the sale, exchange, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Security (each, a taxable disposition), a U.S. Holder generally will recognise gain or loss equal to the difference between (1) the amount realised on the taxable disposition, less any accrued qualified stated interest, which will be treated as a payment of interest and taxed in the manner described above under "Interest Payments on Securities", and (2) the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the Security.

If a U.S. Holder receives a currency other than the U.S. dollar in respect of the taxable disposition of a Foreign Currency Security, the amount realised generally should be the U.S. dollar value of the currency received calculated at the spot rate of exchange on the date of the taxable disposition of the Security. In the case of a taxable disposition of a Foreign Currency Security that is traded on an established securities market, a U.S. Holder that receives a currency other than the U.S. dollar generally should determine the amount realised by translating that currency into its U.S. dollar value at the spot rate of exchange (1) on the settlement date of the taxable disposition, in the case of a cash-method holder and (2) on the trade date, in the case of an accrual-method holder, unless the accrual-method holder elects to use the spot rate applicable to cash-method holders. Such an election by an accrual-method holder must be applied consistently by the accrual-method holder to all debt instruments from year to year and can be changed only with the consent of the IRS.

Gain or loss recognised by a U.S. Holder on the taxable disposition of a Security (other than a Short-Term Security, Foreign Currency Security, Contingent Security, Foreign Currency Contingent Security or Market Discount Security, each as discussed below) generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder has held the Security for more than one year at the time of the taxable disposition and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise.

Gain or loss recognised by a U.S. Holder on the taxable disposition of a Foreign Currency Security generally will be treated as ordinary income or loss to the extent that the gain or loss is attributable to changes in exchange rates during the period in which the U.S. Holder held the Security. A U.S. Holder might be required to file a disclosure statement with the IRS if the U.S. Holder recognises foreign currency loss above certain thresholds (as described below under "Reportable Transactions").

Original Issue Discount

Securities with a term greater than one year may be issued with OID for United States federal income tax purposes (such Securities, OID Securities). U.S. Holders generally must accrue OID in gross income over the term of an OID Security on a constant yield basis, regardless of their regular method of tax accounting. As a result, U.S. Holders may recognise taxable income in respect of an OID Security in advance of the receipt of cash attributable to such income.

OID generally will arise if the stated redemption price at maturity of a Security exceeds its issue price by an amount equal to or greater than 0.25 per cent. of the Security's stated redemption price at maturity multiplied by the number of complete years to maturity. In the case of an "instalment Security" (i.e., a Security that provides for payments prior to maturity other than qualified stated interest), this test is generally applied based on the Security's weighted average maturity. OID may arise if a Security is issued at a discount to its principal amount, and may also arise if a Security has particular interest payment characteristics, such as interest holidays, interest payable in additional securities or stepped interest. For this purpose, the issue price of a Security is the first price at which a substantial amount of Securities of that issue is sold for cash, other than to bond houses, brokers or similar persons or organisations acting in the capacity of underwriters, placement agents or wholesalers. The stated redemption price at maturity of a Security is the sum of all payments due under the Security other than payments of qualified stated interest. The term qualified stated interest generally means stated interest that is unconditionally payable in cash or property, other than debt instruments of the issuer, at least annually during the entire term of a Security at a single fixed rate of interest or, under particular conditions, based on one or more floating interest rates described below under "Variable Rate Debt Instruments".

Under the OID rules, certain contingencies, including those that are remote, are disregarded for purposes of determining qualified stated interest on a Security. However, if a remote contingency actually occurs (for example, an early redemption event that the Issuer had determined to be remote in which the Early Redemption Amount is calculated as of the time of the early redemption event but not paid until maturity), the Security could be treated as retired and reissued with OID. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding the application of these rules.

For each taxable year of a U.S. Holder, the amount of OID that must be included in gross income in respect of an OID Security will be the sum of the daily portions of OID for each day during that taxable year or any portion of the taxable year in which the U.S. Holder holds the OID Security. Daily portions are determined by allocating to each day in an accrual period a pro rata portion of the OID allocable to that accrual period. Accrual periods may be of any length and may vary in length over the term of an OID Security. However, accrual periods may not be longer than one year, and each scheduled payment of principal or interest must occur on the first day or the final day of an accrual period.

The amount of OID allocable to any accrual period generally will equal (1) the product of the OID Security's adjusted issue price at the beginning of the accrual period multiplied by its yield to maturity (as adjusted to take into account the length of the accrual period), less (2) the amount, if any, of qualified stated interest allocable to that accrual period. The adjusted issue price of an OID Security at the beginning of any accrual period will equal the issue price of the OID Security, as defined above, (1) increased by previously accrued OID from prior accrual periods, and (2) reduced by any payment made on the Security, other than payments of qualified stated interest, on or before the first day of the accrual period.

The Securities may have special redemption, repayment or interest rate reset features, as indicated in the applicable Issue Terms, that may affect whether a Security is an OID Security and, if so, the proper timing of recognition of the OID by a U.S. Holder. Securities containing such features may be subject to special rules that differ from the general rules discussed herein. Accordingly, prospective purchasers of Securities with such features should consult their tax advisors regarding these special rules.

In the case of an OID Security that is also a Foreign Currency Security, a U.S. Holder should determine the U.S. dollar amount includible in income as OID for each accrual period by calculating the amount of OID allocable to that accrual period in the relevant foreign currency, using the constant-yield method described above and translating that amount into U.S. dollars using the average exchange rate in effect during that accrual period (or a portion thereof), or, at the U.S. Holder's election, at the spot rate of exchange on (1) the last day of the accrual period, or the last day of the taxable year within the accrual period if the accrual period spans more than one taxable year, or (2) on the date such OID is treated as paid (as described in the following paragraph), if that date is within five business days of the last day of the accrual period. Such an election must be applied consistently by the U.S. Holder to all Foreign Currency Securities from year to year and can be revoked only with the consent of the IRS.

Each payment on an OID Security that is a Foreign Currency Security, other than payments of qualified stated interest, generally will be viewed first as a payment of previously accrued OID to the extent thereof, with the payment attributed first to the earliest accrued OID, and then as a payment of principal. Upon the receipt of an amount attributable to OID, whether in connection with a payment of an amount that is not qualified stated interest or the taxable disposition of the OID Security, a U.S. Holder will recognise foreign currency gain or loss that is ordinary income or loss measured by the difference between (1) the amount received and (2) the corresponding amount(s) previously accrued. The amount received will be translated into U.S. dollars at the spot rate of exchange on the date of receipt, in the case of a payment on the OID Security, or on the date of the taxable disposition of the OID Security. The corresponding amount(s) accrued will be determined by using the rate(s) of exchange applicable to such previous accrual(s). Upon a taxable disposition of the Security, the amount of foreign currency income or loss recognised will be limited by the overall amount of gain or loss recognised on the taxable disposition.

A U.S. Holder that purchases an OID Security for an amount less than or equal to the remaining redemption amount (as defined below), but in excess of the OID Security's adjusted issue price, generally is permitted to reduce the daily portions of OID by a fraction. The numerator of this fraction is the acquisition premium (as defined below) and the denominator of the fraction is the excess of the remaining redemption amount over the OID Security's adjusted issue price. For the purposes of this section, acquisition premium means the excess of the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in an OID Security over the OID Security's adjusted issue price and remaining redemption amount means the sum of all amounts payable on an OID Security after the purchase date other than payments of qualified stated interest. In the case of a Foreign Currency Security, the rules described in this paragraph are applied using units of the relevant foreign currency.

Variable Rate Debt Instruments

Certain Securities may be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as variable rate debt instruments (VRDIs). Prospective purchasers should note that other Securities providing for variable rates of interest are treated not as VRDIs but as "contingent payment debt instruments", with consequences discussed below under "Contingent Payment Debt Instruments".

Stated interest on a VRDI that provides for a single variable rate (a Single-Rate VRDI) will be treated as qualified stated interest and will be taxable to a U.S. Holder as ordinary interest income at the time it accrues or is received, in accordance with the U.S. Holder's method of tax accounting. If the stated principal amount of a Single-Rate VRDI exceeds its issue price by an amount equal to or greater than the de minimis amount described above under "Original Issue Discount", this excess will be treated as OID that a U.S. Holder must include in income as it accrues, generally in accordance with the constant-yield method described above under "Original Issue Discount". The constant-yield accrual of OID on a VRDI is determined by substituting the value of the variable rate on the issue date (or, in certain cases, a fixed rate that reflects the yield that is reasonably expected for the VRDI) for each scheduled payment of the variable rate. A fixed rate for an initial period of one year or less followed by a variable rate where the variable rate on the issue date is intended to approximate the fixed rate (which will be conclusively presumed if the value of the variable rate on the issue date does not differ from the value of the fixed rate by more than 0.25 per cent.) will be treated as a single variable rate for the purposes of this and the next paragraph.

Different rules may apply to a VRDI that provides for (i) multiple variable rates or (ii) one or more variable rates and a single fixed rate (other than a fixed rate described in the preceding paragraph) (a Multiple-Rate VRDI). Under applicable Treasury regulations, in order to determine the amount of qualified stated interest and OID (if any) in respect of a Multiple-Rate VRDI, an equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument must be constructed. The equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument is constructed in the following manner: (i) if the Multiple-Rate VRDI contains a fixed rate, that fixed rate is converted to a variable rate that preserves the fair market value of the Security and (ii) each variable rate (including a variable rate determined under (i) above) is converted to a fixed rate substitute (which generally will be the value of that variable rate as of the issue date of the Multiple-Rate VRDI (or, in certain cases, a fixed rate that reflects the yield that is reasonably expected for the VRDI)) (the equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument). The rules discussed in "Original Issue Discount" are then applied to the equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument to determine the amount, if any, of OID and the amount of qualified stated interest. A U.S. Holder will be required to include any such OID in income for U.S. federal income tax purposes as it accrues, in accordance with a constant-yield method based on a compounding of interest, as described above under "Original Issue Discount".

The U.S. Holder is required to make adjustments to income to account for differences between actual payments on the Multiple-Rate VRDI and payments on the equivalent fixed-rate debt instrument. Prospective purchasers of Multiple-Rate VRDIs should consult their tax advisors regarding the rules applicable to these Securities.

Upon the taxable disposition of a VRDI, a U.S. Holder generally will recognise capital gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount realised (other than amounts attributable to accrued qualified stated interest, which will be treated as described above under "Interest Payments on Securities") and the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the VRDI. A U.S. Holder's tax basis in a VRDI will equal the amount the U.S. Holder paid to purchase the VRDI, increased by the amounts of OID (if any) the U.S. Holder has previously included in income with respect to the VRDI and reduced by any payments the U.S. Holder has received other than qualified stated interest. Such gain or loss generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder has held the VRDI for more than one year at the time of the taxable disposition and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise. Special rules apply to VRDIs that are Foreign Currency Securities, Market Discount Securities and Securities purchased at a premium, as discussed above and below.

Contingent Payment Debt Instruments

Certain Securities may be treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as contingent payment debt instruments (Contingent Securities). Under applicable U.S. Treasury regulations, interest on a Contingent Security is treated as OID and must be accrued on a constant-yield basis using (i) a yield to maturity that reflects the rate at which the Issuer would issue a comparable fixed-rate instrument with no contingent payments but with terms and conditions otherwise similar to the Contingent Security (the comparable yield) and (ii) a projected payment schedule determined by the Issuer at the time the Contingent Security is issued (the projected payment schedule). This projected payment schedule must include each non-contingent payment on the Contingent Security and an estimated amount for each contingent payment, and must produce the comparable yield.

The Issuer is generally required to provide to holders, solely for U.S. federal income tax purposes, a schedule of the projected amounts of payments on the Contingent Securities. If required in respect of an issue of Securities, the applicable Issue Terms will either contain the comparable yield and projected payment schedule, or will provide contact information through which a U.S. Holder of a Contingent Security can submit a request for this information.

THE COMPARABLE YIELD AND PROJECTED PAYMENT SCHEDULE ARE NOT DETERMINED FOR ANY PURPOSE OTHER THAN FOR THE DETERMINATION OF INTEREST ACCRUALS AND ADJUSTMENTS THEREOF IN RESPECT OF THE CONTINGENT SECURITIES FOR U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX PURPOSES. THEY ARE BASED UPON A NUMBER OF ASSUMPTIONS AND ESTIMATES AND DO NOT CONSTITUTE A PROJECTION OR REPRESENTATION REGARDING THE ACTUAL AMOUNTS PAYABLE TO THE HOLDERS OF, OR THE ACTUAL YIELD ON, THE CONTINGENT SECURITIES.

A U.S. Holder generally will be bound by the comparable yield and the projected payment schedule determined by the Issuer unless the U.S. Holder determines its own comparable yield and projected payment schedule and explicitly and timely discloses and justifies such schedule to the IRS. The Issuer's determination, however, is not binding on the IRS, and it is possible that the IRS could conclude that some other comparable yield or projected payment schedule should be used instead.

The amount of OID includible in income, as interest, by a U.S. Holder of a Contingent Security is the sum of the daily portions of OID with respect to the Contingent Security for each day during the taxable year or portion of the taxable year in which the U.S. Holder holds the Contingent Security, generally as described above in "Original Issue Discount" (determined by substituting in that discussion the comparable yield for the "yield to maturity" and the projected payment schedule for the actual payments on the Security and treating no payment as qualified stated interest). Any net differences between actual payments received by the U.S. Holder on the Contingent Security in a taxable year and the projected amounts of those payments will be accounted for as additional interest (in the case of a net positive adjustment) or as an offset to interest income in respect of the Contingent Security (in the case of a net negative adjustment) for that taxable year. If the net negative adjustment for a taxable year exceeds the amount of interest on the Contingent Security for that year, the excess will be treated as ordinary loss in that year, but only to the extent the U.S. Holder's total interest inclusions on the Contingent Security exceed the total amount of any ordinary loss in respect of the Contingent Security claimed by the U.S. Holder under this rule in prior taxable years. Such a loss (as well as any ordinary loss incurred in connection with the taxable disposition of a Contingent Security, as described in the following paragraph) is not subject to the limitation imposed on miscellaneous itemised deductions under Section 67 of the Code. Any net negative adjustment that is not allowed as an ordinary loss for the taxable year is carried forward to the next taxable year, and is taken into account in determining whether the U.S. Holder has a net positive or negative adjustment for that year. Any net negative adjustment that is carried forward to a taxable year in which the U.S. Holder sells or taxably disposes of the Contingent Security reduces the U.S. Holder's amount realised on the sale or other taxable disposition.

Upon the taxable disposition of a Contingent Security prior to its stated maturity, a U.S. Holder generally will recognise taxable income or loss equal to the difference between the amount received from the taxable disposition and the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Contingent Security. A U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Contingent Security will equal the cost thereof, increased by any interest income the U.S. Holder has previously accrued (determined by taking into account any adjustments made because the U.S. Holder purchased the Contingent Security at more or less than its adjusted issue price, as discussed in the next paragraph, but not taking into account adjustments due to differences between projected and actual payments) and decreased by the projected amounts of any payments previously made on the Contingent Security (without regard to actual amounts paid). At maturity, a U.S. Holder will be treated as receiving the projected amount for that date (reduced by any carryforward of a net negative adjustment), and any difference between the amount received and that projected amount will be treated as a positive or negative adjustment governed by the rules described above. A U.S. Holder generally must treat any income realised on the taxable disposition of a Contingent Security as interest income and any loss as ordinary loss to the extent of previous interest inclusions (reduced by the total amount of net negative adjustments previously taken into account as ordinary losses) and the balance as capital loss, the deductibility of which is subject to limitations. If a U.S. Holder recognises a loss above certain thresholds, the U.S. Holder may be required to file a disclosure statement with the IRS (as described below under "Reportable Transactions"). U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding this reporting obligation.

The discussions below under "Market Discount" and "Securities Purchased at a Premium" do not apply to Contingent Securities. If a U.S. Holder purchases a Contingent Security for an amount that is less than its adjusted issue price, the U.S. Holder must (i) make a positive adjustment increasing the interest the U.S. Holder would otherwise accrue to the extent such amount is attributable to a change in interest rates and/or (ii) make a positive adjustment increasing the ordinary income (or decreasing the ordinary loss) that the U.S. Holder would otherwise recognise upon the date of a projected payment to the extent such amount is attributable to a change in expectations as to the amount of that projected payment. If a U.S. Holder purchases a Contingent Security for an amount that is greater than its adjusted issue price, the U.S. Holder must (i) make a negative adjustment decreasing the interest that the U.S. Holder would otherwise accrue to the extent such amount is attributable to a change in interest rates and/or (ii) make a negative adjustment decreasing the ordinary income (or increasing the ordinary loss) that the U.S. Holder would otherwise recognise upon the date of a projected payment to the extent such amount is attributable to a change in expectations as to the amount of that projected payment.

Special rules may apply if all the remaining payments on a Contingent Security become fixed substantially contemporaneously. For this purpose, payments will be treated as fixed if the remaining contingencies with respect to them are remote or incidental. Under these rules, a U.S. Holder would be required to account for the difference between the original projected payments and the fixed payments in a reasonable manner over the period to which the difference relates. In addition, a U.S. Holder would be required to make adjustments to, among other things, its accrual periods and its tax basis in the Contingent Security. The character of any gain or loss on a sale or other taxable disposition of the Contingent Security also might be affected. If one or more (but not all) contingent payments on a Contingent Security became fixed more than six months prior to the relevant payment date(s), a U.S. Holder would be required to account for the difference between the original projected payment(s) and the fixed payment(s) on a present value basis. Prospective purchasers of Contingent Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding the application of these rules.

Foreign Currency Contingent Payment Debt Instruments

Special rules apply to determine the accrual of OID and the amount, timing, and character of any gain or loss on a Security that is a contingent payment debt instrument denominated in, or whose payments are determined by reference to, a foreign currency (a Foreign Currency Contingent Security). The term "Foreign Currency Contingent Security" also applies to certain debt instruments denominated in, or providing for payments determined by reference to, multiple currencies. The discussions below under "Securities Purchased at a Premium" and "Market Discount" do not apply to Foreign Currency Contingent Securities.

Under these rules, a U.S. Holder of a Foreign Currency Contingent Security generally will be required to accrue OID in the foreign currency in which the Foreign Currency Contingent Security is denominated, if applicable, or in the foreign currency with reference to which payments on the Security are determined (or, in the case of a Foreign Currency Contingent Security that has payments determined by reference to more than one foreign currency, in the "predominant currency" determined under applicable Treasury regulations) (the relevant foreign currency). A U.S. Holder of a Foreign Currency Contingent Security will apply rules similar to those applicable to Contingent Securities, as described above under "Contingent Payment Debt Instruments", to determine OID accruals, account for net positive or net negative adjustments, and calculate income or loss on the taxable disposition of the Foreign Currency Contingent Security. All such determinations are made in the relevant foreign currency. A highly complex set of rules governs the translation into U.S. dollars of the amounts determined in the relevant foreign currency and the related determination of foreign currency gain or loss. Prospective purchasers of Foreign Currency Contingent Securities should consult their tax advisors regarding these rules. A U.S. Holder might be required to file a disclosure statement with the IRS if the U.S. Holder recognises foreign currency loss above certain thresholds (as described below under "Reportable Transactions").

Short-Term Securities

Certain modifications to the general rules apply to Securities with a term of one year or less (from but excluding the issue date to and including the last possible date that the Securities could be outstanding pursuant to their terms) (Short-Term Securities).

First, none of the interest on a Short-Term Security is treated as qualified stated interest. Instead, interest on a Short-Term Security is treated as part of the Short-Term Security's stated redemption price at maturity, thereby giving rise to OID equal to the sum of all payments on the Security less the Security's issue price. OID will be treated as accruing on a Short-Term Security rateably, or, at the election of a U.S. Holder, under a constant yield method.

Second, a cash-method holder of a Short-Term Security generally will not be required to include OID in respect of the Short-Term Security in income on a current basis. However, the cash-method holder may not be allowed to deduct all of the interest paid or accrued on any indebtedness incurred or maintained to purchase or carry the Security until the maturity of the Security or its earlier taxable disposition. In addition, such a cash-method holder will be required to treat any gain realised on a taxable disposition of the Security as ordinary income to the extent of the holder's accrued OID on the Security, and as short-term capital gain to the extent the gain exceeds the accrued OID. A cash-method holder of a Short-Term Security may, however, elect to accrue OID into income on a current basis. In that case, the limitation on the deductibility of interest described above will not apply. An accrual-method holder generally will be required to include OID on a Short-Term Security in income on a current basis.

Third, Short-Term Securities will not be subject to the rules applicable to Contingent Securities. However, a Short-Term Security may have special redemption features or provide for other contingent payments. These features may cause uncertainty regarding the timing and character of income to be recognised on the Short-Term Security. Prospective purchasers of Short-Term Securities with such features should consult their tax advisors regarding these uncertainties.

Market Discount

If a U.S. Holder purchases a Security, other than a Short-Term Security, Contingent Security or Foreign Currency Contingent Security, for an amount that is less than the Security's stated redemption price at maturity or, in the case of an OID Security, for an amount that is less than the Security's revised issue price (i.e., the Security's issue price increased by the amount of accrued OID), the Security will be considered to have market discount (a Market Discount Security). The market discount rules are subject to a de minimis rule similar to the rule relating to de minimis OID described above (in the second paragraph under "Original Issue Discount"). Any gain recognised by the U.S. Holder on the taxable disposition of a Market Discount Security generally will be treated as ordinary income to the extent of the market discount that accrued on the Security while held by such U.S. Holder.

Alternatively, the U.S. Holder may elect to include market discount in income currently over the term of the Security. Such an election will apply to debt instruments with market discount acquired by the U.S. Holder on or after the first day of the first taxable year to which such election applies and may be revoked only with the consent of the IRS. Market discount will accrue on a straight-line basis unless the U.S. Holder elects to accrue the market discount on a constant-yield method. Unless the U.S. Holder elects to include market discount in income on a current basis, as described above, the U.S. Holder generally will be required to defer the deduction of a portion of the interest paid on any indebtedness incurred or maintained to purchase or carry the Security.

Market discount on a Foreign Currency Security will be determined by a U.S. Holder in the relevant foreign currency. The amount includible in income by a U.S. Holder in respect of accrued market discount will be the U.S. dollar value of the amount accrued. This is generally calculated at the spot rate of exchange on the date that the Security is disposed of by the U.S. Holder. Any accrued market discount on a Foreign Currency Security that is currently includible in income generally will be translated into U.S. dollars at the average exchange rate for the accrual period or portion of such accrual period within the U.S. Holder's taxable year.

Securities Purchased at a Premium

A U.S. Holder that purchases a Security (other than a Contingent Security or Foreign Currency Contingent Security) for an amount in excess of the remaining redemption amount (as defined above under "Original Issue Discount") will be considered to have purchased the Security at a premium. In that case, the OID rules will not apply to the Security. The U.S. Holder may elect to amortise the premium, as an offset to qualified stated interest, using a constant-yield method, over the remaining term of the Security. This election, once made, generally applies to all debt instruments held or subsequently acquired by the U.S. Holder on or after the beginning of the first taxable year to which the election applies and may be revoked only with the consent of the IRS. A U.S. Holder that elects to amortise bond premium must reduce its tax basis in a Security by the amount of the premium amortised during its holding period. Special rules may affect the U.S. Holder's ability to amortise bond premium if a Security may be redeemed at the Issuer's election at a price in excess of the Security's stated redemption price at maturity. Prospective purchasers who anticipate acquiring Securities with such features at a premium should consult their tax advisors regarding these special rules. If a U.S. Holder does not elect to amortise bond premium, the U.S. Holder generally will treat the premium as capital loss when the Security matures.

Amortisable bond premium in respect of a Foreign Currency Security will be computed in the relevant currency and will reduce qualified stated interest in that currency. At the time amortised bond premium offsets interest income, foreign currency gain or loss, which will be taxable as ordinary income or loss, will be realised on the amortised bond premium on such Security based on the difference between (1) the spot rate of exchange on the date or dates such premium offsets interest payments on the Security and (2) the spot rate of exchange on the date on which the U.S. Holder acquired the Security.

Possible Alternative Tax Treatment

There is no authority regarding the proper treatment of Credit Linked Notes and other Securities that do not provide for the return at maturity of a holder's investment under all circumstances. It is possible that all or any portion of such a Security could be recharacterised as other than a debt instrument, in which case the character and timing of income on the Security may be different for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Even if the tax treatment of the Securities as debt is respected, it is possible that Securities the Issuer does not intend to treat as Contingent Securities or Foreign Currency Contingent Securities could be treated as Contingent Securities or Foreign Currency Contingent Securities, with the consequences described above under "Contingent Payment Debt Instruments" or "Foreign Currency Contingent Payment Debt Instruments", respectively.

Securities Not Treated as Debt

The discussions below address various categories of Securities that the Issuer intends to treat for U.S. federal income tax purposes as other than debt, as indicated by the statement under "United States Tax Considerations" in the applicable Issue Terms. As discussed under "— General", this section does not address the U.S. federal tax treatment of Preference Share Linked Securities.

Due to the absence of controlling statutory, judicial or administrative authorities that directly address the U.S. federal tax treatment of non-debt Securities or similar instruments, significant aspects of the tax treatment of an investment in these Securities are uncertain. The following discussions of specific types of non-debt Securities generally assume that the Issuer's intended treatment of each type of Security is respected. These discussions are subject to, and should be read in conjunction with, the section below entitled "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt". As discussed in that section, alternative treatments of the Securities are possible, and even if the Issuer's general characterisation of the relevant Securities is respected there may nonetheless be uncertainty about specific aspects of the tax treatment of the relevant Securities. The Issuer does not plan to request a ruling from the IRS, and the IRS or a court might not agree with the treatments described below. Accordingly, prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding all aspects of the U.S. federal income tax consequences of an investment in the Securities.

If the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or there is another change to the Securities that results in the Securities being treated as reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as discussed in "—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code", the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Except where specifically stated, the discussion herein assumes that no such deemed retirement and reissuance has occurred.

Securities Treated as Prepaid Forward Contracts or Options

The following discussion applies only to Securities, not providing for any payments prior to maturity or early redemption, that the Issuer treats for U.S. federal income tax purposes as prepaid forward contracts or options.

A U.S. Holder generally should not be required to recognise taxable income over the term of a Security prior to maturity, other than pursuant to a taxable disposition as described below.

Upon a taxable disposition of a Security for cash and/or property (other than the Underlying), a U.S. Holder should recognise gain or loss equal to the difference between the cash and/or property received and the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Security. A U.S. Holder's tax basis in a Security generally should equal the amount paid to acquire it. This gain or loss generally should be long-term capital gain or loss if at the time of the sale, exchange or retirement the U.S. Holder held the Security for more than one year, and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise.

The tax consequences of receipt of the Underlying in settlement of a Physical Delivery Security are not clear. If receipt of the Underlying is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as the physical settlement of the Security, the U.S. Holder generally should not recognise any gain or loss with respect to the Underlying received. Under this treatment, a U.S. Holder should have an aggregate tax basis in the Underlying (including any fractional Underlying for which cash is received) equal to the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Security and should have a holding period in that Underlying beginning on the day after receipt. With respect to any cash received in lieu of a fractional Underlying, a U.S. Holder should recognise capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of that cash and the tax basis allocable to the fractional Underlying. However, it is possible that receipt of the Underlying could be treated as a taxable disposition of the Security for an amount equal to the fair market value of the Underlying, in which case the U.S. Holder would recognise gain or loss (subject, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules) as described in the previous paragraph. In that event, the Underlying received would generally be treated as purchased for its fair market value on the date of receipt.

In some cases, a Security may provide for amounts that are fixed or accrue prior to maturity but are paid at maturity (or, depending on the terms of the Security, upon an early retirement). In that event, a U.S. Holder might be required to treat such amounts as ordinary income, either at maturity or as they are fixed or accrue. Alternatively, if the entire amount of the payment at maturity becomes fixed or subject to a minimum level prior to maturity, the Security might be treated as terminated for U.S. federal income tax purposes at such time, in which case a U.S. Holder could be required to recognise capital gain in respect of the Security. See "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt". Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the treatment of such payments.

Securities Treated as Prepaid Forward Contracts or Options with Associated Periodic Payments

The following discussion applies only to Securities that the Issuer treats for U.S. federal income tax purposes as prepaid forward contracts or options with associated periodic payments. Unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, this discussion also applies to a Security that provides for non-periodic payment(s) prior to maturity or early retirement.

Insofar as it has information reporting responsibility in respect of a Security, the Issuer expects to treat the periodic payments (including the periodic payment at maturity) as ordinary income, which the U.S. Holder would recognise in accordance with its method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes. It is possible that the timing and character of income with respect to a periodic payment could be different, as described below. See "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt".

Upon a taxable disposition of a Security for cash and/or property (other than the Underlying) a U.S. Holder generally should recognise gain or loss equal to the difference between (i) the cash and/or property received and (ii) the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Security. However, any periodic payment received at maturity will, and the treatment of any sales proceeds attributable to an accrued but unpaid periodic payment may, be treated as described in the preceding paragraph. A U.S. Holder's tax basis in a Security generally should equal the amount paid to acquire it. This gain or loss generally should be long-term capital gain or loss if at the time of the taxable disposition the U.S. Holder held the Securities for more than one year, and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise.

The tax consequences of receipt of the Underlying in settlement of a Physical Delivery Security are not clear. If receipt of the Underlying is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as the physical settlement of the Security, the U.S. Holder generally should not recognise any gain or loss with respect to the Underlying received. Under this treatment, a U.S. Holder should have an aggregate tax basis in the Underlying received (including a fractional Underlying for which cash is received) equal to the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the Securities and should have a holding period in that Underlying beginning on the day after receipt. With respect to any cash received in lieu of a fractional Underlying, a U.S. Holder should recognise capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of that cash and the tax basis allocable to the fractional Underlying. However, it is possible that receipt of the Underlying could be treated as a taxable disposition of the Security for an amount equal to the fair market value of the Underlying, in which case the U.S. Holder would recognise gain or loss as described in the previous paragraph (subject, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules). In that event, the Underlying received would generally be treated as purchased for its fair market value on the date of receipt.

Securities Treated as Put Options and Deposits

The following discussion applies only to a Security that the Issuer treats as a put option (the Put Option) written by the U.S. Holder with respect to the Underlying, secured by a deposit equal to the stated principal amount of the Security (the Deposit). It generally assumes that the U.S. Holder purchases the Security for its stated principal amount. Under this treatment:

- a portion of each periodic payment made with respect to a Security will be attributable to interest on the Deposit; and
- the remainder will represent option premium attributable to the U.S. Holder's grant of the Put Option (with respect to each payment received and, collectively, all periodic payments received, the Put Premium).

It is possible that the timing and character of income with respect to a periodic payment could be different, as described below under "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt".

If the term of a Security is not more than one year, the Deposit will be treated as a "short-term obligation" generally subject to the rules described under "Securities Treated as Debt – Short-Term Securities" above.

If the term of a Security is more than one year, subject to anything to the contrary in the applicable Pricing Supplement in respect of Exempt Securities, the Issuer generally intends to treat the Deposit as a fixed rate debt instrument or a Single-Rate VRDI, depending on the terms of the Security, and the following discussion is based on this treatment. Under this treatment, interest on the Deposit generally will be taxable as ordinary interest income at the time it accrues or is received in accordance with the U.S. Holder's method of tax accounting. If, however, the terms of the Deposit cause it instead to be treated as a "contingent payment debt instrument", as described above under "Securities Treated as Debt – Contingent Payment Debt Instruments", the timing and character of income recognised on the Deposit will be as described in that section.

The Put Premium should not be taken into account until the taxable disposition of a Security. Where relevant, the Issuer will provide the percentage of each periodic payment that is allocated to interest on the Deposit and to Put Premium in the applicable Issue Terms. This allocation is binding on a U.S. Holder unless the U.S. Holder discloses otherwise on its U.S. federal income tax return; however, it is not binding on the IRS.

Upon a taxable disposition of a Security prior to maturity or earlier redemption, a U.S. Holder should apportion the amount realised between the Deposit and the Put Option based on their respective values on the date of the taxable disposition. Except with respect to any amount attributable to accrued interest on the Deposit, which, if not previously included in income, will be treated as a payment of interest (in the case of a short-term Security, only to the extent of the gain recognised), a U.S. Holder will recognise gain or loss with respect to the Deposit in an amount equal to the difference between (i) the amount realised that is apportioned to the Deposit (the Deposit Value) and (ii) the U.S. Holder's basis in the Deposit (i.e., the issue price of the Security). Such gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder has held the Security for more than one year, and short-term capital gain or loss otherwise. If the amount of a periodic payment in respect of an accrual period is not known until the end of the relevant observation period, it is not clear how much interest, if any, will be treated as having accrued on the Deposit at the time of a taxable disposition prior to maturity.

Any difference between the amount realised on the taxable disposition and the Deposit Value will be apportioned to the Put Option. If the Deposit Value exceeds the amount realised upon the taxable disposition of a Security, a U.S. Holder will be treated as having made a payment equal to such excess in exchange for the purchaser's assumption of the Put Option. A U.S. Holder should recognise short-term capital gain or loss in respect of the Put Option in an amount equal to the total Put Premium previously received, decreased by the amount deemed to be paid by the U.S. Holder, or increased by the amount deemed to be paid to the U.S. Holder, in exchange for the purchaser's assumption of the Put Option.

The periodic payment received at maturity or earlier redemption should be treated as described above.

If a Security is retired for its stated principal amount (without taking into account any periodic payment), the Put Option should be deemed to have expired unexercised, in which case a U.S. Holder should recognise short-term capital gain in an amount equal to the sum of all payments of Put Premium received, including the Put Premium received at maturity.

At maturity, if a U.S. Holder receives an amount of cash and/or property (other than the Underlying), not counting the final periodic payment, that is different from the stated principal amount, the Put Option should be deemed to have been exercised and the U.S. Holder should be deemed to have applied the Deposit toward the cash settlement of the Put Option. In that case, the U.S. Holder should recognise short-term capital gain or loss with respect to the Put Option in an amount equal to the difference between (i) the sum of the total Put Premium received (including the Put Premium received at maturity) and the cash and/or other property the U.S. Holder receives at maturity, excluding the final periodic payment, and (ii) the Deposit.

If the Underlying is an interest in an entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes, it is unclear whether any capital gain or loss recognised in respect of the Put Option upon retirement of the Security should be treated as long-term or short-term capital gain or loss, respectively, if the U.S. Holder has held the Security for more than a year at that time. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the tax consequences of purchasing a Security linked to such an interest.

The tax consequences of receipt of the Underlying in settlement of a Physical Delivery Security are not clear. If receipt of the Underlying is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as the physical settlement of the Security, the Put Option will be deemed to have been exercised, and the U.S. Holder should be deemed to have applied the Deposit toward the physical settlement of the Put Option. Under this treatment, a U.S. Holder should not recognise any income or gain in respect of the total Put Premium received (including the Put Premium received at maturity) and should not recognise any gain or loss with respect to any Underlying received. Instead, a U.S. Holder should have an aggregate tax basis in the Underlying received (including any fractional Underlying) equal to the Deposit less the total Put Premium received over the term of the Securities. A U.S. Holder's holding period for any Underlying received will start on the day after receipt. With respect to any cash received in lieu of a fractional Underlying, a U.S. Holder should recognise capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of cash received in lieu of the fractional Underlying and the pro rata portion of the U.S. Holder's aggregate tax basis that is allocable to the fractional Underlying. However, it is possible that receipt of the Underlying could be treated as a taxable disposition of the Security for an amount equal to the fair market value of the Underlying, in which case the U.S. Holder would recognise gain or loss as described in the previous paragraph (subject, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules). In that event, the Underlying received would generally be treated as purchased for its fair market value on the date of receipt.

Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt

Alternative U.S. federal income tax treatments of the Securities are possible that, if applied, could materially and adversely affect the timing and/or character of income, gain or loss with respect to non-debt Securities. For instance, a Security could be treated as a debt instrument, notwithstanding the Issuer's treatment of it as a non-debt instrument, in which case (i) physical delivery of the Underlying would be a taxable event, and (ii) the consequences of owning the Security would generally be as described above under "Securities Treated as Debt – Short-Term Securities" or "Securities Treated as Debt – Contingent Payment Debt Instruments", as applicable. Moreover, if the payment at maturity on a non-debt Security were to become fixed or subject to a minimum level prior to maturity, a U.S. Holder might be required to treat the Security as debt after that date and also possibly to recognise gain at that time. It is also possible that a U.S. Holder could be treated as owning the Underlying, in which case the tax consequences might be materially and adversely affected.

For Securities linked to an Underlying that is not a specific asset, for example a Rate, it is possible that (i) any gain recognised at maturity of the Security could be treated as ordinary income instead of capital gain and (ii) any loss so recognised could be treated as a "miscellaneous itemized deduction" subject to significant limitations on use.

With respect to Securities treated as prepaid forward contracts or options with associated periodic payments and Securities treated as Put Options and Deposits, the periodic payments on the Securities might not be accounted for separately as giving rise to income to a U.S. Holder until the sale, exchange or retirement of the Securities. In the case of Securities treated as Put Options and Deposits, the entire periodic payment on the Security could be treated as ordinary income at the time received or accrued. In either case, such an alternative treatment would affect, among other things, the determination of gain or loss upon the taxable disposition of the relevant Security.

Other possible U.S. federal income tax treatments of the Securities could also affect the timing and character of income or loss with respect to the Securities. In addition, the U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS have requested comments on various issues regarding the U.S. federal income tax treatment of "prepaid forward contracts" and similar financial instruments and have indicated that such transactions may be the subject of future regulations or other guidance. In addition, members of Congress have proposed legislative changes to the tax treatment of derivative contracts. Any legislation, Treasury regulations or other guidance promulgated after consideration of these issues could materially and adversely affect the tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, possibly with retroactive effect. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors concerning the U.S. federal income tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, including possible alternative treatments and potential changes in applicable law.

Possible Application of Section 1260 of the Code

If a Security is linked to an Underlying that is an equity interest in one of a specified list of entities, including an exchange-traded fund or other regulated investment company (e.g., a mutual fund), a real estate investment trust, partnership, trust or PFIC, it is possible, depending upon the specific terms of the Security, that an investment in the Security will be treated as a "constructive ownership transaction" within the meaning of Section 1260 of the Code. In that case, all or a portion of any long-term capital gain otherwise recognised by a U.S. Holder in respect of the Security would be recharacterised as ordinary income to the extent such gain exceeded the "net underlying long-term capital gain." Although the matter is unclear, the "net underlying long-term capital gain" may equal the amount of long-term capital gain a U.S. Holder would have realised if on the issue date the U.S. Holder had invested the amount paid to acquire the Security in the relevant Underlying and sold those Underlying units for their fair market value at the time the relevant Security is sold, exchanged or retired (which would generally reflect the percentage increase, if any, in the value of the Underlying over the term of the Securities). However, the "net underlying long-term capital gain" could be calculated in other ways. Any long-term capital gain recharacterised as ordinary income under Section 1260 would be treated as accruing at a constant rate over the period the U.S. Holder held the Security, and the U.S. Holder would be subject to a notional interest charge in respect of the deemed tax liability on the income treated as accruing in prior tax years. The amount of "net underlying long-term capital gain" is treated as zero unless the actual amount of "net underlying long-term capital gain" is established by clear and convincing evidence. Moreover, Securities linked to certain Underlyings could, if a U.S. Holder is an individual or other non-corporate investor, be subject to tax at the higher rates applicable to "collectibles" instead of the general rates that apply to long-term capital gain. See "Possible Higher Tax on Securities Linked to 'Collectibles'" below. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the possible application of Section 1260 to the Securities.

Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code

If there is (i) any Adjustment Event, including but not limited to the replacement of the Underlying, (ii) a change in the methodology by which an Index is calculated, (iii) a change in the components of an Index, (iv) any other circumstance resulting in a material change to the Underlying or a rate referenced by a Security, (v) a redenomination, (vi) the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or (vii) any other circumstance resulting in a material change to the terms of a Security, it is possible that the Securities could be treated, in whole or part, as retired and reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes. In the event of a deemed retirement, a U.S. Holder might be required to recognise gain or loss (subject, in the case of loss, to the possible application of the wash sale rules) with respect to the Securities. Moreover, the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the risk of such an event.

Possible Application of Section 988 of the Code

If the Underlying in respect of a Security consists of one or more foreign currencies, foreign currency debt instruments, contingent foreign currency debt instruments, or indices or derivatives with respect to the foregoing, it is likely that the Security will be subject to Section 988 of the Code. In that case, subject to the election discussed in the next sentence, any gain or loss recognised on the Security generally will be treated as ordinary income or loss. While a taxpayer may elect to treat gain or loss on certain non-debt instruments linked to one or more foreign currencies as capital gain or loss (a Section 988 election), it is unclear whether a "Section 988 election" would be available for Securities treated as prepaid forward contracts or options, and doubtful that it would be available for other Securities. In addition, assuming Section 988 of the Code applies to the Securities and a valid Section 988 election is not made, a U.S. Holder might be subject to special reporting requirements that apply to foreign currency losses that exceed certain thresholds (as described below under "Reportable Transactions"). Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of Section 988 of the Code and the availability and advisability of making a "Section 988 election".

With respect to Securities treated as Put Options and Deposits, not described in the preceding paragraph, that are denominated in or determined by reference to a foreign currency, the Deposit (but not, generally, the Put Option) may be subject to special rules under Section 988 of the Code that are applicable to foreign currency debt as described above under "– Securities Treated as Debt". Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of Section 988 to the Securities.

Possible Application of Section 1256 of the Code

Special rules will apply if a Security is treated in whole or in part as subject to the mark-to-market rules of Section 1256 of the Code. Section 1256 applies, among others, to "foreign currency contracts," as well as certain options listed on or subject to the rules of a qualified board or exchange. If Section 1256 of the Code were to apply to a Security, a U.S. Holder would be required (i) to recognise gain or loss on all, or a portion, of the Security as if it were sold at its fair market value on the last business day of each year it is held, and (ii) to treat such gain or loss as 40 per cent. short-term capital gain or loss and 60 per cent. long-term capital gain or loss (subject, in the case of a foreign currency contract, to the U.S. Holder's making a valid Section 988 election as described above). In the absence of a valid Section 988 election with respect to a Security treated as a "foreign currency contract," the gain or loss recognised would be ordinary. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of Section 1256 of the Code to the Securities.

Possible Higher Tax on Securities Linked to "Collectibles"

Under current law, long-term capital gain recognised on a sale of "collectibles" (which includes, among others, metals) or an ownership interest in certain entities that hold collectibles is generally taxed at the maximum 28 per cent. rate applicable to collectibles. It is possible that long-term capital gain from a taxable disposition of certain non-debt Securities linked to an Underlying that is a collectible or is one of certain entities holding collectibles would be subject to the maximum 28 per cent. rate applicable to collectibles, instead of the lower long-term capital gain rate. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding an investment in a Security linked to a collectible or to an entity holding collectibles.

Tax Consequences to Non-U.S. Holders

Securities Issued by a U.S. Issuer

Securities Treated as Debt

This section describes certain generally applicable U.S. federal income tax consequences to Non-U.S. Holders in respect of Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. or CGMHI (each, a U.S. Issuer) that the Issuer intends to treat as debt for U.S. federal income tax purposes as evidenced by the statement under "United States Tax Considerations" in the applicable Issue Terms, and that are not Non-U.S. Securities. It generally assumes that the Issuer's intended treatment is respected. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should consult their tax advisors about the risk that the IRS challenges the Issuer's treatment of the Securities. Certain exceptions to these general rules are discussed below under "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders" and "FATCA", and therefore this discussion is subject to, and should be read in conjunction with, the discussion contained in those sections.

Interest payments on a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding tax, as long as (1) the Non-U.S. Holder does not actually or constructively own 10 per cent. or more of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock of the U.S. Issuer entitled to vote, (2) the Non-U.S. Holder is not (i) a controlled foreign corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes that is related to the U.S. Issuer through stock ownership or (ii) a bank extending credit pursuant to a loan agreement entered into in the ordinary course of its trade or business, (3) such interest is not contingent on the U.S. Issuer's profits, revenues or changes in the value of its property and is not otherwise excluded from the definition of "portfolio interest" by Section 871(h)(4) of the Code, and (4) the Non-U.S. Holder provides a statement signed under penalties of perjury that certifies that it is a non-United States person in compliance with applicable requirements (generally, an appropriate IRS Form W-8) or satisfies certain documentary evidence requirements for establishing that it is a non-United States person. Gain realised by a Non-U.S. Holder on the taxable disposition of a Security (which excludes amounts attributable to accrued interest) generally will not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax.

If the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or there is another change to the Securities that results in the Securities being treated as reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as discussed in "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code", the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Except where specifically stated, the discussion herein assumes that no such deemed retirement and reissuance has occurred.

As discussed under "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders – Possible Alternative Tax Treatment" above, there is no authority regarding the U.S. federal income tax treatment of Credit Linked Notes or other Securities that do not provide for the return at maturity of a holder's investment under all circumstances. The Issuer's intended treatment of such Securities is not binding on the IRS, and the IRS could disagree with it. If such a Security were treated as an instrument other than debt, interest payments on the Security could be subject to withholding at a rate of 30 per cent., subject to reduction under an applicable income tax treaty. Insofar as it has responsibility as a withholding agent in respect of such Securities, the Issuer currently does not intend to withhold on payments on such Securities to Non-U.S. Holders (subject to the certification requirements and the exceptions described herein). However, it is possible that other withholding agents may withhold on interest payments on such Securities, and in the future the Issuer may determine that it is required to so withhold.

Securities Not Treated as Debt

This section describes certain generally applicable U.S. federal income tax consequences to Non-U.S. Holders in respect of Securities issued by a U.S. Issuer that the Issuer intends to treat as a financial instrument other than debt for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as evidenced by the statement under "United States Tax Considerations" in the applicable Issue Terms, and that are not Non-U.S. Securities. It generally assumes that the Issuer's intended treatment is respected. Certain exceptions to these general rules are discussed below under "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders" and "FATCA", and therefore this discussion is subject to, and should be read in conjunction with, the discussions contained in those sections. Prospective purchasers should note that a U.S. Issuer will not be required to pay any additional amounts with respect to U.S. federal income taxes, if any, withheld, whether by the Issuer or by another withholding agent, with respect to Securities not treated as debt for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

If the Issuer designates a Substitute for itself, or there is another change to the Securities that results in the Securities being treated as reissued for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as discussed in "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code", the treatment of the Securities after such an event could differ from their prior treatment. Except where specifically stated, the discussion herein assumes that no such deemed retirement and reissuance has occurred.

Non-U.S. Holders should refer to "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders – Securities Not Treated as Debt" above for the definitions of certain terms used below.

Securities Treated as Prepaid Forward Contracts or Options

Generally, subject to the discussion in the next paragraph, a Non-U.S. Holder should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax in respect of the taxable disposition of a Security, not providing for any payments prior to maturity or early redemption, that is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a prepaid forward contract or an option.

In some cases, a Security may provide for amounts that are fixed or accrue prior to maturity but are paid at maturity. In that event, such amounts paid to a Non-U.S. Holder might be subject to withholding tax at a rate of 30 per cent. (which may be reduced under an applicable income tax treaty). Even if the Issuer or an applicable withholding agent generally treats such amounts as eligible for an exemption from withholding, in light of the uncertain treatment of such amounts the Issuer or an applicable withholding agent might require a Non-U.S. Holder to provide a statement signed under penalties of perjury that certifies that it is a non-United States person in compliance with applicable requirements (generally an appropriate IRS Form W-8) or to satisfy certain documentary evidence requirements for establishing that it is a non-United States person. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding the treatment of such payments.

Securities Treated as Prepaid Forward Contracts or Options with Associated Periodic Payments

With respect to Securities treated as prepaid forward contracts or options with associated periodic payments, to the extent the Issuer has withholding responsibility in respect of the Securities, it intends to treat the periodic payments as subject to withholding at a rate of 30 per cent., unless the Non-U.S. Holder provides a properly executed and appropriate IRS Form W-8 claiming eligibility for a reduction of or an exemption from withholding under an applicable income tax treaty. A Non-U.S. Holder generally should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax with respect to the taxable disposition of a Security (although any amount received in respect of a periodic payment may be treated as subject to withholding). Unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, this discussion also applies to a Security that provides for non-periodic payment(s) prior to maturity or early retirement.

Securities Treated as Put Options and Deposits

A Non-U.S. Holder generally should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax in respect of amounts paid on a Security treated as Put Options and Deposits, as long as the requirements in the second paragraph under "Securities Treated as Debt" are met. While the Issuer currently does not intend to withhold on payments to Non-U.S. Holders on Securities treated as Put Options and Deposits (assuming these requirements are met), in light of the uncertain treatment of the Securities other persons having withholding responsibility in respect of the Securities may treat some or all of each periodic payment on a Security as subject to withholding tax at a rate of 30 per cent. (which may be reduced under an applicable income tax treaty). Moreover, it is possible that in the future the Issuer may determine that it should so withhold at a rate of 30 per cent., subject to reduction under an applicable income tax treaty, on periodic payments on the Securities. A Non-U.S. Holder generally should not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax with respect to the taxable disposition of a Security (other than with respect to amounts attributable to an accrued periodic payment, which are discussed above).

Securities Issued by the Non-U.S. Issuer

Securities issued by CGMFL (the Non-U.S. Issuer) to Non-U.S. Holders will be designated as "Non-U.S. Issuer Securities" in the applicable Issue Terms. For such Securities, subject to the discussions below under "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders", the Issuer currently intends to treat payments made with respect to the Securities as not subject to U.S. federal withholding tax.

Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders

Except where specified otherwise, the discussion in this section applies to any Security issued by either the Non-U.S. Issuer or a U.S. Issuer and held by a Non-U.S. Holder.

Possible Alternative Tax Treatments of an Investment in the Securities

If all or any portion of a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer that the Issuer treats as a financial instrument other than debt were recharacterised as a debt instrument, any payment made to a Non-U.S. Holder with respect to the Security generally would not be subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax as long as the requirements in the second paragraph under "Securities Treated as Debt" are met. Moreover, if the payment at maturity on a non-debt Security were to become fixed or subject to a minimum level prior to maturity, a Non-U.S. Holder might be required to treat the Security as debt after that date. Alternatively, it is possible that a Non-U.S. Holder could be treated as owning the Underlying, in which case the tax consequences might be materially and adversely affected.

As discussed above under "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders – Securities Not Treated as Debt – Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt", in 2007, the U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS released a notice requesting comments on the U.S. federal income tax treatment of "prepaid forward contracts" and similar instruments. Among the issues addressed in the notice is the degree, if any, to which any income with respect to instruments similar to certain Securities should be subject to U.S. federal withholding tax. While the notice requests comments on appropriate transition rules and effective dates, it is possible that any Treasury regulations or other guidance promulgated after consideration of these issues might materially and adversely affect the withholding tax consequences of an investment in the Securities, possibly with retroactive effect. If withholding is required, the Issuer will not be required to pay any additional amounts with respect to amounts so withheld.

If all or any portion of a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer that the Issuer treats as a debt instrument were recharacterised as a financial instrument other than debt, certain payments made to a Non-U.S. Holder could be treated as being subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax, as discussed above under "Tax Consequences to Non-U.S. Holders – Securities Not Treated as Debt".

Effectively Connected Income

If a Non-U.S. Holder is engaged in a U.S. trade or business, and if income (including gain) from a Security is effectively connected with the conduct of that trade or business, the Non-U.S. Holder generally will be subject to regular U.S. federal income tax with respect to that income in the same manner as if the Non-U.S. Holder were a U.S. Holder, unless an applicable income tax treaty provides otherwise. If such a Non-U.S. Holder is a corporation, the Non-U.S. Holder should also consider the potential application of a 30 per cent. (or lower treaty rate) branch profits tax. A Non-U.S. Holder would be required to provide an IRS Form W-8ECI to the applicable withholding agent to establish an exemption from withholding for amounts, otherwise subject to withholding, paid on a Security.

Section 871(m) Withholding on Dividend Equivalents

Section 871(m) of the Code and the Treasury regulations thereunder (Section 871(m)) impose a 30 per cent. (or lower treaty rate) withholding tax on certain "dividend equivalents" paid or deemed paid to Non-U.S. Holders with respect to certain financial instruments linked to U.S. equities (Underlying Securities), as defined under the applicable Treasury regulations, or indices that include Underlying Securities. Section 871(m) generally applies to Specified Equity-Linked Instruments (Specified ELIs), which are financial instruments that substantially replicate the economic performance of one or more Underlying Securities, as determined based on tests set forth in the applicable Treasury regulations and discussed further below. Section 871(m) provides certain exceptions to this withholding regime, in particular for instruments linked to certain broad-based indices that meet requirements set forth in the applicable Treasury regulations (Qualified Indices) as well as securities that track such indices (Qualified Index Securities).

Although the Section 871(m) regime is effective as of 2017, the regulations and IRS Notice 2020-2 phase in the application of Section 871(m) as follows:

- For financial instruments issued prior to 1 January 2023, Section 871(m) will generally apply only to financial instruments that have a "delta" of one.
- For financial instruments issued in 2023 and thereafter, Section 871(m) will apply if either (i) the "delta" of the relevant financial instrument is at least 0.80, if it is a "simple" contract, or (ii) the financial instrument meets a "substantial equivalence" test, if it is a "complex" contract.

Delta is generally defined as the ratio of the change in the fair market value of a financial instrument to a small change in the fair market value of the number of shares of the Underlying Security. The "substantial equivalence" test measures whether a complex contract tracks its "initial hedge" (shares of the Underlying Security that would fully hedge the contract) more closely than would a "benchmark" simple contract with a delta of 0.80.

The calculations are generally made at the calculation date, which is the earlier of (i) the time of pricing of the Security, i.e., when all material terms have been agreed on, and (ii) the issuance of the Security. However, if the time of pricing is more than 14 calendar days before the issuance of the Security, the calculation date is the date of the issuance of the Security. Under these rules, information regarding the Issuer's final determinations for purposes of Section 871(m) may be available only after a Non-U.S. Holder agrees to acquire a Security. As a result, a Non-U.S. Holder should acquire such a Security only if it is willing to accept the risk that the Security is treated as a Specified ELI subject to withholding under Section 871(m).

If the terms of a Security are subject to a "significant modification" (for example, upon an Issuer substitution, as discussed above under "Tax Consequences to U.S. Holders—Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations Applicable to Securities That Are Not Treated as Debt—Possible Taxable Event Under Section 1001 of the Code") the Security generally will be treated as reissued for this purpose at the time of the significant modification, in which case the Securities could become Specified ELIs at that time.

If a Security is a Specified ELI, withholding in respect of dividend equivalents will, depending on the applicable withholding agent's circumstances, generally be required either (i) on the underlying dividend payment date or (ii) when cash payments are made on the Security or upon the date of maturity, lapse or other disposition by the Non-U.S. Holder of the Security, or possibly upon certain other events. Depending on the circumstances, the applicable withholding agent may withhold the required amounts from coupon or other payments on the Security, from proceeds of the retirement or other disposition of the Security, or from other cash or property of the Non-U.S. Holder held by the withholding agent.

The dividend equivalent amount will include the amount of any actual or, under certain circumstances, estimated dividend. If the dividend equivalent amount is based on the actual dividend, it will be equal to the product of: (i) in the case of a "simple" contract, the per-share dividend amount, the number of shares of an Underlying Security and the delta; or (ii) in the case of a "complex" contract, the per-share dividend amount and the initial hedge. The dividend equivalent amount for Specified ELIs issued prior to 1 January 2023 that have a "delta" of one will be calculated in the same manner as (i) above, using a "delta" of one. The per-share dividend amount will be the actual dividend (including any special dividends) paid with respect to a share of the Underlying Security. If the dividend equivalent amount is based on an estimated dividend, the Issue Terms will generally state the estimated amounts.

Depending on the terms of a Security and whether it is issued prior to 1 January 2023, the Issue Terms may contain additional information relevant to Section 871(m), such as whether the Security references a Qualified Index or Qualified Index Security; whether it is a "simple" contract; the "delta" and the number of shares multiplied by delta (for a simple contract); and whether the "substantial equivalence test" is met and the initial hedge (for a complex contract).

The Issuer's determination regarding Section 871(m) is generally binding on Non-U.S. Holders, but it is not binding on the IRS. The Section 871(m) regulations require complex calculations to be made with respect to Securities linked to Underlying Securities and their application to a specific issue of Securities may be uncertain. Accordingly, even if the Issuer determines that certain Securities are not Specified ELIs, the IRS could challenge the Issuer's determination and assert that withholding is required in respect of those Securities.

The application of Section 871(m) to a Security may be affected if a Non-U.S. Holder enters into another transaction in connection with the acquisition of the Security. For example, if a Non-U.S. Holder enters into other transactions relating to an Underlying Security, the Non-U.S. Holder could be subject to withholding tax or income tax liability under Section 871(m) even if the relevant Securities are not Specified ELIs subject to Section 871(m) as a general matter. Non-U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding the application of Section 871(m) in their particular circumstances.

Specified Current Payment Securities:

The following discussion applies to certain Securities that are Specified ELIs and that provide solely for (i) a payment at maturity or earlier retirement or exercise that is determined by reference to the value of the Underlying(s) (or physical delivery of the Underlying(s)) and (ii) cash payments equal to dividends (if any) on each Underlying Security to which the Security relates multiplied by the number of shares of such Underlying Security to which the Security relates (such cash payments, ("U.S. dividend-linked payments") and each such Security, (a "Specified Current Payment Security"). It is expected that each U.S. dividend-linked payment will be made on the payment date for the related dividend.

The Issuer will treat each U.S. dividend-linked payment as the payment of a dividend equivalent. Accordingly, Non-U.S. Holders should expect withholding agents to withhold 30 per cent. (or a lower rate under the dividend provision of an applicable income tax treaty) of each U.S. dividend-linked payment. However, because the application of Section 871(m) to Specified Current Payment Securities is not entirely clear, it is possible that a withholding agent could treat such a Security as subject to additional withholding, for example from amounts due at maturity or exercise of the Security. In addition, a withholding agent may withhold at the 30 per cent. (or other applicable maximum) rate regardless of whether the Non-U.S. Holder is eligible for the benefits of an income tax treaty in respect of the payment.

Specified Net Total Return Securities

The following discussion applies to certain Securities that are Specified ELIs and that provide solely for a payment at maturity or earlier retirement or exercise that is determined by reference to the value of the Underlying(s) (or physical delivery of the Underlying(s)), where such final value, in the case of an Underlying that is an Underlying Security, reflects the deemed reinvestment of any dividends paid over the term of the Security in respect of the number of shares of such Underlying Security to which the Security relates, net of the maximum amount of U.S. withholding tax that would be applicable to each such dividend (currently, 30 per cent.) (such net amount, the Net Dividend Amount). The discussion herein refers to each such Security as a Specified Net Total Return Security.

Upon the payment of a dividend with respect to an Underlying Security in respect of a Specified Net Total Return Security, the Issuer will deposit with the IRS an amount equal to the relevant gross dividend amount multiplied by the maximum applicable U.S. withholding tax rate on dividends (not reduced by the application of any U.S. income tax treaty). Because (i) the Net Dividend Amount plus (ii) the amount to be deposited with the IRS will equal 100 per cent. of the gross dividend amount, the Issuer will treat the aggregate of (i) and (ii) as the payment of a dividend equivalent equal to 100 per cent. of such gross dividend amount for purposes of Section 871(m).

Prospective purchasers of Securities that are Specified ELIs should consult their tax advisors regarding whether they are eligible for a refund of any part of the withholding tax discussed above on the basis of an applicable U.S. income tax treaty, as well as the process for obtaining such a refund (which will generally require the filing of a U.S. federal income tax return). In some circumstances, including when the Issuer or another intermediary performs the withholding required under Section 871(m), it may not be possible for a Non-U.S. Holder to obtain the documentation necessary to support a refund claim under an applicable treaty.

The Issuer will not be required to pay any additional amounts in respect of amounts withheld under Section 871(m).

Prospective purchasers of the Securities should note that if a Section 871(m) Event (as defined under "Valuation and Settlement Schedule—Definitions—Section 871(m) Event") occurs, an Early Redemption Event will occur, in which case the relevant Securities may be redeemed as more fully set out in the terms and conditions of such Securities.

FIRPTA

Section 897 of the Code, commonly referred to as "FIRPTA", applies to certain interests in entities that beneficially own significant amounts of United States real property interests (each, a USRPI). As discussed above, the Issuer will not attempt to ascertain whether any issuer of Shares, shares that underlie an Index, or any other equity interest to which Securities relate, should be treated as a USRPHC for purposes of Section 897 of the Code (including a non-corporate entity treated for relevant purposes of Section 897 of the Code as a USRPHC). If a relevant issuer were so treated, it is possible that, subject to the exceptions discussed in the following paragraph, a Security could be treated as a USRPI, in which case any gain from the disposition of the Security would generally be subject to U.S. federal income tax and would be required to be reported by the Non-U.S. Holder on a U.S. federal income tax return, generally in the same manner as if the Non-U.S. Holder were a U.S. Holder, and would in certain cases be subject to withholding in the amount of 15 per cent. of the gross proceeds of such disposition.

An exception to the FIRPTA rules applies in respect of interests in entities that have a regularly traded class of interests outstanding. Under this exception, a Security that is not "regularly traded" on an established securities market generally should not be subject to the FIRPTA rules unless its fair market value upon acquisition exceeds 5 per cent. of the relevant issuer's regularly traded class of interests as specified in the applicable Treasury regulations. In the case of Securities that are "regularly traded", a holding of 5 per cent. or less of the outstanding Securities of that class or series generally should not be subject to the FIRPTA rules. Certain attribution and aggregation rules apply, and prospective purchasers are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding whether their ownership interest in the Securities will meet an exemption from the FIRPTA rules in light of their circumstances, including any other interest they might have in a relevant issuer.

U.S. Federal Estate Tax

An individual Non-U.S. Holder or an entity the property of which is potentially includible in such an individual's gross estate for U.S. federal estate tax purposes (for example, a trust funded by such an individual and with respect to which the individual has retained certain interests or powers) should note that, absent an applicable treaty exemption, a Security issued by a U.S. Issuer that is not treated as debt for U.S. federal estate tax purposes may be treated as U.S. situs property subject to U.S. federal estate tax. A Security that is treated as a debt obligation for U.S. federal estate tax purposes and that is issued by a U.S. Issuer generally will not be treated as U.S. situs property subject to U.S. federal estate tax if payments on the Security, if received by the decedent at the time of death, would not have been subject to U.S. federal withholding or income tax because of the exemption from withholding of "portfolio interest". A holder that is such an individual or entity should consult its tax advisor regarding the U.S. federal estate tax consequences of investing in the Securities. A Security that is issued by the Non-U.S. Issuer generally will not be treated as U.S.-situs property.

Reportable Transactions

A taxpayer that participates in a "reportable transaction" is subject to information reporting requirements under Section 6011 of the Code. "Reportable transactions" include, among other things, "loss transactions" that result in a taxpayer's claiming certain losses in excess of specified amounts and certain transactions identified by the IRS. In 2015, the U.S. Treasury Department and the IRS released notices designating certain "basket options", "basket contracts" and substantially similar transactions as reportable transactions. The notices apply to specified transactions in which a taxpayer or its "designee" has, and exercises, discretion to change the assets or an algorithm underlying the transaction. While an exercise of the type of discretion that would give rise to such reporting requirements in respect of the Securities is not expected, if the Issuer, an index sponsor or calculation agent or other person were to exercise discretion under the terms of a Security or an index underlying a Security and were treated as a holder's "designee" for these purposes, unless an exception applied certain holders of the relevant Securities would be required to report certain information to the IRS, as set forth in the applicable Treasury regulations, or be subject to penalties. The Issuer might also be required to report information regarding the transaction to the IRS. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding these rules.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

Amounts paid on the Securities, and the proceeds of a taxable disposition of the Securities, may be subject to information reporting and, if a beneficial owner fails to provide certain identifying information (such as an accurate taxpayer identification number for a U.S. Holder) or meet certain other conditions, may also be subject to backup withholding at the rate specified in the Code. A Non-U.S. Holder that provides an appropriate IRS Form W-8 generally will establish an exemption from backup withholding. Amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules are not additional taxes and may be refunded or credited against a holder's U.S. federal income tax liability, provided the relevant information is timely furnished to the IRS.

FATCA

Legislation commonly referred to as "FATCA" generally imposes a withholding tax of 30 per cent. on payments to certain non-U.S. entities (including financial intermediaries) with respect to certain financial instruments, unless various U.S. information reporting and due diligence requirements have been satisfied. An intergovernmental agreement between the United States and the non-U.S. entity's jurisdiction may modify these requirements. Pursuant to Treasury regulations, this legislation generally will apply to (1) Securities that pay U.S.-source interest or other U.S.-source "fixed or determinable annual or periodical" (FDAP) income and (2) Securities that are subject to FATCA solely because they are treated as paying dividend equivalents pursuant to Section 871(m) and, in the case of non-"delta one" Securities (as defined in "Other U.S. Federal Tax Considerations for Non-U.S. Holders—Section 871(m) Withholding on Dividend Equivalents"), are issued more than six months after 1 January 2023. Withholding (if applicable) will apply to payments of interest, dividend equivalents and other FDAP income. While existing Treasury regulations would also require withholding on payments of gross proceeds from the taxable disposition of relevant Securities (other than any portion treated as FDAP income), the U.S. Treasury Department has indicated in subsequent proposed regulations its intent to eliminate this requirement. The U.S. Treasury Department has indicated that taxpayers may rely on these proposed regulations pending their finalization. If withholding applies to the Securities, the Issuer will not be required to pay any additional amounts with respect to amounts withheld. Prospective purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding FATCA, including the availability of certain refunds or credits.

THE TAX CONSEQUENCES TO BENEFICIAL OWNERS OF OWNING AND DISPOSING OF SECURITIES MAY BE UNCLEAR. BENEFICIAL OWNERS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS REGARDING THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF OWNING AND DISPOSING OF SECURITIES, INCLUDING THE TAX CONSEQUENCES UNDER STATE, LOCAL, NON-U.S. AND OTHER TAX LAWS AND THE POSSIBLE EFFECTS OF CHANGES IN U.S. FEDERAL OR OTHER TAX LAWS.

UNITED KINGDOM TAXATION

The following applies and is a summary of the Issuers' understanding of current United Kingdom law and published HM Revenue & Customs ("HMRC") practice relating only to the United Kingdom withholding tax treatment of payments of interest (as that term is understood for United Kingdom tax purposes) in respect of Securities. It does not deal with any other United Kingdom taxation implications of acquiring, holding or disposing of Securities. The United Kingdom tax treatment of prospective Securityholders depends on their individual circumstances and may be subject to change in the future. Prospective Securityholders who may be subject to tax in a jurisdiction other than the United Kingdom or who may be unsure as to their tax position should seek their own professional advice.

Interest on Securities

Payments of interest on the Securities that do not have a United Kingdom source may be made without deduction or withholding on account of United Kingdom income tax. If interest paid on the Securities does have a United Kingdom source, then payments may be made without deduction or withholding on account of United Kingdom income tax in any of the following circumstances.

In the case of interest on Securities which is regarded as having a United Kingdom source, such payments of interest may be made by the Issuer without deduction of or withholding on account of United Kingdom income tax in the following circumstances:

- (a) where the Securities carry a right to interest and are and continue to be listed and admitted to trading on a "recognised stock exchange", within the meaning of section 1005 of the Income Tax Act 2007. The London Stock Exchange is a recognised stock exchange. Securities will be treated as listed on the London Stock Exchange if they are included in the Official List (within the meaning of and in accordance with the provisions of Part 6 of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000) and admitted to trading on the London Stock Exchange. The Frankfurt Stock Exchange, Euronext Dublin, the Italian Stock Exchange, the Luxembourg Stock Exchange and the Stockholm Stock Exchange have been recognised as "recognised stock exchanges". The Securities will satisfy this requirement if they are officially listed in Germany, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg or Sweden in accordance with provisions corresponding to those generally applicable in EEA states and are admitted to trading on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange, Euronext Dublin, the Italian Stock Exchange, the Luxembourg Stock Exchange or the Stockholm Stock Exchange. HMRC published guidance is that Securities listed and admitted to trading on the following markets satisfy these requirements: the Regulierter markets of the Frankfurt Stock Exchange (but not the Freiverkehr markets), the main market and Global Exchange Market of Euronext Dublin (but not the Enterprise Securities Market), the electronic bond market and the electronic securitised derivatives market of the Italian Stock Exchange, the regulated market and the Euro MTF market of the Luxembourg Stock Exchange and the main market (but not the First North market) of the Stockholm Stock Exchange forming part of NASDAQ OMX Nordic Exchange. Provided, therefore, that the Securities carry a right to interest and are and remain so listed on a "recognised stock exchange", interest on the Securities will be payable without deduction of or withholding on account of United Kingdom tax;
- (b) where the Securities are admitted to trading on a multilateral trading facility (as defined by Article 4.1.22 of Directive 2014/65/EU) operated by an EEA-regulated recognised stock exchange. A recognised stock exchange (designated as such by HMRC) regulated in an EEA state will be an 'EEA-regulated recognised stock exchange'. Some of the markets that do not satisfy the requirement at (a) above, may instead satisfy this requirement (b). However HMRC guidance has not yet been updated and further advice may be required prior to relying on this exemption; or
- (c) where the maturity of the Securities is less than 365 days (and the Securities do not form part of a scheme or arrangement of borrowing intended to be capable of remaining outstanding for more than 364 days).

In other cases where interest on the Securities is regarded as having a United Kingdom source, an amount must generally be withheld from payments of interest on the Securities on account of United Kingdom income tax at the basic rate (currently 20 per cent.), subject to any other available exemptions or reliefs. However, where an applicable double tax treaty provides for a lower rate of withholding tax (or for no tax to be withheld) in relation to a Securityholder, HMRC can issue a notice to the Issuer to pay interest to the Securityholder without deduction of tax (or for interest to be paid with tax deducted at the rate provided for in the relevant double tax treaty).

The above applies to payments on the Securities which constitute "interest" for relevant United Kingdom tax purposes, which may not have the same meaning given to the term "interest" for any other purpose including under the terms and conditions of the Securities. If any payments under the Securities constitute annual payments which have a United Kingdom source then the exemptions referred to above may not apply, and so an amount may be required to be withheld from such payments, if they have a United Kingdom source, on account of United Kingdom income tax at the basic rate. However, where an applicable double tax treaty provides for a lower rate of withholding tax (or for no tax to be withheld) in relation to a Securityholder, HMRC can issue a notice to the Issuer to pay annual payments to the Securityholder without deduction of tax (or for annual payments to be paid with tax deducted at the rate provided for in the relevant double tax treaty).

LUXEMBOURG TAXATION

The following information is of a general nature only and is based on the laws presently in force in Luxembourg, though it is not intended to be, nor should it be construed to be, legal or tax advice. The information contained within this section is limited to Luxembourg withholding tax issues and prospective investors in the Securities should therefore consult their own professional advisers as to the effects of state, local or foreign laws, including Luxembourg tax law, to which they may be subject.

Please be aware that the residence concept used under the respective headings below applies for Luxembourg income tax assessment purposes only. Any reference in the present section to a withholding tax or a tax of a similar nature, or to any other concepts, refers to Luxembourg tax law and/or concepts only.

Taxation of the holders of Securities

Withholding Tax

(a) Non-resident holders of Securities

Under Luxembourg general tax laws currently in force, there is no withholding tax on payments of principal, premium or interest made to non-resident holders of Securities, nor on accrued but unpaid interest in respect of the Securities, nor is any Luxembourg withholding tax payable upon redemption or repurchase of the Securities held by non-resident holders of Securities.

(b) Resident holders of Securities

Under Luxembourg general tax laws currently in force and subject to the law of 23 December 2005, as amended (the "Relibi Law"), there is no withholding tax on payments of principal, premium or interest made to Luxembourg resident holders of Securities, nor on accrued but unpaid interest in respect of Securities, nor is any Luxembourg withholding tax payable upon redemption or repurchase of Securities held by Luxembourg resident holders of Securities.

Under the Relibi Law, payments of interest or similar income made or ascribed by a paying agent established in Luxembourg to an individual beneficial owner who is a resident of Luxembourg will be subject to a withholding tax of 20 per cent. Such withholding tax will be in full discharge of income tax if the beneficial owner is an individual acting in the course of the management of his/her private wealth. Responsibility for the withholding of the tax will be assumed by the Luxembourg paying agent, if any. Accordingly, payments of interest under Securities coming within the scope of the Relibi Law will be subject to withholding tax at a rate of 20 per cent.

AUSTRIAN TAXATION

This section on taxation contains a brief summary of the Issuers' understanding with regard to certain important principles which are of significance in connection with the purchase, holding or sale of the Securities in Austria. This summary does not purport to exhaustively describe all possible tax aspects and does not deal with specific situations which may be of relevance for certain potential investors. The following comments are rather of a general nature and included in this Base Prospectus solely for information purposes. They are not intended to be, nor should they be construed to be, legal or tax advice. This summary is based on the currently applicable tax legislation, case law and regulations of the tax authorities, as well as their respective interpretation, all of which may be amended from time to time. Such amendments may possibly also be effected with retroactive effect and may negatively impact on the tax consequences described. It is recommended that potential investors in the Securities consult with their legal and tax advisors as to the tax consequences of the purchase, holding or sale of the Securities. Tax risks resulting from the Securities (in particular from a potential qualification as a foreign investment fund within the meaning of sec. 188 of the Austrian Investment Funds Act 2011 (Investmentfondsgesetz 2011)) shall in any case be borne by the investor. For the purposes of the following it is assumed that the Securities are legally and factually offered to an indefinite number of persons in the sense of sec. 27a(2)(2) of the Austrian Income Tax Act (Einkommensteuergesetz).

General remarks

Individuals having a domicile (Wohnsitz) and/or their habitual abode (gewöhnlicher Aufenthalt), both as defined in sec. 26 of the Austrian Federal Fiscal Procedures Act (Bundesabgabenordnung), in Austria are subject to income tax (Einkommensteuer) in Austria on their worldwide income (unlimited income tax liability; unbeschränkte Einkommensteuerpflicht). Individuals having neither a domicile nor their habitual abode in Austria are subject to income tax only on income from certain Austrian sources (limited income tax liability; beschränkte Einkommensteuerpflicht).

Corporations having their place of management (Ort der Geschäftsleitung) and/or their legal seat (Sitz), both as defined in sec. 27 of the Austrian Federal Fiscal Procedures Act, in Austria are subject to corporate income tax (Körperschaftsteuer) in Austria on their worldwide income (unlimited corporate income tax liability; unbeschränkte Körperschaftsteuerpflicht). Corporations having neither their place of management nor their legal seat in Austria are subject to corporate income tax only on income from certain Austrian sources (limited corporate income tax liability; beschränkte Körperschaftsteuerpflicht).

Both in case of unlimited and limited (corporate) income tax liability Austria's right to tax may be restricted by double taxation treaties.

Income taxation

Pursuant to sec. 27(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, the term investment income (Einkünfte aus Kapitalvermögen) comprises:

- income from the letting of capital (Einkünfte aus der Überlassung von Kapital) pursuant to sec. 27(2) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, including dividends and interest the tax basis is the amount of the earnings received (sec. 27a(3)(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act);
- income from realised increases in value (Einkünfte aus realisierten Wertsteigerungen) pursuant to sec. 27(3) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, including gains from the alienation, redemption and other realisation of assets that lead to income from the letting of capital (including zero coupon bonds) the tax basis amounts to the sales proceeds or the redemption amount minus the acquisition costs, in each case including accrued interest (sec. 27a(3)(2)(a) of the Austrian Income Tax Act); and
- income from derivatives (Einkünfte aus Derivaten) pursuant to sec. 27(4) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, including cash settlements, option premiums received and income from the sale or other realisation of forward contracts like options, futures and swaps and other derivatives such as index certificates (the mere exercise of an option does not trigger tax liability); e.g., in the case of index certificates, the tax basis amounts to the sales proceeds or the redemption amount minus the acquisition costs (sec. 27a(3)(3)(c) of the Austrian Income Tax Act).

Also the withdrawal of the Securities from a securities account (Depotentnahme) and circumstances leading to a restriction of Austria's taxation right regarding the Securities vis-à-vis other countries, e.g., a relocation from Austria (Wegzug), are in general deemed to constitute a sale (cf. sec. 27(6)(1) and (2) of the Austrian Income Tax Act). The tax basis amounts to the fair market value minus the acquisition costs (sec. 27a(3)(2)(b) of the Austrian Income Tax Act).

Individuals subject to unlimited income tax liability in Austria holding the Securities as non-business assets are subject to income tax on all resulting investment income pursuant to sec. 27(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act. Investment income from the Securities with an Austrian nexus (inländische Einkünfte aus Kapitalvermögen), basically meaning income paid by an Austrian paying agent (auszahlende Stelle) or an Austrian custodian agent (depotführende Stelle), is subject to withholding tax (Kapitalertragsteuer) at a flat rate of 27.5 per cent.; no additional income tax is levied over and above the amount of tax withheld (final taxation pursuant to sec. 97(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act). Investment income from the Securities without an Austrian nexus must be included in the investor's income tax return and is subject to income tax at the flat rate of 27.5 per cent. In both cases upon application the option exists to tax all income subject to income tax at a flat rate pursuant to sec. 27a(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act at the lower progressive income tax rate (option to regular taxation pursuant to sec. 27a(5) of the Austrian Income Tax Act). The acquisition costs must not include ancillary acquisition costs (Anschaffungsnebenkosten; sec. 27a(4)(2) of the Austrian Income Tax Act). Expenses such as bank charges and custody fees must not be deducted (sec. 20(2) of the Austrian Income Tax Act); this also applies if the option to regular taxation is exercised. Sec. 27(8) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, inter alia, provides for the following restrictions on the offsetting of losses: negative income from realised increases in value and from derivatives may be neither offset against interest from bank accounts and other non-securitised claims vis-à-vis credit institutions (except for cash settlements and lending fees) nor against income from private foundations, foreign private law foundations and other comparable legal estates (Privatstiftungen, ausländische Stiftungen oder sonstige Vermögensmassen, die mit einer Privatstiftung vergleichbar sind); income subject to income tax at a flat rate pursuant to sec. 27a(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act may not be offset against income subject to the progressive income tax rate (this equally applies in case of an exercise of the option to regular taxation); negative investment income not already offset against positive investment income may not be offset against other types of income.

The Austrian custodian agent has to effect the offsetting of losses by taking into account all of a taxpayer's securities accounts with the custodian agent, in line with sec. 93(6) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, and to issue a written confirmation to the taxpayer to this effect.

Individuals subject to unlimited income tax liability in Austria holding the Securities as business assets are subject to income tax on all resulting investment income pursuant to sec. 27(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act. Investment income from the Securities with an Austrian nexus is subject to withholding tax at a flat rate of 27.5 per cent. While withholding tax has the effect of final taxation for income from the letting of capital, income from realised increases in value and income from derivatives must be included in the investor's income tax return (nevertheless income tax at the flat rate of 27.5 per cent.). Investment income from the Securities without an Austrian nexus must always be included in the investor's income tax return and is subject to income tax at the flat rate of 27.5 per cent. In both cases upon application the option exists to tax all income subject to income tax at a flat rate pursuant to sec. 27a(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act at the lower progressive income tax rate (option to regular taxation pursuant to sec. 27a(5) of the Austrian Income Tax Act). The flat tax rate does not apply to income from realised increases in value and income from derivatives if realising these types of income constitutes a key area of the respective investor's business activity (sec. 27a(6) of the Austrian Income Tax Act). Expenses such as bank charges and custody fees must not be deducted (sec. 20(2) of the Austrian Income Tax Act); this also applies if the option to regular taxation is exercised. Pursuant to sec. 6(2)(c) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, depreciations to the lower fair market value and losses from the alienation, redemption and other realisation of financial assets and derivatives in the sense of sec. 27(3) and (4) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, which are subject to income tax at the flat rate of 27.5 per cent., are primarily to be offset against income from realised increases in value of such financial assets and derivatives and with appreciations in value of such assets within the same business unit (Wirtschaftsgüter desselben Betriebes); only 55 per cent. of the remaining negative difference may be offset against other types of income.

Pursuant to sec. 7(2) of the Austrian Corporate Income Tax Act (Körperschaftsteuergesetz), corporations subject to unlimited corporate income tax liability in Austria are subject to corporate income tax on income in the sense of sec. 27(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act from the Securities at a rate of 25 per cent. Income in the sense of sec. 27(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act from the Securities with an Austrian nexus is generally subject to withholding tax at a flat rate of 27.5 per cent. However, pursuant to sec. 93(1a) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, the withholding agent may apply a 25 per cent. rate, if the debtor of the withholding tax is a corporation. Such withholding tax can be credited against the corporate income tax liability. Under the conditions set forth in sec. 94(5) of the Austrian Income Tax Act withholding tax is not levied in the first place. Losses from the alienation of the Securities can be offset against other income.

Pursuant to sec. 13(3)(1) in connection with sec. 22(2) of the Austrian Corporate Income Tax Act, private foundations (Privatstiftungen) pursuant to the Austrian Private Foundations Act (Privatstiftungsgesetz) fulfilling the prerequisites contained in sec. 13(3) and (6) of the Austrian Corporate Income Tax Act and holding the Securities as non-business assets are subject to interim taxation at a rate of 25 per cent. on interest income, income from realised increases in value and income from derivatives (inter alia, if the latter are in the form of securities). Pursuant to the Austrian tax authorities' view, the acquisition costs must not include ancillary acquisition costs. Expenses such as bank charges and custody fees must not be deducted (sec. 12(2) of the Austrian Corporate Income Tax Act). Interim tax is generally not triggered insofar as distributions subject to withholding tax are made to beneficiaries in the same tax period. Investment income from the Securities with an Austrian nexus is generally subject to withholding tax at a flat rate of 27.5 per cent. However, pursuant to sec. 93(1a) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, the withholding agent may apply a 25 per cent. rate, if the debtor of the withholding tax is a corporation. Such withholding tax can be credited against the tax triggered. Under the conditions set forth in sec. 94(12) of the Austrian Income Tax Act withholding tax is not levied.

Individuals and corporations subject to limited (corporate) income tax liability in Austria are taxable on income from the Securities if they have a permanent establishment (Betriebsstätte) in Austria and the Securities are attributable to such permanent establishment (cf. sec. 98(1)(3) of the Austrian Income Tax Act, sec. 21(1)(1) of the Austrian Corporate Income Tax Act). In addition, individuals subject to limited income tax liability in Austria are also taxable on interest in the sense of sec. 27(2)(2) of the Austrian Income Tax Act and accrued interest (including from zero coupon bonds) in the sense of sec. 27(6)(5) of the Austrian Income Tax Act from the Securities if the (accrued) interest has an Austrian nexus and if withholding tax is levied on such (accrued) interest. This does not apply to an individual being resident in a state with which automatic exchange of information exists, if the individual provides a certificate of residence to the withholding agent. Interest with an Austrian nexus is interest the debtor of which has its place of management and/or its legal seat in Austria or is an Austrian branch of a non-Austrian credit institution; accrued interest with an Austrian nexus is accrued interest from securities issued by an Austrian issuer (sec. 98(1)(5)(b) of the Austrian Income Tax Act). The Issuers understand that no taxation applies in the case at hand.

Pursuant to sec. 188 of the Austrian Investment Funds Act 2011, the term "foreign investment fund" comprises (i) undertakings for collective investment in transferable securities the member state of origin of which is not Austria; (ii) alternative investment funds pursuant to the Austrian Act on Alternative Investment Fund Managers (Alternative Investmentfonds Manager-Gesetz) the state of origin of which is not Austria; and (iii) secondarily, undertakings subject to a foreign jurisdiction, irrespective of the legal form they are organised in, the assets of which are invested according to the principle of risk-spreading on the basis either of a statute, of the undertaking's articles or of customary exercise, if one of the following conditions is fulfilled: (a) the undertaking is factually, directly or indirectly, not subject to a corporate income tax in its state of residence that is comparable to Austrian corporate income tax; (b) the profits of the undertaking are in its state of residence subject to corporate income tax that is comparable to Austrian corporate income tax, at a rate of less than 15 per cent.; or (c) the undertaking is subject to a comprehensive personal or material tax exemption in its state of residence. Certain collective investment vehicles investing in real estate are exempted. In case of a qualification as a foreign investment fund, the tax consequences would substantially differ from those described above. A special type of transparency principle would be applied, pursuant to which generally both distributed income as well as deemed income would be subject to Austrian (corporate) income tax.

Inheritance and gift taxation

Austria does not levy inheritance or gift tax.

Certain gratuitous transfers of assets to private law foundations and comparable legal estates (privatrechtliche Stiftungen und damit vergleichbare Vermögensmassen) are subject to foundation transfer tax (Stiftungseingangssteuer) pursuant to the Austrian Foundation Transfer Tax Act (Stiftungseingangssteuergesetz) if the transferor and/or the transferee at the time of transfer have a domicile, their habitual abode, their legal seat and/or their place of management in Austria. Certain exemptions apply in cases of transfers mortis causa of financial assets within the meaning of sec. 27(3) and (4) of the Austrian Income Tax Act (except for participations in corporations) if income from such financial assets is subject to income tax at a flat rate pursuant to sec. 27a(1) of the Austrian Income Tax Act. The tax basis is the fair market value of the assets transferred minus any debts, calculated at the time of transfer. The tax rate generally is 2.5 per cent., with higher rates applying in special cases.

In addition, there is a special notification obligation for gifts of money, receivables, shares in corporations, participations in partnerships, businesses, movable tangible assets and intangibles if the donor and/or the donee have a domicile, their habitual abode, their legal seat and/or their place of management in Austria. Not all gifts are covered by the notification obligation: In case of gifts to certain related parties, a threshold of EUR50,000 per year applies; in all other cases, a notification is obligatory if the value of gifts made exceeds an amount of EUR15,000 during a period of five years. Furthermore, gratuitous transfers to foundations falling under the Austrian Foundation Transfer Tax Act described above are also exempt from the notification obligation. Intentional violation of the notification obligation may trigger fines of up to 10 per cent. of the fair market value of the assets transferred.

Further, gratuitous transfers of the Securities may trigger income tax at the level of the transferor pursuant to sec. 27(6)(1) and (2) of the Austrian Income Tax Act (see above).

BELGIAN TAXATION

Set out below is a summary of certain Belgian tax consequences of acquiring, holding and selling Securities. This summary is not intended to be an exhaustive description of all relevant Belgian tax considerations and the investors should consult their professional tax advisors regarding the Belgian tax and other tax consequences (including the applicability and effect of tax treaties for the avoidance of double taxation) of acquiring, owning and disposing of Securities in their particular circumstances. The description of certain taxes in the Kingdom of Belgium ("Belgium") set out below is for general information only and does not purport to be comprehensive. In particular, it does not cover the situation of non-residents nor the tax treatment of securities which may be received upon repurchase or settlement of the Securities.

This summary is based on current legislation, published case law and other published guidelines and regulations as in force at the date of this document and remains subject to any future amendments, which may or may not have retroactive effect.

Any payment of interest (as defined by Belgian tax law) on the Securities made through a paying agent or other financial intermediary in Belgium will in principle be subject to Belgian withholding tax on the gross amount of the interest, currently at the rate of 30 per cent.

For Belgian tax purposes, if interest is in a foreign currency, it is converted into euro on the date of payment or attribution.

Belgian income tax

Variable Income

If the repurchase, redemption or exercise by the Issuer is in full or in part settled by means of a delivery of securities or other assets, interest includes any positive difference between the sales value of those assets on the date of their payment or attribution and the initial issue price of the Securities. In the event interest is paid in the form of delivery of listed securities, the market value of those securities will be deemed at least equal to the closing price on the day prior to the date of the payment or attribution based on information in the specialised financial press and/or via electronic data bases. If the securities are not listed on a Belgian or foreign market, then the taxpayer needs to determine the sales value under the supervision of the tax administration.

On 25 January 2013, the Belgian tax authorities issued a circular letter on the Belgian tax treatment of income from structured securities characterised by an uncertain return on investment due to the variation of the coupons or the repayment terms at maturity, such as securities whose return is linked to the evolution of underlying products. According to the circular letter, the transfer of structured securities to a third party (other than the issuer) results in taxation as interest income of the "pro rata interest", calculated on an unclear formulae. In addition, any amount paid in excess of the initial issue price upon redemption or repayment of the structured securities is considered as interest for Belgian tax purposes. It is highly debatable whether the circular letter is in line with Belgian tax legislation. Furthermore, it is unclear whether the Belgian tax authorities will seek to apply the principles set out in the circular letter to the Securities.

It is assumed that any gains realised upon redemption or repayment by the Issuer will indeed be viewed as interest by the Belgian tax authorities (and any such gains are therefore referred to as "interest" for the purposes of the following paragraphs), but that the effective taxation of the "pro rata interest" in case of sale to a third party (i.e. other than the Issuer) would not be possible, on the basis that it is currently impossible to determine the amount of the "pro rata interest".

Repayment or redemption by the Issuer

- Belgian resident individuals

Belgian resident individuals, i.e. individuals who are subject to Belgian personal income tax (Personenbelasting/Impôt des personnes physiques), who are holding the Securities as a private investment are subject to the following tax treatment with respect to the Securities in Belgium. Other rules may be applicable in special situations, in particular when Belgian resident individuals acquire the Securities for professional purposes or when their transactions with respect to the Securities fall outside the scope of the normal management of their own private estate or are speculative in nature.

Payments of interest on the Securities made through a paying agent or other financial intermediary in Belgium will in principle be subject to a 30 per cent. withholding tax in Belgium (calculated on the interest received after deduction of any non-Belgian withholding taxes). The Belgian withholding tax constitutes in principle the final income tax for Belgian resident individuals. This means that they do not have to declare the interest obtained on the Securities in their personal income tax return, provided Belgian withholding tax was effectively levied on these interest payments.

Nevertheless, Belgian resident individuals may elect to declare interest on the Securities in their personal income tax return. Also, if the interest is paid outside Belgium without the intervention of a Belgian paying agent or other financial intermediary, the interest received (after deduction of any non-Belgian withholding tax) must be declared in the personal income tax return. Interest income which is declared this way will in principle be taxed at a flat rate of 30 per cent. (or at the relevant progressive personal income tax rate(s), taking into account the taxpayer's other declared income, whichever is more beneficial) and no local surcharges will be due. The Belgian withholding tax levied may be credited against the personal income tax liability and any excess will be refundable.

- Belgian resident companies

Belgian resident companies, i.e. companies that are subject to Belgian corporate income tax (Vennootschapsbelasting/Impôt des sociétés), are subject to the following tax treatment with respect to the Securities in Belgium.

Interest received by Belgian resident companies on the Securities will be subject to Belgian corporate income tax at the ordinary corporate income tax rate of 25 per cent. as from assessment year 2021 (taxable periods starting on or after 1 January 2020). Small and medium-sized companies are taxable – subject to conditions – at a reduced corporate tax rate of 20 per cent. for the first EUR100,000 of taxable profits as from assessment year 2021. If the income has been subject to a foreign withholding tax, a foreign tax credit will be applied on the Belgian tax due. For interest income, the foreign tax credit is generally equal to a fraction where the numerator is equal to the foreign tax and the denominator is equal to 100 minus the rate of the foreign tax, up to a maximum of 15/85 of the net amount received (subject to some further limitations). Capital losses are in principle tax deductible.

Interest payments on the Securities made through a paying agent or other financial intermediary in Belgium are in principle subject to a 30 per cent. withholding tax, but can be exempt from Belgian withholding tax, PROVIDED THAT certain formalities are complied with (articles 108 and 117, §12, of the Royal Decree of 27 August 1993 implementing the Belgian Income Tax Code of 1992). For zero or capitalisation bonds, an exemption will only apply if the Belgian company and the Issuer are associated companies within the meaning of article 105, 6° of the Royal Decree of 27 August 1993 implementing the Belgian Income Tax Code of 1992. The withholding tax that has been levied is creditable in accordance with the applicable legal provisions and any excess will be refundable.

- Belgian non-profit legal entities

Belgian non-profit legal entities, i.e. legal entities that are subject to Belgian tax on legal entities (Rechtspersonenbelasting/Impôt des personnes morales), are subject to the following tax treatment with respect to the Securities in Belgium.

Payments of interest on the Securities made through a paying agent or other financial intermediary in Belgium will in principle be subject to a 30 per cent. withholding tax in Belgium and no further tax on legal entities will be due on the interest.

However, if the interest is paid outside Belgium without the intervention of a Belgian paying agent or other financial intermediary and without the deduction of Belgian withholding tax, the Belgian non-profit legal entity itself is responsible for the payment of the 30 per cent. withholding tax.

Sale to a third party

No Belgian withholding tax should apply to the Securities.

- Belgian resident individuals

Belgian resident individuals, i.e. individuals who are subject to Belgian personal income tax (Personenbelasting/Impôt des personnes physiques), are currently not liable to Belgian income tax on the capital gains (if any) realised upon disposal of the Securities to a third party, PROVIDED THAT the Securities have not been used for their professional activity and that the capital gain is realised within the framework of the normal management of their private estate and is not speculative in nature. Capital losses realised upon disposal of the Securities held as a non-professional investment are in principle not tax deductible.

However, capital gains on the Securities may be subject to a 33 per cent. Belgian income tax (plus local surcharges) if they are deemed to be speculative or outside the scope of the normal management of a private estate. Capital losses arising from such transactions are not tax deductible, unless they can be deducted from gains realised on such transactions.

Capital gains realised upon transfer of Securities held for professional purposes are taxable at the ordinary progressive income tax rates (plus local surcharges), except for Securities held for more than five years, which are taxable at a separate rate of 16.5 per cent. (plus local surcharges). Capital losses on the Securities incurred by Belgian resident individuals holding the Securities for professional purposes are in principle tax deductible.

- Belgian resident companies

Belgian resident companies, i.e. companies that are subject to Belgian corporate income tax (Vennootschapsbelasting/Impôt des sociétés), are liable to Belgian corporate income tax on the capital gains (if any) realised upon disposal of the Securities to a third party, irrespective of whether such Securities relate to shares or other assets or indices. The current standard corporate income tax rate in Belgium is 25 per cent. as from assessment year 2021 (taxable periods starting on or after 1 January 2020). Small and medium-sized companies benefit from a 20 per cent. corporate tax rate on the first EUR100,000 of taxable profits as from assessment year 2021, subject to conditions.

Capital losses realised upon disposal of the Securities are in principle tax deductible.

- Belgian non-profit legal entities

Belgian non-profit legal entities, i.e. legal entities that are subject to Belgian tax on legal entities (Rechtspersonenbelasting/Impôt des personnes morales), are currently not liable to Belgian income tax on capital gains (if any) realised upon disposal of the Securities to a third party.

Capital losses realised upon disposal of the Securities are in principle not tax deductible.

Tax on stock exchange transactions

The sale and acquisition of the Securities on the secondary market is subject to a tax on stock exchange transactions (Taks op de beursverrichtingen/Taxe sur les opérations de bourse) if executed in Belgium through a professional intermediary established in Belgium.

The sale and acquisition of the Securities on the secondary market is also subject to the tax on stock exchange transactions if the order is directly or indirectly made to a professional intermediary established outside Belgium by either (i) a private individual with habitual residence in Belgium or (ii) a legal entity for the account of its seat or establishment in Belgium (both referred to as a Belgian Investor). In such a scenario, the tax on stock exchange transactions is due by the Belgian Investor, unless the Belgian Investor can demonstrate that the professional intermediary established outside Belgium has already paid the tax on stock exchange transactions, or has appointed a Belgian responsible representative which is qualified, according to the relevant regulations, to pay the tax on stock exchange transactions to the Belgian Treasury.

The tax is generally due at a rate of 0.12 per cent. for transactions in debt instruments (bonds) and at a rate of 0.35 per cent. for transactions in other securities, with a maximum amount per transaction and per party of EUR1,300 for debt instruments (bonds) and EUR1,600 for other securities.

However, the tax referred to above will not be payable if no professional intermediary intervenes in the transaction or, even if a professional intermediary intervenes in the transaction, for transactions by exempt persons acting for their own account, including investors who are Belgian non-residents provided they deliver an affidavit to the financial intermediary in Belgium confirming their non-resident status and certain Belgian institutional investors, as defined in Article 126/1, 2° of the Code of various duties and taxes. Transactions on the primary market are not subject to the tax on stock exchange transactions.

As stated below, the European Commission has published a proposal for a Directive for a common financial transactions tax (the "FTT"). The proposal currently stipulates that once the FTT enters into force, the participating Member States (including Belgium for the time being) shall not maintain or introduce taxes on financial transactions other than the FTT (or VAT as provided in the Council Directive 2006/112/EC on the common system of value added tax). For Belgium, the tax on stock exchange transactions (and the tax on repurchase transactions) should thus be abolished once the FTT enters into force. The proposal is still subject to negotiation between the participating Member States and therefore may be changed at any time.

Tax on securities accounts

The federal government announced its intention to introduce a new annual tax on securities accounts. The annual tax would in principle apply to all securities accounts, held by either resident or non-resident individuals or by resident or non-resident companies and other legal entities, with a few exceptions. Non-residents would only be taxable on the securities accounts held in Belgium, subject to the provisions of double taxation agreements. The tax base would be the average value of the taxable financial instruments (including also derivative instruments, but not registered shares) held in the securities account. The annual tax would only be due, where such average value over the reference period exceeds EUR1,000,000 per securities account. The tax rate would be 0.15 per cent. of the average value. The law would contain a general anti-abuse provision covering certain situations as from 30 October 2020 in which a rebuttable presumption of tax avoidance would apply, save evidence to the contrary by the taxpayer. The specific details and the date of entry into force of this new tax are, however, not yet publicly available.

REPUBLIC OF CYPRUS

The following is a general summary of certain tax aspects of the Securities under Cypriot law practice in force and applied as at the date of this Base Prospectus and does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all tax aspects relating to Securities. This summary does not analyse the tax position of the Issuer and it does not constitute, nor should it be construed as, tax or legal advice. Prospective investors should consult their tax and other professional advisers as to the specific tax consequences of acquiring, holding and disposing of Securities and of receiving interest on any Securities.

Introduction

In accordance with the provisions of the Income Tax Law, Law 118(I)/2002 (as amended) (the "Income Tax Law") a person (natural or legal) is liable to tax on its worldwide income on the basis of residency.

A person is deemed resident in Cyprus for the purposes of the Income Tax Law where, in the case of a natural person, that person is present in Cyprus for a period (or periods in aggregate) exceeding 183 days in the tax year and, in the case of a company, its management and control is exercised in Cyprus. The tax year for the purposes of the Income Tax Law coincides with the calendar year.

Non-Cyprus tax residents are taxed on income derived from sources in Cyprus or from a business activity which is carried out through a permanent establishment in Cyprus. A company is regarded as having a "permanent establishment" in Cyprus, if it has a fixed base of business through which the business is carried out fully or partially, including a management base, a branch or an office.

Interest Income

Non-Cyprus Tax Residents

Persons (natural and legal) who are not resident for tax purposes pursuant to the provisions of the Income Tax Law will not be liable for any income tax or for the special contribution defence tax (as described below). Payments of interest made by the Issuer to such persons will not be subject to any Cyprus withholding taxes.

Cyprus tax resident individuals

Interest income received by or credited to a Cyprus tax resident individual is subject to special defence contribution levy at the rate of 30 per cent. pursuant to the provisions of the Special Defence Contribution Law, Law 117(I)/2002 (as amended) (the "SCDF Law"). Interest received or credited by a Cyprus tax resident individual, considered to arise in the ordinary course of the individual's business or considered closely connected thereto shall be treated as personal income and subject to income tax pursuant to the Income Tax Law.

Cyprus tax resident companies that pay interest in respect of which special contribution defence tax is due to Cyprus tax resident individuals are obliged to withhold the special contribution defence tax at source and remit the tax to the Cypriot tax authorities.

Cyprus tax resident companies

Any interest accruing or received by a Cyprus resident company which is considered to arise in the ordinary course of the business or is considered closely connected thereto shall be subject only to (corporate) income tax at the rate of 12.50 per cent. Such income will not be liable to any tax under the SCDF Law.

Interest income not arising in the ordinary course of business or being considered closely connected thereto shall be exempt from (corporate) income tax and shall be subject to tax under the SCDF Law at the rate of 30 per cent.

Profit from the Disposal of the Securities

Provided that the Securities would fall under the definitions of securities (as this was provided by the Cypriot tax authorities and as stated in the paragraph below) any gains derived from the disposal of Securities by a Cyprus resident individual or company are exempt from income tax in Cyprus.

Any gains from the disposal of securities (as this was provided by the Cypriot tax authorities and as stated in the paragraph below) are not subject to Cyprus income tax, irrespective of the trading nature of the gain, the number of the securities held or the period for which the said securities were held. Any gain is also outside the scope of application of the Capital Gains Tax Law 1980-2002 (as amended).

The Cyprus tax authorities have issued a circular interpreting the term "securities" as "shares, bonds, debentures, founders' shares and other securities of companies or other legal persons, incorporated in Cyprus or abroad and options thereof". Moreover it was further clarified that this term also includes options on the aforementioned securities, short positions on the aforementioned securities, futures/forwards on the aforementioned securities, swaps on aforementioned securities, depository receipts on the aforementioned securities (ADRs, GDRs), rights of claim on bonds and debentures (rights on interest of these instruments are not included), index participations only if they result on the aforementioned securities, repurchase agreements or repos on the aforementioned securities, units in open-end or close-end collective investment schemes. Promissory notes or similar instruments would not fall under the definition of securities.

It is not clear if the Securities would fall under the definition of the terms securities as explained above or if these would be considered as promissory notes or similar instruments and for this reason each Security would need to be assessed on its terms of issuance, redemption terms etc.

Where the Securities do not fall within the definition of securities (as this was provided by the Cypriot tax authorities), then any gains derived from the disposal of Securities by a Cyprus resident individual or company would be subject to corporate tax or personal income tax.

Interest income would be however subject to the treatment set out in paragraph "Interest Income" above both in the case where the Securities fall within the definition of securities (as this was provided by the Cypriot tax authorities) and where they do not

Stamp Duty

Following the enactment of the Stamp Duty (Amendment) (No. 2) Law 2002, section 4 of the Stamp Duty Law, Law 19/1963 as amended provides that:

"(1) every instrument specified in the First Schedule shall be chargeable with duty of the amount specified in the said Schedule as the proper duty therefore respectively if it relates to any asset situated in the Republic or to matter or things which shall be performed or done in the Republic irrespective of the place where the document is made."

In accordance with the principles of rulings of the Commissioner of Stamp Duty as of the date of this Base Prospectus, an issue of Securities by the Issuer will not be liable to stamp duty where the proceeds of the issue will remain outside Cyprus, will be utilised for purposes outside Cyprus and the obligation under such Securities will be repaid outside Cyprus.

Transfers of Securities effected outside of Cyprus between non-residents of Cyprus do not attract stamp duty in Cyprus, PROVIDED THAT the transferor and the transferee are not residents of Cyprus.

FINNISH TAXATION

The following is a general description of certain Finnish tax considerations relating to Securities. They relate only to payments by the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) or the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) to beneficial owners of the Securities and may not apply to certain classes of persons such as Dealers. It does not purport to be a complete analysis of all tax considerations relating to the Securities, whether in Finland or elsewhere. Especially, it should be noted that there is no special tax legislation and only limited case law regarding certificates in Finland. Prospective purchasers of Securities should consult their own tax advisers as to which countries' tax laws could be relevant to acquiring, holding and disposing of Securities and receiving payments of interest, principal and/or other amounts under the Securities and the consequences of such actions under the tax laws of those countries. This summary is based upon the law as in effect and applied in Finland on the date of this Base Prospectus and is subject to any change in law that may take effect after such date, including changes with retroactive effect.

For the purpose of the Finnish tax consequences described in this Base Prospectus, it is assumed that each of the relevant Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMHI) and the CGMFL Guarantor (where the Issuer is CGMFL) is neither a resident nor deemed to be a resident of Finland for Finnish tax purposes.

General

Finnish residents and non-residents are treated differently for tax purposes in Finland. Finnish residents are subject to taxation in Finland on their worldwide income. Non-residents who are not generally liable for tax in Finland are subject to taxation in Finland solely in respect of their Finnish source income. Generally, an individual is deemed to be Finnish resident if such an individual continuously resides in Finland for more than six months or if the permanent home and dwelling of such an individual is in Finland. A citizen of Finland who has moved abroad is regarded as a resident of Finland for Finnish tax purposes until three years has passed after the end of the year of emigration, even though the individual does not reside in Finland over six months or the permanent home and dwelling are not located in Finland, if such an individual cannot prove that he/she has not had any essential relationship to Finland in the tax year in question. Entities established under the laws of Finland are regarded as residents of Finland in accordance with domestic tax law.⁸ Double tax treaties may restrict the authority of the Finnish state to tax foreign source income of an individual or entity deemed as resident of Finland pursuant to Finnish domestic tax law.

Income Tax

Resident individuals and estates

Interest and any similar income (e.g. interest compensation (in Finnish "jälkimarkkinahyvitys") and index compensation (in Finnish "indeksihyvitys"), received as well as any gain arising from the transfer or exercise of the Securities is likely taxed as capital income, subject to capital income tax, of an individual and estate resident in Finland for tax purposes, unless the Security is considered to belong to the business activity of an individual or an estate.

Payments under the Securities considered to belong to the business activity of an individual or an estate for Finnish tax purposes are included in the total business income of such individual or estate. The business income will be divided according to the Finnish Income Tax Act to be taxed as capital income (see below) and earned income at a progressive tax rate.

If the Securities are regarded as certificates for Finnish tax purposes, any gain arising from the transfer, exercise or redemption of the Securities should, based on current Finnish court and taxation practice, generally be considered a capital gain (as opposed to interest or compensation comparable to interest), at least where the Security is listed.

Further, according to a decision of the Supreme Administrative Court (KHO:2013:117), unlisted warrants, subject to trading only in a system upheld by a financial institution, were considered marketable securities for tax purposes where the warrants were freely issued and transferable and qualified for listing as such. Losses accrued were considered deductible in the taxation of the holder of the warrants. Although the case concerned warrants rather than certificates the interpretation should be similar in respect of certificates. Consequently, losses realised on the transfer, exercise or redemption of the Securities, especially where listed, should be treated as a capital loss in taxation.

Capital income is taxed at a rate of 30 per cent (to the extent the annual capital income of a Finnish private person exceeds EUR 30,000 the tax rate is 34 per cent) in accordance with the Finnish Income Tax Act. Taxable capital gains or losses are the difference between the sales price or the amount received in connection with the exercise and the aggregate of the acquisition cost of the securities and related expenses. Individuals and estates may elect to apply a so called presumptive acquisition cost instead of the actual acquisition cost. The presumptive acquisition cost is generally 20 per cent of the sales price or the amount received in connection with the exercise, but is 40 per cent of the sales price or the amount received in connection with the exercise for securities that have been held for at least ten years. If the presumptive acquisition cost is used instead of the actual acquisition cost, the related expenses are included in the presumptive acquisition cost, and therefore, may not be deducted in addition to the presumptive acquisition cost. However, capital gains are not regarded as taxable income if the total amount of the sales prices (or the amounts received in connection with the exercise) of assets sold does not exceed EUR 1,000 in a calendar year.

Capital losses arising from the sale of securities, which are not considered to belong to the business activity of an individual or an estate, are deductible from all capital income arising in the same year and the following five years. Capital losses are not tax-deductible if the acquisition costs of the assets sold do not exceed EUR 1,000 in a calendar year.

Resident corporates

After a change in legislation effective as of 1 January 2020, income of Finnish companies is no longer divided between the business income source and other income source, but all income is taxable in the business income source. As a result of the removal of the other income source from Finnish companies, a new asset class named "other income" has been added to the business income source that includes certain restrictions regarding tax deductibility of acquisition costs that should nevertheless generally not be applicable in respect of the Securities as they are not shares.

⁸ The Finnish Government has proposed a change in legislation regarding Finnish tax residency. Based on the proposal, foreign entities could also be deemed tax resident in Finland under domestic law, if their place of effective management is located in Finland. The proposed new legislation is intended to be applicable as of 1 January 2021, but it has not yet been approved by the Finnish parliament.

Interest and any similar income (e.g. interest compensation, (in Finnish "jälkimarkkinahyvitys") and index compensation, (in Finnish "indeksihyvitys")), received as well as any gain arising from the transfer or exercise of the Securities are generally taxed at a flat rate of 20 per cent for a Finnish company or a permanent establishment of a foreign company. The acquisition cost of the sold Securities should be deductible for the company from all income, irrespective of what asset class the Securities are deemed to belong to. Companies are not allowed to use the acquisition cost presumption described above. Tax loss carry forwards (including capital losses) of a company (or the business activity of an individual or estate) are deductible from taxable income in 10 subsequent tax years following the tax year for which the tax loss carry forwards was confirmed. However, certain restrictions apply for utilization of old capital losses accrued previously in the other income source before the removal of the other income source as from 1 January 2020).

Non-residents

Holders of Securities who are not Finnish residents are not generally subject to Finnish tax on payments received under the Securities or gains realised in the transfer, exercise or redemption of Securities in Finland, provided that the Securities in question do not relate to business carried out in Finland through a permanent establishment.

Withholding

The Issuer is not under an obligation to perform any withholding or deduction for or on account of any income tax imposed, levied, withheld or assessed by Finland or any political subdivision or taxing authority thereof or therein in respect of any payments under the Securities. Further, such payments may be made free of any withholding when the recipient of the payment is not resident in Finland for tax purposes, or is a corporate resident in Finland for tax purposes.

An agent or intermediary resident in Finland shall withhold advance income tax at the rate of 30 per cent from any interest, interest compensation (in Finnish "jälkimarkkinahyvitys") or index compensation, (in Finnish "indeksihyvitys") paid to an individual or estate residing in Finland where such payment is made through the agent or intermediary. However, to the extent the payments in respect of the Securities are classified as capital gain - which should be the case upon the transfer, redemption or exercise (i.e. the realisation of the net value through cash settlement) of Securities regarded as certificates (especially where listed), as discussed above - they are generally not subject to advance withholding of income tax.

Transfer Tax

No transfer tax should be due on the transfer of the Securities.

FRENCH TAXATION

The following is a summary of certain material French tax considerations relating to Securities issued to holders resident in or otherwise subject to tax in France. This information is of general nature and aims at addressing only the French compulsory withholding tax treatment of income arising from the Securities and certain transfer tax implications relevant in case of physical delivery in respect of the Securities. This summary is based on the laws and regulations in full force and effect in France as at the date of this Base Prospectus, which may be subject to change in the future, potentially with retroactive effect. Investors should be aware that the comments below are of a general nature and do not constitute legal or tax advice and should not be understood as such. Prospective investors are therefore advised to consult their own qualified advisors so as to determine, in the light of their individual situation, the tax consequences of the purchase, holding, redemption or disposal of the Securities.

Withholding tax

The following has been prepared on the assumption that the Issuers, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor are not (and will not be) French residents for French tax purposes and that the Securities and any transaction in connection therewith are not (and will not be) attributed or attributable to a French permanent establishment or other fixed place of business in France of any Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor.

Payments in respect of the Securities made by an Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and, the CGMFL Guarantor will be made free of any compulsory withholding or deduction for or on account of any taxes of whatsoever nature imposed, levied, withheld, or assessed by France or any French political subdivision or taxing authority.

However, if the paying agent (établissement payeur) is established in France (or if the paying agent is established in an EU or EEA Member State and has been appointed by the tax payer to withhold, pay and report the flat tax on his behalf) and subject to certain exceptions, interest and other similar revenues received by individuals who are fiscally domiciled in France are subject to a 30 per cent. flat tax composed of individual income tax at a rate of 12.8 per cent., (which is deductible from their personal income tax liability in respect of the year in which the payment has been made) and social contributions (CSG, CRDS and solidarity levy) which are also levied by way of withholding at an aggregate rate of 17.2 per cent.

French financial transaction tax and transfer tax

The following may be relevant in connection with Securities which are settled, redeemed or repaid by way of physical delivery of French shares issued by an issuer whose registered office is located in France or certain assimilated securities.

The French financial transaction tax provided under Article 235 ter ZD of the French tax code (the Financial Transaction Tax) is applicable, subject to certain exemptions, at a rate of 0.3 per cent. to any acquisitions for consideration of (i) equity securities (titres de capital) as defined by Article L.212-1 A of the French monetary and financial code or assimilated equity securities (titres de capital assimilés) as defined by Article L.211-41 of the French monetary and financial code which are listed on a regulated market and issued by an issuer whose registered seat is located in France and whose market capitalisation exceeds 1 billion Euros on 1 December of the year preceding the imposition (the French Shares) or (ii) securities (titres) representing French Shares, irrespective of the location of the registered office of the issuer of such securities. If the Financial Transaction Tax applies to the acquisition of French Shares, this transaction is exempt from transfer taxes (droits de mutation à titre onéreux) provided under Article 726 of the French tax code (the Transfer Taxes) which generally apply at a rate of 0.1 per cent. to the sale of shares issued by an issuer whose registered seat is located in France, PROVIDED THAT in case of shares listed on a recognised stock exchange, Transfer Taxes are due only if the transfer is evidenced by a written deed or agreement.

GERMAN TAXATION

The following is a general discussion of certain German tax consequences of the acquisition, ownership and the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities and the receipt of interest thereon. It does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all tax considerations, which may be relevant to a decision to purchase Securities, and, in particular, does not consider any specific facts or circumstances that may apply to a particular purchaser. This summary is based on the laws of Germany currently in force and as applied on the date of this Base Prospectus, which are subject to change, possibly with retroactive or retrospective effect.

As each Series or Tranche of Securities may be subject to a different tax treatment due to the specific terms of such Series or Tranche, the following section only provides some very generic information on the possible tax treatment and has to be read in conjunction with the more specific information on the taxation of each Series or Tranche of Securities as provided in the applicable Issue Terms. Furthermore, the taxation of the different types of Securities may differ from each other. The following summary only describes the tax treatment of Securities in general and certain particularities with respect to individual types of Securities. Further, the following summary does not provide for information with respect to the tax treatment of any underlying (e.g. shares, commodities, depositary receipts, funds) received upon a physical delivery under the Securities unless otherwise explicitly referred to. Where the term "certificates" is used in the following summary it refers – according to a German understanding of the term – to certain types of Securities linked to an underlying.

Prospective purchasers of Securities are advised to consult their own tax advisors as to the tax consequences of the acquisition, the ownership and the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities and the receipt of interest thereon, including the effect of any state or local taxes, under the tax laws of Germany and each country of which they are residents or citizens or may otherwise be liable to tax. Only these advisers will be able to take into account appropriately the details relevant to the taxation of the respective holders of the relevant Securities.

Tax Residents

Private Investors

Interest/Capital gains

Interest payable on Securities to persons holding such Securities as private assets ("Private Investors") who are tax residents of Germany (i.e., persons whose residence or habitual abode is located in Germany) qualifies as investment income (Einkünfte aus Kapitalvermögen) according to Sec. 20 para 1 German Income Tax Act (Einkommensteuergesetz) and is, in general, taxed at a separate flat tax rate of 25 per cent. according to Sec. 32d para. 1 German Income Tax Act (Abgeltungsteuer, in the following also referred to as "flat tax"), plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax. Please note that there are discussions ongoing that the 25 per cent. flat tax regime for interest income will be abolished so that the respective income would be taxed with the personal progressive income tax rate of up to 45 per cent. (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and church tax, if applicable). It is further intended to cancel the solidarity surcharge for certain taxpayers up to a maximum amount of their annual taxable income as of 2021 (see below).

Capital gains from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities, including the original issue discount and interest having accrued up to the disposition of a Security and credited separately ("Accrued Interest", Stückzinsen), if any, qualify – irrespective of any holding period – as investment income pursuant to Sec. 20 para. 2 German Income Tax Act and are also generally taxed at the flat tax rate of 25 per cent., plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax. If the Securities are assigned, redeemed, repaid or contributed into a corporation by way of a hidden contribution (verdeckte Einlage in eine Kapitalgesellschaft) rather than sold, as a rule, such transaction is treated like a sale.

Capital gains are determined by taking the difference between the sale, assignment or redemption price (after the deduction of expenses directly and factually related to the sale, assignment or redemption) and the acquisition price of the relevant Securities. Where the relevant Securities are issued in a currency other than Euro the sale, assignment or redemption price and the acquisition costs have to be converted into Euro on the basis of the foreign exchange rates prevailing on the acquisition date and the sale, assignment or redemption date respectively.

Expenses (other than such expenses directly and factually related to the sale, assignment or redemption) related to interest payments or capital gains under the Securities are – except for a standard lump sum (Sparer Pauschbetrag) of Euro 801 (Euro 1,602 for jointly assessed holders) – in principle not deductible.

According to the flat tax regime losses from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities can only be set off against other investment income including capital gains. If the set-off is not possible in the assessment period in which the losses have been realised, such losses can be carried forward into future assessment periods only and can be set off against investment income including capital gains generated in these future assessment periods. Losses resulting from the sale of shares in a stock corporation (Aktien), which may be received in case of a physical delivery, can only be set off against capital gains from the sale of other shares in a stock corporation. The offsetting of losses incurred by a Private Investor is subject to several restrictions. Losses incurred with respect to the Securities can only be offset against investment income of the Private Investor realised in the same or the following years. According to a new bill (Gesetz zur Einführung einer Pflicht zur Mitteilung grenzüberschreitender Steuergestaltungen) losses from capital claims of private investors can now be offset against income derived from capital investments up to an amount of EUR 10,000.00 p.a. However, from the year 2021 onwards loss from Securities which qualify as derivative transactions (Termingeschäfte) may only be applied against profits from other derivative transactions, and only up to an amount of EUR 10,000.00 in a given year. Losses exceeding any of these thresholds can be carried forward.

If an "other capital receivable" (sonstige Kapitalforderung) within the meaning of Sec. 20 para 1 no. 7 German Income Tax Act is not repaid in cash at the maturity date but the holder of such receivable receives securities (Wertpapiere) instead of a repayment, Sec. 20 para 4a sentence 3 German Income Tax Act construes the consideration for the acquisition of the "other capital receivable" as its sales price. At the same time the consideration for the acquisition of the "other capital receivable" is classified as the acquisition cost of the securities received i.e. no taxable capital gain would be triggered due to the conversion. The aforesaid also applies with respect to so-called full risk certificates (Vollrisikozertifikate), i.e. certain index or share basket etc. linked securities which do not provide for a guaranteed repayment or any capital yield, with a put offer (Andienungsrecht).

Further particularities apply with respect to so-called full risk certificates with several payment dates. According to the decree of the German Federal Ministry of Finance (Bundesfinanzministerium) dated 18 January 2016 (IV C 1 – S 2252/08/10004:017) (as last amended by decree dated 19 June 2019 (IV C 1 – S 2252/08/10004 :027)), all payments to the investor under such full risk certificates that are made prior to the final maturity date shall qualify as taxable income from an "other capital receivable" pursuant to Sec. 20 para 1 no. 7 German Income Tax Act, unless the offering terms and conditions stipulate that such payments shall be redemption payments and the parties act accordingly. If there is no final redemption payment, the final maturity date shall not constitute a sale-like event in the meaning of Sec. 20 para. 2 German Income Tax Act. Therefore, capital losses, if any, shall not be deductible; however, based on recent case law a non-payment on a security due to certain thresholds being breached or an early termination of a security for this reason without any further payment shall be treated like a disposal resulting in the acquisition costs of such security being treated as a tax-deductible loss. Although this decree only refers to certain types of certificates, it cannot be excluded that the German tax authorities may apply the above described principles to other kinds of certificates as well. However, according to the decrees dated 23 January 2017 (IV C 1 – S 2252/08/10004 :018) and 12 April 2018 (IV CI-5 2252/08/10004:021) the German Federal Ministry of Finance now accepts losses in connection with the expiration of option rights (including options with knock out character) and respective warrants as well as certain derivative transactions which may also affect other financial instruments.

Further, the German Federal Ministry of Finance in its decree dated 18 January 2016 (IV C 1 – S 2252/08/10004:017) (as amended) has taken the position that a bad debt loss (Forderungsausfall) and a waiver of a receivable (Forderungsverzicht) shall, in general, not be treated as a sale, so that losses suffered upon such bad debt loss or waiver shall not be deductible for tax purposes. Despite conflicting case law of the Federal Tax Court (Bundesfinanzhof) in this regard and a new bill (see above) the Disbursing Agent has to follow the view of the tax authorities expressed in the administrative guidance when computing the tax to be withheld. It is not yet clear if and to what extent the tax authorities will reflect the recent developments in their interpretation of the law. In this respect, it is not clear, as well, whether the position of the German tax authorities may affect securities which are linked to a reference value in case such value decreases. Additionally, according to the decrees dated 23 January 2017 (IV C 1 – S 2252/08/10004 :018) and 12 April 2018 (IV CI-5 2252/08/10004:021) the German Federal Ministry of Finance now accepts losses in connection with the expiration of option rights (including options with knock out character) and respective warrants as well as certain derivative transactions which may also affect other financial instruments. Furthermore, the German Federal Fiscal Court (BFH VIII R 13/15 of October 24, 2017) recently decided that a finally suffered bad debt loss (due to insolvency) is tax deductible; the court did not decide whether this also applies in case of debt waiver. The new ruling has not been officially published in the Federal Tax Gazette (Bundessteuerblatt) as this requires the coordination of the supreme tax authorities of the federation and the German states. As this has not taken place yet, the ruling should therefore not be used apart from the specific case which was decided by the court (regional finance office North Rhine-Westphalia, information note (income tax) no. 01/2018 dated 23 January 2018).

Withholding

If Securities are held in custody with or administered by a German credit institution, financial services institution (including a German permanent establishment of such foreign institution), securities trading company or securities trading bank ("Disbursing Agent"), the flat tax at a rate of 25 per cent. (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax) will be withheld by the Disbursing Agent on interest payments and the excess of the proceeds from the sale, assignment or redemption (after the deduction of expenses directly and factually related to the sale, assignment or redemption) over the acquisition costs for the relevant Securities (if applicable converted into Euro terms on the basis of the foreign exchange rates as of the acquisition date and the sale, assignment or redemption date respectively). Church tax is collected by way of withholding as a standard procedure unless the Private Investor has filed a blocking notice (Sperrvermerk) with the German Federal Central Tax Office (Bundeszentralamt für Steuern).

The Disbursing Agent will provide for the set-off of losses against investment income including capital gains from other securities. As regards losses from the sale of shares in a stock corporation, a set-off will only be effected against capital gains from the sale of other shares in a stock corporation. If, in the absence of sufficient investment income derived through the same Disbursing Agent, a set-off is not possible, the holder of Securities may – instead of having a loss carried forward into the following year – file an application with the Disbursing Agent until 15 December of the current fiscal year for a certification of losses in order to set-off such losses against investment income derived through other institutions in the holder's personal income tax return.

If custody has changed since the acquisition and the acquisition data is not proved as required by Sec. 43a para. 2 German Income Tax Act or not permitted to be proved, the flat tax rate of 25 per cent. (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax) will be imposed on an amount equal to 30 per cent. of the proceeds from the sale, assignment or redemption of the relevant Securities.

In the course of the tax withholding provided for by the Disbursing Agent foreign taxes may be credited in accordance with the German Income Tax Act.

If Securities are not kept in a custodial account with a Disbursing Agent, the flat tax will – by way of withholding – apply on interest paid by a Disbursing Agent upon presentation of a coupon (whether or not presented with the relevant Security to which it appertains) to a holder of such coupon (other than a non-German bank or financial services institution) (Tafelgeschäft), if any. In this case proceeds from the sale, assignment or redemption of the relevant Securities will also be subject to the withholding of the flat tax.

In general, no flat tax will be levied if the holder of a Security filed a withholding exemption certificate (Freistellungsauftrag) with the Disbursing Agent (in the maximum amount of the standard lump sum of Euro 801 (Euro 1,602 for jointly assessed holders)) to the extent the income does not exceed the maximum exemption amount shown on the withholding exemption certificate. Similarly, no flat tax will be deducted if the holder of a Security has submitted to the Disbursing Agent a valid certificate of non-assessment (Nichtveranlagungsbescheinigung) issued by the competent tax office.

For Private Investors, the withheld flat tax is, in general, definitive. Exceptions apply e.g., if and to the extent the actual investment income exceeds the amount which was determined as the basis for the withholding of the flat tax by the Disbursing Agent. In such case, the exceeding amount of investment income must be included in the Private Investor's income tax return and will be subject to the flat tax in the course of the assessment procedure. According to the decree of the German Federal Ministry of Finance dated 18 January 2016 (IV C 1 – S 2252/08/10004:017) (as last amended by decree dated 16 June 2019 (IV C 1 - S 2252/08/10004 :027)), however, any exceeding amount of not more than Euro 500 per assessment period will not be claimed on grounds of equity, PROVIDED THAT no other reasons for an assessment according to Sec. 32d para. 3 German Income Tax Act exist. Further, Private Investors may request that their total investment income, together with their other income, is subject to taxation at their personal, progressive income tax rate rather than the flat tax rate, if this results in a lower tax liability (Günstigerprüfung). According to Sec. 32d para. 2 no. 1 German Income Tax Act the flat tax rate is also not available in situations where an abuse of the flat tax rate is assumed (e.g. "back-to-back" financing). In order to prove such investment income and the withheld flat tax thereon, the investor may request from the Disbursing Agent a respective certificate in officially required form.

Investment income not subject to the withholding flat tax (e.g. if there is no Disbursing Agent) must be included in the personal income tax return and will be subject to the flat tax rate of 25 per cent. (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax), unless the investor requests the investment income to be subject to taxation at lower personal, progressive income tax rate or the investment income is not subject to the flat tax rate according to Sec. 32d para. 2 no. 1 German Income Tax Act. Foreign taxes on investment income may be credited in accordance with the German Income Tax Act.

Application of the tax provisions of the German Investment Tax Act (Investmentsteuergesetz)

Tax consequences different from those discussed above would arise if the respective Securities or the underlying securities delivered upon physical delivery were to be regarded as foreign investment fund units (Investmentanteile). In such case, the holder of the relevant Securities might be subject to a disadvantageous punitive (lump sum) taxation. According to previous understanding, index or fund linked securities were, in principle, not considered to represent foreign investment fund units. Whether this still applies under the amended German Investment Tax Act (Investmentsteuergesetz) has not been finally clarified yet. However, there are good arguments that index or fund linked securities will remain to be exempted from the scope of application of the German Investment Tax Act.

Business Investors

Interest payable on Securities to persons holding the relevant Securities as business assets ("Business Investors") who are tax residents of Germany (i.e. Business Investors whose residence, habitual abode, statutory seat or place of effective management and control is located in Germany) and capital gains from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities, including the original issue discount and Accrued Interest, if any, are subject to income tax at the Business Investor's personal, progressive income tax rate (plus currently 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon and, if applicable, church tax), or, in case of corporate entities, to corporate income tax at a uniform 15 per cent. tax rate (plus 5.5 per cent. solidarity surcharge thereon). Such interest payments and capital gains may also be subject to trade tax if the relevant Securities form part of the property of a German trade or business. Losses from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities are, in general, recognised for tax purposes; this may be different if certain (in particular index linked) Securities qualify as derivative transactions.

If instead of a cash-settlement at maturity of a Security, the holder of such Security receives securities, such delivery would be regarded as a taxable sale of the Security and the corresponding capital gain will be taxable.

Withholding tax, if any, including solidarity surcharge thereon, is credited as a prepayment against the Business Investor's personal, progressive or corporate income tax liability and the solidarity surcharge in the course of the tax assessment procedure, i.e. the withholding tax is not definitive. Any potential surplus will be refunded. However, in general and subject to further requirements, no withholding deduction will apply on capital gains from the sale, assignment or redemption of Securities if (i) such Securities are held by a corporation, association or estate in terms of Sec. 43 para. 2 sentence 3 no. 1 German Income Tax Act or (ii) the proceeds from such Securities qualify as income of a domestic business and the investor notifies this to the Disbursing Agent by use of the required official form according to Sec. 43 para. 2 sentence 3 no. 2 German Income Tax Act (Erklärung zur Freistellung vom Kapitalertragsteuerabzug).

Where Securities qualify as zero bonds and form part of a trade or business, each year the part of the difference between the issue or purchase price and the redemption amount attributable to such year must be taken into account as income.

Foreign taxes may be credited in accordance with the German Income Tax Act. Alternatively, foreign taxes may also be deducted from the tax base for German income tax purposes.

Non-residents

Interest payable on Securities and capital gains, including Accrued Interest, if any, are not subject to German taxation, unless (i) the relevant Securities form part of the business property of a permanent establishment, including a permanent representative, or a fixed base maintained in Germany by the holder of the relevant Securities; (ii) the investment income otherwise constitutes German-source income; or (iii) the relevant Securities are not kept in a custodial account with a Disbursing Agent and interest or proceeds from the sale, assignment or redemption of the relevant Securities are paid by a Disbursing Agent upon presentation of a coupon to a holder of such coupon (other than a non-German bank or financial services institution) (Tafelgeschäft), if any. In the cases (i), (ii) and (iii) a tax regime similar to that explained above under "Tax Residents" applies.

Non-residents of Germany are, as a rule, exempt from German withholding tax and the solidarity surcharge thereon, even if the relevant Securities are held in custody with a Disbursing Agent (cf. margin number 313 of the decree dated 18 January 2016 (IV C1 – S 2252 08/10004:017) (as last amended by decree dated 19 June 2019 (IV C 1 - S 2252/08/10004 :027))). However, where the investment income is subject to German taxation as set forth in the preceding paragraph and the relevant Securities are held in a custodial account with a Disbursing Agent or in case of a Tafelgeschäft, withholding tax is levied as explained above under "Tax Residents". The withholding tax may be refunded based upon German national tax law or an applicable tax treaty.

Inheritance and Gift Tax

No inheritance or gift taxes with respect to any Security will arise under the laws of Germany if, in the case of inheritance tax, neither the decedent nor the beneficiary or, in the case of gift tax, neither the donor nor the donee, is a resident of Germany and such Security is not attributable to a trade or business for which a permanent establishment is maintained, or a permanent representative has been appointed, in Germany. Exceptions from this rule apply to certain German expatriates.

Other Taxes

No stamp, issue, registration or similar taxes or duties will be payable in Germany in connection with the issuance, delivery, execution or conversion of Securities. Currently, net assets tax (Vermögenssteuer) is not levied in Germany. Germany and other Member States intend to introduce a financial transaction tax (see below). However, it is unclear if and in what form such tax will be actually introduced. In case such tax is introduced, the acquisition and disposal of Securities (in the secondary market) could be subject to a tax of at least 0.1 per cent. of the acquisition or disposal price.

EU Residents

The EU Council Directive 2003/48/EC on the taxation of savings income has been repealed as of 1 January 2016 (1 January 2017 in the case of Austria) (in each case subject to transitional arrangements). However, the Council of the European Union has also adopted Directive 2014/107/EU (the Amending Cooperation Directive), amending Directive 2011/16/EU on administrative cooperation in the field of taxation so as to introduce an extended automatic exchange of information regime in accordance with the Global Standard released by the OECD Council as of 1 January 2016 (1 January 2017 in the case of Austria). Germany has implemented the Amending Cooperation Directive by means of a Financial Account Information Act (Finanzkonten-Informationsaustauschgesetz FKAustG) according to which it will provide information on financial accounts to EU Member States and certain other states as of 1 January 2016.

Solidarity surcharge

Please note that according to a bill enacted in December 2019, the solidarity surcharge will be partially abolished as of the assessment period 2021 for certain individuals. The solidarity surcharge shall, however, continue to apply for investment income and, thus, on withholding taxes levied. In case the individual income tax burden for a non-business Holder of Securities tax resident in Germany is lower than 25% such Holder can apply for his/her investment income being assessed at his/her individual tariff-based income tax rate in which case solidarity surcharge would be refunded (see above).

GREEK TAXATION

The following summary describes the principal Greek tax consequences in relation to the subscription, holding, redemption and disposal of the Securities by tax residents in the Hellenic Republic ("Greece") or investors otherwise subject to Greek taxation (due to a permanent establishment in Greece) (for the purposes of this summary). The discussion is not exhaustive and does not purport to deal with all the tax consequences applicable to all possible categories of Securityholders, some of which may be subject to special rules, and also does not touch upon procedural requirements such as the filing of proof of residence, of a tax declaration or of supporting documentation required. Further, it is not intended as tax advice to any particular investor nor does it purport to be a comprehensive description of all Greek taxation considerations thereof.

This summary is based on the tax legislation, published case law, ministerial decisions and other regulatory acts of the respective Greek authorities as in force at the date of this Base Prospectus and does not take into account any developments or amendments thereof after that date whether or not such developments or amendments have retroactive effect. There are also certain tax issues which have not been clarified, up to this time, by the tax administration.

Individuals are assumed not to be acting in the course of business for tax purposes. "Greek tax residents" includes, as regards legal persons and legal entities, the permanent establishment in Greece of a foreign legal person or legal entity, where the Securities are held through that permanent establishment.

Tax considerations are subject to the more favourable provisions of any applicable bilateral treaty for the avoidance of double taxation.

Prospective purchasers of the Securities are advised to consult their own tax advisors as to the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposal of the Securities.

For the purposes of this section, it is assumed that none of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor, CGMFL and the CGMFL Guarantor is a resident of Greece for Greek taxation purposes.

Furthermore, it is noted that the Greek tax legislation does not explicitly provide for specific rules for the tax treatment of combined instruments in terms of Securities, the performance of which is linked to the performance of an underlying, financial index or basket of assets. Therefore, the discussion below is limited to the payment of interest under the Securities and their corresponding treatment as debt securities.

Interest Payments

(a) Individual Securityholders

Payments of interest under the Securities to individual holders of the Securities are subject to income tax at a flat rate of 15 per cent. If payment of interest is effected through a Greek paying or other similar agent, a withholding tax of 15 per cent. shall apply. Such withholding tax exhausts the income tax liability of the respective individual recipients of such interest income.

(b) Securityholders that are Legal Persons and Legal Entities

Payments of interest under the Securities by the relevant Issuer to legal persons and legal entities that are Greek tax residents will be treated as part of their annual income. Income of legal persons and legal entities is taxed at a flat rate, which is currently 24 per cent. If payment is effected through a Greek paying or other similar agent, a withholding of 15 per cent. applies, which will be treated as an advance payment over income tax owed for that financial year.

Capital gains realised from the disposal of the Securities

(a) Individual Securityholders

Capital gains realised from the disposal of the Securities are subject to income tax at a rate of 15 per cent. Capital gains will equal the difference between the acquisition and the transfer price of a Security, plus/minus expenses directly related to the acquisition/transfer price of the Security. Capital gains may be set off, under certain circumstances, against capital losses from securities that have been incurred in the last 5 years.

Notwithstanding the above, capital gains over bonds issued by EU, EEA and EFTA issuers are exempted from income tax over capital gains, as is the case with Greek corporate bonds. "Bonds" should be interpreted narrowly for the purposes of this exemption to include debt instruments representing a claim to receive back the entirety of an amount lent, which may be convertible to shares, may be exchangeable with other securities, may provide a right to interest and/or may provide a right to profits.

In this context, the tax authority has expressed the view that the difference between the acquisition value on the secondary market and the payment of principal received upon expiry of a corporate bond does not constitute capital gains. In this case "bonds" should again be interpreted narrowly, as above.

It would be reasonable to assume that payments under the Securities by a guarantor will be classified for tax purposes in the same manner as if the payment were being made by the relevant Issuer, although this point has not been addressed specifically in a general manner.

(b) Holders of the Securities that are Legal Persons and Legal Entities

As a rule, all income of legal persons and legal entities is classified as income from business activities and taxed at a rate of 24 per cent.

Notwithstanding the above, as regards capital gains over bonds issued by EU, EEA and EFTA issuers taxation is deferred until capitalisation, as is the case with Greek corporate bonds. Upon capitalisation or distribution, capital gains will be taxed at the then applicable income tax rate. "Bonds" should be interpreted narrowly for the purposes of this exemption to include debt instruments representing a claim to receive back the entirety of an amount lent, which may be convertible to shares, may be exchangeable with other securities, may provide a right to interest and/or may provide a right to profits.

Solidarity Contribution

All income, taxable and tax exempted, of individual holders of the Securities that are Greek tax residents, exceeding EUR 12,000 is subject to a tax called "solidarity contribution". Solidarity contribution is calculated on a graduated scale between 0 per cent. and 10 per cent. over the total income of an individual.

HUNGARIAN TAXATION

The following is a general discussion of certain Hungarian tax consequences relating to the acquisition and ownership of Securities. It does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all tax considerations which may be relevant to a decision to purchase Securities, and, in particular, does not consider any specific facts or circumstances that may apply to a particular purchaser. It is based on laws currently in force in Hungary and applicable on the date of this Base Prospectus, but subject to change, possibly with retrospective effect. The acquisition of Securities by non-Hungarian holders, or the payment of interest under Securities may trigger additional tax payments in the country of residence of the relevant holder, which is not covered by this summary, but where the provisions of the treaties on the avoidance of double taxation should be taken into consideration. Prospective purchasers of Securities are advised to consult their own tax advisers as to the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposition of Securities, including the effect of any state or local taxes, under the tax laws of Hungary and each country of which they are residents.

Withholding tax (foreign resident individual holders)

Foreign resident individual holders are subject to personal income tax in Hungary if they realise income that qualifies as Hungarian sourced income (i) in accordance with an applicable tax treaty; or, (ii) in the absence of a tax treaty, in accordance with Act CXVII of 1995 on Personal Income Tax (the "Personal Income Tax Act").

If a tax treaty is applicable, then Hungary's taxation right has to be determined based on the treaty. If the income is taxable in Hungary – which is generally the case if the income qualifies as interest or dividend under the treaty – then 15 per cent. Hungarian withholding tax applies but such tax rate may be reduced by the treaty. In the absence of a tax treaty generally any income realized on the Securities is subject to 15 per cent. withholding tax in Hungary. Please note, however, that the Hungarian tax rules and taxation practice are rather ambiguous in relation to source taxation of non-residents' capital income.

The tax on payments of certain income types are to be withheld by the "Payor" (kifizető) (as defined below).

Pursuant to Act CL of 2017 on the Rules of Taxation ("ART") a Payor means a Hungarian resident legal person, organisation or private entrepreneur who provides taxable income, irrespective of whether such payment is made directly or through an intermediary (post office, credit institution). In respect of interest, Payor shall mean the borrower of a loan or the issuer of a note, including the investment service provider or credit institution providing the interest instead of it. In respect of a dividend, "Payor" means the entity paying the dividend from its assets. In respect of revenues originating from a transaction concluded with the involvement of a licensed stockbroker, Payor shall mean such stockbroker. The Hungarian permanent establishment of a foreign resident entity is also considered as a Payor.

Interest, as defined by Schedule 7 of the ART (which implements the provisions of the Savings Directive), realised on Securities by citizens of any other Member State is not subject to Hungarian tax where a paying agent based in Hungary provides data to the Hungarian state tax authority on the basis of Schedule 7 of the ART.

Please note that the provisions of the applicable double tax conventions, if any, should be considered when assessing the Hungarian tax liabilities of a foreign resident individual holder.

Withholding tax (foreign resident corporate holders)

Proceeds from Securities paid to foreign resident corporate holders who do not have a permanent establishment in Hungary, by resident legal entities or other persons and any capital gains realised by such foreign resident holders on the sale of the Securities is not subject to tax in Hungary.

The tax liability of a foreign resident corporate holder, which has a permanent establishment in Hungary is limited, in general, to the income from business activities realised through its Hungarian permanent establishment.

Taxation of Hungarian resident individual holders

The tax liability of Hungarian tax resident private individuals covers the worldwide income of such persons.

According to the provisions of the Personal Income Tax Act, in the case of tax resident individual holders of Securities, interest, dividends and the capital gains realised upon the redemption or the sale of publicly offered and publicly traded debt securities is subject to personal income tax at the rate of 15 per cent. Securities listed on a regulated market of a Member State are considered publicly offered and traded Securities.

The rules of the Personal Income Tax Act may in certain circumstances impose a requirement upon the "Payor" (kifizető) (as defined below) to withhold tax on the certain payments to individual holders.

Pursuant to the ART the definition of a "Payor" covers a Hungarian resident legal person, other organisation, or private entrepreneur that (who) provides taxable income, irrespective of whether such payment is made directly or through an intermediary (post office, credit institution). In respect of interest, Payor shall mean the borrower of a loan or the issuer of a note, including the investment service provider or credit institution providing the interest instead of it. In respect of a dividend, Payor means the entity paying the dividend from its assets. In respect of revenues originating from a transaction concluded with the involvement of a licensed stockbroker, Payor shall mean such stockbroker. In respect of income that is earned in a foreign country and taxable in Hungary, "Payor" shall mean the "paying agent" (megbízott) (legal person, organisation or private entrepreneur) having tax residency in Hungary, except in cases where the role of a financial institution is limited to performing the bank transfer or payment.

Taxation of Hungarian resident corporate holders

Under Act LXXXI of 1996 on Corporate Tax and Dividend Tax, Hungarian resident taxpayers have a full, all-inclusive tax liability. In general, resident entities are those established under the laws of Hungary (i.e. having a Hungarian registered seat). Foreign persons having their place of management in Hungary are also considered as Hungarian resident taxpayers.

In general, interest and capital gains realised by Hungarian resident corporate holders on Securities will be taxable in the same way as the regular income of the relevant holders. The general corporate tax rate in Hungary is flat 9 per cent.

Financial institutions, financial enterprises, insurance companies and investment enterprises may be subject to local business tax and innovation tax on the basis of the proceeds realised on Securities.

IRISH TAXATION

The following is a summary of the principal Irish withholding tax and stamp duty consequences of ownership of the Securities. It is based on the laws and practice of the Revenue Commissioners currently in force in Ireland as at the date of this Base Prospectus and may be subject to change. The statements in this summary are based on the understanding that Securities will be treated as debt for Irish tax purposes. This summary applies to Securityholders who beneficially own Securities as an investment. Particular rules not discussed below may apply to certain classes of taxpayers holding Securities including dealers in Securities and trusts. This summary does not constitute tax or legal advice and the comments below are of a general nature only and it does not discuss all aspects of Irish taxation that may be relevant to any particular holder of Securities. Prospective investors in any Securities should consult their professional advisers on the tax implications of the purchase, holding, redemption or sale of Securities and the receipt of payments thereon under any laws applicable to them.

Taxation of Securityholders(a) Withholding Tax

Tax at the standard rate of income tax (currently 20 per cent.) is required to be withheld from payments of Irish source interest. The Issuer will not be obliged to withhold Irish income tax from payments of interest on any Securities so long as such payments do not constitute Irish source income. Interest paid on Securities should not be treated as having an Irish source unless:

- (i) the relevant Issuer is resident in Ireland for tax purposes; or
- (ii) the Issuer has a branch or permanent establishment in Ireland, the assets or income of which is used to fund the payments on such Securities; or
- (iii) the Issuer is not resident in Ireland for tax purposes but the register for such Securities is maintained in Ireland.

It is anticipated that (i) none of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI and CGMFL are, or will be, resident in Ireland for tax purposes; (ii) none of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI and CGMFL will have a branch or permanent establishment in Ireland; and (iii) none of Citigroup Inc., CGMHI and CGMFL will maintain a register of any Registered Securities in Ireland.

(b) Encashment Tax

Irish tax will be required to be withheld at the standard rate of income tax (currently 20 per cent. but increasing to 25 per cent. with effect from 1 January 2021 if the Irish Finance Bill 2019 is enacted unamended) on any interest, dividends or annual payments payable out of or in respect of the stocks, funds, shares or securities of a company not resident in Ireland, where such interest, dividends or annual payments are collected or realised by a bank or encashment agent in Ireland. Encashment tax will not apply where the holder of the Securities is not resident in Ireland and has made a declaration in the prescribed form to the encashment agent or bank.

(c) Stamp Duty on Transfer of Securities

As the Issuers will not be registered in Ireland, stamp duty will not arise on a document effecting a transfer of the Securities so long as the instrument of transfer of the Securities does not relate to:

- (i) any immovable property situated in Ireland or any right over or interest in such property; or
- (ii) any stocks or marketable securities of a company which is registered in Ireland (other than an "investment undertaking" or a "qualifying company" within the meanings of Sections 739B and 110 respectively of the Taxes Consolidation Act 1997).

ITALIAN TAXATION

The following is a summary of current Italian law and practice relating to the taxation of Securities. The statements in this Base Prospectus regarding taxation are based on the laws in force in Italy as at the date of this Base Prospectus and are subject to any changes in law occurring after such date, which changes could be made on a retroactive basis. The following summary does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all the tax considerations which may be relevant to a decision to subscribe for, purchase, own or dispose of Securities and does not purport to deal with the tax consequences applicable to all categories of investors, some of which (such as dealers in securities or commodities) may be subject to special rules.

This summary does not describe the tax consequences for an investor with respect to Securities that will be redeemed by physical delivery. Prospective Securityholders are advised to consult their own tax advisers concerning the overall tax consequences under Italian tax law, under the tax laws of the country in which they are resident for tax purposes and of any other potentially relevant jurisdiction of acquiring, holding and disposing of Securities and receiving payments of interest, principal and/or other amounts under the Securities, including in particular the effect of any state, regional or local tax laws.

Italian tax treatment of the Securities

As clarified by the Italian tax authorities in resolution No. 72/E of 12 July 2010, the Italian tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposal of the Securities may be different depending on whether:

- (a) they represent a securitised debt claim, implying a static "use of capital" (impiego di capitale), through which the subscriber of the Securities transfers to the Issuer a certain amount of capital for the purpose of obtaining a remuneration on the same capital and subject to the right to obtain its (partial or entire) reimbursement at maturity; or
- (b) they represent a securitised derivative financial instrument or bundle of derivative financial instruments not entailing a "use of capital", through which the subscriber of the Securities invests indirectly in underlying financial instruments for the purpose of obtaining a profit deriving from the negotiation of such underlying financial instruments.

Tax treatment of Securities classifying as bonds or debentures similar to bonds

Legislative Decree No. 239 of 1 April 1996, as subsequently amended, (the "Decree No. 239") provides for the applicable regime with respect to the tax treatment of interest, premium and other income (including the difference between the redemption amount and the issue price) from Securities falling within the category of bonds (obbligazioni) or debentures similar to bonds (titoli similari alle obbligazioni) issued, inter alia, by non-Italian resident issuers.

For these purposes, debentures similar to bonds are defined as debentures implying a "use of capital" issued in mass that incorporate an unconditional obligation to pay, at redemption or maturity, an amount not less than their principal amount (whether or not providing for interim payments) and that do not give any right to directly or indirectly participate in the management of the relevant Issuer or of the business in relation to which they are issued nor any type of control on such management.

Where an Italian resident Securityholder is (i) an individual not engaged in an entrepreneurial activity to which the relevant Securities are connected, (ii) a non-commercial partnership pursuant to Article 5 of the Italian Income Consolidated Code ("TUIR") (with the exception of general partnership, limited partnership and similar entities), (iii) a non-commercial private or public institution, or (iv) an investor exempt from Italian corporate income taxation, interest, premium and other income relating to Securities, accrued during the relevant holding period, are subject to a withholding tax, referred to as "imposta sostitutiva", levied at the rate of 26 per cent., unless any of the Securityholders under (i) to (iii) above has opted for the application of the "risparmio gestito" regime (see "Capital Gains Tax" below). In the event that Securityholders described under (i) and (iii) above are engaged in an entrepreneurial activity to which the relevant Securities are connected, the imposta sostitutiva applies as a provisional tax.

Subject to certain limitations and requirements (including a minimum holding period), Italian resident individuals not acting in connection with an entrepreneurial activity or social security entities pursuant to Legislative Decree No. 509 of 30 June 1994 and Legislative Decree No. 103 of 10 February 1996 may be exempt from any income taxation, including the imposta sostitutiva, on interest, premium and other income relating to the Securities if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano individuale di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements from time to time applicable set forth under Italian law.

Where an Italian resident Securityholder is a company or similar commercial entity pursuant to Article 73 of TUIR or a permanent establishment in Italy of a foreign company to which Securities are effectively connected and such Securities are deposited with an authorised intermediary, interest, premium and other income from such Securities will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva, but must be included in the relevant Securityholder's income tax return and are therefore subject to general Italian corporate taxation ("IRES") and, in certain circumstances, depending on the "status" of the Securityholder, also to the regional tax on productive activities ("IRAP").

Under the current regime provided by Law Decree No. 351 of 25 September 2001, converted into Law No. 410 of 23 November 2001, Law Decree No. 78 of 31 May 2010, converted into Law n. 122 of 30 July 2010 and Legislative Decree No. 44 of 4 March 2014, all as amended, Italian real estate investment funds established pursuant to Article 37 of Legislative Decree No. 58 of 24 February 1998, as amended and supplemented (the "Real Estate Funds") are subject neither to imposta sostitutiva nor to any other income tax in the hands of the Real Estate Funds, provided that the Securities are deposited with an authorised intermediary.

According to Article 9 of the Legislative Decree No. 44 of 4 March 2014, the same regime is applicable to Italian real estate SICAFs ("Real Estate SICAFs").

If the investor is resident in Italy and is an open-ended or closed-ended investment fund, a SICAF (an investment company with fixed share capital), other than a Real Estate SICAF, or a SICAV (an investment company with variable capital) established in Italy (the "Fund") and either (i) the Fund or (ii) its manager is subject to the supervision of a regulatory authority, and the relevant Securities are held by an authorised intermediary, interest, premium and other income accrued during the holding period on such Securities will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva, but must be included in the management results of the Fund. The Fund will not be subject to taxation on such results but a withholding tax of 26 per cent., will apply, in certain circumstances to distributions made in favour of unitholders or shareholders (the "Collective Investment Fund Tax").

Where an Italian resident Securityholder is a pension fund (subject to the regime provided for by article 17 of the Legislative Decree No. 252 of 5 December 2005) and Securities are deposited with an authorised intermediary, interest, premium and other income relating to such Securities and accrued during the holding period will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva, but must be included in the result of the relevant portfolio accrued at the end of the tax period, to be subject to a 20 per cent. substitute tax. Subject to certain conditions (including minimum holding period requirement) and limitations, interest, premium and other income may be excluded from the taxable base of the 20 per cent. substitute tax if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano individuale di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements from time to time applicable set forth under Italian law.

Pursuant to Decree No. 239, imposta sostitutiva is applied by banks, Società di intermediazione mobiliare ("SIMs"), fiduciary companies, Società di gestione del risparmio ("SGRs"), stockbrokers and other entities identified by a decree of the Ministry of Economics and Finance (each an "Intermediary") as subsequently amended and integrated.

An Intermediary to be entitled to apply the imposta sostitutiva must (i) be (a) resident in Italy or (b) a permanent establishment in Italy of a non-Italian resident financial intermediary or (c) an entity or a company not resident in Italy, acting through a system of centralised administration of securities and directly connected with the Department of Revenue of the Italian Ministry of Finance having appointed an Italian representative for the purposes of Decree No. 239; and (ii) intervene, in any way, in the collection of interest or in the transfer of Securities. For the purpose of the application of the imposta sostitutiva, a transfer of Securities includes any assignment or other act, either with or without consideration, which results in a change of the ownership of the relevant Securities or in a change of the Intermediary with which such Securities are deposited.

Where the Securities are not deposited with an Intermediary, the imposta sostitutiva is applied and withheld by any entity paying interest to a Securityholder. If interest, premium and other income on the Securities are not collected through an Intermediary or any entity paying interest and as such no imposta sostitutiva is levied, the Italian resident beneficial owners listed above will be required to include interest, premium and other income in their yearly income tax return and subject them to a final substitute tax at a rate of 26 per cent.

Non-Italian Resident Securityholders

No Italian imposta sostitutiva is applied on payments to a non-Italian resident Securityholder of interest or premium relating to Securities PROVIDED THAT, if Securities are held in Italy, the non-Italian resident Securityholder declares itself to be a non-Italian resident according to Italian tax regulations.

Atypical securities

Interest payments relating to Securities that are not deemed to fall within the category of bonds (obbligazioni) or debentures similar to bonds (titoli similari alle obbligazioni) may be subject to a withholding tax, levied at the rate of 26 per cent. For this purpose, debentures similar to bonds are debentures that incorporate an unconditional obligation to pay, at redemption or maturity, an amount not lower than their nominal value.

Subject to certain limitations and requirements (including a minimum holding period), Italian resident individuals not acting in connection with an entrepreneurial activity or social security entities pursuant to Legislative Decree No. 509 of 30 June 1994 and Legislative Decree No. 103 of 10 February 1996 may be exempt from any income taxation, including the withholding tax on interest, premium and other income relating to the Securities that are classified as atypical securities, if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano individuale di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements from time to time applicable set forth under Italian law.

Such withholding tax does not apply to interest payments made to a non-Italian resident Securityholder and to an Italian resident Securityholder which is (i) a company or similar commercial entity (including the Italian permanent establishment of foreign entities), (ii) a commercial partnership (with the exception of general partnership, limited partnership and similar entities), or (iii) a commercial private or public institution.

Payments made by a non-resident guarantor

With respect to payments made to Italian resident Securityholders by a non-Italian resident guarantor, in accordance with one interpretation of Italian tax law, any such payment made by the Italian non-resident guarantor could be treated, in certain circumstances, as a payment made by the Issuer and would thus be subject to the tax regime described in the previous paragraphs of this section.

Securities issued by CGMHI will be guaranteed by the CGMHI Guarantor pursuant to the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee.

Securities issued by CGMFL will be guaranteed by the CGMFL Guarantor pursuant to the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee. Securities issued by Citigroup Inc. will not be guaranteed by any entity.

Capital Gains Tax

Any gain obtained from the sale, early redemption or redemption of Securities being treated as debt securities and implying a static "use of capital" (impiego di capitale), would be treated as part of the taxable income (and, in certain circumstances, depending on the "status" of the Securityholder, also as part of the net value of production for IRAP purposes) if realised by an Italian company or a similar commercial entity (including the Italian permanent establishment of foreign entities to which the relevant Securities are connected) or Italian resident individuals engaged in an entrepreneurial activity to which the relevant Securities are connected.

Where an Italian resident Securityholder is (i) an individual not holding Securities in connection with an entrepreneurial activity, (ii) a non-commercial partnership or (iii) a non-commercial private or public institution, any capital gain realised by such Securityholder from the sale, early redemption or redemption of such Securities would be subject to an imposta sostitutiva, levied at the current rate of 26 per cent. Under some conditions and limitations, Securityholders may set off losses with gains.

Subject to certain limitations and requirements (including a minimum holding period), Italian resident individuals not engaged in an entrepreneurial activity or social security entities pursuant to Legislative Decree No. 509 of 30 June 1994 and Legislative Decree No. 103 of 10 February 1996 may be exempt from Italian capital gain taxes, including the imposta sostitutiva, on capital gains realised upon sale or redemption of the Securities, if the Securities are included in a long-term individual savings account (piano individuale di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements from time to time applicable set forth under Italian law.

In respect of the application of the imposta sostitutiva, taxpayers may opt for one of the three regimes described below.

Under the "tax declaration" regime (regime della dichiarazione), which is the default regime for Securityholders under (i) to (iii) above, the imposta sostitutiva on capital gains will be chargeable, on a yearly cumulative basis, on all capital gains, net of any incurred capital loss, realised by the Italian resident individual Securityholder holding Securities not in connection with an entrepreneurial activity pursuant to all sales, early redemption or redemptions of the relevant Securities carried out during any given tax year. These Securityholders must indicate the overall capital gains realised in any tax year, net of any relevant incurred capital loss, in the annual tax return and pay imposta sostitutiva on such gains together with any balance of income tax due for such year. Capital losses in excess of capital gains may be carried forward against capital gains realised in any of the four succeeding tax years.

As an alternative to the tax declaration regime, Italian resident individual Securityholders under (i) to (iii) above may elect to pay the imposta sostitutiva separately on capital gains realised on each sale, early redemption or redemption of the relevant Securities (the "risparmio amministrato" regime provided for by Article 6 of the Legislative Decree No. 461 of 21 September 1997, the "Decree No. 461"). Such separate taxation of capital gains is allowed subject to (i) Securities being deposited with Italian banks, SIMs or certain authorised financial intermediaries; and (ii) an express valid election for the risparmio amministrato regime being punctually made in writing by the relevant Securityholder. The depository is responsible for accounting for imposta sostitutiva in respect of capital gains realised on each sale, early redemption or redemption of Securities (as well as in respect of capital gains realised upon the revocation of its mandate), net of any incurred capital loss, and is required to pay the relevant amount to the Italian tax authorities on behalf of the taxpayer, deducting a corresponding amount from the proceeds to be credited to the Securityholder or using funds provided by the Securityholder for this purpose. Under the risparmio amministrato regime, where a sale, early redemption or redemption of Securities results in a capital loss, such loss may be deducted from capital gains subsequently realised, within the same securities management, in the same tax year or in the following tax years up to the fourth. Under the risparmio amministrato regime, the Securityholder is not required to declare the capital gains in its annual tax return.

Any capital gains realised or accrued by Italian Securityholders under (i) to (iii) above who have entrusted the management of their financial assets, including Securities, to an authorised intermediary and have validly opted for the so-called "risparmio gestito" regime (regime provided by Article 7 of Decree No. 461) will be included in the computation of the annual increase in value of the managed assets accrued, even if not realised, at year end, subject to a 26 per cent. substitute tax to be paid by the managing authorised intermediary. Under the risparmio gestito regime, any depreciation of the managed assets accrued at year end may be carried forward against increase in value of the managed assets accrued in any of the four succeeding tax years. Under the risparmio gestito regime, the Securityholder is not required to declare the capital gains realised in its annual tax return.

Any capital gains realised by a Securityholder which is a Fund will be included in the result of the relevant portfolio accrued at the end of the tax period. The Fund will not be subject to taxation on such result, but the Collective Investment Fund Tax will apply.

Any capital gains realised by a Securityholder who is an Italian Real Estate Fund or a Real Estate SICAF to which the provisions of Decree 351, Law Decree No. 78 of 31 May 2010, converted into Law No. 122 of 30 July 2010 and Legislative Decree No. 44 of 4 March 2014, all as amended apply, will be subject neither to imposta sostitutiva nor to any other income tax at the level of the Real Estate Fund or the Real Estate SICAF.

Any capital gains realised by a Securityholder which is an Italian pension fund (subject to the regime provided for by article 17 of the Legislative Decree No. 252 of 5 December 2005) will be included in the result of the relevant portfolio accrued at the end of the tax period, to be subject to the 20 per cent. substitute tax. Subject to certain conditions (including minimum holding period requirement) and limitations, capital gains realised upon sale or redemption of the Securities may be excluded from the taxable base of the 20 per cent. substitute tax if the Securities are included in a long-term savings account (piano di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements from time to time applicable set forth under Italian law.

Non-Italian resident Securityholders

For Securities being treated as debt securities and implying a static "use of capital" (impiego di capitale), capital gains realised by non-Italian resident Securityholders without a permanent establishment in the Republic of Italy to which the Securities are effectively connected from the sale or redemption of the Securities are not subject to Italian taxation, provided that the Securities are held outside Italy.

Capital gains realised by non-Italian resident Securityholders from the sale or redemption of Securities not traded on regulated markets and deposited with a bank, a SIM or certain authorised financial intermediary in Italy are not subject to the imposta sostitutiva, provided that the effective beneficiary: (a) is resident in a country which allows for a satisfactory exchange of information with Italy as listed in the Italian Ministerial Decree of 4 September 1996, as amended by Ministerial Decree of 23 April 2017 and possibly further amended by future decrees issued pursuant to Article 11(4)(c) of Decree 239 (the White List); (b) is an international entity or body set up in accordance with international agreements which have entered into force in Italy; (c) is a central bank or an entity which manages, inter alia, the official reserves of a foreign State; or (d) is an institutional investor which is incorporated in a country which is included in the White List, even if it does not possess the status of a taxpayer in its own country of incorporation.

In order to benefit from the tax exemption, non-resident investors who deposited the Securities with a bank, a SIM or certain authorised financial intermediaries in Italy must withdraw from the so-called risparmio amministrato regime - which provides for the application of an imposta sostitutiva separately on capital gains realised on each sale or redemption of the relevant Securities - and file with the relevant depository a statement in which the Securityholder declares to be eligible to benefit from the applicable exemption from imposta sostitutiva. Such statement, which is not requested for international bodies or entities set up in accordance with international agreements which have entered into force in Italy or in the case of foreign central banks or entities which manage the official reserves of a foreign State, must comply with the requirements set forth by Ministerial Decree of 12 December 2001.

If none of the conditions above is met, capital gains realised by non-Italian resident Securityholders in relation to Securities not traded on regulated markets and deposited with a bank, a SIM or certain authorised financial intermediary in Italy are subject to the imposta sostitutiva at the current rate of 26 per cent. In any event, non-Italian resident individuals or entities without a permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are connected, that may benefit from a double taxation treaty with Italy providing that capital gains realised upon the sale or redemption of Securities are to be taxed only in the country of tax residence of the recipient and comply with the relevant formalities, will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva in Italy on any capital gains realised upon the sale or redemption of Securities.

Tax treatment of derivative financial instruments

Payments in respect of Securities qualifying as securitised derivative financial instruments received by investors resident in Italy for tax purposes (not engaged in entrepreneurial activities to which the Securities are connected) as well as capital gains realised by such Italian Securityholders on any sale or transfer for consideration of the Securities or redemption thereof are subject to a 26 per cent. capital gain tax, which applies under the tax declaration regime, the risparmio amministrato tax regime or the risparmio gestito tax regime according to the same rules described above under the section "Capital Gains Tax" above.

Payments in respect of Securities qualifying as securitised derivative financial instruments received by investors resident in Italy for tax purposes which carry out commercial activities are not subject to the 26 per cent. capital gain tax, but the proceeds are included in their taxable income and subject to taxation in accordance with the ordinary rules.

Any capital gains realised by a Securityholder which is a Fund will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva, but will be included in the result of the relevant portfolio. Such result will not be taxed with the Fund, but subsequent distributions in favour of unitholders or shareholders may be subject to the Collective Investment Fund Tax.

Any capital gains realised by a Securityholder which is an Italian pension fund (subject to the regime provided for by Article 17 of Decree No. 252) will be included in the result of the relevant portfolio accrued at the end of the tax period, to be subject to the 20 per cent. substitute tax. Subject to certain conditions (including minimum holding period requirement) and limitations, capital gains realised upon sale or redemption of the Securities may be excluded from the taxable base of the 20 per cent. substitute tax if the Securities are included in a long-term savings account (piano di risparmio a lungo termine) that meets the requirements from time to time applicable set forth under Italian law.

Any capital gains realised by a Real Estate Investment Fund and Real Estate SICAF will be subject, if the relevant conditions are met, neither to substitute tax nor to any other income tax in the hands of such Real Estate Investment Fund or Real Estate SICAF.

Non-Italian resident Securityholders

Capital gains in respect of Securities qualifying as securitised derivative financial instruments realised by non-Italian Securityholders (not holding the Securities through a permanent establishment located in Italy) are not subject to Italian taxation, provided that the transactions are executed on regulated markets, or the other conditions set out in paragraph "Capital gains tax - non-Italian Securityholders" are met.

If none of the conditions above is met, capital gains realised by non-Italian resident Securityholders without a permanent establishment in the Republic of Italy to which the Securities are effectively connected from the sale or redemption of Securities are subject to the imposta sostitutiva at the current rate of 26 per cent. In any event, non-Italian resident individuals or entities without a permanent establishment in Italy to which the Securities are connected, that may benefit from a double taxation treaty with Italy providing that capital gains realised upon the sale or redemption of Securities are to be taxed only in the country of tax residence of the recipient and comply with the relevant formalities, will not be subject to imposta sostitutiva in Italy on any capital gains realised upon the sale or redemption of Securities.

Inheritance and gift taxes

Pursuant to Law Decree No. 262 of 3 October 2006, converted into Law No. 286 of 24 November 2006, the transfers of any valuable asset (including shares, bonds or other securities) as a result of death or donation are taxed as follows:

- (a) transfers in favour of spouses and direct descendants or direct ancestors are subject to an inheritance and gift tax applied at a rate of 4 per cent. on the value of the inheritance or the gift exceeding, for each beneficiary, Euro 1,000,000;
- (b) transfers in favour of relatives to the fourth degree or relatives-in-law to the third degree, are subject to an inheritance and gift tax applied at a rate of 6 per cent. on the entire value of the inheritance or the gift. Transfers in favour of brothers/sisters are subject to the 6 per cent. inheritance and gift tax on the value of the inheritance or the gift exceeding, for each beneficiary, Euro 100,000; and
- (c) any other transfer is, in principle, subject to an inheritance and gift tax applied at a rate of 8 per cent. on the entire value of the inheritance or the gift.

If the transfer is made in favour of persons with severe disabilities, the tax is levied at the rate mentioned in (a) to (c) above on the value exceeding, for each beneficiary, Euro 1,500,000.

The mortis causa transfers of financial instruments included in a long-term individual savings account (piano individuale di risparmio a lungo termine) – that meets the requirements from time to time applicable set forth under Italian law – are exempt from inheritance taxes.

Transfer Tax

Contracts relating to the transfer of securities are subject to the registration tax as follows: (i) public deeds and notarised deeds are subject to fixed registration tax at a rate of Euro 200; (ii) private deeds are subject to registration tax only in case of use (caso d'uso), explicit reference (enunciazione) or voluntary registration.

Stamp duty

Pursuant to Article 19(1) of Law Decree No. 201 of 6 December 2011 (the "Decree No. 201"), a proportional stamp duty applies on an annual basis to the periodic reporting communications sent by financial intermediaries to their clients for the Securities deposited therewith. The stamp duty applies at a rate of 0.2 per cent. and cannot exceed Euro 14,000 for taxpayers other than individuals; this stamp duty is determined on the basis of the market value or - if no market value figure is available - the nominal value or redemption amount of the Securities held.

Based on the wording of the law and the implementing decree issued by the Italian Ministry of Economy on 24 May 2012, the stamp duty applies to any investor who is a client (as defined in the regulations issued by the Bank of Italy on 29 July 2009, as subsequently amended, supplemented and restated) of an entity that exercises in any form a banking, financial or insurance activity within the Italian territory. The communication is deemed to be sent to the customers at least once a year, even for instruments for which it is not mandatory.

Wealth Tax on securities deposited abroad

Pursuant to Article 19(18) of Decree No. 201, Italian resident individuals holding the Securities outside the Italian territory are required to pay an additional tax at a rate of 0.2 per cent ("IVAFE"). Starting from 2020, Law No 160 of 27 December 2019 has provided for the extension of the application scope of IVAFE to Italian resident non-commercial entities, simple partnerships and equivalent entities, in addition to Italian resident individuals. IVAFE cannot exceed Euro 14,000 per year for taxpayers other than individuals.

This tax is calculated on the market value of the Securities at the end of the relevant year or, if no market value figure is available, the nominal value or the redemption value of such Securities held outside the Italian territory. Taxpayers are entitled to an Italian tax credit equivalent to the amount of wealth taxes paid in the State where the financial assets are held (up to an amount equal to the Italian wealth tax due).

Italian Financial Transaction Tax (IFTT)

Pursuant to Article 1(491 et seq) of Law No. 228 of 24 December 2012, a financial transaction tax (FTT) applies to (i) transfers of property rights in shares and other participating securities issued by Italian resident companies (together, the Relevant Participating Instruments); (ii) transfers of property rights in financial instruments representing any such Relevant Participating Instruments, whether or not such financial instruments are issued by Italian resident issuers (such financial instruments, together the Relevant Participating Instruments, the Relevant Instruments); and (iii) derivative transactions referencing Relevant Instruments (i.e. derivative transactions or derivative financial instruments and certain equity-linked securities having an underlying mainly represented by one or more of Relevant Instruments or whose value is mainly linked to the Relevant Instruments) including securitised derivatives referencing Relevant Instruments (e.g. certificates).

With respect to derivative transactions referencing Relevant Instruments including securitised derivatives the FTT applies regardless of the tax residence of both the counterparties of the transactions and/or where the transaction is executed. The FTT is levied at a fixed amount of between Euro 0.01875 and Euro 200 per transaction, which varies depending on the features and notional value of the securitised derivatives. Where a securitised derivative settled by physical settlement, the FTT is also due upon the transfer of the ownership rights in the underlying Relevant Instruments. A reduced FTT (one fifth of the standard rate) is payable in respect of transactions executed on certain qualifying regulated markets or multilateral trading facilities.

The FTT due in respect of derivative transactions referencing Relevant Instruments including securitised derivatives is payable by both counterparties to a transaction. However, the FTT does not apply where one of the parties to the transaction is the European Union, the ECB (European Central Bank), central banks of the EU Member States, foreign Central Banks or entities which manage the official reserves of a foreign State, or international bodies or entities set up in accordance with international agreements which have entered into force in Italy. Further specific exemptions exist including, inter alia, for (i) subjects who carry on market making activities; (ii) mandatory social security entities and pension funds set up according to Legislative Decree No. 252 of 5 December 2005; and (iii) entities merely interposed in the execution of a transaction.

The FTT is levied by the banks and other financial intermediaries (società fiduciarie e imprese di investimento abilitate all'esercizio professionale nei confronti del pubblico dei servizi e delle attività di investimento) (Intermediaries) that are involved, in any way, in the execution of the transaction and subsequently paid to the Italian Revenue. If more than one Intermediary is involved in the execution of the transaction, the FTT is levied by the Intermediary who receives the order of execution by the purchaser of the Relevant Instruments or, in the case of a derivative transaction or securitised derivative referencing a Relevant Instrument, by the counterparty to or purchaser of such derivative. Intermediaries not resident in Italy can appoint an Italian representative for the purposes of the FTT. If no Intermediaries are involved in the execution of the transaction, the relevant FTT must be paid by each relevant party to the transaction themselves.

NETHERLANDS TAXATION

The following summary outlines the principal Netherlands tax consequences of the acquisition, holding, settlement, redemption and disposal of Securities, but does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all Netherlands tax considerations that may be relevant. For purposes of Netherlands tax law, a holder of Securities may include an individual or entity who does not have the legal title to the relevant Securities, but to whom nevertheless such Securities or the income thereof is attributed based on specific statutory provisions or on the basis of such individual or entity having an interest in such Securities or the income thereof. This summary is intended as general information only for holders of Securities who are residents or deemed residents of the Netherlands for Netherlands tax purposes. This summary is intended as general information only and each prospective investor should consult a professional tax adviser with respect to the tax consequences of the acquisition, holding, settlement, redemption and disposal of any Securities.

This summary is based on tax legislation, published case law, treaties, regulations and published policy, in each case as in force as of the date of this Base Prospectus, and does not take into account any developments or amendments thereof after that date whether or not such developments or amendments have retroactive effect.

This summary does not address the Netherlands corporate and individual income tax consequences for:

- (i) Investment institutions (fiscale beleggingsinstellingen);
- (ii) Pension funds, exempt investment institutions (vrijgestelde beleggingsinstellingen) or other entities that are not subject to or exempt from Netherlands corporate income tax;
- (iii) holders of Securities holding a substantial interest (aanmerkelijk belang) or deemed substantial interest (fictief aanmerkelijk belang) in the relevant Issuer and holders of Securities of whom a certain related person holds a substantial interest in the relevant Issuer. Generally speaking, a substantial interest in the relevant Issuer arises if a person, alone or, where such person is an individual, together with his or her partner (statutory defined term), directly or indirectly, holds or is deemed to hold (a) an interest of 5 per cent. or more of the total issued capital of the relevant Issuer or of 5 per cent. or more of the issued capital of a certain class of shares of the relevant Issuer, (b) rights to acquire, directly or indirectly, such interest or (c) certain profit sharing rights in the relevant Issuer;
- (iv) persons to whom the Securities and the income from the Securities are attributed based on the separated private assets (afgezonderd particulier vermogen) provisions of the Netherlands Income Tax Act 2001 (Wet inkomstenbelasting 2001);
- (v) entities which are a resident of Aruba, Curacao or Sint Maarten that have an enterprise which is carried on through a permanent establishment or a permanent representative on Bonaire, Sint Eustatius or Saba, and such Securities are attributable to such permanent establishment or permanent representative; and
- (vi) individuals to whom Securities or the income therefrom are attributable to employment activities which are taxed as employment income in the Netherlands.

For the purpose of the Netherlands tax consequences described herein, it is assumed that the Issuers are neither residents of the Netherlands nor deemed to be residents of the Netherlands for Netherlands tax purposes nor have a permanent establishment in the Netherlands to which the Securities are attributed.

Where this summary refers to the Netherlands, such reference is restricted to the part of the Kingdom of the Netherlands that is situated in Europe and the legislation applicable in that part of the Kingdom.

Netherlands Withholding Tax

All payments made by the Issuers under Securities may be made free of withholding or deduction for any taxes of whatsoever nature imposed, levied, withheld or assessed by the Netherlands or any political subdivision or taxing authority thereof or therein.

Netherlands Corporate and Individual Income Tax

If a holder of Securities is a resident of the Netherlands or deemed to be a resident of the Netherlands for Netherlands corporate income tax purposes and is fully subject to Netherlands corporate income tax or is only subject to Netherlands corporate income tax in respect of an enterprise to which the Securities are attributable, income derived from the Securities and gains realised upon the redemption, settlement or disposal of the Securities are generally taxable in the Netherlands (at up to a maximum rate of 25 per cent.).

If an individual is a resident of the Netherlands or deemed to be a resident of the Netherlands for Netherlands individual income tax purposes, for individual income tax purposes income derived from the Securities and gains realised upon the redemption, settlement or disposal of the Securities are taxable at the progressive rates (at up to a maximum rate of 49.50 per cent.) under the Netherlands Income Tax Act 2001, if:

- (i) the individual is an entrepreneur (ondernemer) and has an enterprise to which the Securities are attributable or the individual has, other than as a shareholder, a co-entitlement to the net worth of an enterprise (medegerechtigde), to which enterprise the Securities are attributable; or
- (ii) such income or gains qualify as income from miscellaneous activities (resultaat uit overige werkzaamheden), which includes activities with respect to the Securities that exceed regular, active portfolio management (normaal, actief vermogensbeheer).

If neither condition (i) nor condition (ii) above applies, an individual that holds any Securities, must determine taxable income with regard to such Securities on the basis of a deemed return on savings and investments (sparen en beleggen), rather than on the basis of income actually received or gains actually realised. This deemed return on savings and investments is fixed at a percentage of the individual's yield basis (rendementsgrondslag) at the beginning of the calendar year (1 January), insofar as the individual's yield basis exceeds a certain threshold (heffingvrij vermogen). The individual's yield basis is determined as the fair market value of certain qualifying assets held by the individual less the fair market value of certain qualifying liabilities on 1 January. The fair market value of the Securities will be included as an asset in the individual's yield basis. The deemed return percentage to be applied to the yield basis increases progressively depending on the amount of the yield basis. The deemed return on income from savings and investments is taxed at a rate of 30 per cent.

Netherlands Gift and Inheritance Tax

Netherlands gift or inheritance taxes will not be levied on the occasion of the transfer of any Securities by way of gift by, or on the death of, a holder of such Securities, unless:

- (i) the holder of such Securities is, or is deemed to be, resident in the Netherlands for the purpose of the relevant provisions of the Netherlands gift and inheritance tax; or
- (ii) the transfer is construed as an inheritance or gift made by, or on behalf of, a person who, at the time of the gift or death, is or is deemed to be resident in the Netherlands for the purpose of the relevant provisions of the Netherlands gift and inheritance tax.

Netherlands Value Added Tax

In general, no value added tax will arise in respect of payments in consideration for the issue of Securities or in respect of a cash payment made under any Securities, or in respect of a transfer of any Securities.

Other Netherlands Taxes and Duties

No registration tax, customs duty, transfer tax, stamp duty or any other similar documentary tax or duty will be payable in the Netherlands by a holder in respect of or in connection with the subscription, issue, placement, allotment, delivery or transfer of any Securities.

NORWEGIAN TAXATION

Below is a summary of certain Norwegian tax considerations related to the purchase, holding and disposal of the Securities. The summary regarding Norwegian taxation is based on Norwegian laws, rules and regulations as they exist in force as of the date of this Base Prospectus. Such laws, rules and regulations may be subject to changes after this date possibly on a retroactive basis. The summary does not address tax issues in other jurisdictions than Norway.

The following summary is of a general nature and does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all the Norwegian tax considerations that may be relevant for a decision to acquire, own or dispose of Securities. Specific tax consequences may occur for different categories of Securityholders, e.g. if the Securityholder ceases to be tax resident in Norway etc.

Norwegian tax legislation does not currently include statutory legislation relating specifically to Securities. Instead, the tax treatment must be derived from general tax rules and principles applicable to capital income and capital gains. Norwegian tax law is to a large extent based on the substance-over-form principle. If the applicable Issue Terms includes conditions which are common to equity instruments and the relevant Securities, after an overall assessment, have characteristics closer to equity instruments rather than debt, the economic reality might overrule the formalities for income tax purposes. Thus the applicable Issue Terms may cause the taxation of the relevant Securities to depart from the tax treatment described in this summary. In the following, it is assumed that the Securities do not qualify as equity instruments for income tax purposes.

The summary is solely related to holders of Securities who are resident in Norway for tax purposes ("Norwegian Securityholders"). However, companies incorporated and resident abroad are liable to tax in Norway on distribution and gains from Securities in the same manner as Norwegian resident companies, to the extent the Securities are effectively connected to a business carried out in or managed from Norway.

Due to the general nature of this summary, potential investors are advised to consult with and rely on their own tax advisers.

Taxation on Distribution to the Securityholder

Norwegian Securityholders, both physical persons and corporations, are liable to tax in Norway on payments in respect of interest or similar payments on Securities classified as debentures for Norwegian tax purposes. The tax rate is currently 22 per cent. Return on the Securities is taxed on accrual basis, i.e. regardless of when the return is actually paid.

If a Security is repaid with a higher amount than the price at which it was issued (discounted bond), the excess amount shall be a part of the computation of the gain or loss when the Security is sold or redeemed.

Taxation on sale and redemption of Securities

Norwegian Securityholders, both physical persons and corporations, are taxable in Norway in respect of capital gains on the sale and redemption of Securities and have a corresponding right to deduct losses that arise from such redemption or realisation. The tax liability applies irrespective of how long the Securities have been owned and the number of Securities that have been redeemed or realised.

Any capital gain or loss is computed as the difference between the amount received by the Securityholder on realisation and the cost price for the Securities. The cost price is equal to the price for which the Securityholder acquired the Securities. Costs incurred in connection with the acquisition, redemption or realisation of the Security may be deducted from the Norwegian Securityholder's taxable ordinary income in the year of redemption or realisation.

Gains are taxable as ordinary income in the year of sale or redemption, and losses can be deducted from ordinary income in the year of sale or redemption. The tax rate for ordinary income is currently 22 per cent.

Norwegian Withholding tax

The Norwegian Ministry of Finance has presented a proposal of new rules regarding withholding tax rules on interest payments, that will apply on interests payments from entities with full or limited tax liability to Norway, to recipients being a related party to the payor and being tax resident in a low-tax jurisdiction. The new rules are expected to come into effect from 1 July 2021.

Norwegian withholding tax should not apply to payments in respect of interest or similar payments on Securities or on capital gains on sale or redemption of Securities, as the Issuer is not an entity with full or limited tax liability to Norway.

Net wealth tax

Norwegian Securityholders organised as limited liability companies and similar entities are not subject to net wealth taxation in Norway.

Norwegian Securityholders that are natural persons are subject to net wealth taxation in Norway. Securities are included as part of the taxable base for this purpose. The value for assessment purposes for listed securities is the quoted value on 1 January in the year of assessment. Unlisted bonds are generally valued at their estimated value on 1 January in the assessment year. The maximum aggregate rate of net wealth tax (both state and municipality net wealth tax) is currently 0.85 per cent.

Stamp duty

There is no stamp duty or other charges in Norway on the purchase, redemption or realisation of Securities.

Foreign taxes

Income taxes or capital gains taxes payable by Norwegian Securityholders in other jurisdictions, or withholding tax payable on redemption amounts in respect of the Securities, may be deducted when calculating the Norwegian tax payable on the same income. The deduction is limited, however, to the corresponding amount of Norwegian tax applicable. The right for both Norwegian and other jurisdictions to tax Norwegian Securityholders directly or through the application of withholding taxes may be limited by an applicable tax treaty.

Inheritance tax

Norway does not impose inheritance tax or similar tax on inheritance or gifts. However, an heir who has inherited Securities will acquire the donor's tax input value of the Securities based on principles of continuity and will be liable to pay tax on any increase in value of the Securities at the time of the heir's realisation of the Securities.

POLISH TAXATION*General Information*

The following is a discussion of certain Polish tax considerations relevant to an investor resident in Poland or which is otherwise subject to Polish taxation. This statement should not be deemed to be tax advice. It is based on Polish tax laws and, as its interpretation refers to the position as at the date of this Base Prospectus, it may thus be subject to change, including a change with retroactive effect. Any change may negatively affect the tax treatment, as described below. This description does not purport to be complete with respect to all tax information that may be relevant to investors due to their individual circumstances. Prospective purchasers of Securities are advised to consult their professional tax advisor regarding the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, disposal, redemption or transfer without consideration of Securities.

The reference to "interest" as well as to any other terms in the paragraphs below means "interest" or any other term, respectively, as understood in Polish tax law.

Taxation of a Polish tax resident individual

Under Art. 3.1 of the Personal Income Tax Act dated 26 July 1991 (the "PIT Act"), natural persons, if residing in the Republic of Poland, are liable for tax on their total income (revenue) irrespective of the location of the sources of revenue (unlimited obligation to pay tax).

Under Art. 3.1a of the PIT Act, a Polish tax resident individual is a natural person who (i) has his/her centre of personal or business interests located in Poland or (ii) stays in Poland for longer than 183 days in a year, unless any relevant tax treaty dictates otherwise.

(a) Withholding Tax on Interest Income

According to Article 30a.7 of the PIT Act, interest income, including discount, derived by a Polish tax resident individual does not cumulate with general income subject to the progressive tax rate but under Art. 30a.1.2 of the PIT Act is subject to 19 per cent. flat rate tax.

Under Art. 30a.9 of the PIT Act, withholding tax incurred outside Poland (including countries which have not concluded a tax treaty with Poland), up to an amount equal to the tax paid abroad, but not higher than 19 per cent. tax on the interest amount, could be deducted from the Polish tax liability. Particular double tax treaties can provide other methods of withholding tax settlements.

Under Article 41.4 of the PIT Act, the interest payer, other than an individual not acting within the scope of his/her business activity, should withhold the Polish 19 per cent. tax upon any interest payment.

Under Art. 41.4d of the PIT Act, the entities operating securities accounts for individuals, acting as tax remitters, should withhold this interest income if such interest income (revenue) has been earned in Poland and is connected with securities registered in said accounts, and the interest payment to the individual (the taxpayer) is made through those entities.

There are no regulations defining in which cases income earned (revenue) by a Polish tax resident should be considered income (revenue) earned in Poland. However, we can expect those cases to be analogous to those of non-residents. Pursuant to Art. 3.2b of the PIT Act, income (revenues) earned in the Republic of Poland by non-residents shall include in particular income (revenues) from:

1. work performed in the Republic of Poland based on a service relationship, employment relationship, outwork system and co-operative employment relationship irrespective of the place where remuneration is paid;
2. activity performed in person in the Republic of Poland irrespective of the place where remuneration is paid;
3. economic activity pursued in the Republic of Poland, including through a foreign establishment located in the Republic of Poland;
4. immovable property located in the Republic of Poland or rights to such property, including from its disposal in whole or in part, or from disposal of any rights to such property;
5. securities and derivatives other than securities, admitted to public trading in the Republic of Poland as part of the regulated stock exchange market, including those obtained from the disposal of these securities or derivatives, or the exercise of rights resulting from them;
6. the transfer of ownership of shares in a company, of all rights and obligations in a partnership without legal personality, or participation in an investment fund, a collective investment undertaking, or other legal entity or receivables being a consequence of holding those shares, rights and obligations or participation, if at least 50 per cent. of the value of assets of this company, partnership, investment fund, collective investment undertaking or legal entity is constituted, directly or indirectly, by immovable properties located in the Republic of Poland, or rights to such immovable properties;

7. the receivables settled, including receivables put at disposal, paid out or deducted, by natural persons, legal persons, or organisational units without legal personality, having their place of residence, registered office, or management board in the Republic of Poland, irrespective of the place of concluding and performing the agreement; and
8. unrealised gains as referred to in the exit tax regulations.

The above list is not exhaustive; therefore, the tax authorities may also consider that income (revenues) not listed above is sourced in Poland.

Given the above, each situation should be analysed to determine whether interest earned by a Polish tax resident individual from the Securities is considered to be income sourced in Poland and whether the entity operating the securities account for the individual will withhold the tax. Since the Issuer is not a Polish entity, as a rule, interest from the Securities should not be considered as earned in the territory of Poland, unless specific situation occurs (eg the Securities are admitted to public trading in Poland).

Although this is not clearly regulated in Polish tax law, according to the established practice, foreign entities do not act as Polish withholding tax remitters (save when such foreign entities operate by way of a branch that constitutes a tax establishment in Poland). Therefore, it should not be expected that the Issuer will collect the withholding tax.

According to Article 45.3b and Art. 45.1 of the PIT Act, if the tax is not withheld, the individual is obliged to settle the tax himself/herself by 30 April of the following year.

Separate, specific rules apply to interest income on securities held in Polish omnibus accounts (within the meaning of the provisions of the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, hereinafter "Omnibus Accounts"). Under Art. 41.10 of the PIT Act, insofar as securities registered in Omnibus Accounts are concerned, the entities operating Omnibus Accounts through which the amounts due are paid are liable to withhold the flat-rate income tax on interest income. The tax is charged on the day of placing the amounts due at the disposal of the Omnibus Account holder. This rule also applies to remitters who are payers of corporate income tax and are subject to limited tax liability in Poland, to the extent they conduct their business through a foreign establishment and it is to that establishment's operations that the securities account is linked.

Additionally, under Art. 30a.2a of the PIT Act, with respect to income (revenue) from interest transferred to taxpayers holding rights attached to securities (including the Securities referred to herein) registered in Omnibus Accounts whose identity has not been revealed to the tax remitter in accordance with the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, a 19 per cent. flat-rate tax is withheld by the tax remitter (under Art. 41.10 of the PIT Act the entity operating the Omnibus Account) from the aggregate income (revenue) released for the benefit of all such taxpayers through the Omnibus Account holder.

Under Art. 45.3c of the PIT Act, taxpayers are obliged to disclose the amount of interest (discount) on securities (including the Securities referred to herein) in the annual tax return if the Securities were registered in Omnibus Account and the taxpayer's identity was not revealed to the tax remitter.

Under Art. 30a.9 of the PIT Act, withholding tax incurred outside Poland (including countries which have not concluded a tax treaty with Poland), up to an amount equal to the tax paid abroad, but not higher than 19 per cent. tax on the interest amount, could be deducted from the Polish tax liability. Double tax treaties can provide other methods of withholding tax settlements.

(b) Income from Securities other than interest

Income other than interest, including income from transfer of Securities against a consideration, derived by a Polish tax resident individual from financial instruments, such as the Securities, held as non-business assets, qualify as capital income according to Article 17 of the Polish Personal Income Tax Act. Such income does not cumulate with the general income subject to the progressive tax scale but is subject to a 19 per cent. flat rate tax. Under Art. 30b.2. of the PIT Act the income from disposal of securities is calculated as the difference between the sum of revenues from a transfer of securities against a consideration and tax deductible costs, calculated on the basis of the relevant provisions of the PIT Act under Art. 30b.2. of the PIT Act. Based on Art. 17.2 and Art. 19.1 of the PIT Act, if the price expressed in the contract without a valid reason significantly deviates from the market value, the amount of income is determined by the tax authority or fiscal control authority in the amount of the market value. The taxpayer itself is obliged to settle the tax on the transfer of securities (including the Securities) against a consideration. Taxpayers should prepare their annual tax return by the end of April of the year following the tax year in which the income was earned.

(c) Securities held as business assets

If an individual holds the Securities as a business asset, in principle, interest should not be subject to withholding tax. In such case, interest (discount) and other income from the Securities should be treated as income from business activities and should be subject to tax in the same way as other business income. The tax, at 19 per cent. flat rate or the 17 per cent. to 32 per cent. progressive tax rate depending on the choice and meeting of certain conditions, should be settled by the individuals themselves.

Taxation of a Polish tax resident corporate income taxpayer

Under Art. 3.1 of the Corporate Income Tax Act dated 15 February 1992 (the CIT Act) the entire income of taxpayers who have their registered office or management in Poland is subject to tax obligation in Poland, irrespective of where the income is earned.

Income (revenue) from the Securities, both on account of interest/discount and other income, including transfer of securities against a consideration, earned by a Polish tax resident corporate income taxpayer whose entire income is subject to tax liability in Poland, is subject to income tax following the same general principles as those which apply to any other income received from business activity within the same source of income. As a rule, for Polish income tax purposes, interest is recognised as revenue on a cash basis, ie when it is received and not when it has accrued. Income from a transfer of securities against a consideration is in principle their value expressed in the price specified in the contract. According to Art. 14 of the CIT Act, if the price expressed in the contract, without a valid reason, significantly deviates from the market value, the revenue amount is determined by the tax authority in the amount of the market value. In the case of income from the transfer of securities against a consideration, tax deductible costs are generally recognized when the corresponding revenue has been achieved. The taxpayer itself (without the remitter's participation) settles income tax on interest/discount and on the transfer of securities against a consideration, which is settled along with other income from the taxpayer's business activity within the same source of income.

Regarding the proper source of revenue, in principle, the income (revenue) from the Securities, including their transfer against a consideration, is combined with revenues from capital gains (Art. 7b.1 of the CIT Act). In the case of insurers, banks and some other entities (financial institutions), this revenue is included in revenues other than revenues from capital gains (Art. 7b (2) of the CIT Act).

The appropriate tax rate is the same as the tax rate applicable to business activity, i.e. 19 per cent. for a regular corporate income taxpayer or 9 per cent. for small and new taxpayers.

Although, in principle, no Polish withholding tax should apply on interest payable to Polish corporate income taxpayers, under specific rules applying to interest income on securities held in Omnibus Accounts, under Art. 26.2a of the CIT Act, for income (revenue) from interest transferred to taxpayers holding rights attached to securities registered in Omnibus Accounts whose identity has not been revealed to the tax remitter in accordance with the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, a 20 per cent flat-rate tax is withheld by the tax remitter from the aggregate income (revenue) released for the benefit of all such taxpayers through the Omnibus Account holder. If such tax is withheld for a Polish tax resident corporate income taxpayer, to receive a refund of such tax, the entity should contact its tax advisor.

Any withholding tax incurred outside Poland (including countries which have not concluded any tax treaty with Poland), up to an amount equal to the tax paid abroad, but not higher than the tax calculated in accordance with the applicable domestic tax rate, can be deducted from the Polish tax liability. Double tax treaties can provide other methods of withholding tax settlements.

Securities held by a non-Polish tax resident (natural person or corporation)

Under Art. 3.2a of the PIT Act, natural persons, if they do not reside in Poland, are liable to pay tax only on income (revenue) earned in Poland (limited obligation to pay tax).

Under Art. 3.2 of the CIT Act, in the case of taxpayers who do not have their registered office or management in Poland, only the income they earn in Poland is subject to tax obligation in Poland.

Non-Polish residents are subject to Polish income tax only with respect to their income earned in Poland. Under Art. 3.3 of the CIT Act, income (revenues) earned in the Republic of Poland by non-residents shall include in particular income (revenues) from:

1. all types of activity pursued in the Republic of Poland, including through a foreign establishment located in the Republic of Poland;
2. immovable property located in the Republic of Poland or rights to such property, including from its disposal in whole or in part, or from the disposal of any rights to such property;
3. securities and derivatives other than securities, admitted to public trading in the Republic of Poland as part of the regulated stock exchange market, including those obtained from the disposal of these securities or derivatives, or the exercise of rights resulting from them;
4. the transfer of ownership of shares in a company, of all rights and obligations in a partnership without legal personality, or participation in an investment fund or a collective investment undertaking, or other legal entity or receivables being a consequence of holding those shares, rights and obligations or participation, if at least 50 per cent. of the value of assets of this company, partnership, investment fund, collective investment undertaking or legal entity is constituted, directly or indirectly, by immovable properties located in the Republic of Poland, or rights to such immovable properties;
5. the receivables settled, including receivables put at disposal, paid out or deducted, by natural persons, legal persons, or organisational units without legal personality, having their place of residence, registered office, or management board in the Republic of Poland, irrespective of the place of concluding or performing the agreement; and
6. unrealised gains referred to in the exit tax chapter.

Similar provisions are included in Art. 3.2b of the PIT Act.

It should be noted that the list of incomes (revenues) gained in Poland, as provided in Art. 3.3. of the CIT Act and Art. 3.2b of the PIT Act is not exhaustive, therefore, other income (revenues) may also be considered as earned in Poland.

Given the above, each situation should be analysed to determine whether interest earned by a Polish tax resident from the Securities is considered to be income sourced in Poland. However, since the Issuer is not a Polish entity, income from the Securities should not be considered as earned in Poland and no Polish withholding tax should apply, unless specific circumstances occur, eg the Securities are admitted to public trading in Poland.

If income from the Securities is considered as sourced in Poland, the following applies:

- (a) Special exemption for Securities meeting special conditions

Under Art. 17.1.50c of the CIT Act, tax-free income is income earned by a CIT taxpayer subject to limited tax liability in Poland in respect of interest or a discount on securities:

- (i) having a maturity of at least one year;
- (ii) admitted to trading on a regulated market or introduced into an alternative trading system within the meaning of the Act of 29 July 2005 on Trading in Financial Instruments, in the territory of

Poland or in the territory of a state that is a party to a double tax convention concluded with Poland which regulates the taxation of income from dividends, interest and royalties; unless the taxpayer is an affiliate, within the meaning of the transfer pricing law, of the Issuer of such securities, and holds, directly or indirectly, together with other affiliates within the meaning of those regulations, more than 10% of the nominal value of those securities.

Under Art. 26.1aa-1ac of the CIT Act, remitters are not obliged to withhold tax on interest or discount in respect of the securities meeting the above requirements, provided that the Issuer submits to the tax authority a declaration that it has acted with due diligence in informing affiliates, within the meaning of the transfer pricing provisions, about the exemption conditions applying to those affiliates. The declaration is made once in relation to a given issue of securities, not later than the date of the payment of interest or discount on the securities.

Analogous provisions apply to personal income tax (Art. 21.1.130c and Art. 41.24-26 of the PIT Act).

(b) Failure to meet the conditions for a special exemption

In the absence of the exemption referred to above, the following rules apply.

In the case of taxpayers subject to limited tax liability in Poland, the interest (discount) on the Securities earned in the Polish territory is taxed as a general rule at a flat rate of 20 per cent. in the case of corporate income tax payers (Art. 21.1.1 of the CIT Act) or 19 per cent. in the case of natural persons (Art. 30a.1.2 of the PIT Act). Under Art. 26.1 of the CIT Act, interest payers, other than individuals not acting within the scope of their business activity, should withhold this tax and a similar provisions are provided in Art. 41.4 of the PIT Act.

Under Art. 26.2c.1 of the CIT Act, the entities operating securities accounts and Omnibus Accounts for taxpayers, acting as tax remitters, should withhold this interest income if such interest income (revenue) was earned in Poland and is connected with securities registered in said accounts, and the interest payment to the taxpayer is made through said entities. Although it is considered that foreign entities do not act as Polish tax remitters, according to the discussed provision, this obligation applies to non-residents to the extent they operate a permanent establishment in Poland and the account, on which securities are registered, is linked to the activity of this permanent establishment. Similar provisions concerning interest payments to individuals are provided in Art. 41.4d of the PIT Act.

The described rules of taxation may be modified by the relevant provisions of double tax treaties concluded by Poland, based on which a reduced tax rate or income tax exemption may apply to income (revenue) obtained from interest/discount (Art. 21.2 of the CIT Act, Art. 30a.2 of the PIT Act). To benefit from the tax rate or income tax exemption under the tax treaty, the taxpayer should present a valid certificate of its tax residence. As a rule, the tax residence certificate is considered valid for twelve consecutive months from its date of issue.

Moreover, many tax treaties provide protection only for beneficial owners. Pursuant to Art. 4a.29 of the CIT Act and, respectively, Art. 5a.33d of the PIT Act, beneficial owner means an entity meeting all of the following conditions:

- (a) it receives the amount due for its own benefit, which includes deciding independently about its purpose, and bears the economic risk associated with the loss of that receivable or part of it;
- (b) it is not an intermediary, representative, trustee, or another entity legally or actually obliged to transfer the receivable in whole or in part to another entity; and
- (c) it conducts real business activity in the country of its registration, if the receivables are obtained in connection with the conducted business activity.

The majority of double tax treaties concluded by Poland provide for an exemption from income tax on capital gains, including income from the sale of securities obtained in Poland by a tax resident of a given country.

Separate, specific rules apply to interest income on securities held in Omnibus Accounts. Also, in cases where Polish withholding tax should not apply on interest payable to non-Polish tax residents (natural persons or corporate income taxpayers), under specific rules applicable to interest income on securities held in Omnibus Accounts there is a risk that such tax would be withheld. Under Art. 26.2a of the CIT Act, with respect to income (revenue) from interest transferred to taxpayers holding rights attached to securities registered in Omnibus Accounts whose identity has not been revealed to the tax remitter in accordance with the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, a 20 per cent. flat-rate tax is withheld by the tax remitter from the aggregate income (revenue) released for the benefit of all such taxpayers through the Omnibus Account holder. Under Art. 30a.2a of the PIT Act, with respect to income (revenue) from interest transferred to taxpayers holding rights attached to securities registered in Omnibus Accounts whose identity has not been revealed to the tax remitter in accordance with the Act on Trading in Financial Instruments, a 19 per cent. flat-rate tax is withheld by the tax remitter from the aggregate income (revenue) released for the benefit of all such taxpayers through the Omnibus Account holder. If such tax is withheld for non-Polish tax resident taxpayers, to receive a refund of such tax, the entity should contact its tax advisor.

If a person or an entity subject to limited tax liability in Poland acts through a foreign establishment in Poland to which income is related, as a matter of principle provisions of law should apply that are analogous to taxpayers subject to unlimited tax liability in Poland, with some necessary additional requirements (eg the requirement to present the interest payer with a certificate of tax residence along with a declaration that the interest is related to the establishment's activities).

Special provisions on withholding tax on large payments

(a) Corporate income tax

Under Art. 26.2e of the CIT Act, if the total amount paid out on account of the items listed in Art. 21.1 of the CIT Act (including interest / discount on securities) and Art. 22.1 of the CIT Act to the same taxpayer exceeds PLN 2,000,000 in the tax year of the payer, payers are, as a general rule, required to withhold, on the day of payment, a flat-rate income tax at the basic rate (20 per cent. in the case of interest/discount on securities) from the excess over that amount, without being able not to withhold that tax on the basis of an appropriate double tax treaty, and also without taking into account exemptions or rates resulting from special regulations or double tax treaties (hereinafter the Obligation to Withhold Tax).

Under Art. 26.2i and 26.2j of the CIT Act, if the payer's tax year is longer or shorter than 12 months, the amount to which the Obligation to Withhold Tax applies is calculated by multiplying 1/12 of PLN 2,000,000 and the number of months that have begun in the tax year in which the payment was made; if the calculation of that amount is not possible by reference to the payer's tax year, the Obligation to Withhold Tax shall apply accordingly to the payer's current financial year and, in its absence, with respect to the payer's other period with features specific to the financial year, not longer however than 23 consecutive months.

Under Art. 26.2k of the CIT Act, if the payment was made in a foreign currency, to determine whether the amount to which the Obligation to Withhold Tax applies was exceeded, the amounts paid are converted into PLN at the average exchange rate published by the National Bank of Poland on the last business day preceding the payment day.

Under Art. 26.2l of the CIT Act, if it is not possible to determine the amount paid to the same taxpayer, it is presumed that it exceeded the amount from which the Obligation to Withhold Tax applies.

Under Art. 26.7a of the CIT Act, the Obligation to Withhold Tax does not apply if the payer has declared that:

- (i) it holds the documents required by the tax law for the application of the tax rate or tax exemption or non-taxation under special regulations or double tax treaties;
- (ii) after the verification of the conditions to apply an exemption or reduced withholding tax rate resulting from special regulations or double tax treaties, it is not aware of any grounds for the assumption that there are circumstances that exclude the possibility of applying the tax rate or tax exemption or non-taxation under special regulations or double tax treaties, in particular it is not aware of the existence of circumstances preventing the fulfilment of certain conditions referred to in other regulations, including the fact that the interest/discount recipient is their beneficial owner and, if the interest/discount is obtained in connection with the business activity conducted by the taxpayer, that in the country of tax residence the taxpayer carries on the actual business activity.

The above is to be declared by the head of the unit within the meaning of the Accounting Act (eg the Issuer's management board), specifying his/her position. The declaration cannot be made by proxy. The declaration is to be made by in electronic form not later than the payment day (Art. 26.7b and 26.7c of the CIT Act).

In the case of withholding tax as a result of the Obligation to Withhold Tax, if double tax treaties or special regulations provide for a tax exemption or reduced tax rate, the taxpayer or tax remitter (if the taxpayer has paid tax with its own funds and has borne the economic burden of such tax, eg as a result of a gross-up clause) may apply for a refund of that tax by submitting the relevant documents and declarations. When recognizing that the refund is justified, the tax authorities shall carry it out within six months.

Pursuant to the Regulation of the Minister of Finance dated 31 December 2018 regarding the exclusion or limited application of Art. 26.2e of the CIT Act (the Regulation), the application of the Obligation to Withhold Tax is excluded inter alia in relation to the following interest/discount payments:

- (i) to central banks not having their registered office or management in the territory of the Republic of Poland, obtained from interest or discount on treasury bonds issued by the State Treasury on the domestic market and acquired from 7 November 2015;
- (ii) to economic units established by a state administration body jointly with other States under an agreement or contract, unless those agreements or contracts provide otherwise;
- (iii) to international organizations of which the Republic of Poland is a member;
- (iv) to entities with which the Republic of Poland has concluded cooperation agreements, if they have been exempted from corporate income tax on the receivables in question; and
- (v) to entities exempt from corporate income tax, provided that their name is indicated in double tax treaties to which the Republic of Poland is a party.

In addition, until 31 December 2020, the Obligation to Withhold Tax is excluded in respect of interest/discount on securities for taxpayers having their registered office or management in the territory of a state being a party to a double tax treaty with the Republic of Poland which regulates the taxation of income from dividends, interest and royalties, if there is a legal basis for exchanging tax information with the state of the taxpayer's registered office or management.

It should be noted that payments made in 2020, but before 31 December 2020, that are excluded from the Obligation to Withhold Tax under the Regulation, will be included in the above-mentioned limit from which the Obligation to Withhold Tax applies, in relation to payments made after 31 December 2020.

The Obligation to Withhold Tax does not apply in the case of the special exemption applicable to Securities meeting certain conditions referred to in the section Special exemption for Securities meeting special conditions above, provided that the Issuer submits to the tax authority a declaration that the Issuer has observed due diligence in informing its affiliates, within the meaning of the provisions on transfer pricing, about the terms of that exemption in relation to those affiliates. The declaration is made once in relation to a given issue of Securities, by no later than the date of the payment of interest or discount on the Securities.

(b) Personal income tax

Analogous provisions apply to personal income tax, including Art. 41.12 of the PIT Act which provides for an analogous tax withholding obligation, while the Regulation of the Minister of Finance of 31 December 2018 regarding the exclusion or limited application of Art. 41.12 of the PIT Act is the equivalent of the Regulation.

PORTUGUESE TAXATION

The following is a summary of the current Portuguese tax treatment at the date hereof in relation to certain aspects of payments of principal and income in respect of Securities. The statements do not deal with other Portuguese tax aspects regarding Securities and relate only to the position of persons who are absolute beneficial owners of Securities. The following is a general guide, does not constitute tax or legal advice and should be treated with appropriate caution. Securityholders who are in any doubt as to their tax position should consult their professional advisers.

The reference to "investment income" and "capital gains" in the paragraphs below means "investment income" and "capital gains" as understood in Portuguese tax law. The statements below do not take any account of any different definitions of "investment income" or "capital gains" which may prevail under any other law or which may be created by the Conditions of the Securities or any related documentation.

Gains obtained with the repayment of Securities are qualified as capital gains for Portuguese tax purposes.

Note holder's Income Tax

Income generated by the holding ("distributions") and disposal of Notes is generally subject to the Portuguese tax regime for debt securities (obrigações).

Economic benefits derived from amortisation, reimbursement premiums and other types of remuneration arising from Notes are designated as investment income (rendimentos de capital) for Portuguese tax purposes.

Certificate holder's income tax

The positive difference, if any, between the minimum amount guaranteed and the subscription price of certificates qualifies as investment income (rendimentos de capital), which is subject to personal income tax and corporate income tax in Portugal and is also subject to withholding tax in Portugal (further details regarding the regime applicable in such circumstances are set out below).

Any income arising from certificates that do not guarantee a minimum income to the certificate holders qualifies under Portuguese tax law as a capital gain, and therefore is subject to the regime set out below.

Under current Portuguese law, investment income payments in respect of Securities made to Portuguese tax resident companies are included in their taxable income and are subject to a Portuguese corporate income tax at a rate of (i) 21 per cent. or (ii) if the taxpayer is a small or medium enterprise as established in Decree-Law no. 372/2007, of 6 November 2007, 17 per cent. for taxable profits up to €25,000 and 21 per cent. on profits in excess thereof, to which may be added a municipal surcharge (derrama municipal) of up to 1.5 per cent. over the Portuguese corporate Securityholders' taxable profits, where applicable. Corporate taxpayers with a taxable income of more than €1,500,000 are also subject to a state surcharge (derrama estadual) of (i) 3 per cent. on the part of the taxable profits exceeding €1,500,000 up to €7,500,000, (ii) 5 per cent. on the part of the taxable profits exceeding €7,500,000 up to €35,000,000, and (iii) 9 per cent. on the part of the taxable profits that exceeds €35,000,000.

As regards to investment income on Securities made to Portuguese tax resident individuals, they are subject to personal income tax which shall be withheld at the current final withholding rate of 28 per cent. if there is a Portuguese resident paying agent, unless the individual elects to include it in his taxable income, subject to tax at the current progressive rates of up to 48 per cent. An additional income tax rate will be due on the part of the taxable income exceeding €80,000 as follows: (i) 2.5 per cent. on the part of the taxable income exceeding €80,000 up to €250,000, and (ii) 5 per cent. on the remaining part (if any) of the taxable income exceeding €250,000.

Investment income payments due by non-resident entities to Portuguese tax resident individuals are subject to an autonomous taxation at a rate of 28 per cent. whenever those payments are not subject to Portuguese withholding tax unless the individual elects to include it in his taxable income, subject to tax at the current progressive rates of up to 48 per cent. An additional income tax rate will be due on the part of the taxable income exceeding €80,000 as follows: (i) 2.5 per cent. on the part of the taxable income exceeding €80,000 up to €250,000, and (ii) 5 per cent. on the remaining part (if any) of the taxable income exceeding €250,000.

Investment income paid or made available to accounts opened in the name of one or more accountholders acting on behalf of one or more unidentified third parties is subject to a final withholding tax rate of 35 per cent., unless the relevant beneficial owner(s) of the income is/are identified and as a consequence the tax rates applicable to such beneficial owner(s) will apply.

None of the relevant Issuer, where the relevant Issuer is CGMHI, the CGMHI Guarantor and, where the relevant Issuer is CGMFL, the CGMFL Guarantor, as the case may be, are responsible for withholding at source any amount in respect of Portuguese withholding tax, whenever applicable, on payments of investment income arising from the Securities.

Payments of principal on Securities are not subject to Portuguese withholding tax. For these purposes, principal shall mean all payments carried out without any income component.

Capital Gains

Under current Portuguese law, capital gains obtained by Portuguese tax resident companies on the disposal of Securities issued by non-resident entities are included in their taxable income and are subject to corporate income tax rate at a rate of (i) 21 per cent. or (ii) if the taxpayer is a small or medium enterprise as established in Decree-Law no. 372/2007, of 6 November 2007, 17 per cent. for taxable profits up to €25,000 and 21 per cent. on profits in excess thereof, to which is added a municipal surcharge of up to 1.5 per cent. over the Portuguese corporate Securityholders' taxable profits, where applicable. Corporate taxpayers with a taxable income of more than €1,500,000 are also subject to a state surcharge (derrama estadual) of (i) 3 per cent. on the part of the taxable profits exceeding €1,500,000 up to €7,500,000, (ii) 5 per cent. on the part of the taxable profits exceeding €7,500,000 up to €35,000,000, And (iii) 9 per cent. on the part of the taxable profits that exceeds €35,000,000.

Capital gains obtained by individuals who are resident in Portugal for tax purposes on the disposal of Securities are subject to a special tax rate of 28 per cent., levied on the positive difference between the capital gains and capital losses of each year unless the individual opts to include the income in his taxable income, subject to tax at the current progressive rates of up to 48 per cent. An additional income tax rate will be due on the part of the taxable income exceeding €80,000 as follows: (i) 2.5 per cent. on the part of the taxable income exceeding €80,000 up to €250,000, and (ii) 5 per cent. on the remaining part (if any) of the taxable income exceeding €250,000.

No Portuguese withholding tax applies on capital gains.

Administrative cooperation in the field of taxation

The Council Directive 2014/107/EU of 9 December 2014 regarding the mandatory automatic exchange of information in the field of taxation was transposed into the Portuguese Law through the Decree-Law no. 64/2016, of 11 October, which has been amended by Law no. 98/2017, of 24 August, and by Law no. 17/2019, of 14 February. Under such law, the Issuer will be required to collect information regarding certain accountholders and report such information to Portuguese Tax Authorities – which, in turn, will report such information to the relevant Tax Authorities of EU Member States or third States which have signed the Multilateral Competent Authority Agreement on Automatic Exchange of Financial Account Information for the Common Reporting Standard.

Under Council Directive 2014/107/EU, of 9 December 2014, financial institutions are required to report to the tax authorities of their respective Member State (for the exchange of information with the state of residence) information regarding bank accounts, including custodial accounts, held by individual persons residing in a different Member State or entities which are controlled by one or more individual persons residing in a different Member State, after having applied the due diligence rules foreseen in the Directive. The information refers to the account balance at the end of the calendar year, income paid or credited in the account and the proceeds from the sale or redemption of the financial assets paid or credited in the account during the calendar year to which the financial institution acted as custodian, broker, nominee, or otherwise as an agent for the account holder, among others.

In view of the regime enacted by Decree-Law no. 64/2016, of 11 October, which was amended by Law no. 98/2017, of 24 August and Law no. 17/2019 of 14 February 2019, all information regarding the registration of the financial institution, the procedures to comply with the reporting obligations arising thereof and the applicable forms were approved by Ministerial Order (Portaria) no. 302-B/2016, of 2 December 2016, as amended by Ministerial Order (Portaria) no. 282/2018, of 19 October 2018, Ministerial Order (Portaria) no. 302-C/2016, of 2 December 2016, Ministerial Order (Portaria) no. 302-D/2016, of 2 December 2016, as amended by Ministerial Order no. 255/2017, of 14 August and by Ministerial Order (Portaria) no. 58/2018, of 27 February 2018 and Ministerial Order (Portaria) no. 302-E/2016, of 2 December 2016.

FATCA

Portugal has implemented, through Law 82-B/2014, of 31 December 2014 and Decree Law 64/2016, of 11 of October 2016, which has been amended by Law no. 98/2017, of 24 August, and by Law no. 17/2019, of 14 February, the legislation based on the reciprocal exchange of information with the United States of America on financial accounts subject to disclosure in order to comply with Sections 1471 through 1474 of FATCA. In this regard, the United States of America and Portugal have signed on 6 August 2015 an intergovernmental agreement (IGA). The IGA entered into force on 10 August 2016, and through Decree-Law no. 64/2016, of 11 October 2016, which was amended by Law no. 98/2017, of 24 August 2017, and Law no. 17/2019 of 14 February 2019, the Portuguese government approved the complementary regulation required to comply with FATCA. Under this legislation the Issuer is required to obtain information regarding certain accountholders and report such information to the Portuguese tax authorities, which, in turn, will report such information to the IRS. The exchange of information shall be made by 31 July of each year comprising the information gathered respecting the previous year.

SPANISH TAXATION

The following is a summary of the main Spanish tax implications deriving from the ownership, transfer, redemption or reimbursement of the Securities referred to in this Base Prospectus by individuals or legal persons who are resident in Spain for tax purposes and by Spanish Non-Resident Income Tax ("NRIT") taxpayers acting, with respect to the Securities, through a permanent establishment in Spain.

This summary is based on the Spanish law in force as of the date of approval of this Base Prospectus and on the administrative interpretations thereof, and therefore is subject to any changes in such laws and interpretations thereof occurring after that date, including changes having retroactive effect. In particular, this description is based on the provisions established in the Individual Income Tax Law (the "IIT Law") (Law 35/2006, of 28 November 2006, as amended), the Corporate Income Tax Law (the "CIT Law") (Law 27/2014, of 27 November 2014) and in the Consolidated Text of the NRIT Law (the "NRIT Law") (approved by Royal Legislative Decree 5/2004, of 5 March 2004, as amended) and does not take into consideration any special regime applied by individuals or legal persons (such as financial entities, exempt entities, cooperatives, individuals who acquire the Securities by reason of employment, pension funds, collective investment in transferrable securities or look-through entities).

In addition, the following section does not cover those tax laws in force in the Spanish Basque provinces and Navarra as well as the particularities in force in the Spanish autonomous communities (comunidades autónomas), or the special rules applicable to transactions among related persons for Spanish tax purposes.

Accordingly, this summary is for general information only and does not purport to be a tax advice, thus prospective investors in the Securities should consult their own tax advisors as to the applicable tax consequences of their purchase, ownership and disposition of the Securities, including the effect of tax laws of any other jurisdiction, based on their particular circumstances. Also prospective investors should note that the appointment by an investor in Securities, or any person through which an investor holds Securities, of a custodian, collection agent or similar person in relation to such Securities in any jurisdiction may have tax implications. Prospective investors should consult their own tax advisors in relation to the tax consequences for them of any such appointment. For the purposes of our analysis, we have assumed that the relevant Issuer is, in the case of Citigroup Inc. and CGMHI, a company resident for tax purposes in the United States and for the purposes of the Convention between the Kingdom of Spain and the United States for the Avoidance of Double Taxation and the Prevention of Fiscal Evasion with respect to Taxes on Income signed on 22 February 1990, as amended in October 2019, and entitled to its benefits, and, in the case of CGMFL, is resident for tax purposes in Luxembourg and for the purposes of the Convention between the Kingdom of Spain and the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg for the avoidance of Double Taxation with respect to Taxes on Income and on Capital and the Prevention of Fiscal Fraud and Evasion signed on 4 August 1987, as amended, and entitled to its benefits, that the Issuers do not act with respect to the Securities through a permanent establishment in Spain, that the proceeds of the Securities are not used in Spain by the Issuers, and that the investors in the Securities are resident in Spain for tax purposes or NRIT taxpayers acting, with respect to such Securities, through a permanent establishment in Spain.

Spanish tax resident individuals

(a) Individual Income Tax ("IIT") (Impuesto sobre la Renta de las Personas Físicas)

The Spanish IIT is regulated by the IIT Law and supplemented by the IIT Regulations approved by Royal Decree 439/2007, of 30 March 2007, as amended (the IIT Regulations).

The Securities are deemed securities (activos financieros), in accordance with the definition set forth in Article 91 of the IIT Regulations and its interpretation by the Spanish tax authorities, and hence the rules provided with regard to securities must be taken into consideration.

According to Article 25.2 of the IIT Law and its interpretation by the Spanish tax authorities, interest as well as income arising on the transfer, redemption or reimbursement of the Securities obtained by individuals who are resident in Spain for tax purposes will be deemed income from movable property and therefore will be included in the investor's IIT savings taxable base and taxed, together with the other savings income obtained by such investor in that same tax year, at a flat tax rate of 19 per cent. up to EUR6,000, 21 per cent. for taxable income between EUR6,000.01 to EUR50,000 and 23 per cent. for taxable income in excess of EUR50,000.

As a general rule, income earned by Spanish resident individuals under the Securities should qualify as interest payments. In general, interest payments obtained by Spanish resident individuals should be subject to withholding tax at a 19 per cent. rate on account of IIT (creditable against final tax liability).

Notwithstanding the above, as non-resident in Spain entities not acting through a permanent establishment are not bound to withhold on account of IIT on payments made to Spanish resident individuals, interest payments under the Securities should be only subject to withholding tax in Spain in case they are deposited in a depositary entity or individual resident in Spain (or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) or if an entity or individual resident in Spain (or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) is in charge of the collection of the income derived from the Securities, provided that such income had not been previously subject to withholding tax in Spain.

However, when the Securities (i) are represented in book-entry form; (ii) are admitted to trading on a Spanish secondary stock exchange; and (iii) generate explicit yield, holders can benefit from a withholding tax exemption in respect of the income arising from the transfer or reimbursement of the Securities, save in respect of income derived from accounts entered into with financial institutions, provided that such accounts are based on financial instruments, such as the Securities. However, under certain circumstances, when a transfer of the Securities has occurred within the 30-day period immediately preceding any relevant coupon payment date such holders may not be eligible for such withholding tax exemption.

Holders of Securities shall compute the gross interest obtained in the taxable base of the tax period in which it is due, including amounts withheld, if any. Income arising on the transfer, redemption or reimbursement of Securities will be calculated as the difference between (i) the transfer, redemption or reimbursement value of such Securities (deducting the additional costs and expenses incurred in the transfer, if they are duly justified) and (ii) their acquisition or subscription value (adding the additional costs and expenses incurred in the acquisition, if they are duly justified).

Should a holder of Securities acquire homogeneous securities within the two-month period prior or subsequent to the transfer of such Securities, negative income that may derive from such transfer cannot be included in his or her IIT taxable base until the homogeneous securities are transferred.

The net taxable income related to interest derived from the Securities shall be determined by deducting the management and deposit expenses from the gross income, excluding those pertaining to discretionary or individual portfolio management.

Additionally, tax credits for the avoidance of international double taxation in accordance with the IIT Law or any applicable convention for the avoidance of double taxation entered into by Spain may apply in respect of taxes paid abroad, if any, on income deriving from Securities.

(b) Net Wealth Tax (Net Wealth Tax) (Impuesto sobre el Patrimonio)

Only individual holders of Securities would be subject to the Net Wealth Tax as legal persons are not taxable persons under Net Wealth Tax.

Relevant taxpayers will be individuals who have their habitual residence in Spain regardless of the place where their assets or rights are located or could be exercised, and non-Spanish resident individuals owning assets or rights which are located or could be exercised in Spain whose net wealth is higher than EUR 700,000, as this amount is considered as exempt from Net Wealth Tax.

Taxpayers should include in their Net Wealth Tax self-assessment the Securities (assuming they qualify as debt instruments) for the following amounts:

- (i) if they are listed in an official market, the average negotiation value of the fourth quarter; and
- (ii) in other case, its nominal value (including redemption premiums).

The value of the Securities together with the rest of the taxpayer's wealth, once reduced by the deductible in rem liens and encumbrances which reduce the rights and assets values and the personal debts of the taxpayer, shall be taxed at a tax rate between 0.2 to 2.5 per cent.

Finally, please note that the Spanish regions are entitled to modify (i) the threshold of net wealth exempt from taxation; (ii) the tax rates; and (iii) the tax benefits and exemptions to be applied in their territory.

(c) Inheritance and Gift Tax ("IGT") (Impuesto sobre Sucesiones y Donaciones)

Individuals resident in Spain for tax purposes who acquire Securities by inheritance or gift will be subject to the Spanish IGT in accordance with the IGT Law (Ley 29/1987, de 18 de diciembre, del Impuesto sobre Sucesiones y Donaciones), without prejudice to the specific legislation applicable in each autonomous region. The effective tax rate, after applying all relevant factors, ranges from 0 per cent. to 81.6 per cent. depending on the region, the amount of the gift or inheritance, the net wealth of the heir or donee, and the kinship with the deceased or the donor.

Please bear in mind that, in case the Securities are deemed to be exercisable in Spain, Spanish resident individuals who acquire Securities by inheritance or gift may also be subject to the Spanish IGT.

Legal persons resident in Spain for tax purposes are not subject to IGT, thus the income that they may obtain from gift or inheritance, as the case may be, will be subject to Spanish Corporate Income Tax ("CIT") on the market value of Securities received, provided that the legal persons obtaining such income are Spanish CIT taxpayers.

Tax credits for the avoidance of international double taxation may apply in respect of similar taxes paid abroad, if any, in respect of Securities.

(d) Spanish legal persons subject to Corporate Income Tax ("CIT") (Impuesto sobre Sociedades)

Interest and income arising on the transfer, redemption or reimbursement of Securities obtained by legal entities resident for tax purposes in Spain and regarded as CIT taxpayers shall be computed as taxable income of the tax period of its accrual, in accordance with the rules contained in the CIT Law and supplemented by the CIT regulations, set out by Royal Decree 634/2015, of 10 July 2015 (the "CIT Regulations").

The general CIT rate for Spanish CIT taxpayers is currently 25 per cent. However, certain CIT taxpayers, such as banks and investment funds, may be subject to higher or lower CIT rates.

Tax credits for the avoidance of international double taxation in accordance with the CIT Law or any applicable convention for the avoidance of double taxation entered into by Spain may apply in respect of taxes paid abroad, if any, on income deriving from Securities.

As a general rule, interest payments and income upon transfer or redemption under the Securities shall be subject to withholding tax at 19 per cent. rate on account of CIT (creditable against final tax liability).

Notwithstanding this, as non-resident in Spain entities not acting through a permanent establishment are not bound to withhold on account of CIT on payments made to Spanish resident entities, interest payments and income upon transfer or redemption under the Securities should be only subject to withholding tax in Spain in case they are deposited in a depositary entity resident in Spain (or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) or if an entity or individual resident in Spain (or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) is in charge of the collection of the income derived from the Securities, provided that such income had not been previously subject to withholding tax in Spain.

However, when (i) the Securities are represented in book-entry form and are admitted to trading on a Spanish secondary stock exchange or on the Spanish Alternative Fixed Income Market (MARF); or (ii) the notes are listed on a market in an OECD member state; holders who are corporate income taxpayers can benefit from a withholding tax exemption in respect of interest payments and income arising from the transfer or redemption of the Securities, exception made of income derived from accounts entered into with financial entities, provided that such accounts are based on financial instruments, such as Securities.

(e) Non-resident investors subject to NRIT (Impuesto sobre la Renta de no Residentes)

Based on the fact that none of the Issuers are resident in Spain for tax purposes, that the payments of the Securities are not effectively allocated to a permanent establishment in Spain of the Issuers and that the proceeds of the Securities are not used in Spain by the Issuers, no Spanish NRIT should, in principle, be levied on investors that are not resident in Spain for tax purposes, unless they are acting with respect to Securities through a Spanish permanent establishment.

Pursuant to some specific guidelines recently issued by the Spanish tax authorities, income relating to bonds issued by a non-Spanish tax resident issuer could be regarded as remunerating the use of funds in Spain (and thus, be subject to Spanish NRIT) depending on the specific activity of the issuer and the effective use of funds in Spain and, in particular (pursuant to these guidelines), if a non-Spanish resident special purpose vehicle issuing the notes is incorporated by a Spanish group in order to seek finance for the benefit of such Spanish group.

In addition to the above, and in accordance to binding ruling V0185-20 of 27 January 2020, certain securities (such as financial derivatives) may be classified, for the purposes of the relevant double tax treaty, as business profits or other income and, as mentioned above, should not be considered, in general terms, as Spanish-source income, subject to the provisions of any relevant double tax treaty.

According to the general principles of the Spanish NRIT Law, Spanish permanent establishments of non-Spanish tax resident persons are taxed under the NRIT Law in a similar manner to Spanish CIT taxpayers, although some specific rules may apply. Due to the complexity of this matter, non-Spanish tax resident investors acting in Spain, with respect to Securities, through a permanent establishment are strongly urged to seek appropriate advice in respect of their own tax position in this regard.

Spanish withholding tax

Where a financial institution (either resident in Spain for tax purposes or acting through a permanent establishment in Spain) (a) acts as depositary of Securities, (b) manages the collection of any income under Securities, (c) intervenes in their transfer or (d) carries out the redemption or reimbursement of the Securities, on behalf of Securityholders either (i) resident in Spain for tax purposes or (ii) holding the Securities through a permanent establishment located in Spain, such financial institution will be responsible for making the relevant withholding on account of Spanish tax on any income deriving from the relevant Securities. The current withholding tax rate in Spain is 19 per cent. Amounts withheld in Spain, if any, can be credited against the final Spanish IIT, CIT or NRIT liability, as applicable to the Securityholder.

Other Spanish taxes (indirect taxation)

The acquisition, transfer, redemption and reimbursement of Securities will be exempt from indirect taxes in Spain, i.e. exempt from or not subject to Transfer Tax and Stamp Duty, as the case may be, in accordance with the Consolidated Text of such tax approved by Royal Legislative Decree 1/1993, of 21 September 1993, and exempt from Value Added Tax, in accordance with Law 37/1992, of 28 December 1992, regulating such tax.

SWEDISH TAXATION

The following discussion is a summary of certain material Swedish tax considerations relating to (i) Securities issued by any of the Issuers where the holder is tax resident in Sweden or has a tax presence in Sweden or (ii) Securities where the Paying Agent or custodian is located in Sweden. This summary of certain tax issues that may arise as a result of holding Securities is based on current Swedish tax legislation and is intended only as general information for holders of Securities who are resident or domiciled in Sweden for tax purposes, unless otherwise stated. This description does not deal comprehensively with all tax consequences that may occur for holders of Securities, nor does it cover the specific rules where Securities are held by a partnership or are held as current assets in a business operation. The summary does, moreover, not cover Securities held on a so-called investment savings account (Sw. investeringssparkonto). Special tax consequences that are not described below may also apply for certain categories of taxpayers, including investment companies and life insurance companies. It is recommended that potential investors in Securities consult their own tax advisers for information with respect to the special tax consequences that may arise as a result of holding Securities, including the applicability and effect of foreign income tax rules, provisions contained in double taxation treaties and other rules which may be applicable.

Swedish tax residents - Individuals

Tax on Capital income

An individual who receives interest or dividend income is subject to capital gains tax at a rate of 30 per cent. The tax liability arises when the interest or dividend is actually paid, in accordance with the so-called cash method.

No formal interest accrues on zero-coupon bonds. The profit from a redemption of a zero-coupon bond is regarded as interest, subject to tax at the time of redemption. However, the appreciation in value is regarded as interest compensation, should the zero-coupon bond be disposed of prior to maturity. If there is a loss on the bond, this is deductible as a capital loss in accordance with the principles referred to below.

Individuals and estates of deceased Swedish individuals, who sell their Securities, are subject to capital gains taxation. The current tax rate of the gain is 30 per cent. The rate for non-listed shares is reduced to 5/6. The capital gain or loss is equal to the difference between the sales proceeds after deduction of sales costs and the acquisition cost of the Securities. The acquisition cost is calculated according to the so-called average method. This means that the costs of acquiring all Securities of the same type and class are added together and calculated collectively, with respect to changes to the holding. Optionally, the so-called standard rule under which the acquisition cost is deemed to be the equivalent of 20 per cent. of the net sales price may be applied on the disposal of listed Securities (except for options and forward contracts) that are taxed in the same manner as shares. A Security should be regarded as listed for Swedish tax purposes if it is listed on the Official List and admitted to trading on the Regulated Market of the Luxembourg Stock Exchange, the London Stock Exchange, Euronext Dublin or any other foreign market that is considered to be a stock exchange under Swedish tax law.

As a main rule, 70 per cent. of a capital loss is deductible against any other taxable income derived from capital. Capital losses on listed Securities that are taxed in the same manner as shares, are, however, fully deductible against taxable capital gains on such assets or capital gains on listed shares. Capital losses on listed shares may be deductible against 5/6 of capital gains on non-listed shares in Swedish and foreign limited liability companies and foreign legal entities. Any excess amount is deductible at 70 per cent., according to the main rule.

Capital losses on listed Securities qualifying as Swedish receivables (i.e. denominated in SEK) are currently fully deductible in the capital income category. Moreover, under EC law receivables denominated in foreign currency are also fully deductible.

If a deficit arises in the capital income, a reduction of the tax on income from employment and from business, as well as the tax on real estate, is allowed. The tax reduction allowed amounts to 30 per cent. of any deficit not exceeding SEK 100,000 and 21 per cent. of any deficit in excess of SEK 100,000. Deficits may not be carried forward to a subsequent fiscal year.

There is no Swedish withholding tax (källskatt) applicable on interest payments. Neither dividends are subject to withholding tax, when they are paid to a Swedish tax resident.

Sweden operates a system of preliminary tax (preliminärskatt) to secure payment of taxes. In the context of the Securities, a preliminary tax of 30 per cent. will as a main rule be deducted from all payments, treated as either interest or dividends, made to tax residents in Sweden, provided the paying entity is subject to reporting obligations in Sweden. Depending on the holder's overall tax liability for the relevant fiscal year the preliminary tax may contribute towards, equal or exceed the holder's overall tax liability with any balance subsequently to be paid by or to the relevant holder, as applicable.

Stamp duty

There is no stamp duty on the issuing, transfer or redemption of Securities in Sweden.

Gift, Inheritance and Wealth taxes

There is no gift, inheritance or wealth tax in Sweden.

Swedish tax residents - Corporations

Limited liability companies (aktiebolag) and other legal entities, except for estates of deceased Swedish individuals, are taxed on all income (including income from the sale of Securities) as income from business activities at a flat rate of 21.4 per cent. (for fiscal year commencing 1 January 2019 and later). As per 1 January 2021, the tax rate is to be decreased to 20.6 per cent. Regarding the calculation of a capital gain or loss and the acquisition cost, see "Swedish tax residents - Individuals" above. However, interest and dividend income, as well as other income derived from the holding of an asset, is taxed on an accruals basis.

Capital losses on Securities that are taxed in the same manner as shares (see further above) incurred by a corporate holder of a Security may only be offset against taxable capital gains on shares or such securities. Such capital losses may also, under certain circumstances, be deductible against capital gains on shares and Securities that are taxed in the same manner as shares within the same group of companies, provided the requirements for group contributions (tax consolidation) are met.

Capital losses on shares and other Securities that are taxed in the same manner as shares which are not deducted against capital gains within a certain year may be carried forward and offset against taxable capital gains on shares and notes taxed in the same manner as shares in the future.

For limited liability companies and economic associations, capital gains on shares and certain share related rights held for business purposes are tax exempt. Dividends received by a Swedish company from another Swedish company are normally exempt from tax, if the shareholding is business related.

According to the Swedish rules on participation exemption, dividends received from a non-resident company may also be tax exempt, if the shareholding is business-related. As a result, capital losses on shares and share related rights that are held for business purposes are not deductible. Securities under this offer are not treated as share related rights held for business purposes. However, a capital loss on the Securities is not deductible should the underlying assets, directly or indirectly, consist of shares or certain share related rights held for business purposes.

As mentioned above, there is no stamp duty on the issuing, transfer or redemption of Securities in Sweden.

Withholding tax

Please see above the information regarding withholding tax and preliminary tax for individuals.

Swedish non-residents - Individuals and Corporations

Holders of Securities who are not fiscally resident in Sweden and who are not carrying on business operations from a permanent establishment in Sweden are generally not liable for Swedish capital gains taxation on the disposal of Securities. The holders may, nevertheless, be subject to tax in their country of residence.

However, as far as non-resident individuals are concerned, capital gains on the sale of certain Securities (such as Securities taxed in the same manners as shares) may in some cases be subject to Swedish tax if the individual has been resident or permanently lived in Sweden at any time during the calendar year of the sale or any of the 10 preceding calendar years. This provision is, nevertheless, in many cases limited by tax treaties for the avoidance of double taxation, which Sweden has concluded with approximately 80 other countries.

Withholding tax

For payments treated as dividends, Swedish non-resident withholding tax is applied if the payer is a Swedish company and the payment is made to a Swedish non-resident. The withholding tax rate is 30 per cent. unless the rate is reduced under a tax treaty. However, no withholding tax is imposed if the dividend is paid to a non-resident qualifying for the benefits of the Swedish participation exemption rule (please see above).

SWISS TAXATION

The following is a summary based on legislation as of the date of this Base Prospectus. It does not aim to be a comprehensive description of all the Swiss tax considerations that may be relevant for a decision to invest in Securities. The tax treatment for each investor depends on the particular situation. All investors are advised to consult with their professional tax advisors as to the respective Swiss tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, disposition, lapse, exercise or redemption of Securities (or options embedded therein) in light of their particular circumstances.

Swiss Federal Stamp Taxes

The issuance of Securities to the initial holders at the original offering price (primary market) is not subject to the Swiss federal issuance stamp tax and the Swiss federal securities turnover tax (Umsatzabgabe), except that the issuance of Securities which classify as fund-like instruments may be subject to Swiss federal securities turnover tax of up to 0.3 per cent. on the offering price, however, only if a Swiss securities dealer (as defined in the Swiss federal stamp tax act) is a party or an intermediary to the transaction and, additionally, if no exemption applies.

Dealings in Securities (secondary market) which classify as pure derivative financial instruments (such as call and put options, including low exercise price options with a maturity not exceeding twelve months, futures with a maximal pre-financing of 25 per cent., fully-funded securities statically replicating an index or a basket of at least five shares and with a fixed maturity or an annual redemption right) are exempt from Swiss federal securities turnover tax. Dealings in other Securities may be subject to Swiss federal securities turnover tax of up to 0.3 per cent. on the consideration paid, however, only if a Swiss securities dealer (as defined in the Swiss federal stamp tax act) is a party or an intermediary to the transaction and, additionally, if no exemption applies.

The physical delivery of a Security at exercise or redemption to the holder of the Security may be subject to Swiss federal securities turnover tax of 0.3 per cent. in case a Security issued by an issuer outside Switzerland is delivered and of 0.15 per cent. in case a Security issued by a Swiss domestic issuer is delivered, however, in each case, only if a Swiss domestic securities dealer (as defined in the Swiss federal stamp tax act) is a party or an intermediary to the delivery and, additionally, if no exemption applies.

Swiss Federal Withholding Tax

Payments under the Securities are not subject to Swiss federal withholding tax, PROVIDED THAT the Issuer is at all times resident and managed outside Switzerland for Swiss tax purposes and that the proceeds are used outside Switzerland at all times.

On 3 April 2020, the Swiss Federal Council proposed draft legislation and opened the consultation procedure regarding the reform of the Swiss federal withholding tax regime, which had previously been suspended. The consultation procedure ended on 10 July 2020. A main aspect of the draft legislation is the exemption of Swiss-domiciled legal entities and foreign investors from withholding tax on Swiss domestic interest-based investments. In essence, the draft legislation would replace the current debtor-based regime applicable to interest payments with a paying agent-based regime for Swiss withholding tax. Broadly, this paying agent-based regime would (i) subject all interest payments made through paying agents in Switzerland to individuals resident in Switzerland to Swiss withholding tax and (ii) exempt from Swiss withholding tax interest payments to all other persons, including to Swiss-domiciled legal entities and foreign investors (other than for indirect interest payments via foreign and domestic collective investments vehicles). If such a new paying agent-based regime were to be enacted and were to result in the deduction or withholding of Swiss federal withholding tax on any interest payments in respect of the Securities, the Securityholders would not be entitled to receive any additional amounts as a result of such deduction or withholding under the terms of the Securities.

Income Taxation

Non-Swiss resident Holders

A holder of a Security who is not resident in Switzerland and who during the taxation year has not engaged in a trade or business carried on through a permanent establishment or fixed place of business in Switzerland will in respect of such Security not be subject to income tax in Switzerland.

Securities held as Private Assets by a Swiss resident Holder

(a) Pure Derivative Financial Instruments

A capital gain realised by an individual on the sale or redemption of a Security which classifies as a true derivative financial instrument for tax purposes (such as a true call or put option on equities or commodities (including low exercise price options provided their term does not exceed one year or, where the term does exceed one year, the premium paid at issuance does not exceed 50 per cent. of the value of the Underlying at the time of issuance), future on equities or commodities, replicating an index or a fixed basket of at least five shares and with a fixed maturity or an annual redemption right and with a maturity not exceeding twelve months) and which is held as part of the individual's private assets is a tax-free private capital gain. Conversely, a capital loss realised on the sale or redemption of such a Security cannot be set off against taxable income. Dividend equivalents paid under such a Security constitute taxable investment income.

(b) Structured Securities

If a Security is composed of one or more derivatives and a bond (resulting e.g. from up-front payment of exercise price, purchase price, etc.) and therefore classifies as a structured financial instrument for tax purposes, its income taxation depends on whether (i) the embedded bond component and the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) are reported separately from each other, or, alternatively, if the Security is a standard product, the value of the embedded bond component and the value of the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) can at any time be determined analytically by using standard valuation programmes, and (ii) the Security classifies as a structured instrument with or without a predominant one-time interest payment:

- Non-transparent derivative financial instruments: If the embedded bond is not recorded separately from the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) and if the values of the embedded bond and the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) cannot be determined analytically (as described above), then the Security classifies as non-transparent structured financial instrument and any return over the initial investment as taxable interest payment. Non-transparent derivative financial instruments generally include a predominant one-time interest payment and are taxed in accordance with the principles set forth below under "Transparent derivative financial instruments with a predominant one-time interest payment".
- Transparent derivative financial instruments without a predominant one-time interest payment: If the embedded bond is recorded separately from the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) or if the values of the embedded bond and the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) can be determined analytically (as described above) and if the yield-to-maturity predominantly derives from periodic interest payments and not from a one-time interest payment such as an original issue discount or a repayment premium (see below "Transparent derivative financial instruments with a predominant one-time interest payment"), then a person who is an individual resident in Switzerland holding such a Security as a private asset is required to include any periodic and one-time interest payments received on the Security in his or her personal income tax return for the relevant tax period and will be taxable on any net taxable income (including such amounts) for the relevant tax period. Option premium received by such a person under, and a gain, including in respect of interest accrued, or a loss, respectively, realised on the sale of, such a Security is a tax-free private capital gain, a non-tax-deductible private capital loss, respectively.
- Transparent derivative financial instruments with a predominant one-time interest payment: If the embedded bond is recorded separately from the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) or if the values of the embedded bond and the embedded derivative financial instrument(s) can be determined analytically (as described above) and if the yield-to-maturity predominantly derives from a one-time interest payment such as an original issue discount or a repayment premium and not from periodic interest payments, then a person who is an individual resident in Switzerland holding such a Security as a private asset, is required to include any periodic interest payments received on the Security and, in addition, any amount equal to the difference between the value of the Security at redemption or sale, as applicable, and its value at issuance or secondary market purchase, as applicable, converted in each case into Swiss Francs at the exchange rate prevailing at the time of sale or redemption, issuance or purchase, respectively, in his or her personal income tax return for the relevant tax period and will be taxable on any net taxable income (including such amounts, i.e., including, inter alia, any gain in respect of interest accrued, interest rate or foreign exchange rate) for the relevant tax period. Any compensation received by such a holder for the embedded derivative, i.e., option premium received under, and any residual gain, and a loss, respectively, realised on the sale of, such a Security is a tax-free private capital gain, a non-tax-deductible private capital loss, respectively. Notwithstanding the foregoing, such a holder may offset any decrease in value realised by him or her within the same taxation period on sale or redemption of such a Security against any gain (including periodic interest payments) realised by him or her from other Securities with a predominant one-time interest payment.

(c) Bonds

Bonds without a predominant one-time interest payment: If a Security classifies for tax purposes as a straight bond, i.e. as an instrument without derivative financial instrument(s) embedded in such Security, and if such Security does not include a predominant one-time interest payment (i.e., its yield-to-maturity predominantly derives from periodic interest payments and not from a one-time interest payment such as an original issue discount or a repayment premium), then a person who is an individual resident in Switzerland holding such a Security as a private asset is required to include any periodic and one-time interest payments received on such Security, converted into Swiss Francs at the exchange rate prevailing at the time of payment, in his or her personal income tax return for the relevant tax period and is taxable on any net taxable income (including such amounts) for the relevant tax period. A gain, including, inter alia, in respect of interest accrued or interest rate or foreign exchange rate, a loss, respectively, realised on the sale of such a Security is a tax-free private capital gain, a non-tax-deductible private capital loss, respectively.

Bonds with a predominant one-time interest payment: If a Security classifies for tax purposes as straight bond, i.e. as instrument without derivative financial instruments embedded in such Security, and if such Security includes a predominant one-time interest payment (i.e., its yield-to-maturity predominantly derives from a one-time interest payment such as an original issue discount or a repayment premium and not from periodic interest payments), then a person who is an individual resident in Switzerland holding such a Security as a private asset, is required to include any periodic interest payments received on the Security and, in addition, any amount equal to the difference between the value of the Security at redemption or sale, as applicable, and its value at issuance or secondary market purchase, as applicable, converted in each case into Swiss Francs at the exchange rate prevailing at the time of sale or redemption, issuance or purchase, respectively, in his or her personal income tax return for the relevant tax period and will be taxable on any net taxable income (including such amounts, i.e., including, inter alia, any gain in respect of interest accrued, interest rate or foreign exchange rate) for the relevant tax period. Notwithstanding the above, such a holder may offset any decrease in value realised by him or her within the same taxation period on sale or redemption of such a Security against any gain (including periodic interest payments) realised by him or her from other Securities with a predominant one-time interest payment.

(d) Fund-like Securities

A Security which is classified as fund-like instrument will be considered a pass-through instrument for Swiss tax purposes if dividend and interest income (less attributable costs) from, and capital gains and losses (less costs attributable) realised on, the underlying investments, are reported and distributed separately. Under such conditions, an individual holding a fund-like Security as part of his or her private assets receives taxable income (which he or she must report annually) over such portion of distributions (in case the fund is distributing the income realised on the underlying investments) or credits (in case the fund is reinvesting the income realised on the underlying investment) as derive from dividends and interest (less attributable costs) on the underlying instruments. Any distributions or credits deriving from capital gains realised on the underlying investments constitute a tax-free private capital gain, and any respective loss a non-tax-deductible private capital loss. Any gain realised within a taxation period on the sale of a fund-like Security (including accrued dividends and interest) is exempt from income taxation as a private capital gain, and, conversely, any loss realised on such a Security a non-tax-deductible capital loss.

Securities held as Assets of a Swiss Business (including deemed Professional Securities Dealers)

Corporate entities and individuals who hold Securities as part of a trade or business in Switzerland, in the case of residents abroad carried on through a permanent establishment or a fixed place of business in Switzerland, are required to recognise any payments on, and any capital gains or losses realised on the sale or redemption of, such Securities (irrespective of their classification) in their income statement for the respective taxation period and will be taxed on any net taxable earnings for such period.

The same taxation treatment also applies to Swiss-resident individuals who for income tax purposes, are classified as "professional Securities dealers" for reasons of, inter alia, frequent dealing and leveraged investments in Securities.

Swiss Facilitation of the Implementation of the U.S. Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act

Switzerland has concluded an intergovernmental agreement with the U.S. to facilitate the implementation of FATCA. The agreement ensures that the accounts held by U.S. persons with Swiss financial institutions are disclosed to the U.S. tax authorities either with the consent of the account holder or by means of group requests within the scope of administrative assistance. Information will not be transferred automatically in the absence of consent, and instead will be exchanged only within the scope of administrative assistance on the basis of the double taxation agreement between the U.S. and Switzerland. On 8 October 2014, the Swiss Federal Council approved a mandate for negotiations with the U.S. on changing the current direct-notification-based regime to a regime where the relevant information is sent to the Swiss Federal Tax Administration, which in turn provides the information to the U.S. tax authorities.

Automatic Exchange of Information in Tax Matters

On November 19, 2014, Switzerland signed the Multilateral Competent Authority Agreement (the "MCAA"). The MCAA is based on article 6 of the OECD/Council of Europe administrative assistance convention and is intended to ensure the uniform implementation of Automatic Exchange of Information (the "AEOI"). The Federal Act on the International Automatic Exchange of Information in Tax Matters (the "AEOI Act") entered into force on January 1, 2017. The AEOI Act is the legal basis for the implementation of the AEOI standard in Switzerland.

The AEOI is being introduced in Switzerland through bilateral agreements or multilateral agreements. The agreements have, and will be, concluded on the basis of guaranteed reciprocity, compliance with the principle of speciality (i.e. the information exchanged may only be used to assess and levy taxes (and for criminal tax proceedings)) and adequate data protection.

Based on such multilateral or bilateral agreements and the implementing laws of Switzerland, Switzerland exchanges data in respect of financial assets, including, as the case may be, Securities, held in, and income derived thereon and credited to, accounts or deposits with a paying agent in Switzerland for the benefit of individuals resident in a EU Member State or in a treaty state.

THE PROPOSED FINANCIAL TRANSACTIONS TAX ("FTT")

On 14 February 2013, the European Commission published a proposal (the "Commission's Proposal") for a Directive for a common FTT which is now being considered by Belgium, Germany, Greece, Spain, France, Italy, Austria, Portugal, Slovenia and Slovakia (the participating Member States).

The Commission's Proposal has very broad scope and could, if introduced, apply to certain dealings in Securities (including secondary market transactions) in certain circumstances. Primary market transactions referred to in Article 5(c) of Regulation (EC) No 1287/2006 are expected to be exempt.

Under the Commission's Proposal the FTT could apply in certain circumstances to persons both within and outside of the participating Member States. Generally, it would apply to certain dealings in Securities where at least one party is a financial institution, and at least one party is established in a participating Member State. A financial institution may be, or be deemed to be "established" in a participating Member State in a broad range of circumstances, including (a) by transacting with a person established in a participating Member State or (b) where the financial instrument which is subject to the dealings is issued in a participating Member State.

However, the FTT proposal remains subject to negotiation between participating Member States. It may therefore be altered prior to any implementation, the timing of which remains unclear. Additional EU Member States may decide to participate and/or participating Member States may decide to withdraw.

At the ECOFIN Council meeting of 14 June 2019, a state of play of the work on the FTT was presented on the basis of a note prepared by Germany on 7 June 2019 indicating a consensus among the participating Member States to continue negotiations on the basis of a joint French-German proposal based on the French financial transactions tax model which in principle would only concern shares of listed companies whose head office is in a Member State of the European Union. However, such proposal is still subject to change until a final approval.

Prospective holders of Securities are advised to seek their own professional advice in relation to the FTT.

SECTION F.9 – DESCRIPTION OF THE PREFERENCE SHARES AND THE PREFERENCE SHARE COMPANY

The issuer of the Preference Shares is Citigroup Global Markets Funding Luxembourg S.C.A. (CGMFL or the Preference Share Company). CGMFL is also an issuer under the Programme and a description of CGMFL is set out in the section entitled "Description of Citigroup Global Markets Funding Luxembourg S.C.A." above.

Preference Shares will be issued from time to time in different Classes (each a Class).

Each issue of Preference Share Linked Securities will give exposure to the performance of a separate Class of Preference Shares that in turn have a defined return which will depend on the exposure to one or more Preference Share Underlying(s). It is expected that the Preference Share Company will only issue a small number of Preference Shares of each Class and that, unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, these will be issued fully paid at GBP1.00 each and will be held by Citigroup Global Markets Limited or another affiliate of the Issuer until their redemption date.

A copy of the Preference Share Company's constitutional documents and the terms and conditions of each Class of Preference Share (the Preference Share Terms and Conditions) are available to investors in the Securities on written request (free of charge) from the registered office of the Preference Share Company at 31, Z.A. Bourmicht, L-8070 Bertrange, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg and from the distributor of the relevant Securities. If specified in the relevant Issue Terms, the Preference Share Terms and Conditions of the relevant Class of preference shares will also be available on the website specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

The Preference Share Company may issue redeemable Preference Shares of any kind, including but not limited to Preference Shares which have a defined return dependant on the performance of one or more underlying asset(s) or reference basis(es) (each a Preference Share Underlying) (which may include, but will not be limited to, one or more security indices, one or more commodity indices, one or more commodities, one or more shares, one or more depositary receipts, one or more exchange traded fund shares, one or more mutual fund interests or one or more currency exchange rates) and will be issued on such terms as may be determined by the Preference Share Company and specified in the applicable terms and conditions of the relevant Class of Preference Shares.

The Preference Share Terms and Conditions of each Class provide that the applicable preference shares will be redeemable on their final redemption date at a defined amount as determined in accordance with the relevant Preference Share Terms and Conditions. The Preference Share Terms and Conditions may also provide that the Preference Share Company may redeem the Preference Shares early if:

- (i) the performance of the Preference Share Company's obligations under the Preference Shares has or will become unlawful, illegal or otherwise prohibited for any reason; or
- (ii) a change in applicable law or regulation occurs that results, or will result, in the Preference Share Company being required to be regulated by any additional regulatory authority, or being subject to any materially onerous additional legal requirement or regulation or tax; or
- (iii) an early redemption event in respect of a Preference Share Underlying occurs; or
- (iv) a financial product issued by the Preference Share Company or any of its affiliates any proportion of the return on which matches the return on the Preference Shares or is otherwise dependent on the value of the Preference Shares, has or will become subject to early redemption or is or will be cancelled.

The conditions of the Preference Shares contain provisions relating to early redemption events and adjustment events relating to the Preference Share Underlying(s) to which the relevant Preference Shares give investment exposure. Such early redemption events and adjustment events are substantially similar to the provisions relating to the equivalent type of Underlying contained in the Underlying Schedules of the Conditions of the Securities and consequently, investors should also read the considerations relating to Securities linked to the relevant Underlying(s) in these risk factors in order to fully understand the provisions relating to such Underlying(s) (and consequently the Preference Share Underlying(s)) and the associated risks.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PREFERENCE SHARES AND THE PREFERENCE SHARE COMPANY

If the Preference Shares are redeemed early pursuant to the above, the Issuer will notify holders of the Securities in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) and each Security will be redeemed at its Early Redemption Amount determined as specified in Preference Share Conditions 6(d) (Early Redemption for tax reasons or illegality, following an Event of Default or following an Early Redemption Event and the Early Redemption Amount) and 6(e) (Realisation Disruption).

The value of the Preference Shares is scheduled to be published on each scheduled trading day on the Electronic Page specified in the relevant Issue Terms or on such other information source as may be specified in the relevant Issue Terms.

The value of the Preference Shares depends on the Preference Share Terms and Conditions of the relevant Class, the performance of the Preference Share Underlying(s) to which the relevant Preference Shares give investment exposure and the financial condition and standing of the Preference Share Company. In determining the value of the Preference Shares, the Calculation Agent shall employ the calculation procedure and methodology set out in the applicable Preference Share Terms and Conditions. Investors should review the Preference Share Terms and Conditions to ensure that they understand how the defined return and performance of the Preference Share Underlying(s) will affect the value of the Preference Shares and, therefore, the return on the Securities.

SECTION G.1 – GENERAL CONDITIONS OF THE SECURITIES

References in these General Conditions (the General Conditions) and in the applicable Underlying Schedules to the Securities shall be references to the Securities of this Series, which shall be: (i) English Law Securities (which Securities, for the avoidance of doubt, include French Cleared Securities) and/or Irish Law Securities, and shall mean (a) in relation to any Registered Securities (as defined below) represented by a global Security (a Global Registered Security Certificate), units of each Specified Denomination (in the case of Notes) or individual Securities in the case of Certificates, in each case in the Specified Currency in the case of Notes; (b) any Global Registered Security Certificate; (c) any definitive Registered Securities (Registered Security Certificates) whether or not issued in exchange for a Global Registered Security Certificate; (d) in relation to any Swedish Security, units of each Specified Denomination (in the case of Notes) or individual Securities in the case of Certificates, in each case in the Specified Currency in the case of Notes and (e) in relation to any Finnish Security, units of each Specified Denomination (in the case of Notes) or individual Securities in the case of Certificates, in each case in the Specified Currency in the case of Notes, or (ii) French Law Securities which shall mean units of each Specified Denomination (in the case of such Notes). Where no French Law Securities Registration Agent has been appointed, all references to the French Law Securities Registration Agent herein shall be deemed to be references to the relevant Issuer of the French Law Securities as the context may require.

The only provisions of the Fiscal Agency Agreement applicable to the Swedish Securities and the Finnish Securities are those in Clauses 2.2, 16, 20, 26, 27 and 28 and Schedule 5 (Provisions for Meetings of Securityholders) and Clauses 21, 22 and 23 in relation to the appointment of the Calculation Agent only.

 - (B) Principal Amount plus accrued interest (if any) at maturity;
 - (C) Best of Amount payable on the date specified in, or notified in accordance with, the Conditions or, if no such date is so specified, on a date selected by the Issuer;
 - (D) Monetisation with Holder Put Option as set out in General Condition 6(d)(ii); or
 - (E) such other amount specified in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule and/or in the applicable Issue Terms and payable on the date specified in, or notified in accordance with, the Conditions or, if no such date is so specified, on a date selected by the Issuer,

(and in the case of Credit Linked Notes or Index Skew Notes, minus the pro rata share of any unwind costs) provided that where the applicable Issue Terms specify "Additional Costs on account of Early Redemption" to be not applicable, Securityholders will not be charged any costs or expenses by the Issuer on account of the early redemption of the Securities in any of the circumstances set out in the initial paragraph of this General Condition 6(d)(i).

- (ii) if the Securities are subject to early redemption for which the Early Redemption Amount is specified as the Monetisation with Holder Put Option (as set forth above in General Condition 6(d)(i)(D) above):
 - (A) Following the occurrence of the relevant early redemption event, the Issuer shall notify the Securityholders (such notice by the Issuer to the Securityholders being the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption) as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) that the Securities will be redeemed on the Maturity Date for an amount equal to the Monetisation Amount unless the relevant Securityholder makes a valid election to exercise the option for Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement at early redemption. The Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption may, but does not have to, include the Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement of the Securities on a day selected by the Calculation Agent on or prior to the date of delivery of such notice, and shall include the cut-off date for exercise of the option for Fair Market Value at early redemption, the date of determination of the Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement in respect of such election selected by the Calculation Agent (which may fall after the date of such notice) and the early redemption date.
 - (B) In order to make a valid election to exercise its option referred to in (A) above to redeem some or all of its Securities for Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement at early redemption, a Securityholder must:
 - (1) if such Security is in definitive form and held outside the Relevant Clearing System, deliver, at the specified office of the Registrar at any time during normal business hours of the Registrar falling no later than the cut-off date set out in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption, a duly completed and signed notice of exercise in the form (for the time being current) obtainable from any specified office of the Registrar (an Early Redemption Put Notice) and in which the holder must specify a bank account (or, if payment is required to be made by cheque, an address) to which payment is to be made under this Condition and the principal amount or number thereof to be redeemed for Fair Market Value at early redemption and, if less than the full principal amount or number of the Registered Securities held by such Securityholder so surrendered is to be redeemed, an address to which a new Registered Security in respect of the balance of such Registered Securities is to be sent subject to and in accordance with the provisions of General Condition 3(h) (Transfer Free of Charge). If the relevant Security is in definitive form, the Early Redemption Put Notice must be accompanied by the Security or evidence satisfactory to the Paying Agent concerned that the Security will, following delivery of the Early Redemption Put Notice, be held to its order or under its control.
 - (2) if the relevant Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and cleared through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, no later than the cut-off date set out in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption, give notice to the Registrar of such exercise in accordance with the standard procedures of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable (which may include notice being given on his instruction by Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable, or any common depositary or common safekeeper, as the case may be, for them, as applicable, to the Registrar by electronic means), in a form acceptable to Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable, from time to time.
 - (3) if the relevant Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and cleared through DTC, no later than the cut-off date set out in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption, give notice to the Registrar of such exercise in the form of an Early Redemption Put Notice acceptable to the Registrar and irrevocably instruct DTC to debit the relevant Securityholder's securities account with the relevant Securities on or before the Early Redemption Date in accordance with applicable DTC practice.

In the case of Swedish Securities, an Early Redemption Put Notice will not take effect against the Issuer before the date on which the relevant Securities have been transferred to the account designated by the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent and blocked for further transfers by the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent (such date will be the first date of a closed period for the purposes of General Condition 3(k) (Transfer of Swedish Securities)). The redemption procedures for Swedish Securities will be subject to the Swedish CSD Rules.

Unless otherwise provided Finnish Securities shall be subject to automatic redemption. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, if the Securities are Finnish Securities, the exercise of this option will not be effective against the Issuer before the date on which the relevant Finnish Securities have been transferred to the account operated by the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent, which for the purposes of the relevant Finnish Securities is an account operator specifically authorised by Euroclear Finland and appointed by the Issuer in relation to a specific issue or issues to process and register issues in the system of the relevant central securities depository and clearing institution, and blocked for further transfer on the early redemption date by the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent. The right to require redemption of any Finnish Securities in accordance with this Condition must, notwithstanding the above, be exercised in accordance with the Euroclear Finland Rules and if there is any inconsistency between the terms set out herein and the Euroclear Finland Rules, then the Euroclear Finland Rules shall prevail.

(C) Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions, in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) for which:

- (1) a valid election to exercise the Securityholder's option to redeem such Securities for Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement at early redemption has been made, the Early Redemption Amount shall be an amount equal to the Fair Market Value of the Securities on the date specified as such in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement, which amount shall be payable on the early redemption date specified as such in the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption; and
- (2) a valid election to exercise the Securityholder's option to redeem such Securities for Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement at early redemption has not been made, the Early Redemption Amount shall be the Monetisation Amount (if any), which amount shall be payable on the Maturity Date.

In both cases no other amounts of principal, interest or termination will be payable following the date the Issuer's Notice of Early Redemption is given.

- (iii) In the case of Securities subject to early redemption for which the Early Redemption Amount is specified as "Principal Amount plus accrued interest (if any) at maturity", then such Early Redemption Amount shall be payable on the Maturity Date, notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions and no other amounts of principal, interest or termination will be payable following the date the notice of early redemption is given.
- (iv) As used above, in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount):

Best of Amount means, in respect of such Security, an amount in the Specified Currency determined by the Calculation Agent as the greater of (i) the sum of the Minimum Return Amount plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement and (ii) the sum of Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement.

Early Redemption Date means, in respect of each Security and the Early Redemption Amount payable in respect of such Security, a date notified by the Issuer to the relevant Securityholder in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) as the date for the payment of the Early Redemption Amount, save as provided in General Condition 6(d)(ii)(C)(2) and General Condition 6(d)(iii).

Fair Market Value means an amount in the Specified Currency determined by the Calculation Agent which represents the fair market value of such Security (which shall include amounts in respect of interest) on a day selected by the Issuer or as otherwise required in accordance with the Conditions (ignoring for the purposes of a redemption pursuant to General Condition 6(b)(ii), the relevant unlawfulness, illegality or prohibition) less (except (i) if the applicable Issue Terms specify "Deduction of Hedge Costs" to be not applicable; and (ii) in the case of either any early redemption pursuant to General Condition 11 (Events of Default) or Italian Listed Certificates) the proportionate cost to the Issuer and/or its Affiliates of unwinding any underlying and/or related hedging and funding arrangements in respect of the Securities (including, without limitation, any options relating to any Underlying hedging the Issuer's obligations under the Securities) and, for the purposes of determining the fair market value of such Security for the purposes of General Condition 11 (Events of Default), no account shall be taken of the financial condition of the Issuer and (if applicable) the Guarantor which shall be presumed to be able to perform fully their obligations in respect of the Securities.

The "fair market value" of a Security is an estimated value and, in determining such value, the Calculation Agent may have regard to the following as applicable:

- (i) where applicable, a bond component in respect of the Securities, plus an embedded derivative(s) or option component. The value of the bond component is expected to be determined based on the present value of the stream of cash payments associated with a conventional bond of an amount equal to the then outstanding aggregate principal amount of the Securities (or, in the case of Certificates, the aggregate of the Calculation Amounts in respect of such Certificates, as determined by the Calculation Agent) discounted by a prevailing internal funding rate (which may be adjusted by a spread) for a term equal to that then outstanding of the Securities. The value of the embedded derivative component is expected to be determined based on internal pricing models which will take into account certain parameters that the Calculation Agent determines appropriate (including, without limitation, factors such as expected interest and dividend rates; and the value, price or level and volatility of any relevant Underlying(s) or other reference item or any futures or options relating to any of them); and/or
- (ii) the value of the Securities as determined using any such other factors as the Calculation Agent deems relevant, including but not limited to the time remaining to maturity of the Securities, the interest rates at which banks lend to each other, the interest rate which the Issuer (or its Affiliates) is charged to borrow cash, if the Securities are linked to one or more Underlying(s) or other reference asset(s), the value, expected future performance and/or volatility of such Underlying(s) or other reference asset(s) and any other information the Calculation Agent deems relevant (including, but not limited to the circumstances that resulted in the events causing such redemption).

Such values, along (save where the applicable Issue Terms specify "Deduction of Issuer Costs and Hedging and Funding Costs" as not applicable) with deductions for any fees, costs or commissions in connection with the issue of the Securities and the cost of entering into any underlying and/or related hedging and funding arrangements in respect of the Securities, are expected to have been relevant pricing factors taken into account at or around the trade date to enable the Issuer to determine the terms on which it can issue the Securities on the Issue Date and are therefore relevant factors in determining any Early Redemption Amount.

Fair Market Value plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement means an amount determined by the Calculation Agent as the sum of (i) Fair Market Value and (ii) Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement.

Minimum Return Amount means, in respect of such Security, the currency amount specified in the applicable Issue Terms or, if no such amount is so specified, the Calculation Amount.

Minimum Return Amount plus Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement means an amount determined by the Calculation Agent as the sum of (i) the Minimum Return Amount and (ii) Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement.

Monetisation Amount means, in respect of such Security, an amount determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the following formula:

$$\text{Minimum Return Amount} + (\text{Option Value} + \text{Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement}) \times (1+r)^n$$

ⁿ means the remaining term of the relevant Securities expressed in years, calculated from the date of the determination that the Securities will be early redeemed pursuant to and in accordance with the Conditions following the relevant early redemption event to the scheduled Maturity Date, as determined by the Calculation Agent; and ^r means the annualised interest rate that the Issuer offers on the date of determination that the Securities will be early redeemed pursuant to and in accordance with the Conditions following the relevant early redemption event(s) for a debt security with a maturity equivalent to the scheduled Maturity Date of the relevant Securities, taking into account the credit risk of the Issuer, as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Option means, in respect of such Security, the option component or embedded derivative(s) in respect of (i) the Security and/or (ii) the interest element relating to such Security which provides exposure to the Underlying(s) (if any), the terms of which are fixed on the trade date (as determined by the Calculation Agent) in order to enable the Issuer to issue such Security at the relevant price and on the relevant terms. For the avoidance of doubt, the bond component (if applicable) in respect of the Security is excluded from the Option.

Option Value means, in respect of such Security, the value (if any) of the Option in respect thereof, subject to a minimum of zero, as calculated by the Calculation Agent on such day and time as selected by the Calculation Agent at or around the time notice of early redemption is given by reference to such factors as the Calculation Agent considers to be appropriate including, without limitation:

- (i) market prices or values for the Underlying and other relevant economic variables (such as: interest rates; dividend rates; financing costs; the value, price or level of any relevant Underlying(s) or other reference asset(s) and any futures or options relating to any of them; the volatility of any relevant Underlying(s) or other reference asset(s); and exchange rates (if applicable));
- (ii) the time remaining to maturity of the Securities had they remained outstanding to scheduled maturity;
- (iii) internal pricing models; and
- (iv) prices at which other market participants might bid for the Option.

Principal Amount plus accrued interest (if any) at maturity means, in respect of such Security, an amount determined by the Calculation Agent as (in the case of Notes) its principal amount plus accrued interest (if any), where such accrued interest is determined as the product of the principal amount, an overnight interest rate or an achievable market rate of interest for the Specified Currency and the relevant day and a day count fraction customary for calculation of overnight interest in respect of the Specified Currency, all as determined by the Calculation Agent in a commercially reasonable manner and acting in good faith, and such Early Redemption Amount will be payable on the Maturity Date.

Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement means an amount equal to the product of the total costs of the Issuer (for example, and without limitation, structuring costs) paid by the original Securityholder as part of the original issue price of the Security and the Relevant Proportion, as determined by the Calculation Agent. For the avoidance of doubt, if the applicable Issue Terms specify "Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement" to be applicable, the Early Redemption Amount shall be the sum of the amount specified in the applicable Issue Terms plus the Pro Rata Issuer Cost Reimbursement.

Relevant Proportion means a number equal to (i) the number of calendar days from, and excluding, the date of determination that the relevant Securities will be early redeemed pursuant to and in accordance with the Conditions following the relevant early redemption event(s) to, and including, the scheduled Maturity Date of the relevant Securities, divided by (ii) the number of calendar days from, and excluding, the Issue Date of the relevant Securities to, and including, the scheduled Maturity Date of the relevant Securities.

(e) Redemption at the Option of the Issuer

If, in respect of Securities other than Swedish Securities, Issuer Call is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer may, having given the number of days' notice specified in the applicable Issue Terms or, if none is so specified:

- (i) not less than, five nor more than 60 days' notice to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices); and
- (ii) not less than five days' notice to the Registrar,

(which notices shall be irrevocable and shall specify the date fixed for redemption), redeem all or some only of the Securities then outstanding on any Optional Redemption Date in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) at the relevant Optional Redemption Amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in, the Valuation and Settlement Schedule or the relevant Underlying Schedules applicable to the relevant Underlying(s) or specified in the applicable Issue Terms together, if appropriate, with interest accrued to (but excluding) the relevant Optional Redemption Date. Any such redemption must be of a principal amount or number not less than the Minimum Redemption Amount and not more than the Maximum Redemption Amount, in each case as may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

In the case of a redemption of some only of the Securities, the Securities to be redeemed (Redeemed Securities) will be selected, subject to mandatory provisions of Luxembourg law, individually by lot not more than 30 days prior to the date fixed for redemption, in the case of Redeemed Securities represented by definitive Securities, and in accordance with the rules of the Relevant Clearing System (in the case of Securities cleared through Euroclear and/or Clearstream, Luxembourg, to be reflected in the records of Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg as either a pool factor or a reduction in nominal amount, at their discretion) in the case of Redeemed Securities represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate. In the case of Redeemed Securities represented by definitive Securities, a list of the serial numbers of such Redeemed Securities will be published in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) not less than five days prior to the date fixed for redemption.

If, in respect of Swedish Securities, Issuer Call is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer may, having given:

- (a) not less than five nor more than 60 days' notice to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices); and
- (b) not less than five days' notice to the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent and Euroclear Sweden, respectively,

(which notices shall be irrevocable and shall specify the date fixed for redemption and shall specify the Securities or the amount of the Securities as well as the closed period), redeem all of the Securities then outstanding on any Optional Redemption Date in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) at the relevant Optional Redemption Amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in, the applicable Issue Terms together, if appropriate, with interest accrued to (but excluding) the relevant Optional Redemption Date. Any such redemption must be of a principal amount or number not less than the Minimum Redemption Amount and not more than the Maximum Redemption Amount in each case as may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms. The redemption procedures for Swedish Securities will be subject to the Swedish CSD Rules.

If, in respect of French Law Securities, Issuer Call is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Issuer may, having given:

- (a) not less than five nor more than 60 days' notice to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices); and
- (b) not less than five days' notice to the French Securities Issuing and Paying Agent who will give this notice to Euroclear France,

(which notices shall be irrevocable and shall specify the date fixed for redemption), redeem all or some only of the Securities then outstanding on any Optional Redemption Date in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) at the relevant Optional Redemption Amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in, the Valuation and Settlement Schedule or the relevant Underlying Schedules applicable to the relevant Underlying(s) or specified in the applicable Issue Terms together, if appropriate, with interest accrued to (but excluding) the relevant Optional Redemption Date. Any such redemption must be of a principal amount not less than the Minimum Redemption Amount and not more than the Maximum Redemption Amount, in each case as may be specified in the applicable Issue Terms. In the case of a partial redemption of French Law Securities, the redemption may be effected, at the option of the Issuer, either (i) by reducing the principal amount of all the French Law Securities of such Series in a proportion to the aggregate principal amount redeemed or (ii) by redeeming in full some only of such French Law Securities and, in such latter case, the choice between those French Law Securities that will be fully redeemed and those French Law Securities of such Series that will not be redeemed shall be made in accordance with article R. 213-16 of the French Code monétaire et financier and the provisions of the relevant Issue Terms, subject to compliance with any other applicable laws and any applicable stock exchange requirements. So long as the French Law Securities are listed and admitted on a stock exchange and the rules of that stock exchange or applicable French law and/or regulations so require, the Issuer shall cause to be published a notice specifying the aggregate principal amount of French Law Securities outstanding.

The right to require redemption of such French Law Securities and French Cleared Securities must be exercised in accordance with the rules and procedures of Euroclear France and if there is any inconsistency between the above and the rules and procedures of Euroclear France, then the rules and procedures of Euroclear France shall prevail.

(f) Redemption at the Option of holders of Securities

If Investor Put is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, upon the holder of any Security giving to the Issuer in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) the number of days' notice specified in the applicable Issue Terms or, if none is so specified, not less than 45 days' notice the Issuer will, upon the expiry of such notice, redeem such Security on the relevant Optional Redemption Date and at, in respect of each Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount), the relevant Optional Redemption

Amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in, the Valuation and Settlement Schedule or the relevant Underlying Schedules applicable to the relevant Underlying(s) and in the applicable Issue Terms together, if appropriate, with interest accrued to (but excluding) the Optional Redemption Date.

To exercise the right to require redemption of a Security the holder of such Security must, if such Security is in definitive form and held outside the Relevant Clearing System, deliver, at the specified office of the Registrar at any time during normal business hours of the Registrar falling within the notice period, a duly completed and signed notice of exercise in the form (for the time being current) obtainable from any specified office of the Registrar (a Put Notice) and in which the holder must specify a bank account to which payment is to be made under this Condition and the principal amount or number thereof to be redeemed and, if less than the full principal amount or number of the Registered Securities so surrendered is to be redeemed, an address to which a new Registered Security in respect of the balance of such Registered Securities is to be sent subject to and in accordance with the provisions of General Condition 3(f) (Partial Redemption in respect of Registered Securities). If the relevant Security is in definitive form, the Put Notice must be accompanied by the Security or evidence satisfactory to the Paying Agent concerned that the Security will, following delivery of the Put Notice, be held to its order or under its control.

If the relevant Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and cleared through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg or is in definitive form and held through Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, to exercise the right to require redemption of such Security the holder of such Security must, within the notice period, give notice to the Registrar of such exercise in accordance with the standard procedures of Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable (which may include notice being given on his instruction by Euroclear or Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable, or any common depositary or common safekeeper, as the case may be, for them, as applicable, to the Registrar by electronic means), in a form acceptable to Euroclear and Clearstream, Luxembourg, as applicable, from time to time.

If the relevant Security is represented by a Global Registered Security Certificate and cleared through DTC, to exercise the right to require redemption of such Security, the holder of such Security must, within the notice period, give notice to the Registrar of such exercise in the form of a Put Notice acceptable to the Registrar and irrevocably instruct DTC to debit the relevant Securityholder's securities account with the relevant Securities on or before the Optional Redemption Date in accordance with applicable DTC practice.

In the case of Swedish Securities, a Put Notice will not take effect against the Issuer before the date on which the relevant Securities have been transferred to the account designated by the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent and blocked for further transfers by the Swedish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent (such date will be the first date of a closed period for the purposes of General Condition 3(i) (Closed Periods)). The redemption procedures for Swedish Securities will be subject to the Swedish CSD Rules.

Any right to require redemption of any Finnish Securities in accordance with this General Condition 6(f) must be exercised in accordance with the Euroclear Finland Rules. Unless otherwise provided Finnish Securities shall be subject to automatic redemption. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Conditions, if the Securities are Finnish Securities, the exercise of this option will not be effective against the Issuer before the date on which the relevant Finnish Securities have been transferred to the account operated by the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent, which for the purposes of the relevant Finnish Securities is an account operator specifically authorised by Euroclear Finland and appointed by the Issuer in relation to a specific issue or issues to process and register issues in the system of the relevant central securities depositary and clearing institution, and blocked for further transfer on the Optional Redemption Date by the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agent.

In the case of French Law Securities, to exercise this option the Securityholder must transfer, or cause to be transferred, such French Law Security to the account of the French Law Securities Registration Agent (in the case of French Law Securities in registered dematerialised form (au nominatif)) or the French Securities Issuing and Paying Agent (in the case of French Law Securities in bearer form) and, in all cases, deposit with any French Securities Issuing and Paying Agent at its specified office during usual business hours a duly completed Put Notice within the relevant exercise period. No Security so transferred and option exercised may be withdrawn (except as provided in the Fiscal Agency Agreement) without the prior consent of the Issuer. No such option may be exercised if the Issuer has given notice of redemption of the French Law Securities.

The right to require redemption of such French Law Securities and French Cleared Securities must be exercised in accordance with the rules and procedures of Euroclear France and if there is any inconsistency between the above and the rules and procedures of Euroclear France, then the rules and procedures of Euroclear France shall prevail.

(g) Cancellation

All Securities purchased by or on behalf of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor or the CGMFL Guarantor may be surrendered for cancellation, if the Securities are Registered Securities, by surrendering the Security representing such Securities to the Registrar and, if so surrendered, will, together with all Securities redeemed by the Issuer, be cancelled forthwith. Any Securities surrendered for cancellation may not be reissued or resold and the obligations of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor in respect of any such Securities shall be discharged.

French Cleared Securities and French Law Securities shall only be cancelled by being transferred to an account in accordance with the rules and procedures of Euroclear France.

If Automatic Exercise is specified as applying in the applicable Issue Terms, any such European Style Certificate with respect to which no Exercise Notice has been delivered in the manner set out in this General Condition 7 (Exercise Rights in respect of Certificates), at or prior to 10.00 a.m., Luxembourg time on the Actual Exercise Date and which, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, is "In-the-Money", shall be automatically exercised on the Actual Exercise Date and the provisions of General Condition 7(g) (Automatic Exercise) shall apply. Any such Certificate shall otherwise expire worthless.

(b) Multiple Exercise Certificates

If Automatic Exercise is specified as applying in the applicable Issue Terms and no Exercise Notice has been delivered in the manner set out in this General Condition 7 (Exercise Rights in respect of Certificates), at or prior to 10.00 a.m., Luxembourg time on an Actual Exercise Date and which, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, is "In-the-Money", such Certificate shall be automatically exercised on such Actual Exercise Date and the provisions of General Condition 7(g) (Automatic Exercise) shall apply. The Securityholders rights in respect of any such Certificate shall otherwise expire worthless in respect of such Actual Exercise Date.

(c) Exercise Notice

- (iv) certify, that the Securityholder and the beneficial owner of each Certificate or Unit, as the case may be, the subject of the Exercise Notice is not a U.S. person (as defined in the Exercise Notice) or as otherwise defined in the applicable Issue Terms and, where appropriate, undertake to provide such various forms of certification in respect of selling restrictions under the securities, commodities and other laws of the United States of America as indicated and set out in the applicable Issue Terms; and
- (v) authorise the production of such notice in any applicable administrative or legal proceedings.

(d) Verification of the Securityholder

Upon receipt of an Exercise Notice, the Relevant Clearing System shall verify that the person specified therein as the accountholder is the Securityholder of the Certificates referred to therein according to the books of Relevant Clearing System. Subject thereto, the Relevant Clearing System will confirm to the Certificate Agent the Series number and the number of Certificates the subject of the Exercise Notice and, if applicable, the account details for the payment of amounts payable in respect of the Certificates. Upon receipt of such confirmation, the Certificate Agent will inform the Issuer thereof. The Relevant Clearing System will on or before the Settlement Date specified in the applicable Issue Terms (Settlement Date) (or in the case of Multiple Exercise Certificates, the final Settlement Date) or any other date specified in the relevant Exercise Notice, as the case may be, debit the account of the relevant Securityholder with the Certificates the subject of the Exercise Notice.

(e) Determinations

Any determination as to whether an Exercise Notice is duly completed and in proper form shall be made by the Relevant Clearing System, in consultation with the Certificate Agent, and shall be conclusive and binding on the Issuer, the CGMFL Guarantor, the Certificate Agent and the relevant Securityholder. Subject as set out below, any Exercise Notice so determined to be incomplete or not in proper form, or which is not copied to the Certificate Agent immediately after being delivered or sent to the Relevant Clearing System shall be null and void.

If such Exercise Notice is subsequently corrected to the satisfaction of the Relevant Clearing System, in consultation with the Certificate Agent, it shall be deemed to be a new Exercise Notice submitted at the time such correction was delivered to the Relevant Clearing System and copied to the Certificate Agent.

In respect of an Actual Exercise Date, if Automatic Exercise is not specified as applying in the applicable Issue Terms, any Certificate (other than Multiple Exercise Certificates) with respect to which the Exercise Notice has not been duly completed and delivered in the manner set out above by the cut-off time specified shall become void. In the case of Multiple Exercise Certificates and an Actual Exercise Date, if Automatic Exercise is not specified as applying in the applicable Issue Terms and no Exercise Notice has been duly completed in the manner set out above by the cut-off time specified, the Issuer shall have no obligation in respect of such Certificate in relation to such Actual Exercise Date.

(f) Delivery of an Exercise Notice

Delivery of an Exercise Notice in respect of an Actual Exercise Date shall constitute an irrevocable election by the relevant Securityholder to exercise the Certificates specified on such Actual Exercise Date.

After the delivery of an Exercise Notice (other than in relation to Multiple Exercise Certificates), the relevant Securityholder may not transfer the Certificates the subject of such Exercise Notice.

After the delivery of an Exercise Notice in respect of Multiple Exercise Certificates in relation to an Actual Exercise Date (other than the final Actual Exercise Date) such exercising Securityholder may not transfer such Certificate until after the Settlement Date in respect of such Actual Exercise Date. After delivery of an Exercise Notice in respect of Multiple Exercise Certificates in relation to the final Actual Exercise Date, such exercising Securityholder may not transfer such Certificates.

(i) General

Pursuant to Article L.213-6-3 I of the French Code monétaire et financier:

- (A) the Securityholder shall not be grouped in a Masse having separate legal personality and acting in part through a Representative (représentant de la masse) and in part through General Meetings;

(ii) Powers of General Meetings

Subject to this General Condition, the General Meeting may deliberate with respect to any matter that relates to the common rights (intérêts communs) of the Securityholder.

The General Meeting may deliberate on any proposal relating to the modification of the Conditions including any proposal, whether for a compromise or settlement, regarding rights which are the subject of litigation or in respect of which a judicial decision has been rendered, and relating to a total or partial waiver of the guarantees granted to the Securityholder, the deferral of any interest payment and the modification of the amortisation or interest rate provisions. For the avoidance of doubt, the General Meeting may not establish any inequality of treatment between Securityholders.

The Securityholder may appoint a nominee to file a proof of claim in the name of all Securityholders in the event of judicial reorganisation procedure or judicial liquidation of the Issuer.

Pursuant to Article L.228-85 of the French Code de commerce, in the absence of such appointment of a nominee, the judicial representative (mandataire judiciaire), at its own initiative or at the request of any Securityholder, will ask the court to appoint a representative of the Securityholder who will file the proof of noteholders' claim.

(iii) Convening of a General Meeting

A General Meeting may be held at any time, on convocation by the Issuer. One or more Securityholders, holding together at least one-thirtieth (by number) of the French Law Securities outstanding, may address to the Issuer a demand for convocation of the General Meeting. If such General Meeting has not been convened within two months after such demand, the Securityholder may commission one of their members to petition a competent court in Paris to appoint an agent (mandataire) who will call the General Meeting.

Decisions of General Meetings must be published in accordance with the provisions set forth in General Condition 15 (Notices).

(v) Chairman

The Securityholders present at a General Meeting shall choose one of them to be chairman (the Chairman) by a simple majority of votes present or represented at such General Meeting (notwithstanding the absence of a quorum at the time of such vote). If the Securityholders fail to designate a Chairman, the Securityholder holding or representing the highest number of French Law Securities and present at such meeting shall be appointed Chairman, failing which the Issuer may appoint a Chairman. The Chairman appointed by the Issuer need not be a Securityholder. The Chairman of an adjourned meeting need not be the same person as the Chairman of the original meeting from which the adjournment took place.

(vi) Quorum and Voting

General Meetings may deliberate validly on first convocation only if Securityholders present or represented hold at least one-fifth (by number) of the French Law Securities then outstanding. On second convocation, no quorum shall be required. Decisions at meetings shall be taken by a simple majority of votes cast by Securityholders attending (including by video conference or by any other means of telecommunication allowing the identification of participating Securityholders) such General Meetings or represented thereat.

(vii) Written Decision and Electronic Consent

Pursuant to Article L.228-46-1 of the French Code de commerce the Issuer shall be entitled, in lieu of convening a General Meeting, to seek approval of a resolution from the Securityholder by way of a Written Decision. (viii) Effect of Resolutions

A decision passed at a General Meeting or a Written Decision (including by Electronic Consent), shall be binding on all Securityholders, whether or not present or represented at the General Meeting and whether or not, in the case of a Written Decision (including by Electronic Consent), they have participated in such Written Decision (including by Electronic Consent) and each of them shall be bound to give effect to the decision accordingly.

Information to Securityholders

Each Securityholder will have the right, during (i) the 15-day period preceding the holding of the relevant General Meeting on first convocation, (ii) the 5-day period preceding the holding of the relevant General Meeting on second convocation or (iii) in the case of a Written Decision, a period of not less than five days preceding the Written Decision Date, as the case may be, to consult or make a copy of the text of the resolutions which will be proposed and of the reports which will be prepared in connection with such resolution, all of which will be available for inspection by the relevant Securityholders at the registered office of the Issuer, at the specified offices of any of the French Securities Issuing and Paying Agent during usual business hours and at any other place specified in the notice of the General Meeting or the Written Decision.

Decisions of General Meetings and Written Decision, once approved, will be published in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices).

Expenses

If "Contractual Representation of Holders/No Masse" or "Contractual Masse" are specified in the relevant Issuer Terms, the Issuer will pay all expenses relating to the operation of the Masse, including expenses relating to the calling and holding of General Meetings and seeking the approval of a Written Decision, and, more generally, all administrative expenses resolved upon by the General Meeting or in writing through Written Decision by the Securityholders, it being expressly stipulated that no expenses may be imputed against interest payable under the French Law Securities.

If "Full Masse" is specified in the relevant Issue Terms, Article L.228-71 of the French Code de commerce shall apply.

Single Masse

Where the applicable Issue Terms specify "Full Masse" or "Contractual Masse", the Securityholders of the same Series and the Securityholders of any other Series being assimilated to the French Law Securities of the said first indicated Series, in accordance with General Condition 12 (Meetings of Securityholders, Modifications, Determinations and Rounding), shall be grouped into a single Masse for the purpose of defending their respective common interests. The Representative appointed for the first Tranche of a Series of French Law Securities will be the Representative of the single Masse of that entire Series.

Single Securityholder

Where the applicable Issue Terms specify "Full Masse" or "Contractual Masse", if and for so long as the Notes of a given Series are held by a single Securityholder, the relevant Securityholder will exercise directly the powers delegated to the Representative and General Meetings of Securityholder under General Condition 12 (Meetings of Securityholders, Modifications, Determinations and Rounding), as the case may be, whether or not a Representative has been appointed. For the avoidance of doubt, if a Representative has been appointed while the French Law Securities of a given Series are held by a single Securityholder, such Representative shall be devoid of powers. A Representative shall only be appointed if the French Law Securities of a Series are held by more than one Securityholder. If a Representative has been appointed while the French Law Securities of any Series were held by a sole Securityholder, such Representative shall have no authority.

(b) Modifications

The Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor may make, without the consent of the Securityholders:

- (i) any modification (except as mentioned above) to, as applicable, the Securities, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Deed of Covenant, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement, the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee, as applicable, which is, in the opinion of the Issuer, not materially prejudicial to the interests of the Securityholders (without considering the individual circumstances of any Securityholder or the tax or other consequences of such modification in any particular jurisdiction); or
- (ii) any modification to the Securities, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the relevant Deed of Covenant, the relevant Swedish Agency Agreement, the Finnish Securities Issuing and Paying Agency Agreement, the CGMHI Deed of Guarantee and/or the CGMFL Deed of Guarantee, as applicable, which is of a formal, minor or technical nature or is made to correct a manifest error or proven error or to comply with mandatory provisions of law.

Any such modification shall be binding on the Securityholders and any such modification shall be notified to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices) as soon as practicable thereafter.

Save as provided therein and subject as provided above, each Swedish Agency Agreement may be amended by agreement among the parties thereto and without the consent of any holders of the Securities.

In the case of French Law Securities, the following provisions of this General Condition 12(b) below shall apply in lieu of the foregoing provisions.

The Issuer may from time to time amend the Conditions of any French Law Securities in accordance with General Condition 12(a) (Meetings of Securityholders).

In respect of French Law Securities which have a Specified Denomination of at least EUR 100,000 or which can be traded in amounts of at least EUR 100,000 (or its equivalent in the relevant currency as of the Issue Date), the Issuer may modify the Conditions of the Securities without the consent of the Securityholders to correct a manifest error. Notice of any such modification will be given to the Securityholders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices). In other circumstances, the consent of a defined majority of Securityholders is required to make amendments. The Conditions of the French Law Securities contain provisions for Securityholders to call and attend meetings to vote upon such matters or to pass a written resolution in the absence of such a meeting. Resolutions passed at such a meeting, or passed in writing, can bind all Securityholders of French Law Securities, including investors that did not attend or vote, or who do not consent to the amendments.

(c) Determinations

Whenever any matter falls to be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any other person (including where a matter is to be decided by reference to the Issuer or the Calculation Agent's or such other person's opinion), that matter shall be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or such other person, as the case may be, in good faith and (i) where "Sole and Absolute Determination" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, in its sole and absolute discretion or (ii) where "Commercial Determination" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, in a commercially reasonable manner. Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions, in respect of French Law Securities only, whenever any matter falls to be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any other person (including where a matter is to be decided by reference to the Issuer or the Calculation Agent's or such other person's opinion), that matter shall be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or such other person, as the case may be, in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, including without limitation any such determination, consideration, election, selection or otherwise which is expressed in the Conditions to be in the sole and absolute discretion of the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any other person.

The Calculation Agent or such other person may, with the consent of the Issuer, delegate any of its obligations and functions to a third party as it deems appropriate. The Issuer may delegate any of its obligations and functions to a third party as it deems appropriate.

All discretions exercised and determinations, considerations, elections, selections or other decisions made in respect of the Securities by the Calculation Agent shall (save in the case of manifest error) be final, conclusive and binding on the Issuer and the Securityholders and (in the absence of wilful default or bad faith) neither the Issuer nor the Calculation Agent shall have any responsibility to any person for any errors or omissions in any (a) calculation by the Calculation Agent or the Issuer, as the case may be, of any amount due in respect of the Securities or (b) determination made by the Calculation Agent or the Issuer, as the case may be.

Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions (save as provided in the next sentence), if the terms of the Securities provide that the Redemption Amount payable on the Maturity Date is a fixed amount or is determined by reference to a formula, which provides for a minimum amount to be payable on the Maturity Date, no modification or adjustment to or calculation under the Conditions may be made by the Issuer or the Calculation Agent to reduce the amount so payable on such date to less than such fixed amount or minimum amount (as applicable), PROVIDED THAT the foregoing shall not apply if the applicable Issue Terms provide that "Minimum Amount Adjustment Prohibition" is not applicable. For the avoidance of doubt, the preceding sentence shall not apply in relation to the rights of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor to make any modification to the Securities pursuant to General Condition 12(b) above.

(d) (i) Exercise of Discretion

In exercising its discretion in respect of the Securities as provided herein, each of the Issuer and the Calculation Agent or such other person (described in (c) above) may take into account such factors as it determines appropriate in each case, which may include, in particular, any circumstances or events which have or may have a material impact on the hedging arrangements entered into by a Hedging Party (as defined in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule) in respect of the Securities PROVIDED THAT, where the Securities are issued as Italian Listed Certificates and for so long as they are traded on SeDeX or EuroTLX, any such exercise of discretion shall only take into account such factors that do not result in a non-compliance with the rules of SeDeX or EuroTLX from time to time in effect. The exercise of the Issuer's and/or the Calculation Agent's and/or such other person's discretion in respect of the Securities as provided herein are necessary because certain circumstances or events (for example a material modification or disruption to an Underlying to which the Securities are linked) may occur subsequent to the issuance of the Securities which may materially affect the costs to a Hedging Party of maintaining the relevant Securities or relevant hedging arrangements. Such circumstances or events may not have been reflected in the pricing of the Securities. In addition, as a result of certain circumstances or events (e.g. unavailability or disruption to any reference source), it may no longer be reasonably practicable or otherwise appropriate for certain valuations in respect of any Underlying or otherwise in connection with the Securities to be made, thus making it necessary for the Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent to exercise its discretion in such a case.

(ii) Determinations and Exercise of Discretion (BEC)

Notwithstanding anything else in the Conditions, if the applicable Issue Terms specifies that "Determinations and Exercise of Discretion (BEC)" is applicable, then:

- (A) General Condition 12(d)(i) (Exercise of Discretion) shall not apply and any hedging arrangements shall not be taken into consideration by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any other person in respect of any matter which falls to be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any other person, as the case may be;
- (B) whenever any matter falls to be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any other person, that matter shall be determined, considered, elected, selected or otherwise decided upon by the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any other person, as the case may be, in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, including without limitation any such determination, consideration, election, selection or otherwise which is expressed in the Conditions to be in the sole and absolute discretion of the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any other person;
- (C) in respect of each provision in the Conditions pursuant to which the Calculation Agent or Issuer may adjust the terms of the Securities (without the prior consent of the Securityholders), the Calculation Agent or Issuer (as applicable) shall take all reasonable measures to continue the Securities under similar terms and conditions so that any adjustment or alteration made to the essential characteristics of the Securities is not substantial and is made in order to preserve the original economic rationale and objectives of the Securities;
- (D) in respect of each provision in the Conditions pursuant to which the Calculation Agent or Issuer may substitute or replace an Underlying or Reference Asset or other asset (without the prior consent of the holders), the Calculation Agent or Issuer (as applicable) may only replace the applicable original Underlying or Reference Asset or other asset (as applicable) with a replacement asset which is as similar as possible to the original Underlying or Reference Asset or other asset (as applicable) being replaced or substituted; and
- (E) the holders may not be charged any costs (such as settlement cost) in relation to adjustments or replacements as described in (C) and (D) above.

In the case of any inconsistency with any other term of the Conditions, this General Condition 12(d)(ii) (Determinations and Exercise of Discretion (BEC)) shall prevail (save that in the case of any inconsistency General Condition 12(b) (Modifications) shall prevail over this General Condition 12(d)(ii) (Determinations and Exercise of Discretion (BEC))).

(e) Hedging Arrangements

As used in this General Condition 12, hedging arrangements means the arrangements, if any, the Issuer makes to have available to it the relevant cash amounts to be paid or assets to be delivered under the Securities as these fall due. This may involve a Hedging Party investing directly in an Underlying or by entering into securities transactions or loan transactions or derivative transactions or any combination thereof. Alternatively, a Hedging Party may make an indirect investment by entering into or acquiring a derivative contract referencing an Underlying, or in the case of Credit Linked Notes or Index Skew Notes, by entering into securities transactions, loan transactions, one or more credit derivative transactions in unfunded form with economically equivalent terms to the Credit Linked Notes or a combination of such credit derivative transactions with one or more other derivative contracts. Such hedging arrangements may be carried out on a portfolio basis (i.e. where the Hedging Party maintains arrangements for hedging the Securities together with other obligations of the Issuer and/or its Affiliates). A Hedging Party will seek to select hedging arrangements which are efficient for it in the context of the tax, regulatory and business environment in which it operates, but will do so without having regard to the interests of Securityholders. A Hedging Party may also adjust hedging arrangements from time to time but will not always be able to avoid adverse costs, taxes or regulatory changes which affect its hedging arrangements. For the avoidance of doubt, no Hedging Party is under any obligation to enter into any hedging arrangements and, if any hedging arrangements are entered into, such arrangements will not confer any rights or entitlements on any Securityholder and no Securityholder will have recourse to any such hedging arrangements.

(f) Determination of amounts payable or deliverable

The Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or such other person will employ the methodology described in the Conditions (including the Valuation and Settlement Schedule) to determine amounts payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities. When making any such determination in relation to any amounts so payable or deliverable, the Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or such other person may in its/their sole and absolute discretion (or in case of Italian Listed Certificates, acting in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner) consider any relevant information, which may but is not required to include, without limitation, one or more of the following:

- (i) quotations (either firm or indicative) supplied by one or more third parties or information sources;
- (ii) information consisting of relevant market data in the relevant markets supplied by one or more third parties or information sources including, without limitation, relevant rates, prices, yields, yield curves, volatilities, spreads correlation or other relevant market data in the relevant market; or
- (iii) information of the types described in (i) or (ii) above from internal sources (including any Affiliates of the Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or such other persons) or other information of a type used by the Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or such other persons in the regular course of its business or in connection with similar transactions.

Whenever any of the Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or such other person is required to make any determination it may, inter alia, decide issues of construction and legal interpretation. Any delay, deferral or forbearance by the Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent and/or such other person in the performance or exercise of any of its obligations or discretions under the Securities including, without limitation, the giving of any notice by it to any person, shall not affect the validity or binding nature of any later performance or exercise of such obligation or discretion.

(g) Rounding

For the purposes of any calculations required pursuant to the Conditions (unless otherwise specified), (i) all percentages resulting from such calculations will be rounded, if necessary, to the nearest one hundred-thousandth of a percentage point (with halves being rounded up), (ii) all figures will be rounded to seven significant figures (with halves being rounded up) and (iii) all currency amounts which fall due and payable will be rounded to the nearest unit of such currency (with halves being rounded up), save in the case of Yen, which shall be rounded down to the nearest Yen. For these purposes "unit" means the lowest amount of such currency which is available as legal tender in the country of such currency.

(h) Disclaimer of liability and responsibility

None of the Issuer, the Calculation Agent and any such other person makes any express or implied representations or warranties as to (i) the advisability of investing in or obtaining exposure to the Securities, (ii) the value of the Securities at any particular time on any particular date, or (iii) any amounts that may become payable or deliverable in respect of the Securities.

Without limiting any of the foregoing, in no event shall the Calculation Agent and/or such other persons have any liability (whether in negligence or otherwise) to any Securityholders for any direct, indirect, special, punitive, consequential or any other damages (including loss of profits) even if notified of the possibility of such damages.

The Calculation Agent and/or such other persons shall not have any responsibility to any holder for any errors or omissions in any calculations or determinations in respect of the Securities and act solely as agents of the Issuer, the CGMHI Guarantor and the CGMFL Guarantor and do not assume any obligations towards or relationship of agency or trust for or with any holder.

In respect of French Law Securities, neither the Issuer nor any Agent shall be held responsible for any loss or damage, resulting from any force majeure event as defined in article 1218 of the French Code Civil. Where the Issuer or any of the Agents is prevented from effecting payment or delivery due to such event, payment or delivery may be postponed until the time the event or circumstance impeding payment has ceased, and shall have no obligation to pay or deliver any additional amounts in respect of such postponement.

(i) Conflict of Interest

In addition to providing calculation agency services to the Issuer, the Calculation Agent or any of its Affiliates may perform further or alternative roles relating to the Issuer and any Series of Securities including, but not limited to, for example, being involved in arrangements relating to any Underlying(s) (for example as a calculation agent or, in the case of a proprietary index for example, as index sponsor). Furthermore, the Calculation Agent or any of its Affiliates may contract with the Issuer and/or enter into transactions which relate to the Issuer, the Securities or any Underlying and as a result the Calculation Agent may face a conflict between its obligations as Calculation Agent and its and/or its Affiliates' interests in other capacities. Subject to all regulatory obligations, neither the Issuer nor the Calculation Agent in respect of the Securities shall owe any duty or responsibility to any Securityholder to avoid any conflict or to act in the interests of any Securityholder.

13. Replacement of Securities

If, in respect of Securities other than Swedish Securities, Finnish Securities or French Law Securities, a Security is lost, stolen, mutilated, defaced or destroyed, it may be replaced, subject to applicable laws and stock exchange regulations, at the specified office of the Registrar or such other Paying Agent or Transfer Agent as may from time to time be designated by the Issuer for the purpose and notice of whose designation is given to holders in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices), in each case on payment by the claimant of the fees and costs incurred in connection therewith and on such terms as to evidence, security and indemnity (which may provide, inter alia, that if the allegedly lost, stolen or destroyed Security is subsequently presented for payment or delivery (where applicable), there will be paid to the Issuer on demand the amount payable or an amount equal to the amount so deliverable by the Issuer in respect of such Security) and otherwise as the Issuer may require. Mutilated or defaced Securities must be surrendered before replacements will be issued. This Condition shall not apply to Swedish Securities, Finnish Securities or French Law Securities.

14. Further Issues

The Issuer may from time to time without the consent of the Securityholders create and issue further securities having the same terms and conditions as the Securities (or the same in all respects save for the amount and date of the first payment of interest thereon) PROVIDED THAT, for the avoidance of doubt and unless otherwise specified, references in the Conditions to "Issue Date" shall be to the first issue date of the Securities and so that the same shall be consolidated (with respect to French Law Securities, assimilées) and form a single Series with such Securities, and references in the Conditions to "Securities" shall be construed accordingly.

 - (ii) if applicable, that the terms and conditions of the CGMFL Securities are subject to, and may be varied, if necessary, to give effect to, the exercise of the bail-in power by the relevant resolution authority.

For these purposes, the "bail-in power" refers to any write down or conversion power existing from time to time (including, without limitation, any power to amend or alter the maturity of eligible liabilities of an institution under resolution or amend the amount of interest payable under such eligible liabilities or the date on which interest becomes payable, including by suspending payment for a temporary period) under, and exercised in compliance with, any laws, regulations, rules or requirements applicable in Luxembourg, whether relating, but not limited, to (i) the implementation of Directive 2014/59/EU establishing a framework for the recovery and resolution of credit institutions and investment firms (BRRD, as amended as regards the loss-absorbing and recapitalisation capacity of credit institutions and investment firms by Directive (EU) 2019/879 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2019) and as transposed into Luxembourg law by the Luxembourg act dated 18 December 2015 on the recovery, resolution and liquidation of credit institutions and certain investment firms, as amended, (ii) Regulation (EU) No 806/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 July 2014 establishing uniform rules and a uniform procedure for the resolution of credit institutions and certain investment firms in the framework of a Single Resolution Mechanism and a Single Resolution Fund and amending Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010, as amended as regards the loss-absorbing and recapitalisation capacity of credit institutions and investment firms by Regulation (EU) 2019/877 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2019 (SRM Regulation), or (iii) any other laws, regulations, rules or requirements arising under Luxembourg law, and the instruments, rules and standards created thereunder, pursuant to which, in particular, the obligations of CGMFL can be reduced (in part or in whole), cancelled, modified or converted into shares, other securities, or other obligations of CGMFL or any other person.

A reference to the "relevant resolution authority" is to the Luxembourg financial sector supervisory authority (Commission de surveillance du secteur financier, the CSSF) acting as resolution authority (conseil de résolution) and/or any other authority entitled to exercise or participate in the exercise of any bail-in power with the authority to exercise any of the Luxembourg bail-in powers against CGMFL from time to time, including the Single Resolution Board, the European Central Bank, the European Banking Authority, the European Council and the European Commission when acting pursuant to the provisions of the SRM Regulation.

(b) Events of Default

Neither a reduction or cancellation, in part or in full, of any amounts due or the conversion thereof into another security or obligation of CGMFL or another person, as a result of the exercise of the bail-in power by the relevant resolution authority with respect to CGMFL, nor the exercise of the bail-in power by the relevant resolution authority with respect to the CGMFL Securities will be an Event of Default under the CGMFL Securities.

SECTION G.2 – SCHEDULES TO THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE SECURITIES

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 1 – SECURITY INDEX CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Security Index".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Security Indices.

1. Definitions

Additional Disruption Event means any Increased Cost of Stock Borrow and/or Loss of Stock Borrow, in each case, if specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Bond Index means each Security Index classified as such is the applicable Issue Terms.

Component Security means, in respect of a Security Index, each component security or debt instrument included in such Security Index.

Exchange means (a) in respect of a Single Exchange Index, either (i) each exchange or quotation system specified as such in respect of such Single Exchange Index in the applicable Issue Terms or any successor to any such exchange or quotation system, or any substitute exchange or quotation system to which trading in the relevant Component Securities has temporarily relocated (PROVIDED THAT the Calculation Agent has determined that there is comparable liquidity relative to the relevant Component Securities on such temporary substitute exchange or quotation system as on the original exchange or quotation system); or (ii) where "Principal Exchanges" is specified as the Exchange in respect of a Single Exchange Index, the exchange or quotation system on which each relevant Component Security is (as determined by the Calculation Agent) principally traded; and (b) in respect of a Multiple Exchange Index and each relevant Component Security, the exchange, quotation system, over-the-counter market or trading system on which such Component Security is (as determined by the Calculation Agent) principally traded.

Exchange Business Day means (a) in respect of a Single Exchange Index, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Single Exchange Index on which each Exchange and each Related Exchange for such Single Exchange Index is open for trading during its respective regular trading session, notwithstanding any such Exchange or Related Exchange closing prior to its Scheduled Closing Time; and (b) in respect of a Multiple Exchange Index, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Multiple Exchange Index on which the relevant Index Sponsor publishes the level of such Security Index and each Related Exchange for such Multiple Exchange Index is open for trading during its regular trading session, notwithstanding any relevant Exchange or Related Exchange closing prior to its Scheduled Closing Time.

Increased Cost of Stock Borrow means that any Hedging Party would incur a rate to borrow any Component Security that is greater than the Initial Stock Loan Rate.

Index Sponsor means, in respect of a Security Index, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculation and adjustments, if any, related to such Security Index; and (b) announces (directly or through an agent) the level of such Security Index.

Initial Stock Loan Rate means, in respect of a Component Security, the rate that any Hedging Party would have incurred to borrow such Component Security as of the Trade Date, as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Loss of Stock Borrow means that any Hedging Party is unable, after using commercially reasonable efforts, to borrow (or to maintain a borrowing of) any Component Security at a rate equal to or less than the Maximum Stock Loan Rate.

Market Disruption Event shall have the meaning given to it in Security Index Condition 3(a) (Single Exchange Index) (in respect of a Single Exchange Index) or in Security Index Condition 3(b) (Multiple Exchange Index) (in respect of a Multiple Exchange Index).

Maximum Stock Loan Rate means, in respect of a Component Security, the lowest rate that any Hedging Party would have incurred, after using commercially reasonable efforts, to borrow such Component Security as of the Trade Date, as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Multiple Exchange Index means each Security Index specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Related Exchange means, in respect of a Security Index, each exchange or quotation system specified as such for such Security Index in the applicable Issue Terms or any successor to such exchange or quotation system, or any substitute exchange or quotation system to which trading in futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Security Index has temporarily relocated (PROVIDED THAT the Calculation Agent has determined that there is comparable liquidity relative to such futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Security Index on such temporary substitute exchange or quotation system as on the original exchange or quotation system). Where "All Exchanges" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms as the applicable Related Exchange in respect of a Security Index, then "Related Exchange" means each exchange or quotation system where trading has a material effect (as determined by the Calculation Agent) on the overall market for futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Security Index.

Scheduled Closing Time means, in respect of a Security Index, a Scheduled Trading Day and an Exchange or a Related Exchange (as relevant) for such Security Index, the scheduled weekday closing time of such Exchange or Related Exchange on such Scheduled Trading Day, without regard to after-hours trading or any other trading outside the hours of the regular trading session on such Exchange or Related Exchange.

Scheduled Trading Day means (a) in respect of a Single Exchange Index, any day on which each Exchange and each Related Exchange in respect of such Single Exchange Index is scheduled to be open for trading for its respective regular trading sessions; and (b) in respect of a Multiple Exchange Index, any day on which (i) the Index Sponsor in respect of such Multiple Exchange Index is scheduled to publish the level of such Multiple Exchange Index, (ii) each Related Exchange in respect of such Multiple Exchange Index is scheduled to be open for trading for its regular trading session and (iii) the X Percentage is no more than 20 per cent. of the relevant Component Securities.

Security Index means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Security Index Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Single Exchange Index means each Security Index specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

X Percentage means, in respect of a Multiple Exchange Index and any day, the percentage of relevant Component Securities which are scheduled to be unavailable for trading on any relevant Exchange on such day by virtue of that day not being a day on which such relevant Exchange is scheduled to be open for trading during its regular trading session. For the purposes of determining the X Percentage in respect of a Multiple Exchange Index, the relevant percentage of a relevant Component Security unavailable for trading shall be based on a comparison of (a) the portion of the level of such Multiple Exchange Index attributable to such Component Security; and (b) the overall level of such Multiple Exchange Index, in each case, using the official opening weightings as published by the relevant Index Sponsor as part of the market "opening data".

2. Valuation

(a) Closing valuations

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Security Index and a Valuation Date, the official closing level of such Security Index either (a) where Same Day Publication is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, on such Valuation Date (and in which circumstances, where the level of such Security Index is published on a succeeding Scheduled Trading Day, the level for that Valuation Date will have been the level calculated for the Security Index for or in respect of a preceding Scheduled Trading Day) or (b) where Same Day Publication is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, for such Valuation Date (and in which circumstances the level for that Valuation Date may be published on a succeeding Scheduled Trading Day), in each case, as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page.

Valuation Time means (a) in respect of a Single Exchange Index where Single Valuation Time is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, an Underlying Closing Level and a Scheduled Trading Day, the Scheduled Closing Time on the relevant Exchange on such Scheduled Trading Day and (b) in respect of a Multiple Exchange Index or a Single Exchange Index where Single Valuation Time is specified as not applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and a Scheduled Trading Day: (i) for the purposes of determining whether a Market Disruption Event in respect of such Security Index has occurred: (A) in respect of any Component Security, the Scheduled Closing Time on the Exchange in respect of such Component Security; and (B) in respect of any options contracts or future contracts on such Security Index, the close of trading on the relevant Related Exchange; and (ii) in all other circumstances, the time at which the official closing level of such Security Index is calculated and published by the relevant Index Sponsor.

(b) Intraday valuations

Underlying Level means, in respect of a Security Index and a Valuation Date, the level of such Security Index observed continuously during such Valuation Date, as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page.

Valuation Time means, in respect of a Security Index, an Underlying Level and a Scheduled Trading Day for such Security Index, the time at which the level of such Security Index is being determined during such Scheduled Trading Day.

3. Disruption To Valuation

Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Security Index, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Security Index on which a Market Disruption Event occurs.

(a) Single Exchange Index

Market Disruption Event means, in respect of a Security Index which is a Single Exchange Index, the occurrence of any of the events set out below:

- (i) the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Security Index; or
- (ii) a relevant Exchange or any relevant Related Exchange fails to open for trading during its regular trading session; or
- (iii) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any relevant Exchange of Component Securities which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or
- (iv) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any relevant Related Exchange of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Security Index; or

- (v) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub-paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for relevant Component Securities which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or
- (vi) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub-paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Related Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for any futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Security Index; or
- (vii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any relevant Exchange in respect of Component Securities which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Exchange at least one hour prior to the earlier of (A) the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Exchange on such Exchange Business Day; and (B) the deadline for the submission of orders to be entered into such Exchange system for execution at the relevant Valuation Time on such Exchange Business Day); or
- (viii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any Related Exchange in respect of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Security Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Related Exchange at least one hour prior to the earlier of (A) the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Related Exchange on such Exchange Business Day; and (B) the deadline for the submission of orders to be entered into such Related Exchange system for execution at the relevant Valuation Time on such Exchange Business Day).

(b) Multiple Exchange Index

Market Disruption Event means, in respect of a Security Index which is a Multiple Exchange Index, the occurrence of any of the events set out below:

- (i) the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Security Index; or
- (ii) any Related Exchange fails to open for trading during its regular trading session; or
- (iii) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any relevant Exchange of any relevant Component Security, and the aggregate of all relevant Component Securities so affected plus the X Percentage comprises 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or
- (iv) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any relevant Related Exchange of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Security Index; or
- (v) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub-paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for any relevant Component Security, and the aggregate of all relevant Component Securities so affected plus the X Percentage comprises 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or

- (vi) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub-paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Related Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for any futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Security Index; or
- (vii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any relevant Exchange in respect of any relevant Component Security prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Exchange at least one hour prior to the earlier of (A) the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Exchange on such Exchange Business Day; and (B) the deadline for the submission of orders to be entered into such Exchange System for execution at the relevant Valuation Time on such Exchange Business Day), and the aggregate of all relevant Component Securities so affected plus the X Percentage comprises 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Security Index; or
- (viii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any Related Exchange in respect of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Security Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Related Exchange at least one hour prior to the earlier of (A) the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Related Exchange on such Exchange Business Day; and (B) the deadline for the submission of orders to be entered into such Related Exchange System for execution at the relevant Valuation Time on such Exchange Business Day).

(c) Determining whether or not a Market Disruption Event exists

For the purposes of determining whether or not a Market Disruption Event exists in respect of a Security Index at any time, if an event giving rise to a Market Disruption Event occurs in respect of a Component Security of such Security Index at such time, then the relevant percentage contribution of such Component Security to the level of such Security Index shall be based on a comparison of (i) the portion of the level of such Security Index attributable to such Component Security; and (ii) the overall level of such Security Index, either (A) where such Security Index is a Single Exchange Index, immediately before the occurrence of such Market Disruption Event; or (B) where such Security Index is a Multiple Exchange Index, using the official opening weightings as published by the relevant Index Sponsor as part of the market "opening data".

For the purposes of determining whether or not a Market Disruption Event exists in respect of a Component Security at any time, if an event giving rise to a Market Disruption Event occurs in respect of such Component Security at such time, then the relevant percentage contribution of such Component Security to the level of the relevant Security Index shall be based on a comparison of (i) the portion of the level of such Security Index attributable to such Component Security; and (ii) the overall level of such Security Index, using the official opening weightings as published by the relevant Index Sponsor as part of the market "opening data".

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Events shall apply in respect of a Security Index if Security Index Condition 4 is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) such Security Index is either (a) not calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Index Sponsor but instead is calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to such relevant Index Sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent; or (b) replaced by a successor index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of such Security Index (such index, the Successor Index, which will be deemed to be such Security Index); and
- (b) each Additional Disruption Event (if any) specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Security Index if Security Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made under Security Index Condition 6(b) (Modification or cancellation of a Security Index and Security Index Substitution).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Security Index, two Business Days.

- (b) Modification or cancellation of a Security Index and Security Index Substitution

- (i) Security Index Adjustment Events

If Security Index Condition 6(b)(i) (Security Index Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Security Index, (A) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor announces that it will make a material change in the formula for or the method of calculating the level of such Security Index or in any other way materially modifies such Security Index (other than a modification prescribed in that formula or method to maintain such Security Index in the event of changes in Component Securities and capitalisation and other routine events) (a Security Index Modification); or (B) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor at any time permanently cancels such Security Index and no Successor Index (as defined in Security Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events)) exists (a Security Index Cancellation); or (C) on or prior to any Valuation Date the relevant Index Sponsor or any person or entity on its behalf fails to calculate and announce such Security Index (a Security Index Disruption, and together with a Security Index Modification and a Security Index Cancellation, a Security Index Adjustment Event), then the Calculation Agent shall determine if such Security Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities, and if so, either:

- (A) calculate the relevant level of such Security Index at the relevant time on such Valuation Date using, in lieu of a published level for such Security Index, the level of such Security Index at the relevant time on such Valuation Date as determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the formula for and the method of calculating the level of such Security Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of such Security Index Adjustment Event but using only those Component Securities or other assets or instruments which comprised such Security Index immediately prior to the occurrence of such Security Index Adjustment Event (other than those Component Securities or other assets or instruments which have since ceased to be listed on any relevant Exchange); and/or
- (B) substitute such Security Index as provided in Security Index Condition 6(b)(ii) (Security Index Substitution) and make such adjustments (if any) to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as it deems necessary or appropriate in relation to such substitution to account for the effect of such Security Index

Adjustment Event in order to preserve the original economic rationale and objectives of the Securities; and/or

- (C) make such adjustments to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Security Index Adjustment Event in order to preserve the original economic rationale and objectives of the Securities and determine the effective date of each such adjustment."; and

If no calculation, substitution and/or adjustment can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Security Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(ii) Security Index Substitution

If Security Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent pursuant to Security Index Condition 6(b)(i)(B) (Security Index Adjustment Events) shall be, and any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent in response to an Adjustment Event may include, a Security Index Substitution.

Security Index Substitution means, in relation to a Security Index Adjustment Event or an Adjustment Event, the replacement of the Security Index the subject of such Security Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be, with a new security index selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be a replacement security index which is reasonably comparable to the relevant Security Index and using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Security Index or a replacement security index selected by the Calculation Agent in accordance with any other criteria specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement). Such new security index shall be deemed to be a Security Index in place of the Security Index the subject of the Security Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Security Index on a Disrupted Day

If, in accordance with Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)), an Underlying Closing Level of a Security Index is to be determined on a Valuation Date which is a Disrupted Day for such Security Index, then the Calculation Agent shall determine such Underlying Closing Level of such Security Index at the Valuation Time on such Valuation Date in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating the level of such Security Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of the first Disrupted Day in respect of such Security Index, using either (i) the price traded or quoted on the relevant Exchange as of the relevant Valuation Time on such Valuation Date of each Component Security contained in such Security Index; or (ii) (if an event giving rise to a Disrupted Day has occurred in respect of the relevant Component Security on that Valuation Date) its good faith estimate of the value for the relevant Component Security as of the relevant Valuation Time on such Valuation Date.

(d) Calculation Agent's discretion to determine non-material events

If the Calculation Agent determines that it is not material that any day on which would otherwise have been a Valuation Date is:

- (i) not a Scheduled Trading Day for a Security Index because one or more relevant Related Exchanges is not scheduled to be open; or
- (ii) a Disrupted Day for a Security Index solely because any relevant Related Exchange fails to open, then the Calculation Agent shall have the discretion to determine any such day either (A) to be the Valuation Date in respect of a Security Index, notwithstanding that such day is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such Security Index because one or more such Related Exchanges is not scheduled to be open; or (B) not to be a Disrupted Day where such day would be a Disrupted Day solely because any such Related Exchange fails to open.

In determining what is "material", the Calculation Agent shall have regard to such circumstances as it deems appropriate, which may include (without limitation) the effect of the above on (I) any Underlying Closing Level or any Underlying Level (as relevant) of the affected Security Index; (II) any trading in futures contracts or options contracts on any such relevant Related Exchange; and (III) the Issuer's hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities.

(e) Conditions for Bond Indices

In relation to Security Indices which are specified in the applicable Issue Terms to be Bond Indices, all references to "Security Index" and "Security Indices" in these Security Index Conditions shall be deemed to be references to "Bond Index" and "Bond Indices" and these Security Index Conditions shall be deemed to be amended as set out below.

(i) Valuation

The definition "Valuation Time" set out in Security Index Condition 2(a) (Closing valuations) shall be deleted and replaced by the following:

Valuation Time means, in respect of an Underlying Closing Level and a Scheduled Trading Day, (A) for the purposes of determining whether a Market Disruption Event has occurred in respect of any relevant Component Security, the time at which such Component Security is valued for the purposes of determining the level of such Bond Index for the relevant day; and (B) in all other circumstances, the time at which the level of such Bond Index for such day is calculated and published by the relevant Index Sponsor."

(ii) Market Disruption Event

In relation to a Bond Index, the definition of "Market Disruption Event" set out in Security Index Condition 3(b) (Multiple Exchange Index) shall be amended by the insertion of the word "or" at the end of sub paragraph (viii) and the insertion of the following paragraphs as sub-paragraphs (ix) to (xii) after sub-paragraph (viii) thereof:

- "(ix) a general moratorium is declared in respect of banking activities in the country in which the Exchange in respect of a Component Security is located (which the Calculation Agent determines is material); or
- (x) the difference between the bid and offer prices of any Component Security increases compared to that prevailing as at the Issue Date at any time (which the Calculation Agent determines is material); or
- (xi) the calculation of such Bond Index is impractical or impossible at any time save in circumstances in which the relevant Index Sponsor fails to calculate and publish such Bond Index as described in Security Index Condition 6(b) (Modification or cancellation of a Security Index and Security Index Substitution); or
- (xii) a reduction in liquidity in any Component Security and/or any other event or circumstance that is beyond the reasonable control of the Issuer that prevents or limits transactions in the Component Security (which the Calculation Agent determines is material)."

(iii) In relation to a Bond Index, Security Index Condition 6 (Additional Provisions) shall be amended as follows:

- (1) the first paragraph of Security Index Condition 6(b) (Modification or cancellation of a Security Index and Security Index Substitution) shall be amended by the deletion of the words "(other than a modification prescribed in that formula or method to maintain such Security Index in the event of changes in Component

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 1 – SECURITY INDEX CONDITIONS

Securities and capitalisation and other routine events)" in the third, fourth and fifth lines thereof and the substitution of the words "(other than a modification prescribed in the conditions or methodology of the relevant Bond Index to maintain the relevant Bond Index in the event of changes in Component Securities and other routine events)" therefore; and

- (2) Security Index Condition 6(d) (Calculation Agent's discretion to determine non-material events) shall not apply to the Bond Index.
- (iv) In relation to a Bond Index, there shall be no definition of "Related Exchange" and the Conditions shall be construed accordingly.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 2 – INFLATION INDEX CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as an "Inflation Index".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Inflation Indices.

1. Definitions

Cut-off Date means, in respect of a Payment Date, the day which is five Business Days prior to such Payment Date.

Fallback Bond means, in respect of an Inflation Index, if "Fallback Bond" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, (a) the bond specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms; or (b) if no such bond is specified, a bond selected by the Calculation Agent and issued by the government of the country to whose level of inflation such Inflation Index relates and which pays interest or a redemption amount which is calculated by reference to such Inflation Index, with a maturity date which falls on (i) the same day as the Maturity Date; (ii) the next longest maturity after the Maturity Date if there is no such bond maturing on the Maturity Date; or (iii) the next shortest maturity before the Maturity Date if no bond described in (a) or (b) above is selected by the Calculation Agent. If the Inflation Index relates to the level of inflation across the European Monetary Union (EMU), then the Calculation Agent will select an inflation-linked bond which is a debt obligation of one of the governments (but not any government agency) of France, Italy, Germany or Spain and which pays interest or a redemption amount which is calculated by reference to the level of inflation in the EMU. In each case, the Calculation Agent will select the Fallback Bond from those inflation-linked bonds issued on or before the Issue Date and, if there is more than one inflation-linked bond maturing on the same date, then the Fallback Bond shall be selected by the Calculation Agent from those bonds. If the Fallback Bond in respect of an Inflation Index redeems, then the Calculation Agent will select a new Fallback Bond on the same basis, but selected from all eligible bonds in issue at the time the original Fallback Bond redeems (including any bond for which the redeemed bond is exchanged).

Index Sponsor means, in respect of an Inflation Index, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculation and adjustments, if any, related to such Inflation Index; and (b) announces (directly or through an agent) the level of such Inflation Index.

Inflation Index means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms or any Successor Index.

Inflation Index Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Manifest Error Cut-off Date means, in respect of a Payment Date, two Business Days prior to such Payment Date, unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Payment Date means, in respect of a Valuation Date, the Interest Payment Date, the Maturity Date or other date to which such Valuation Date relates.

Reference Month means, in respect of an Inflation Index and a Valuation Date, each month specified as such for such Valuation Date in the applicable Issue Terms.

Revision Cut-off Date means, in respect of a Payment Date, two Business Days prior to such Payment Date, unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

2. Valuation

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of an Inflation Index, a Valuation Date and a related Reference Month, the level of such Inflation Index in respect of such Reference Month, as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page.

Valuation Time and Underlying Level shall not apply to an Inflation Index.

3. Disruption To Valuation

(a) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of an Inflation Index on a Valuation Date

Any Specified Valuation Date shall not be adjusted in relation to an Inflation Index and the Substitute Index Level provisions set out below shall apply thereto. The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) shall only apply in relation to Underlying(s) which are not Inflation Indices (if any).

(b) Substitute Index Level

If an Underlying Closing Level for a Reference Month has not been published or announced by the Cut-off Date for the relevant Payment Date, then the Calculation Agent shall, subject to any provisions specified in the applicable Issue Terms, determine a substitute index level (the Substitute Index Level) by using the following methodology:

- (i) if Fallback Bond is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent will take the same action to determine the Substitute Index Level for the affected Reference Month as that taken by the relevant calculation agent pursuant to the terms and conditions of any relevant Fallback Bond; and
- (ii) if there is no Fallback Bond or sub-paragraph (i) does not result in a Substitute Index Level for the relevant Reference Month for any reason, then the Calculation Agent will determine the Substitute Index Level in accordance with the formula set out below:

$$\text{Substitute Index Level} = \text{Base Level} * (\text{Latest Level} / \text{Reference Level})$$

Where:

Base Level means, in respect of an Inflation Index, the level of such Inflation Index (excluding any "flash" estimate) published or announced by the relevant Index Sponsor in respect of the month which is 12 calendar months prior to the Reference Month for which the Substitute Index Level is being determined;

Latest Level means, in respect of an Inflation Index, the latest level of such Inflation Index (excluding any "flash" estimate) published or announced by the relevant Index Sponsor prior to the Reference Month in respect of which the Substitute Index Level is being determined;

Reference Level means, in respect of an Inflation Index, the level of such Inflation Index (excluding any "flash" estimate) published or announced by the relevant Index Sponsor in respect of the month which is 12 calendar months prior to the Reference Month referred to in the definition for "Latest Level" above; and

- (iii) if the Underlying Closing Level of an Inflation Index for a Reference Month is published or announced at any time after the Cut-off Date for the relevant Payment Date, then such Underlying Closing Level will not be used in any calculation. The Substitute Index Level determined pursuant to this Inflation Index Condition 3 (Disruption To Valuation) will be the Underlying Closing Level in respect of the relevant Reference Month.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of an Inflation Index if Inflation Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the relevant Index Sponsor imposes on the Issuer and/or any of its Affiliates increased or unexpected fees and costs for the use of such Inflation Index, which the Calculation Agent determines are material.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Events shall apply in respect of an Inflation Index if Inflation Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:

- (a) the Calculation Agent determines that no Successor Index can be determined under Inflation Index Condition 6(d) (Substitution of an Inflation Index); and
- (b) the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably be made under Inflation Index Condition 6(e) (Modification of an Inflation Index).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(l) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) shall not apply in respect of an Inflation Index.

- (b) Revision of the level of an Inflation Index

The operation of this Inflation Index Condition 6(b) (Revision of the level of an Inflation Index) is subject as provided in Inflation Index Condition 6(c) (Correction of a manifest error in the level of an Inflation Index) below.

If "Revision" is specified as applicable for an Inflation Index in the applicable Issue Terms, then the first publication and announcement of an Underlying Closing Level of such Inflation Index, or any revision to such Underlying Closing Level made no later than the relevant Revision Cut-off Date, shall be final and conclusive.

If "No Revision" is specified as applicable for an Inflation Index in the applicable Issue Terms, then the first publication and announcement of an Underlying Closing Level of such Inflation Index shall be final and conclusive, and any later revision to such Underlying Closing Level will not be used in any calculation.

If neither "Revision" nor "No Revision" is elected in the applicable Issue Terms, then "No Revision" shall be deemed to apply.

- (c) Correction of a manifest error in the level of an Inflation Index

If the Calculation Agent determines that the Index Sponsor of an Inflation Index has corrected an Underlying Closing Level for such Inflation Index to correct a manifest error no later than the earlier to occur of (i) the relevant Manifest Error Cut-off Date; and (ii) 30 calendar days following the first publication and announcement of such Underlying Closing Level, then the Calculation Agent may use such corrected Underlying Closing Level for the purposes of any calculation in respect of any relevant Valuation Date. Any correction to an Underlying Closing Level of such Inflation Index published after the relevant Manifest Error Cut-off Date will not be used in any calculation in respect of any relevant Valuation Date. In the event of any inconsistency (as determined by the Calculation Agent) between this Inflation Index Condition 6(c) (Correction of a manifest error in the level of an Inflation Index) and Inflation Index Condition 6(b) (Revision of the level of an Inflation Index), the operation of this Inflation Index Condition 6(c) (Correction of a manifest error in the level of an Inflation Index) shall prevail.

- (d) Substitution of an Inflation Index

If Inflation Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and the Calculation Agent determines that either (i) a level for an Inflation Index has not been published or announced for two consecutive months; and/or (ii) the Index Sponsor announces that it will no longer continue to publish or announce such Inflation Index; and/or (iii) the Index Sponsor cancels such Inflation Index, then the Calculation Agent may replace such Inflation Index with a successor index (a Successor Index) by using the following methodology:

- (i) if at any time a successor index has been designated in respect of an Inflation Index by the calculation agent under any relevant Fallback Bond pursuant to the terms and conditions of such Fallback Bond, then such successor index may be designated a "Successor Index" for such Inflation Index for the purposes of all subsequent Valuation Dates, notwithstanding that any other Successor Index may previously have been determined under sub-paragraph (ii) or (iii);
- (ii) if a Successor Index has not been determined under sub-paragraph (i) and a notice has been given or an announcement has been made by the relevant Index Sponsor, specifying that such Inflation Index will be superseded by a replacement inflation index specified by the relevant Index Sponsor, and the Calculation Agent determines that such replacement inflation index is calculated using the same or substantially similar formula or method of calculation as used in the calculation of the previously applicable Inflation Index, then such replacement index shall be such Inflation Index for purposes of the Securities from the date that such replacement Inflation Index comes into effect;
- (iii) if no Successor Index has been determined under sub-paragraph (i) or (ii) by the fifth Business Day prior to the Cut-off Date in respect of the next following Payment Date, then the Calculation Agent will determine an appropriate alternative index and such index will be deemed a "Successor Index".

If a Successor Index is determined in accordance with the above, the Calculation Agent may make such adjustment(s) to the terms of these Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for such replacement and determine the effective date(s) of the adjustment(s) to the Securities.

If no Successor Index can be determined pursuant to the above, the provisions of Inflation Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(e) Modification of an Inflation Index

If, on or prior to any Cut-off Date in respect of a Payment Date, an Index Sponsor announces that it will make a material change to an Inflation Index, then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustments to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms (i) (if a Fallback Bond is specified for the relevant Inflation Index) as are consistent with any adjustment made to the relevant Fallback Bond; or (ii) (if no Fallback Bond is specified for the relevant Inflation Index) as are necessary for such modified Inflation Index to continue as an Inflation Index.

If no such adjustment can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Inflation Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(f) Rebasing of the Inflation Index

If the Calculation Agent determines that an Inflation Index has been or will be rebased at any time, then the Inflation Index as so rebased (the Rebased Index) will be used for the purposes of determining any Underlying Closing Level of such Inflation Index from the date of such rebasing.

If a Fallback Bond is specified for the relevant Inflation Index, then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustments to the levels of such Rebased Index as are made by the calculation agent pursuant to the terms and conditions of the relevant Fallback Bond, so that the levels of such Rebased Index reflect the same rate of inflation as the relevant Inflation Index before it was rebased.

If no Fallback Bond is specified for the relevant Inflation Index, then the Calculation Agent shall make such adjustments to the levels of such Rebased Index, so that the levels of such Rebased Index reflect the same rate of inflation as the relevant Inflation Index before it was rebased.

In each case, the Calculation Agent may make such adjustment(s) to the terms of these Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for such rebasing and determine the effective date(s) of the adjustment(s) to the Securities.

Any such rebasing shall not affect any prior payments made under the Securities.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 3 – COMMODITY INDEX CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Commodity Index".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Commodity Indices.

1. Definitions

Commodity Index means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Commodity Index Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Component means, in respect of a Commodity Index, each component included in such Commodity Index.

Component Trading Day means, in respect of a Component, a day on which the Exchange for such Component is scheduled to be open for trading for its regular trading session, notwithstanding such Exchange closing prior to the Scheduled Closing Time for such Component.

Exchange means, in respect of a Commodity Index, each exchange, quotation system, over-the-counter market or principal trading market on which each relevant Component is (as determined by the Calculation Agent) principally traded and, in respect of a Component of a Commodity Index, the exchange, quotation system, over-the-counter market or principal trading market on which such Component is (as determined by the Calculation Agent) principally traded.

Exchange Business Day means, in respect of a Commodity Index, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Commodity Index on which the relevant Index Sponsor publishes the level of such Commodity Index.

Index Sponsor means, in respect of a Commodity Index, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculations and adjustments, if any, related to such Commodity Index; and (b) announces (directly or through an agent) the level of such Commodity Index on a regular basis.

Related Exchange means, in respect of a Commodity Index and options contracts and futures contracts on such Commodity Index, any exchange on which such options contracts or futures contracts on such Commodity Index are traded.

Scheduled Closing Time means (a) in respect of a Scheduled Trading Day and an Exchange or a Related Exchange, the scheduled weekday closing time on such Exchange or Related Exchange on such Scheduled Trading Day, without regard to after-hours trading or any other trading outside the hours of the regular trading session on such Exchange and (b) in respect of a Component Trading Day, a Component and the Exchange for such Component, the scheduled weekday closing time on such Exchange on such Component Trading Day, without regard to after-hours trading or any other trading outside the hours of the regular trading session on such Exchange.

Scheduled Trading Day means, in respect of a Commodity Index, any day on which the relevant Index Sponsor is scheduled to publish the level of such Commodity Index and, where Commodity Component Valuation is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, any day on which the Exchange for each Component of such Commodity Index is scheduled to be open for trading for its regular trading session, notwithstanding any such Exchange closing prior to the Scheduled Closing Time for the relevant Component.

Successor Index shall have the meaning given to it in Commodity Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events).

Tax Disruption means, in respect of a Commodity Index, the imposition of, change in or removal of a Relevant Tax by any relevant government or taxing authority after the Trade Date, if the direct effect of such imposition, change or removal is to increase or decrease the level of the Commodity Index on a day which would otherwise be a Valuation Date from what it would have been without such imposition, change or removal. For these purposes, Relevant Tax means, in respect of a Component or commodity relating to such Component, any excise, severance, sales, use, value-added, transfer, stamp, documentary, recording or other similar tax on, or measured by reference to, such Component or commodity (other than a tax on, or measured by reference to, overall gross or net income).

2. Valuation

(a) Closing valuations

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Commodity Index and a Valuation Date, the official closing level of such Commodity Index on such Valuation Date or, where the level of such Commodity Index is only published once in respect of any day, the level of such Commodity Index either (a) where Same Day Publication is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, on such Valuation Date (and in which circumstances, where the level of such Commodity Index is published on a succeeding Scheduled Trading Day, the level for that Valuation Date will have been the level calculated for the Commodity Index for or in respect of a preceding Scheduled Trading Day) or (b) where Same Day Publication is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, for such Valuation Date (and in which circumstances the level for that Valuation Date may be published on a succeeding Scheduled Trading Day), on the applicable Electronic Page.

Valuation Time means, in respect of a Commodity Index, an Underlying Closing Level and a Scheduled Trading Day, (i) for the purposes of determining whether a Disrupted Day has occurred: (A) in respect of any relevant Component, the time at which such Component is valued for the purposes of determining the relevant level of such Commodity Index, and (B) in respect of any options contracts or future contracts on the Commodity Index, the close of trading on the relevant Related Exchange; and (ii) in all other circumstances, either (A) where the level of such Commodity Index is only published once a day, the time at which the level of such Commodity Index for such day is calculated and published by the relevant Index Sponsor or (B) otherwise, the time at which the official closing level of the Commodity Index is calculated and published by the relevant Index Sponsor.

(b) Intraday valuations

Underlying Level means, in respect of a Commodity Index and a Valuation Date, the level of such Commodity Index observed continuously during such Valuation Date, as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page.

Valuation Time means, in respect of a Commodity Index, an Underlying Level and a Scheduled Trading Day, the time at which the level of such Commodity Index is being determined during such Scheduled Trading Day.

3. Disruption to Valuation

Disrupted Day means:

- (a) where Commodity Component Valuation is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Commodity Index, any Scheduled Trading Day on which any of the events set out below occurs:
 - (i) the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Commodity Index;
 - (ii) a temporary or permanent failure by the relevant Exchange to announce or publish a relevant price for any relevant Component of such Commodity Index;
 - (iii) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any relevant

- Exchange of relevant Components which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Commodity Index; or
- (iv) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any suspension of or limitation imposed (whether by reason of movements in price exceeding permitted limits or otherwise) on the trading on any Related Exchange of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Commodity Index; or
 - (v) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any relevant Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for relevant Components which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Commodity Index; or
 - (vi) the occurrence or existence (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) at any time during the one hour period which ends at the relevant Valuation Time of any other event (other than an event described in sub-paragraph (vii) or sub paragraph (viii) of this definition) which disrupts or impairs (as determined by the Calculation Agent) the ability of market participants in general (on any Related Exchange) to effect transactions in or to obtain market values for any futures contracts or options contracts relating to such Commodity Index; or
 - (vii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any relevant Exchange in respect of relevant Components which in aggregate comprise 20 per cent. or more of the level of such Commodity Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Exchange at least one hour prior to the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Exchange on such Exchange Business Day); or
 - (viii) the closure (which the Calculation Agent determines is material) on any Exchange Business Day of any Related Exchange in respect of futures contracts or option contracts relating to such Commodity Index prior to its Scheduled Closing Time (unless such earlier closing time is announced by such Related Exchange at least one hour prior to the actual closing time for the regular trading session on such Related Exchange on such Exchange Business Day); or
- (b) where Commodity Component Valuation is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms:
- (i) in respect of a Commodity Index, any Scheduled Trading Day on which any of the events set out below occurs:
 - (x) the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Commodity Index;
 - (y) such day is a Disrupted Day in respect of a Component of such Commodity Index as specified in sub-paragraphs (ii)(x), (y) or (z) below.
 - (ii) in respect of a Component, any Component Trading Day on which any of the events set out below occurs:
 - (x) the failure of a relevant Exchange to announce or publish the settlement price for such Component (or other relevant price, or prices from which such price is calculated);

- (y) the suspension of or limitation on trading in such Component on the relevant Exchange which the Calculation Agent determines is material; and
- (z) the closing or settlement price for such Component is a "limit price" which means that such closing or settlement price for such Component for the relevant day has increased or decreased from the previous day's closing or settlement price by the maximum amount permitted under applicable exchange rules.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

- (a) The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Commodity Index if Commodity Index Condition 4(a) (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: such Commodity Index is either (i) not calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Index Sponsor but instead is calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to such relevant Index Sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent; or (ii) replaced by a successor index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of such Commodity Index (such index, the Successor Index, which will be deemed to be such Commodity Index);
- (b) The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Commodity Index if Commodity Index Condition 4(b) (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the relevant Index Sponsor imposes on the Issuer and/or any of its Affiliates increased or unexpected fees and costs for the use of such Commodity Index, which the Calculation Agent determines are material; or
- (c) if "Tax Disruption" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent determines in good faith that (i) a Tax Disruption has occurred or exists; and (ii) such Tax Disruption is material.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Commodity Index if Commodity Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation or substitution can reasonably be made under Commodity Index Condition 6(b) (Modification or cancellation of a Commodity Index and Commodity Index Substitution).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Commodity Index, 30 calendar days.

- (b) Modification or cancellation of a Commodity Index and Commodity Index Substitution

- (i) Commodity Index Adjustment Events

If Commodity Index Condition 6(b)(i) (Commodity Index Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Commodity Index, (A) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor announces that it will make a material change in the formula for or the method of calculating the level of such Commodity Index or in any other way materially modifies such Commodity Index (other than a modification prescribed in that formula or method to maintain such Commodity Index in the event of changes in relevant Components and other routine events) (a Commodity Index Modification); or (B) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor at any time permanently cancels such Commodity Index and no Successor Index (as defined in Commodity Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events)) exists (a Commodity Index Cancellation); or (C) on or prior to any Valuation Date the relevant Index Sponsor or any person or entity on its behalf fails to calculate and announce such Commodity Index (a Commodity Index Disruption, and together with a Commodity Index Modification and a Commodity Index Cancellation, a Commodity Index Adjustment Event), then the Calculation Agent shall determine if such Commodity Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities, and if so, either:

- (A) calculate the relevant level of such Commodity Index at the relevant time on such Valuation Date using, in lieu of a published level for such Commodity Index, the level of such Commodity Index at the relevant time on such Valuation Date as determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the formula for and the method of calculating the level of such Commodity Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event but using only those Components or other assets or instruments which comprised such Commodity Index immediately prior to the occurrence of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event (other than those Components which have since ceased to be listed on any relevant Exchange); and/or
- (B) the Calculation Agent shall substitute such Commodity Index as provided in Commodity Index Condition 6(b)(ii) (Commodity Index Substitution) and make such adjustments (if any) to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as it deems necessary or appropriate in relation to such substitution; and/or
- (C) make such adjustments to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event and determine the effective date of each such adjustment.

If no calculation, substitution and/or adjustment can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Commodity Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(ii) Commodity Index Substitution

If Commodity Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent pursuant to Commodity Index Condition 6(c) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity Index on a Disrupted Day) shall be, and any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent in response to an Adjustment Event may include, a Commodity Index Substitution.

Commodity Index Substitution means, in relation to a Commodity Index Adjustment Event or an Adjustment Event, the replacement of the Commodity Index the subject of such Commodity Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be, with a new commodity index selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be a replacement commodity index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Commodity Index). Such new commodity index shall be deemed to be a Commodity Index in place of the Commodity Index the subject of the Commodity Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity Index on a Disrupted Day

- (i) Where Commodity Component Valuation is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms if an Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity Index is determined on a Scheduled Trading Day which is a Disrupted Day for such Commodity Index in accordance with Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)), then the Calculation Agent shall determine such Underlying Closing Level of such Commodity Index at the Valuation Time on such Scheduled Trading Day in accordance with the formula for and method of calculating the level of such Commodity Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of the first Disrupted Day in respect of such Commodity Index, using either (i) the price traded or quoted on the relevant Exchange as of the relevant Valuation Time on such Scheduled Trading Day of each relevant Component; or (ii) (if an event giving rise to a Disrupted Day has occurred in respect of the relevant Component on that Scheduled Trading Day) its good faith estimate of the value of the relevant Component as of the relevant Valuation Time on such Scheduled Trading Day.

- (ii) Where Commodity Component Valuation is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, if a Specified Valuation Date for a Commodity Index is a Disrupted Day for such Commodity Index, then, in order to determine the Underlying Closing Level of the relevant Commodity Index for such Valuation Date, the Calculation Agent shall determine the relevant Underlying Closing Level for such Valuation Date using the then-current method for calculating the level of such Commodity Index based on:
 - (A) with respect to each Component which is not affected by the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, the closing or settlement price of each such Component on such Specified Valuation Date; and
 - (B) with respect to each Component which is affected by the occurrence of a Disrupted Day, the closing or settlement price of each such Component on the earlier of: (1) the first succeeding day immediately following such Specified Valuation Date which is a Component Trading Day for the relevant Component and which is not a Disrupted Day for such Component; and (2) the Scheduled Trading Day which is the Valuation Roll number of Scheduled Trading Days for the relevant Commodity Index immediately following such Specified Valuation Date.

If, by operation of the above provision, the date for valuation of the relevant Component would fall on a day which is a Disrupted Day for such Component, the Calculation Agent shall determine the closing or settlement price of the relevant Component for the relevant Valuation Date using its good faith estimate of the closing or settlement price of such Component for such day.

If, by operation of the above provision, the date for valuation of the relevant Component would otherwise fall on a day falling after the second Scheduled Trading Day for the relevant Commodity Index prior to the date on which a relevant payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (the Commodity Index Cut-off Date), such date of valuation shall be deemed to be the Commodity Index Cut-off Date (notwithstanding that such date either (I) is not a Component Trading Day for such Component; or (II) is a Disrupted Day for such Component; or (III) is a Disrupted Day for the relevant Commodity Index), and the Calculation Agent shall determine the closing or settlement price of the relevant Component for the relevant Valuation Date using its good faith estimate of the closing or settlement price of such Component for such day.

Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) and Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) shall not apply to a Specified Valuation Date relating to a Commodity Index except that, if a Disrupted Day occurs in respect of an Underlying other than a Commodity Index and "Move in Block" is specified for "Valuation Disruption (Disrupted Days)" in respect of the relevant Valuation Date in the applicable Issue Terms, the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall apply thereto PROVIDED THAT if by operation of such provision the relevant Valuation Date would thereby fall after the relevant Commodity Index Cut-off Date, the provisions set out in the preceding paragraph shall apply.

In all other cases, the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) and Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) shall only apply in relation to Underlying(s) which are not Commodity Indices (if any).

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 4 – COMMODITY CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Commodity".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Commodities.

Calculation Agent Determination means that the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of the relevant Commodity (or the method for determining the Relevant Price of such Commodity) for the relevant Valuation Date, taking into consideration the latest available quotation for the relevant Commodity Price and any other information it deems relevant.

Cancellation means an Additional Early Redemption Event shall be deemed to have occurred as set out in Commodity Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) and the Securities will be redeemed in accordance with Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(h) (Early Redemption Events).

Commodity Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Commodity Dealers means the four dealers specified in the applicable Issue Terms or, if four dealers are not so specified, four leading dealers in the relevant market selected by the Calculation Agent.

Commodity Price means, in respect of a Commodity, the price or other unit of quotation for such Commodity specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Delayed Publication and Announcement means, in respect of a Commodity and a Valuation Date, that the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of such Commodity for such Valuation Date, using the Relevant Price for such Valuation Date that is published or announced by the relevant Price Source retrospectively on any succeeding Scheduled Trading Day. The next Disruption Fallback shall apply if the Disruption Event continues to exist or the Relevant Price for such Valuation Date continues to be unavailable for consecutive Scheduled Trading Days equal in number to the Valuation Roll (measured from and including the original day for which the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) was sought), subject as provided in Commodity Condition 6(b) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity on a Disrupted Day).

Delivery Date means, in respect of a Commodity and the relevant Commodity Price, the relevant date or month for delivery of such Commodity: (a) if a date is, or a month and year are, specified in the applicable Issue Terms, that date or that month and year; (b) if a Nearby Month is specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the month of the expiration of the relevant Futures Contract; and (c) if a method is specified in the applicable Issue Terms for the purpose of determining the Delivery Date, the date or the month and year determined pursuant to such method.

Exchange means, in respect of a Commodity, the exchange or principal trading market specified for such Commodity in the applicable Issue Terms or any successor to such exchange or principal trading market.

Fallback Commodity Dealers means, in respect of a Commodity and a Valuation Date, that the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of such Commodity for such Valuation Date on the basis of quotations for the Commodity Price of such Commodity provided by Commodity Dealers on such date for delivery on the relevant Delivery Date (if applicable). If four quotations are provided as requested, then the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of such Commodity for such Valuation Date will be the arithmetic mean of the prices provided by each Commodity Dealer, without regard to the highest price and the lowest price. If exactly three quotations are provided as requested, then the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of such Commodity for such Valuation Date will be the price which remains after disregarding the highest price and the lowest price. For this purpose, if more than one quotation have the same value, then one such quotation will be disregarded. If fewer than three quotations are provided, it will be deemed that the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of the relevant Commodity for such Valuation Date cannot be determined and the next Disruption Fallback shall apply, subject as provided in Commodity Condition 6(b) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Commodity on a Disrupted Day).

Fallback Commodity Price means, in respect of a Commodity and a Valuation Date, that the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of the relevant Commodity for such Valuation Date using the Commodity Price specified in the applicable Issue Terms as an alternative Commodity Price.

Futures Contract means, in respect of a Commodity and the relevant Commodity Price, the contract for future delivery of a contract size in respect of the Delivery Date relating to such Commodity specified in such Commodity Price. Where "Futures Contract" is preceded by a numerical adjective, such Futures Contract shall be the Futures Contract expiring in the Nearby Month having the same numerical adjective, so that for example (a) First Futures Contract means the Futures Contract expiring in the First Nearby Month; and (b) Second Futures Contract means the Futures Contract expiring in the Second Nearby Month.

- (i) not a Scheduled Trading Day because one or more relevant Related Exchanges is not scheduled to be open; or
- (ii) a Disrupted Day for a Share solely because any relevant Related Exchange fails to open,

then the Calculation Agent shall have the discretion to determine such day either (A) to be the relevant Valuation Date in respect of a Share, notwithstanding that such day is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such Share because one or more such Related Exchanges is not scheduled to be open; or (B) not to be a Disrupted Day where such day would be a Disrupted Day solely because any such Related Exchange fails to open.

In determining what is "material", the Calculation Agent shall have regard to such circumstances as it deems appropriate, which may include (without limitation) the effect of the above on (A) any Underlying Closing Level or any Underlying Level (as relevant) of the affected Share; (B) any trading in futures contracts or options contracts on any such relevant Related Exchange; and (C) the Issuer's hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities.

then the Calculation Agent shall have the discretion to determine such day either (A) to be the relevant Valuation Date in respect of a Depositary Receipt, notwithstanding that such day is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such Depositary Receipt because one or more relevant Depositary Receipt Related Exchanges and/or Underlying Share Related Exchanges is/are not scheduled to be open; or (B) not to be a Disrupted Day where such day would be a Disrupted Day solely because any relevant Depositary Receipt Related Exchange and/or any relevant Underlying Share Related Exchange fails to open.

In determining what is "material", the Calculation Agent shall have regard to such circumstances as it deems appropriate, which may include (without limitation) the effect of the above on (I) any Underlying Closing Level or the Underlying Level (as relevant) of the affected Depositary Receipt; (II) any trading in futures contracts or options contracts on any such relevant Depositary Receipt Related Exchange and/or any such relevant Underlying Share Related Exchange; or (III) the Issuer's hedging arrangements in respect of the Securities.

For the purposes of the above, Monetisation means:

- (i) on a date selected by the Calculation Agent (the Affected Mutual Fund Valuation Date), the Calculation Agent shall value the amount of the Mutual Fund Interest affected by the Adjustment Event (the Affected Mutual Fund Interests) relating to a Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) (such value, less except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates any costs and expenses of unwinding any related Hedging Positions, the Affected Mutual Fund Value); and
- (ii) the Calculation Agent shall adjust the formulae or method of determining any amounts payable in respect of the Securities to reflect the Affected Mutual Fund Value in lieu of the Relevant Price of the Affected Mutual Fund Interest, and shall adjust the Redemption Amount to include an amount in respect of interest (compounded on a daily basis) on the Affected Mutual Fund Value, as determined by the Calculation Agent, accrued at an overnight rate relating to the Specified Currency (being, in the case of Dual Currency Securities, the Denomination Currency) selected by the Calculation Agent during the period from (and including) the Affected Mutual Fund Valuation Date to (but excluding) the Maturity Date.

Specific Non-Transferability means, in respect of an FX Rate and as determined by the Calculation Agent, the occurrence of any event that has the direct or indirect effect of hindering, limiting, restricting, making it impossible or not reasonably practicable for any Hedging Party to deliver (a) any relevant amount in any relevant Non-Event Currency from accounts inside the relevant Event Currency Jurisdiction to accounts outside such Event Currency Jurisdiction or (b) any relevant amount in any relevant Event Currency between accounts inside the relevant Event Currency Jurisdiction or to a party that is a non-resident of such Event Currency Jurisdiction (including, without limitation, by reason of any delays, increased costs or discriminatory rates of exchange or any current or future restrictions on the repatriation of any relevant Event Currency into the relevant Non-Event Currency), other than where such hindrance, limitation, restriction, impossibility or impracticability is due solely to the failure by such Hedging Party to comply with any law, rule or regulation enacted by any Governmental Authority (unless such law, rule or regulation is enacted after the Trade Date and it is impossible or not reasonably practicable for such Hedging Party, due to an event beyond its control, to comply with such law, rule or regulation).

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of an FX Rate if FX Rate Part A Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: after the Trade Date and on or before any relevant payment date, a relevant country has lawfully eliminated, converted, redenominated, or exchanged its currency in effect on the Issue Date or any lawful successor currency thereto (the Successor Currency), as the case may be (the Original Currency), for a Successor Currency.

Correction Period means, in respect of an FX Rate, five Business Days.

If any Exchange Rate is published or announced by more than one price source (including the relevant Electronic Page) and the Electronic Page fails to publish or announce that currency exchange rate on any relevant Valuation Date (or, if different, the day on which rates for such Valuation Date would, in the ordinary course, be published or announced on the relevant Electronic Page), then the relevant Underlying Closing Level or Underlying Level (as relevant) for such Valuation Date may be determined as if the applicable Issue Terms had specified any other available price source which actually publishes or announces such currency exchange rate on such Valuation Date (or, if different, the day on which rates for such Valuation Date would, in the ordinary course, be published or announced by such price source) as the applicable Electronic Page.

If any Exchange Rate comprising any applicable FX Rate is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced, or adopted (or other similar action) by the relevant Governmental Authority, and such currency exchange rate ceases to exist and is replaced by a successor currency exchange rate that is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced, or adopted (or other similar action) by such Governmental Authority (the Official Successor Rate), then the Underlying Closing Level or Underlying Level (as applicable) for the relevant Valuation Date may be determined as if the applicable Issue Terms had specified any available price source which publishes or announces the Official Successor Rate (including, but not limited to, an official publication of that Governmental Authority) on such Valuation Date (or, if different, the day on which rates for that Valuation Date would, in the ordinary course, be published or announced by the relevant price source) as the applicable Electronic Page.

(c) Settlement Disruption

If, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, payment of any amount due in respect of the Securities cannot be made by the Issuer in the Specified Currency on any date on which payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (a Relevant Scheduled Payment Date) due to:

- (i) the imposition of laws or regulations by any Governmental Authority of the country for which the Specified Currency is the lawful currency (the Specified Currency Jurisdiction) which (a) require non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction to obtain permission from such central banking authority or other authority to obtain the Specified Currency, or (b) otherwise restrict a non-resident's ability to obtain the Specified Currency, or (c) otherwise regulate the purchase or holding of the Specified Currency by non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction such that costs are imposed in obtaining the Specified Currency which would not be imposed in the absence of such regulations, or (d) has the direct or indirect effect of hindering, limiting or restricting the transfer of the Specified Currency between non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction or (e) materially restricts non-residents from transferring the Specified Currency from the Specified Currency Jurisdiction to the country of incorporation of such non-resident; or
- (ii) any Relevant Clearing System suspending or ceasing to accept the Specified Currency as a settlement currency; or
- (iii) the Specified Currency's replacement or disuse or the Specified Currency, or any Successor Currency, no longer being used by the government of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction or for the settlement of transactions by public institutions within the international banking community; or
- (iv) the illiquidity of the Specified Currency in the relevant market; or
- (v) any other circumstances beyond the control of the Issuer (including but not limited to a natural or man-made disaster, armed conflict, act of terrorism, riot or labour disruption),

(each a Currency Settlement Disruption Event) then the Issuer shall be entitled to satisfy its obligations to the Holders by either (i) delaying any such payment until after the Currency Settlement Disruption Event ceases to exist or (ii) making such payment in United States dollars (USD) (such payment converted into USD by reference to such currency exchange rate displayed on such price source or otherwise as the Calculation Agent shall determine) on, or as soon as reasonably practicable (in the opinion of the Calculation Agent) after, the Relevant Scheduled Payment Date. Any such delayed payment or payment in USD will not constitute a default and Holders shall not be entitled to further interest or any other payment in respect of any such delay.

Unscheduled Holiday means, in respect of an FX Rate and a Specified Valuation Date, a day that is not a Reference Currency Business Day and, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the market was not aware of such fact (by means of a public announcement or by reference to other publicly available information) until a time later than 9:00 a.m. local time in the principal financial centre of the Reference Currency two Reference Currency Business Days prior to the Specified Valuation Date.

Postponement. In such event, the FX Rate will be determined on the next Reference Currency Business Day after the day falling the Maximum Days of Postponement (and such date shall be deemed to be the Valuation Date) in accordance with the provisions set out in the next applicable Disruption Fallback or (ii) if the relevant Disruption Event is a Price Materiality, the FX Rate will be determined in accordance with the provisions set out in the next applicable Disruption Fallback.

2. Valuation

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Valuation Date, the FX Rate for such Valuation Date as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page(s) at approximately the Valuation Time (or as soon thereafter as practicable) on the Valuation Date, all as determined by the Calculation Agent.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of an FX Rate if FX Rate Part B Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: any Relevant Rate which as of the Trade Date is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced or adopted (or other similar action) by the relevant Governmental Authority and any such Relevant Rate ceases to exist and is replaced by a successor currency exchange rate that is reported, sanctioned, recognised, published, announced or adopted (or other similar action) by such Governmental Authority (the Official Successor Rate), then in which event the Relevant Rate will be determined as provided herein by reference to such Official Successor Rate and the price source which publishes or announces (or, but for the occurrence of a Disruption Event, would have published or announced) such Official Successor Rate (including, but not limited to, an official publication of that Governmental Authority).

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

No Additional Early Redemption Events shall apply in respect of FX Rates.

6. Additional Provisions

(a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Unless Correction Provisions are specified as applicable in respect of an FX Rate in the applicable Issue Terms, the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(j) (Realisation Disruption) do not apply in respect of an FX Rate.

(b) Scheduled Trading Day

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) do not apply in respect of an FX Rate.

If a Specified Valuation Date is not a Scheduled Trading Day for an FX Rate then the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day falling first preceding such Specified Valuation Date EXCEPT, in the event of the occurrence of an Unscheduled Holiday on such Specified Valuation Date, in which case the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day immediately succeeding such Scheduled Trading Day, subject as follows and as provided in FX Rate Condition 6(d) (Cut-off Valuation Date for cumulative events) below.

If a Specified Valuation Date is postponed due to the occurrence of an Unscheduled Holiday on a Scheduled Trading Day as provided above and the Valuation Date has not occurred on or before the day falling the Maximum Days of Postponement after the Specified Valuation Date (any such period being a Deferral Period), then the next day after the Deferral Period that would have been a Scheduled Trading Day but for the occurrence of an Unscheduled Holiday, shall be deemed to be the Valuation Date, unless such day is a Disrupted Day for the FX Rate, in which case the provisions of FX Rate Condition 6(c) (Disrupted Day) below will apply.

Where "Move In Block" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to adjustments to Scheduled Trading Days, then the adjustment provisions above prevail and consequently all references to "for all of the Underlyings" and "for any of the Underlyings" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) shall be construed not to include any Underlying that is an FX Rate.

(c) Disrupted Day

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) and Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) do not apply in respect of an FX Rate.

If any Specified Valuation Date(s) (if applicable, adjusted in accordance with the provisions of FX Rate Condition 6(b) (Scheduled Trading Day) above) is a Disrupted Day for an FX Rate, then, in order to determine the Underlying Closing Level of such FX Rate for such Valuation Date, the Underlying Closing Level shall be determined in accordance with the first applicable Disruption Fallback (applied in accordance with its terms) which provides the Underlying Closing Level of such FX Rate for such Valuation Date.

Where the applicable Disruption Fallback is a Disruption Fallback other than Valuation Postponement, the relevant Specified Valuation Date shall not be adjusted in relation to such FX Rate, the Disruption Fallback provisions set out below shall apply thereto and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall only apply in relation to Underlying(s) other than such FX Rate (if any). For the avoidance of doubt, where "Move In Block" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to adjustments to Disrupted Days, then the adjustment provisions above prevail and consequently all references to "for all of the Underlyings" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall be construed not to include any Underlying that is an FX Rate.

If an Underlying Closing Level of an FX Rate is to be determined on a day which is a Disrupted Day or is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such FX Rate, then the next applicable Disruption Fallback will apply.

(d) Cut-off Valuation Date for cumulative events

Notwithstanding the cut-off provisions set out in the definition of Valuation Postponement and in FX Rate Condition 6(c) (Disrupted Day) above, in no event shall the total number of consecutive calendar days during which either (i) valuation is deferred due to an Unscheduled

Holiday or (ii) a Valuation Postponement shall occur (or any combination of (i) and (ii)), exceed the Maximum Days of Postponement in the aggregate.

Accordingly, (x) if upon the lapse of the Maximum Days of Postponement in the aggregate, an Unscheduled Holiday shall have occurred or be continuing on the day following the Maximum Days of Postponement, then such day shall be deemed to be the Valuation Date and (y) if, upon the lapse of the Maximum Days of Postponement in the aggregate, a Price Source Disruption shall have occurred or be continuing on the day following the Maximum Days of Postponement, such date shall be deemed to be the Valuation Date and the relevant FX Rate shall be determined in accordance with the next Disruption Fallback.

The Cut-off Valuation Date provisions set out in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2 (Underlying Valuation Provisions) do not apply to an Underlying that is an FX Rate and, accordingly, pursuant to the above provisions, a scheduled date for payment of any amount or, as the case may be, delivery of any assets in respect of the Securities will be deferred, if later, until the Number of Settlement Business Days following the Valuation Date and such Cut-off Valuation Date provisions shall only apply to any Underlying other than an FX Rate (save as otherwise provided in the relevant Underlying Schedule applicable to any such Underlying).

(e) Settlement Disruption

Where Settlement Disruption is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and if, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, payment of any amount due in respect of the Securities cannot be made by the Issuer in the Specified Currency on any date on which payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (a Relevant Scheduled Payment Date) due to:

- (i) the imposition of laws or regulations by any Governmental Authority of the country for which the Specified Currency is the lawful currency (the Specified Currency Jurisdiction) which (a) require non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction to obtain permission from such central banking authority or other authority to obtain the Specified Currency, or (b) otherwise restrict a non-resident's ability to obtain the Specified Currency, or (c) otherwise regulate the purchase or holding of the Specified Currency by non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction such that costs are imposed in obtaining the Specified Currency which would not be imposed in the absence of such regulations, or (d) has the direct or indirect effect of hindering, limiting or restricting the transfer of the Specified Currency between non-residents of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction or (e) materially restricts non-residents from transferring the Specified Currency from the Specified Currency Jurisdiction to the country of incorporation of such non-resident; or
- (ii) any Relevant Clearing System suspending or ceasing to accept the Specified Currency as a settlement currency; or
- (iii) the Specified Currency's replacement or disuse or the Specified Currency, or any Successor Currency, no longer being used by the government of the Specified Currency Jurisdiction or for the settlement of transactions by public institutions within the international banking community; or
- (iv) the illiquidity of the Specified Currency in the relevant market; or
- (v) any other circumstances beyond the control of the Issuer (including but not limited to a natural or man-made disaster, armed conflict, act of terrorism, riot or labour disruption),

(each a Currency Settlement Disruption Event) then the Issuer shall be entitled to satisfy its obligations to the Holders by either (i) delaying any such payment until after the Currency Settlement Disruption Event ceases to exist or (ii) making such payment in United States dollars (USD) (such payment converted into USD by reference to such currency exchange rate displayed on such price source or otherwise as the Calculation Agent shall determine) on, or as soon as reasonably practicable (in the opinion of the Calculation Agent) after, the Relevant Scheduled Payment Date. Any such delayed payment or payment in USD will not constitute a default and Holders shall not be entitled to further interest or any other payment in respect of any such delay.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 10 – WARRANT CONDITIONS

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Warrants.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Warrant if Warrant Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: a Warrant Termination Event.

6. Additional Provisions

(a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(l) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) shall not apply in respect of a Warrant.

(b) Early Redemption Event

If, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, any Early Redemption Event occurs in respect of a Warrant, then, for the purposes of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(h) (Early Redemption Events), the Early Redemption Amount shall be an amount per Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) as specified in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule or the applicable Issue Terms.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 11 – PROPRIETARY INDEX CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Proprietary Index".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Proprietary Indices.

1. Definitions

Component means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, each component index, security, commodity or other asset included in such Proprietary Index.

Index Conditions means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, the terms and conditions of the relevant Proprietary Index from time to time, as published by the relevant Index Sponsor.

Index Sponsor means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculations and adjustments, if any, related to such Proprietary Index; and (b) calculates and publishes (directly or through an agent) the level of such Proprietary Index on a regular basis. If specified in the applicable Issue Terms, the Index Sponsor will be the Index Administrator (as defined in the relevant Index Conditions) notwithstanding that another entity is specified as the Index Sponsor in such Index Conditions.

Proprietary Index means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Proprietary Index Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Scheduled Trading Day means, in respect of a Proprietary Index and unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, a day in respect of which the level of the Proprietary Index is scheduled to be calculated, however described in the relevant Index Conditions and as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Successor Index shall have the meaning given to it in Proprietary Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events).

Tax Disruption means, in respect of a Component, the imposition of, change in or removal of a Relevant Tax by any relevant government or taxing authority after the Trade Date, if the direct effect of such imposition, change or removal is to increase or decrease the level of the Proprietary Index on a day which would otherwise be a Valuation Date from what it would have been without such imposition, change or removal. For these purposes, "Relevant Tax" means, in respect of a Component or other asset relating to such Component, any excise, severance, sales, use, value-added, transfer, stamp, documentary, recording or other similar tax on, or measured by reference to, such Component or other asset (other than a tax on, or measured by reference to, overall gross or net income).

2. Valuation

(a) Closing valuations

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Proprietary Index and a Valuation Date, the level of such Proprietary Index as published on the applicable Electronic Page in respect of such Valuation Date (irrespective of the time and date on which such level is so published).

(b) Intraday valuations

Underlying Level means, in respect of a Proprietary Index and a Valuation Date, the level of such Proprietary Index observed continuously during such Valuation Date, as displayed on the applicable Electronic Page.

3. Disruption to Valuation

Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Proprietary Index in respect of which the relevant Index Sponsor fails to publish the level of such Proprietary Index.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Events shall apply in respect of a Proprietary Index:

- (a) if Proprietary Index Condition 4(a) (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms such Proprietary Index is either (i) not calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Index Sponsor but instead is calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to such relevant Index Sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent; or (ii) replaced by a successor index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of such Proprietary Index (such index, the Successor Index, which will be deemed to be such Proprietary Index); and
- (b) if "Tax Disruption" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent determines that (i) a Tax Disruption has occurred or exists; and (ii) such Tax Disruption is material.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Proprietary Index: the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation, adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made under Proprietary Index Condition 6(b) (Modification, disruption or cancellation of a Proprietary Index and Proprietary Index Substitution).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Proprietary Index, 30 calendar days.

For the avoidance of doubt, if pursuant to the provisions of Proprietary Index Condition 6(c) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Proprietary Index on a Disrupted Day), the level of a Proprietary Index published in respect of a Valuation Date is disregarded by the Calculation Agent, any correction of the level of the relevant Proprietary Index which has been disregarded shall also be disregarded.

- (b) Modification, disruption or cancellation of a Proprietary Index and Proprietary Index Substitution

(A) Proprietary Index Adjustment Events

If Proprietary Index Condition 6(b)(A) (Proprietary Index Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Proprietary Index, (i) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor announces that it will make a material change in the formula for or the method of calculating the level of such Proprietary Index or in any other way materially modifies such Proprietary Index (other than a modification prescribed in that formula or method to maintain such Proprietary Index in the event of changes in relevant Components and other routine events) (a Proprietary Index Modification); or (ii) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Index Sponsor at any time permanently cancels such Proprietary Index and no Successor Index (as defined in Proprietary Index Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events)) exists (a Proprietary Index Cancellation); or (iii) on or prior to any Valuation Date the relevant Index Sponsor or any person or entity on its behalf fails to calculate and announce such Proprietary Index (a Proprietary Index Disruption, and together with a Proprietary Index Modification and a Proprietary Index Cancellation, a Proprietary Index Adjustment Event), then the Calculation Agent shall determine if such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities, and if so, shall either:

- (i) calculate the relevant level of such Proprietary Index in respect of the relevant time on such Valuation Date using, in lieu of a published level for such Proprietary Index, the level of such Proprietary Index in respect of the relevant time on such Valuation Date as determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the formula for and the method of calculating the level of such Proprietary Index last in effect prior to the occurrence of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event but using only those Components which comprised such Proprietary Index immediately prior to the occurrence of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event and, for which purpose, any determination of the value of any Component shall be made by reference to such source(s) as the Calculation Agent determines appropriate; and/or
- (ii) substitute such Proprietary Index as provided in Proprietary Index Condition 6(b)(B) (Proprietary Index Substitution), if Proprietary Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, and make such adjustments (if any) to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as it deems necessary or appropriate in relation to such substitution; and/or
- (iii) make such adjustments to the Terms and Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event and determine the effective date of each such adjustment.

If no calculation, substitution and/or adjustment can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Proprietary Index Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(B) Proprietary Index Substitution

If Proprietary Index Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, any substitution made by the Calculation Agent pursuant to Proprietary Index Condition 6(b)(A)(ii) (Proprietary Index Adjustment Events) shall be, and any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent in response to an Adjustment Event may include, a Proprietary Index Substitution.

Proprietary Index Substitution means, in relation to a Proprietary Index Adjustment Event or an Adjustment Event, the replacement of a Proprietary Index the subject of such Proprietary Index Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be, with a new index selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be a replacement index using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the level of such Proprietary Index or, in the case of Exempt Securities only, a replacement index selected by the Calculation Agent in accordance with any other criteria specified in the applicable Issue Terms). Such new index shall be deemed to be a Proprietary Index in place of the Proprietary Index the subject of the Proprietary Index Adjustment Event or the Adjustment Event, as the case may be.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Proprietary Index on a Disrupted Day

Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) applies.

(d) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Proprietary Index on a Component Disrupted Day

This Proprietary Index Condition 6(d) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Proprietary Index on a Component Disrupted Day) shall only apply where "Component Valuation" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms.

Where Component Valuation is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, if a Valuation Date for a Proprietary Index (i) is not a Component Scheduled Trading Day or (ii) is a Component Disrupted Day, in either case, in respect of one or more of the Components of such Proprietary Index (each such Component, an Affected Component and each such date an Affected Valuation Date), then any level of the Proprietary Index published in respect of such Valuation Date may be disregarded by the Calculation Agent and the Underlying Closing Level for such Valuation Date may be determined by the Calculation Agent as the level of such Proprietary Index in respect of such Valuation Date determined in accordance with the then-current methodology for calculating the level of the Proprietary Index, but using:

- (i) with respect to each Component which is not an Affected Component, the price, level or value of each such Component at the relevant time on the relevant Affected Valuation Date; and
- (ii) with respect to each Affected Component, the price, level or value for each such Affected Component at the relevant time on the earlier of (i) the first succeeding Component Scheduled Trading Day for such Affected Component immediately following the relevant Affected Valuation Date that is not a Component Disrupted Day for such Affected Component and (ii) the Component Scheduled Trading Day which is the Component Valuation Roll number of Component Scheduled Trading Days for such Component immediately following the relevant Affected Valuation Date,

PROVIDED THAT if, pursuant to the above, the relevant Valuation Date for any Component determined as provided above would otherwise fall on a day falling after the second Component Scheduled Trading Day prior to the date on which a relevant payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (the Component Cut-off Date), such Valuation Date for such Affected Component shall be deemed to be the Component Cut-off Date (notwithstanding that such date either (A) is not a Component Scheduled Trading Day for such Component or (B) is a Component Disrupted Day for such Component) and the provisions of paragraph (iii) below shall apply;

- (iii) if the Valuation Date for any Component (as determined in accordance with paragraph (ii) above) is a Component Disrupted Day for such Component or is determined to occur on the Component Cut-off Date (as provided in paragraph (ii) above), then the Calculation Agent shall determine the price, level or value of the relevant Component in the manner (as specified in the relevant Index Conditions) in which the price, level or value of such disrupted Component would be determined on a date which is a Component Disrupted Day for such Component (for the avoidance of doubt, without regard to any valuation roll).

For the purposes hereof:

Component Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Component and unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, a day on which the price, level or value of such Component and/or any sub-component of such Component and/or any related futures contracts, options contracts or securities (each a Relevant Component) is not published (or publication is delayed) and/or cannot be determined and/or is otherwise disrupted (including, without limitation, by way of a suspension, limitation and/or disruption of trading in the Relevant Component and/or the failure to open or the early closure of any relevant exchange), however described in the relevant Index Conditions and as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Component Scheduled Trading Day means, in respect of a Component and unless otherwise specified in the applicable Issue Terms, a day on or in respect of which the price, level or value of such Component is scheduled to be determined, however described in the relevant Index Conditions and as determined by the Calculation Agent.

Component Valuation Roll means the number specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms or, if no number is so specified, eight.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 12 – DIVIDEND FUTURES CONTRACT CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Dividend Futures Contract".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Dividend Futures Contracts.

1. Definitions

Dividend Futures Contract means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Dividend Futures Contract Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, the corporation or other entity which (a) is responsible for setting and reviewing the rules and procedures and methods of calculations and adjustments, if any, related to such Dividend Futures Contract; and (b) announces (directly or through an agent) the price of such Dividend Futures Contract on a regular basis.

Exchange means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, the exchange or principal trading facility specified for such Dividend Futures Contract in the applicable Issue Terms or any successor to such exchange or principal trading facility.

Expiry Date means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract and a Valuation Date, where the Relevant Price for such Valuation Date is specified to be the "final settlement price" of such Dividend Futures Contract in the applicable Issue Terms, the expiry date of such Dividend Futures Contract on which the "final settlement price" of such Dividend Futures Contract is expected to be announced by the Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor and published on the Exchange) or, if such "final settlement price" is not so announced and published but, on or prior to such originally designated expiry date, the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor has announced arrangements for the publication of such "final settlement price" on another date, such other date.

Relevant Price means in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract and a Valuation Date, the "daily settlement price" or the "final settlement price", in each case, however defined in the contract specifications of such Dividend Futures Contract or the relevant Exchange, as the case may be.

Scheduled Trading Day means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, any day on which the relevant Exchange is scheduled to be open for trading for its regular trading session notwithstanding such Exchange closing prior to its scheduled closing time.

2. Valuation

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract and a Valuation Date, the Relevant Price for the relevant Valuation Date as displayed on the relevant Electronic Page or, if such Relevant Price is not displayed on the relevant Electronic Page on the relevant Valuation Date, the Relevant Price of such Dividend Futures Contract for such Valuation Date as published by the relevant Exchange.

Valuation Time means, in respect of an Underlying Closing Level and a Dividend Futures Contract, the time at which the relevant price referred to for the purpose of such Underlying Closing Level of such Dividend Futures Contract for such day is calculated and published by the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor.

Underlying Level shall not apply to a Dividend Futures Contract.

3. Disruption To Valuation

Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Dividend Futures Contract on which:

- (i) the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor fails to announce the Relevant Price;
- (ii) the relevant Electronic Page and the relevant Exchange each fail to publish the Relevant Price of the Dividend Futures Contract (or other data from which such Relevant Price is calculated);
- (iii) the relevant Electronic Page is temporarily or permanently discontinued or unavailable;
- (iv) the relevant Exchange fails to open for trading during its regular trading session; or
- (v) there is a suspension of or limitation on trading in such Dividend Futures Contract on the relevant Exchange (which, in either case, the Calculation Agent determines is material).

The definition of Disrupted Day and the provisions relating to Disrupted Days in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule will not apply in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract and a Valuation Date if the Relevant Price for such Valuation Date is specified to be the "final settlement price" of such Dividend Futures Contract in the applicable Issue Terms and the Conditions shall be construed accordingly.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

The following Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract if Dividend Futures Contract Condition 4 (Additional Adjustment Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: such Dividend Futures Contract is either (a) not calculated and announced by or on behalf of the relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor but instead is calculated and announced by or on behalf of a successor to such relevant Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor acceptable to the Calculation Agent; or (b) replaced, as relevant, by a successor dividend futures contract using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula for and method of calculation as used in the calculation of such Dividend Futures Contract (such dividend futures contract, the Successor Dividend Futures Contract, which will be deemed to be such Dividend Futures Contract).

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract if Dividend Futures Contract Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms: the Calculation Agent determines that no calculation, adjustment or substitution can reasonably be made under Dividend Futures Contract Condition 6(b) (Modification, cancellation or disruption of a Dividend Futures Contract and Dividend Futures Contract Substitution).

6. Additional Provisions

- (a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Correction Period means, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, two Business Days.

- (b) Modification, cancellation or disruption of a Dividend Futures Contract and Dividend Futures Contract Substitution

- (A) Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event

If Dividend Futures Contract Condition 6(b)(A) (Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event) is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, in respect of a Dividend Futures Contract, (i) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Exchange and/or Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor, as the case may be, announces that it will make a material change in the formula for or the method of calculating any price of such Dividend Futures Contract or in any other way materially modifies such Dividend Futures Contract, including any material change in the content, composition or constitution of such Dividend Futures Contract (a Dividend Futures Contract Modification); or (ii) on or prior to any Valuation Date, the relevant Exchange and/or Dividend Futures Contract Sponsor, as the case may be, at any time permanently cancels or discontinues such Dividend Futures Contract or there is otherwise a permanent discontinuation in trading or trading never commences in such Dividend Futures Contract and, in each such case, no Successor Dividend Futures Contract exists (a Dividend Futures Contract Cancellation); or (iii) on any Valuation Date for which the Relevant Price is specified to be the "final settlement price" in the applicable Issue Terms, such Relevant Price is not displayed or published on the relevant Electronic Page or by the Exchange, as the case may be, at the relevant Valuation Time (a Dividend Futures Contract Disruption, and together with a Dividend Futures Contract Modification and a Dividend Futures Contract Cancellation, a Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event), then the Calculation Agent shall determine if such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event has a material effect on the Securities and, if so, shall either:

- (i) calculate the relevant price of such Dividend Futures Contract at or for the relevant Valuation Time on such Valuation Date using, in lieu of the published Relevant Price for such Dividend Futures Contract, a price for such Dividend Futures Contract at or for the relevant Valuation Time on such Valuation Date as determined by the Calculation Agent by calculating the value of the relevant dividends for the applicable contract period for such Dividend Futures Contract by reference to the formula for and the method of calculation last in effect of any related dividend point index or such other sources as it deems appropriate;
- (ii) make such adjustments to the Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms as the Calculation Agent determines necessary or appropriate to account for the effect of such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event and determine the effective date of each such adjustment; and/or
- (iii) substitute such Dividend Futures Contract as provided in Dividend Futures Contract Condition 6(b)(B) (Dividend Futures Contract Substitution) and make such adjustments (if any) to the Conditions and/or the applicable Issue Terms to as it deems necessary or appropriate in relation to such substitution.

If no calculation, adjustment and/or substitution can reasonably be made pursuant to the above, the provisions of Dividend Futures Contract Condition 5 (Additional Early Redemption Events) shall apply.

(B) Dividend Futures Contract Substitution

If Dividend Futures Contract Substitution is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent pursuant to Dividend Futures Contract Condition 6(b)(A)(iii) (Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event) shall be, and any adjustment made by the Calculation Agent in response to an Adjustment Event may include, a Dividend Futures Contract Substitution.

Dividend Futures Contract Substitution means, in relation to a Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event or an Adjustment Event, the replacement of the Dividend Futures Contract the subject of such Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be, with a new dividend futures contract selected by the Calculation Agent (which shall be a replacement dividend futures contract using, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the same or a substantially similar formula and method of calculation as used in the calculation of the Dividend Futures Contract or a replacement dividend futures contract selected by the Calculation Agent in accordance with any other criteria specified in the applicable Pricing Supplement). Such new dividend futures contract shall be deemed to be a Dividend Futures Contract in place of the Dividend Futures Contract the subject of the Dividend Futures Contract Adjustment Event or Adjustment Event, as the case may be.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Dividend Futures Contract on a Disrupted Day or on the Cut-off Valuation Date

Where the Relevant Price for a Valuation Date is not specified to be the "final settlement price" in the applicable Issue Terms, Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) applies.

(B) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Dividend Futures Contract on the Cut-off Valuation Date

If the Relevant Price for a Valuation Date is specified to be the "final settlement price" in the applicable Issue Terms and, in accordance with the provisions of the Valuation and Settlement Schedule and the applicable Issue Terms, the relevant Valuation Date would otherwise fall on a day falling after the second Scheduled Trading Day for such Dividend Futures Contract prior to the date on which a relevant payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (the Cut-off Valuation Date), such Valuation Date shall be deemed to be the Cut-off Valuation Date and the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level of the Dividend Futures Contract for such Valuation Date by calculating the value of the relevant dividends for the applicable contract period for such Dividend Futures Contract by reference to the formula for and the method of calculation last in effect of any related dividend point index or such other sources as it deems appropriate.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 13 – RATE CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Rate".

For the avoidance of doubt, defined terms used in this Underlying Schedule shall only apply in respect of Securities linked to Rates.

1. Definitions

Disrupted Day shall have the meaning given to it in Rate Condition 3 (Disruption to Valuation).

ISDA Definitions means the 2006 ISDA Definitions as amended and updated as at the Issue Date of the first Tranche of the Securities as published by the International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc.

Rate means each Underlying classified as such in the applicable Issue Terms.

Rate Condition means each condition specified in this Underlying Schedule.

Scheduled Trading Day shall, in respect of a Rate, have the meaning given to it for such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms.

U.S. Government Securities Business Day means any day except for a Saturday, Sunday or a day on which the Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association (or any successor) recommends that the fixed income departments of its members be closed for the entire day for purposes of trading in U.S. government securities.

2. Valuation

(a) Closing Valuations

Underlying Closing Level means, in respect of a Rate and a Valuation Date, the interest rate (expressed as a percentage) specified to be such Rate for the relevant designated maturity on such Valuation Date, which appears on the applicable Electronic Page as of the Valuation Time. For the avoidance of doubt, a Rate will be determined as of the Valuation Time which may not be the "closing time" and a Rate may only be determined once on any Scheduled Trading Day.

(b) Intraday Valuations

Underlying Level does not apply to an Underlying that is a Rate.

(c) Valuation Time

Valuation Time means, in respect of a Rate, the time specified for such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms.

3. Disruption to Valuation

Disrupted Day means, in respect of a Rate, any Scheduled Trading Day for such Rate on which the percentage rate of such Rate for such Scheduled Trading Day does not appear on the Electronic Page.

4. Additional Adjustment Events

No Additional Adjustment Event shall apply in respect of a Rate.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

No Additional Early Redemption Event shall apply in respect of a Rate.

6. Additional Provisions

(a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

Unless "Correction Provisions" are specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(l) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) do not apply in respect of a Rate.

(b) Scheduled Trading Day

If any Specified Valuation Date(s) is not a Scheduled Trading Day for a Rate then, if neither "Preceding Scheduled Trading Day" nor "Modified Following Scheduled Trading Day" is specified in respect of such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms, then the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) applies in respect of that Rate; or:

- (i) if "Preceding Scheduled Trading Day" is specified for such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms, the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day falling first preceding such Specified Valuation Date, unless such day is a Disrupted Day for the Underlying, in which case Rate Condition 6(c) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on a Disrupted Day) shall apply; or
- (ii) if "Modified Following Scheduled Trading Day" is specified for such Rate in the applicable Issue Terms, the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day immediately succeeding such Specified Valuation Date, unless such day would fall into the next calendar month, in which event the Valuation Date shall be the Scheduled Trading Day falling first preceding such Specified Valuation Date, unless, in either such case, such day is a Disrupted Day for the Underlying, in which case Rate Condition 6(c) (Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on a Disrupted Day) shall apply.

Where "Move In Block" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to adjustments to Scheduled Trading Days and "Preceding Scheduled Trading Day" or "Modified Following Scheduled Trading Day" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in respect of a Rate, then the adjustment provisions relating to Preceding Scheduled Trading Day or, as the case may be, Modified Following Scheduled Trading Day prevail and Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) shall be construed so as not to apply to such Rate and consequently all reference to "for all of the Underlyings" and "for any of the Underlyings" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) shall be construed not to include any such Rate.

(c) Determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on a Disrupted Day

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) do not apply in respect of a Rate.

If any Specified Valuation Date(s) (if applicable, adjusted in accordance with the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(c) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Scheduled Trading Days)) or, as the case may be, Rate Condition 6(b) (Scheduled Trading Day) above) is a Disrupted Day for a Rate, then (a) if ISDA Fallback Determination is not specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, then the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level of such Rate for the Valuation Date at such time and by reference to such sources as it deems appropriate; or (b) otherwise, if ISDA Fallback Determination is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms, the Calculation Agent shall determine the Underlying Closing Level for such Rate on the Valuation Date as being the rate equal to the Floating Rate that would be determined by the Calculation Agent under an interest rate swap transaction if the Calculation Agent were acting as calculation agent for that swap transaction under the terms of an agreement incorporating the ISDA Definitions and under which:

- (1) the Floating Rate Option is as specified in the applicable Issue Terms;
- (2) the Designated Maturity is a period specified in the applicable Issue Terms; and

- (3) the relevant Reset Date is the relevant Valuation Date,

PROVIDED THAT, the Floating Rate Option shall always be determined by reference to the rate which appears on the relevant screen page or price source on the applicable Reset Date and, accordingly, all references in any Floating Rate Option to the contrary, including any references to the rate on any day other than that Reset Date shall be deemed to be deleted and the words "on the Reset Date" shall be substituted therefor, all as determined by the Calculation Agent.

For the purposes of this sub-paragraph, Floating Rate, Calculation Agent, Floating Rate Option, Designated Maturity and Reset Date have the meanings given to those terms in the ISDA Definitions.

Where "Move In Block" is specified in the applicable Issue Terms in relation to adjustments to Disrupted Days, then the adjustment provisions above prevail and reference to "for all of the Underlyings" in Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(d)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Disrupted Days and Underlying Closing Levels)) shall be construed not to include any Underlying that is a Rate.

- (d) Cut-off Valuation Date

If the Valuation Date for a Rate determined as provided above would otherwise fall on a day falling after the second Scheduled Trading Day for such Rate prior to the date on which a relevant payment is scheduled to be made under the Securities (the Cut-off Valuation Date), such Valuation Date shall be deemed to be the Cut-off Valuation Date (notwithstanding that such date either (A) is not a Scheduled Trading Day for such Rate; or (B) is a Disrupted Day for such Rate) and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(e)(ii) (Adjustments to Valuation Dates (Calculation Agent's determination of Underlying Closing Levels)) shall apply in respect thereof.

- (e) Substitute or Successor Rates

The provisions below and the determination of the Underlying Closing Level of a Rate on any Scheduled Trading Day in the event of the occurrence of a Disrupted Day and the provisions relating to the consequences of any such Disrupted Day set out in the Conditions shall be subject as provided in Valuation and Settlement Condition 9.

If, on or prior to the date on which any Underlying Closing Level in respect of a Rate is to be determined in respect of the Securities, the Calculation Agent determines that such Rate (each a Disrupted Rate) (1) has been discontinued or is permanently no longer being published, or (2) there has been an official announcement or formal publication of information by the supervisor of the administrator and/or sponsor of such Rate that the Rate (x) is no longer representative, or (y) as of a specified future date will no longer be capable of being representative, of any relevant underlying market(s) or economic reality that the Rate is intended to measure (in the case of (y) provided such specified future date has then occurred), the Calculation Agent may determine the relevant Underlying Closing Level by reference to (a) a substitute or successor rate that it has determined is the industry-accepted substitute or successor rate for the relevant Disrupted Rate or (b) if it determines there is no such industry-accepted substitute or successor rate, a substitute or successor rate that it determines is a commercially reasonable alternative, taking into account prevailing industry standards in any related market (including, without limitation, the derivatives market) (in either case, the Successor Rate).

Upon selection of a Successor Rate, such Successor Rate shall be deemed to be the relevant Underlying in place of the Disrupted Rate and the Calculation Agent may make such adjustments to the Conditions of the Securities as it determines necessary or appropriate to reflect any industry-accepted practices for the Successor Rate and the effective date of any such adjustment. For the avoidance of doubt, any such adjustments may include adjustments to the definition of Scheduled Trading Day, Disrupted Day and any other relevant methodology or definition for determining the relevant Rate and may also include the application of any adjustment factor it determines is needed to reduce, to the extent reasonably practicable, any transfer of economic value from (i) the Issuer to the Securityholders or (ii) the Securityholders to the Issuer, in each case that would otherwise arise as a result of the replacement of the Rate with the Successor Rate. Notice of the selection of any Successor Rate and any related adjustments to the Conditions shall be notified to the Issuer and any stock exchange on which the Securities are for the time being listed and notice thereof shall also be published in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices).

Any determination made by the Calculation Agent in accordance with this Rate Condition 6(e) (Substitute or Successor Rates) shall be made in its sole and absolute discretion, after consulting any source it deems to be reasonable.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 14 – PREFERENCE SHARE CONDITIONS

This Underlying Schedule shall apply to each Underlying classified in the applicable Issue Terms as a "Preference Share". Securities linked to Preference Shares shall only be issued by CGMFL.

The Underlying Closing Level is scheduled to be published by the Preference Share Company on each Business Day on the Electronic Page specified in the applicable Issue Terms or such other widely available replacement price source as is notified to the holder of the Preference Share Linked Securities in accordance with General Condition 15 (Notices).

Valuation Time means, in respect of a Preference Share, an Underlying Closing Level and a Scheduled Trading Day, the time specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms or, if no such time is so specified, 5:00 p.m. (London time).

3. Disruption to Valuation

Disrupted Day shall not apply in respect of a Preference Share and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2 (Underlying Valuation Provisions) shall be construed accordingly.

5. Additional Early Redemption Events

The following Additional Early Redemption Events shall apply in respect of a Preference Share:

(a) Corporate Action

Corporate Action means any event which may have, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, a diluting or concentrative effect on the theoretical value of the relevant Preference Shares.

(b) Insolvency

Insolvency means, in respect of the Preference Share Company, that either (i) by reason of the voluntary or involuntary liquidation, bankruptcy, insolvency, dissolution or winding up of or any analogous proceeding affecting the Preference Share Company, (A) all the Preference Shares of the Preference Share Company are required to be transferred to an Insolvency Officer; or (B) holders of Preference Shares of the Preference Share Company become legally prohibited from transferring such Preference Shares; or (ii) an Insolvency Event occurs in respect of the Preference Share Company.

Insolvency Officer means, an administrator, provisional liquidator, liquidator, conservator, receiver, trustee, custodian or other similar official.

For these purposes, "Competent Official" means, in respect of an entity, a regulator, supervisor or other similar official with primary insolvency, rehabilitative or regulatory jurisdiction over such entity in the jurisdiction of its incorporation or organisation or in the jurisdiction of its head office or home office.

(c) Merger Event

Merger Event means, in respect of any Preference Shares, any:

- (i) reclassification or change of such Preference Shares which results in a transfer of or an irrevocable commitment to transfer all such Preference Shares outstanding to another entity or person; or
- (ii) consolidation, amalgamation, merger or binding share exchange of the Preference Share Company with or into another entity (other than a consolidation, amalgamation, merger or binding share exchange in which the Preference Share Company is the continuing entity and which does not result in a reclassification or change of all such Preference Shares outstanding); or
- (iii) takeover offer, tender offer, exchange offer, solicitation, proposal or other event by any entity or person to purchase or otherwise obtain 100 per cent. of the outstanding Preference Shares of the Preference Share Company, which results in a transfer of or an irrevocable commitment to transfer all such Preference Shares (other than those Preference Shares owned or controlled by such other entity or person); or
- (iv) consolidation, amalgamation, merger or binding share exchange of the Preference Share Company or its subsidiaries with or into another entity in which the Preference Share

Company is the continuing entity and which does not result in the reclassification or change of all such Preference Shares outstanding but results in the outstanding Preference Shares (other than those Preference Shares owned or controlled by such other entity) immediately prior to such event collectively representing less than 50 per cent. of the outstanding Preference Shares immediately following such event, in each case if the Merger Date is on or before the last occurring Valuation Date in respect of the Securities. For these purposes, "Merger Date" means the closing date of a Merger Event or, where a closing date cannot be determined under the local law applicable to such Merger Event, such other date as determined by the Calculation Agent.

(d) Nationalisation

Nationalisation means, in respect of the Preference Share Company, that all the Preference Shares or all the assets or substantially all the assets of the Preference Share Company are nationalised, expropriated or are otherwise required to be transferred to any governmental agency, authority, entity or instrumentality thereof.

(e) Tender Offer

Tender Offer means, in respect of the Preference Share Company, a takeover offer, tender offer, exchange offer, solicitation, proposal or other event by any entity or person that results in such entity or person purchasing, or otherwise obtaining or having the right to obtain, by conversion or other means, greater than 10 per cent. and less than 100 per cent. of the outstanding voting shares of the Preference Share Company, as determined by the Calculation Agent, based on the making of filings with governmental or self-regulatory agencies or such other information as the Calculation Agent deems relevant.

(f) Preference Share Early Redemption Event

Preference Share Early Redemption Event means the event that occurs if the Issuer has received an Early Redemption Notice.

(g) Change in Law, Hedging Disruption and Increased Cost of Hedging

Change in Law, Hedging Disruption and Increased Cost of Hedging shall be Additional Early Redemption Events and not Adjustment Events except in the case of Italian Listed Certificates where Hedging Disruption and Increased Cost of Hedging shall not apply.

6. Additional Provisions

(a) Correction of published or announced prices or levels

The provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(l) (Correction of published or announced prices or levels) shall not apply in respect of a Preference Share.

(b) Issue Date

The Issue Date of any Preference Share Linked Securities shall be either (i) the date specified, or (ii) the number of Business Days following, the Initial Preference Share Reference Date, as specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

For the purposes of this Preference Share Condition 6(b) (Issue Date):

Initial Preference Share Reference Date shall be the date specified as such in the applicable Issue Terms, PROVIDED THAT, if any date used for the valuation or any determination of any Preference Share Underlying (or any part thereof) falling on or about any such date is delayed in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Preference Share by reason of a non-scheduled trading day, a disrupted day or the occurrence of an adjustment event (howsoever described in the terms and conditions of the Preference Shares), the Initial Preference Share Reference Date shall be the last delayed date on which any such valuation or determination is made, as determined by the Calculation Agent.

(c) Issuer Call, Investor Put and Optional Redemption Amounts

Securities that are to be redeemed early at the option of the Issuer pursuant to General Condition 6(e) (Redemption at the Option of the Issuer) may be redeemed in whole but not in part. For the purposes of such redemption, the Optional Redemption Amount shall be determined as provided below.

General Condition 6(f) (Redemption at the Option of holders of Securities) shall not apply in respect Preference Share Linked Securities.

For the purposes of this Preference Share Condition 6(c) (Issuer Call, Investor Put and Optional Redemption Amounts):

Optional Redemption Amount means an amount per Security (in the case of a Note, representing a principal amount equal to the Calculation Amount) determined on the same basis as the Preference Share-Linked Redemption Amount (as defined in the Valuation and Settlement Schedule) except that, for the purposes of this definition, "Final Reference Level" means the Underlying Closing Level of the Redemption Underlying on the Optional Redemption Valuation Date.

Optional Redemption Valuation Date means the date or, if such day is on which the Securities are to be redeemed early or such earlier date determined by the Calculation Agent solely for the purposes of allowing the calculation of the Underlying Closing Level of the Preference Share prior to the redemption of the Securities and such date shall be deemed to be a Valuation Date for the purpose or the Conditions.

(d) Early Redemption for tax reasons or illegality, following an Event of Default or following an Early Redemption Event and the Early Redemption Amount

If, in the determination of the Calculation Agent, the Securities are to be redeemed (i) for tax reasons or for illegality in accordance with General Condition 6(b) (Redemption for Taxation Reasons and Redemption for Illegality), (ii) following the occurrence of an Event of Default in accordance with General Condition 11 (Events of Default) or (iii) following the occurrence of any Early Redemption Event in respect of a Preference Share in accordance with Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(h) (Early Redemption Events), then the Early Redemption Amount shall be determined as provided below.

For the purposes of this Preference Share Condition 6(d) (Early Redemption for tax reasons or illegality, following an Event of Default or following an Early Redemption Event and the Early Redemption Amount):

Early Redemption Amount means an amount per Security determined on the same basis as the Preference Share-Linked Redemption Amount except that, for the purposes of this definition, "Final Reference Level" means the Underlying Closing Level of the Redemption Underlying on the Early Redemption Valuation Date.

Early Redemption Valuation Date means the date on which the Securities are to be redeemed early or such earlier date determined by the Calculation Agent solely for the purposes of allowing the calculation of the Underlying Closing Level of the Preference Share prior to the redemption of the Securities. Such date shall be deemed to be a Valuation Date for the purposes of the Conditions

(e) Realisation Disruption

If "Realisation Disruption" is specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms and a Realisation Disruption Event occurs, such Realisation Disruption Event shall be deemed to be an Early Redemption Event and the Issuer may redeem the Securities pursuant to Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(h) (Early Redemption Events) and Preference Share Condition 6(d) (Early Redemption for tax reasons or illegality, following an Event of Default or following an Early Redemption Event and the Early Redemption Amount) and the provisions of Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(j) (Realisation Disruption) shall not apply to the Securities.

(f) Redenomination

General Condition 18 (Redenomination) shall not apply in respect of Preference Share Linked Securities.

UNDERLYING SCHEDULE 15 – CREDIT LINKED CONDITIONS

PART A: INTRODUCTION TO THE CREDIT LINKED CONDITIONS FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

For the avoidance of doubt, this introduction to the Credit Linked Conditions (including the worked examples set out in the Annex (Worked Examples in respect of Credit Linked Notes) to this Part A) shall not form part of the Credit Linked Conditions.

The questions and answers set out below and the worked examples set out in the Annex (Worked Examples in respect of Credit Linked Notes) to this Part A highlight selected information and provide practical examples to help prospective investors understand the Credit Linked Notes. However, any decision to invest in the Credit Linked Notes should only be made after careful consideration of the Base Prospectus and the relevant General Conditions in their entirety, particularly, the terms and conditions of the Credit Linked Notes set out in the Credit Linked Conditions, as completed by the relevant Final Terms or as completed, modified and/or supplemented by the relevant Pricing Supplement, as applicable. This section should be treated as an introduction to certain terms of the Credit Linked Notes. It is not intended to be a substitute for, nor a summary of, the Credit Linked Conditions.

Capitalised terms in relation to the following questions and answers shall have the meanings given to them in the Credit Linked Conditions.

INTRODUCTION TO CREDIT LINKED NOTES

What are Credit Linked Notes?

Credit Linked Notes are debt securities, the value of which are linked to the credit risk of one or more Reference Entities. The amount of interest, if applicable, and principal which investors will receive on the Credit Linked Notes is dependent on whether certain Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, occur in respect of any relevant Reference Entity to which the Credit Linked Notes are linked.

In purchasing the Credit Linked Notes, investors are assuming credit risk exposure to each Reference Entity (and possible successors thereof). A Credit Linked Note is broadly intended to give the investor access to a credit default swap referencing certain Reference Entity(ies) in funded format. Therefore, many of the features and risks applicable to a market standard credit default swap referencing the relevant Reference Entity(ies) will be equally applicable to the Credit Linked Notes.

By investing in the Credit Linked Notes, the investor will be a seller of credit protection (and hence a buyer of credit risk), while the Issuer will be a buyer of credit protection (and therefore a seller of credit risk).

What is credit risk?

Credit risk with respect to a Reference Entity is the risk that the Reference Entity fails to perform its obligations under certain borrowed money, bond or loan (as applicable) obligations, a specified reference obligation of the Reference Entity or the risk that the Reference Entity enters into bankruptcy. Borrowed money obligations would include any incurred loan obligations of the Reference Entity, obligations under any debt securities issued by the Reference Entity and certain qualifying guarantees of the Reference Entity related to such borrowed money obligations. In addition, failure to perform with respect to certain specified reference obligations will also be captured.

The failure of the Reference Entity to perform its obligations is generally (but not exclusively) as a result of a deterioration of its financial condition.

The financial condition and creditworthiness of a Reference Entity may change over time. Public information which is available in relation to a Reference Entity may be incomplete, misleading or out of date. The identity of each Reference Entity is subject to change as a result of successions where there are debt transfers or where another entity issues bonds or incurs a loan obligation in exchange for bonds or loans of the Reference Entity. The risks associated with a successor Reference Entity may be greater than the risks associated with the original Reference Entity.

If the Credit Linked Notes are linked to multiple Reference Entities, the probability that a Credit Event will occur may be increased. The credit risk to investors may further be increased if the Reference Entities are concentrated in a particular industry sector or geographic area, or if they have exposure to similar financial or other risks.

What is the difference between the Credit Linked Notes and an ordinary debt security?

Credit Linked Notes are similar to an ordinary debt security in that they provide the investor with a regular stream of interest payments, if applicable, and the return of par or a premium (in the case of Credit Linked Notes that are Zero Coupon Notes) on maturity in the ordinary course. However, Credit Linked Notes have the added feature not present in ordinary debt securities of an exposure to the credit of one or more Reference Entities. If a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, occurs in relation to the relevant Reference Entity, an investor may lose all or part of its investment in the Credit Linked Notes.

What is the difference between Credit Linked Notes and a bond issued by the Reference Entity?

Credit Linked Notes give an investor exposure to the credit risk of the Reference Entity without having to own a bond, loan or other type of borrowed money obligation of such Reference Entity. The Reference Entity itself is not a party to and has no direct involvement in the Credit Linked Notes and an investor will not be able to claim against the Reference Entity or Issuer for any losses it suffers from a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, in respect of the relevant Reference Entity. The investor will also not have any interest in, or rights under, any obligation of such Reference Entity. An investment in Credit Linked Notes is not equivalent to an investment in the obligations of a Reference Entity.

The Issuer is not obliged to hold any obligation of the Reference Entity or otherwise have credit risk exposure to the Reference Entity. In addition to the credit risk of the relevant Reference Entity to which the Credit Linked Notes are linked, an investor will also be exposed to the credit risk of the Issuer and/or Guarantor, as applicable. Therefore, even if the Reference Entity is performing well, an investor may still suffer a loss if the Issuer's and/or the Guarantor's, as applicable, creditworthiness declines.

How do changes in share prices of any Reference Entity affect the value of the Credit Linked Notes?

Taking credit risk on the Reference Entity by purchasing Credit Linked Notes is different from taking equity risk by investing in shares of the Reference Entity. There are a number of reasons for this. For example:

- (a) the Credit Linked Notes reference borrowed money obligations of the Reference Entity or specified guarantees of the Reference Entity in respect of borrowed money obligations, and a Reference Entity must generally pay amounts due to the creditors on these debt obligations before paying dividends or capital to shareholders;
- (b) the obligations of the Reference Entity referenced by the Credit Linked Notes consist of borrowed money obligations or specified guarantees of the Reference Entity in respect of borrowed money obligations; holders of this type of debt will generally rank ahead of holders of ordinary shares in the insolvency of a Reference Entity, and so may have (but are not guaranteed) a higher rate of recovery of moneys due to them;
- (c) the Credit Linked Notes reference these borrowed money obligations and accordingly, the market value of the Credit Linked Notes is related to (although not necessarily equal to) the value of these borrowed money obligations; and
- (d) there is no direct link between share prices and the value of the Credit Linked Notes.

However, in some circumstances, change in the share price of the Reference Entity may result in or from, at a general level, a change in the market value of its debt and vice versa.

KEY REGULATORY CONCEPTS RELEVANT TO CREDIT LINKED NOTES

What is ISDA?

The International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc. (ISDA) is a trade organisation of participants in the market for over-the-counter derivatives. It is headquartered in New York, and is responsible for creating standardised contracts such as the ISDA Master Agreement and the 2014 ISDA Credit Derivatives Definitions and a wide range of related documentation, that are used to enter into derivatives transactions. Definitions, confirmations and other documents and information published by ISDA are available on ISDA's website: <https://www.isda.org/>. Certain publications are available free of charge while others are available to subscribers of the website only.

At the date of this Base Prospectus, ISDA has over 900 member institutions from more than 70 countries. These members include a broad range of over-the-counter (OTC) derivatives market participants.

What is a Credit Event?

A Credit Event is, broadly speaking, an event which may be, but is not necessarily, regarded as being indicative of a default or material decline in the creditworthiness of the Reference Entity, which also includes bankruptcy in the case of a corporate Reference Entity.

Credit Events are determined by reference to, in the context of a bankruptcy, the relevant Reference Entity itself and, in other cases, certain eligible types of obligations of such Reference Entity (including certain qualifying guarantees of the Reference Entity in relation to such obligations) which, in relation to the Credit Linked Notes, include loans, debt securities or other borrowed money obligations of the Reference Entity or specified reference obligations (Obligations).

The Credit Events relevant to the Credit Linked Notes are any of the following events with respect to the Reference Entity, which will apply to a Credit Linked Note if specified or elected by reference to a specified transaction type in the relevant Issue Terms:

- (a) Failure to Pay: a failure by the Reference Entity to pay amounts when due under its Obligations (after the expiry of any applicable grace period), where the failure to pay relates to an amount greater than a pre-determined minimum amount; and where the "Credit Deterioration Requirement" is applicable, the failure to pay results from a deterioration in the creditworthiness of the Reference Entity
- (b) Bankruptcy: a bankruptcy or insolvency procedure in respect of the Reference Entity;
- (c) Restructuring: a restructuring of an Obligation of the Reference Entity which amends key terms of that Obligation as to reduction in repayment of principal or payment of interest thereunder, postponement in the payment of principal or interest, the changes in the ranking of the instrument causing subordination or resulting in redenomination into certain hard currencies in a form that binds all holders of the obligation and such event is not expressly provided for in the terms of the instrument where the event results from, directly or indirectly, a deterioration in the creditworthiness or financial condition of the Reference Entity;
- (d) Obligation Acceleration: the acceleration of an Obligation of the Reference Entity before it would otherwise be due and payable in respect of a pre-determined minimum amount;
- (e) Obligation Default: an Obligation of the Reference Entity in respect of a pre-determined minimum amount becomes capable of being declared due and payable before it would otherwise be due and payable;
- (f) Repudiation/Moratorium: the Reference Entity repudiates an Obligation in respect of a pre-determined minimum amount or imposes a moratorium in respect of an Obligation in respect of such minimum amount and a failure to pay or a restructuring under such obligation subsequently occurs within a specified time period, without regard to any pre-determined amount; or
- (g) Governmental Intervention: an event which would result in the reduction or postponement of payment of principal or interest or change in ranking of priority in the instrument causing subordination, an expropriation of or the mandatory cancellation of an Obligation as the result of an action taken or announcement made by a Governmental Authority in a form which is binding regardless of whether such event is expressly provided for under the terms of the instrument. This event is applicable only where "Financial Reference Entity" terms are stated to be applicable in the Issue Terms.

What Credit Events apply to the Credit Linked Notes?

In respect of each issue of Credit Linked Notes, the types of Credit Events which may apply in relation to the specified Reference Entity will vary depending on the identity of each Reference Entity and will be determined by reference to market standards that will be specified in the relevant Issue Terms. Typically, certain terms of the Credit Linked Notes, for example the maturity and the price of credit protection purchased will be subject to negotiation between the parties. However, many key terms of the Credit Linked Notes – for example, the applicable Credit Events – are typically determined by reference to a physical settlement matrix of market standard terms published by ISDA (the version of such matrix which is effective as at the Trade Date, Issue Date or Effective Date, as applicable, is referred to as the Physical Settlement Matrix). The Physical Settlement Matrix recognises a variety of standard terms based on the nature of the relevant Reference Entity (corporate, sovereign, etc.) and its location ((EMEA (Europe, Middle East and Africa), Asia-Ex Japan, Japan, Latin America, North America etc.)). As at the date of this Base Prospectus, the Physical Settlement Matrix is available free of charge on ISDA's website at www.isda.org.

The Issue Terms will specify a "Transaction Type" with respect to the relevant Reference Entity. Certain terms of the Credit Linked Notes, including Credit Events, will be determined by reference to the Physical Settlement Matrix for such "Transaction Type". Such terms may vary between particular series of Credit Linked Notes depending on the relevant "Transaction Type" which applies. Further, the Physical Settlement Matrix is updated regularly by ISDA and accordingly, different Series of Credit Linked Notes may refer to different versions of the Physical Settlement Matrix.

What is a Risk Event and does it apply to all Credit Linked Notes?

A Risk Event may be a Credit Event or an Additional Risk Event. While Credit Events cover the risks arising from the creditworthiness of the Reference Entity (see further "What is a Credit Event?" above), Additional Risk Events are indicative of defaults or risks specific to certain local access jurisdictions and will apply to Local Access Credit Linked Notes to the extent that such events apply in the relevant Issue Terms. Additional Risk Events include, amongst other things, events that make it impossible, illegal or impracticable for, or prohibit, restrict or materially delay the ability of, any entity holding a loan or obligation to convert or repatriate currency or purchase, hold, receive, sell, freely transfer or remain the owner of any such loan or obligation or affect the performance of custodial and settlement activities.

The concept of a Risk Event is therefore specific to Local Access Credit Linked Notes. The types of Risk Events which may apply in relation to the specified Reference Entity will vary depending on the identity of each Reference Entity and the jurisdiction of such Reference Entity.

When does a Credit Event need to occur to affect the payout on the Credit Linked Notes?

A Credit Event may occur at any time during the period from, and including, the "Credit Event Backstop Date" to, and including, the Scheduled Maturity Date or such other date as is specified in the relevant Issue Terms (subject to extension in certain circumstances).

The Credit Event Backstop Date is typically intended to be a rolling date which is:

- (i) if a relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee (see further "What is the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee and how does it affect the Credit Linked Notes (other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes)?" below) receives a request to resolve whether or not a Credit Event has occurred in relation to a Reference Entity (such date of request, the Credit Event Resolution Request Date), 60 calendar days prior to the date of such request; or
- (ii) if the Calculation Agent determines that a Credit Event has occurred in relation to any Reference Entity or an Obligation thereof and delivers an effective Credit Event Notice, and supporting information (if applicable), to the Issuer for delivery to the Fiscal Agent and Securityholders to that effect, when the Credit Derivatives Determinations

Committee is not going to consider the same, 60 calendar days prior to the earlier of (a) the effective delivery date of such Credit Event Notice (where it occurs during the notice delivery period) and (b) the Credit Event Resolution Request Date (where the effective delivery date of such Credit Event Notice occurs during the post dismissal additional period), subject to extension in certain circumstances.

Instead of a rolling date, the Issue Date or Trade Date may be specified to be the Credit Event Backstop Date in the relevant Issue Terms.

When does a Risk Event need to occur to affect the payout on the Local Access Credit Linked Notes?

A Risk Event may occur at any time during the "Risk Event Determination Period", being a period commencing on the Issue Date or the Trade Date (as specified in the Issue Terms) and expiring on the Scheduled Maturity Date (subject to extension in certain circumstances).

What are the event and payment timings which are relevant?

- (i) Event Timing: In order to determine the day on which an event occurs for purposes of the Credit Linked Notes, the demarcation of days shall be made by reference to Greenwich Mean Time (or, if the Transaction Type of the Reference Entity relates to Japan, Tokyo time), irrespective of the time zone in which such event occurred. Any event occurring at midnight shall be deemed to have occurred immediately prior to midnight.
- (ii) Payment Timing: If a payment is not made by the Reference Entity on its due date or, as the case may be, on the final day of the relevant Grace Period, then such failure to make a payment shall be deemed to have occurred on such day prior to midnight Greenwich Mean Time (or, if the Transaction Type of the Reference Entity relates to Japan, Tokyo time), irrespective of the time zone of its place of payment.

Can a Credit Event occur prior to the Issue Date or the Trade Date?

Yes. A Credit Event may occur prior to the Issue Date of the Credit Linked Notes and may even occur prior to the Trade Date specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Securityholders should conduct their own review of any recent developments with respect to the Reference Entity by consulting publicly available information. If a request has been delivered to ISDA prior to the Trade Date to determine whether a Credit Event has occurred with respect to the Reference Entity, details of such request may be found on the ISDA website at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

When can a Credit Event or a Risk Event be triggered?

A Credit Event may be bilaterally triggered with respect to the Reference Entity during the "Notice Delivery Period", being a period commencing on the Trade Date (as specified in the Issue Terms) and expiring 14 calendar days after the Scheduled Maturity Date or 14 calendar days following any DC Credit Event Question Dismissal. In certain circumstances, a Credit Event may be bilaterally triggered with respect to the Reference Entity 14 calendar days after a DC Credit Event Announcement. Similarly, a Risk Event may be triggered with respect to the Reference Entity during the Risk Event Determination Period (see "When does a Risk Event need to occur to affect the payout on the Local Access Credit Linked Notes?" above).

However, in certain circumstances, the Notice Delivery Period or the Risk Event Determination Period, as applicable, may be extended beyond the Scheduled Maturity Date if a potential Credit Event, such as a Failure to Pay or Repudiation/Moratorium, has occurred on or prior to the Scheduled Maturity Date of the Credit Linked Notes, which may become an actual Credit Event within a specified period following the Scheduled Maturity Date. In such case, the Notice Delivery Period will be extended to (and including) the date falling 14 calendar days following such Extension Date and the Risk Event Determination Period may also be extended in certain cases. Accordingly, notwithstanding the occurrence of a Scheduled Maturity Date, a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, could be triggered after the Scheduled Maturity Date.

What is an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date?

In order for Credit Linked Notes to be redeemed following a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, it is necessary for a relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, to have occurred. Depending on the circumstances, this may be the date on which a notice describing the occurrence of the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable, has been effectively delivered (together with, if applicable, a notice containing publicly available information confirming the occurrence of the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable), or, for Credit Linked Notes other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes, the date on which, amongst other things, it is publicly announced that a DC Credit Event Question was effective and the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee was in possession of publicly available information with respect to such question, provided that certain conditions are satisfied.

Accordingly, notwithstanding the occurrence of a Scheduled Maturity Date, an Event Determination Date could occur as a result of issues submitted to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee after the Scheduled Maturity Date where the date on which a DC Credit Event Question was effective and on which a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee was in possession of Publicly Available Information with respect to such question falls on or prior to the 14th day following the Scheduled Maturity Date or any Extension Date, as applicable.

Can an Event Determination Date only occur if a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee determines that one has occurred?

No. The Calculation Agent and the Issuer may also deliver a Credit Event Notice to the Securityholder in relation to a Credit Event triggering an Event Determination Date (see "When can a Credit Event or a Risk Event be triggered?" above).

An Event Determination Date may be bilaterally triggered following the occurrence of a Credit Event that is an M(M)R Restructuring. In other cases, although the Calculation Agent and the Issuer may trigger an Event Determination Date following the occurrence of a Credit Event it will only be able to do so if (i) a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not made a DC Credit Event Announcement or a DC No Credit Event Announcement; (ii) it has some information to support its determination that a Credit Event has occurred and (iii) (in circumstances where a Notice of Publicly Available Information is required to be provided) it cites Publicly Available Information confirming the occurrence of the Credit Event described in the Credit Event Notice.

What is the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee and how does it affect the Credit Linked Notes (other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes)?

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee was established by ISDA in March 2009 to make determinations that are relevant to the majority of the credit derivatives market and to promote transparency and consistency. Securityholders will have no role in the composition of the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee by virtue of the fact that they are investors in the Credit Linked Notes.

Prospective Securityholders should note that a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has the power to make binding decisions which the Calculation Agent may determine are applicable for the purposes of the Credit Linked Notes on critical issues, including:

- (a) the occurrence of a Credit Event and the standard Event Determination Date;
- (b) whether one or more Auctions will be held in respect of the Reference Entity for which a Credit Event has occurred;
- (c) if one or more Auctions are to be held, what Deliverable Obligations of the Reference Entity will be used for the purposes of determining the price for each such Auction and the relevant auction buckets which cover the various scheduled termination dates of transactions;
- (d) the suitable methodology to be applied when determining the asset market value of any non-financial instruments or instruments not capable of transfer or when asset package delivery will be cash settled;

- (e) the auction settlement terms;
- (f) the occurrence of a succession or succession event and the identity of any "Successors" (for details, see "Successors" below); and
- (g) suitable substitute Reference Obligations where a substitution event has occurred.

Consequently, Securityholders will be bound by any such relevant decisions determined to be applicable to the Credit Linked Notes and the payments on the Credit Linked Notes and the timing of any such payments may be affected by such decisions or determinations. Questions referred to the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee and the results of binding votes will be published by the DC Secretary on <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

The Credit Derivatives Determinations Committees are regional and there is a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee for each of the following five regions: the Americas, Asia (excluding Japan), Australia and New Zealand, Europe, the Middle East and Africa (EMEA) and Japan. The proceedings of each Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee will be governed by rules published from time to time by the DC Secretary. A copy of such rules is available as at the date of this Base Prospectus free of charge at <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

Each Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee is formed of up to ten voting dealer members, five voting buy-side (non-dealer) members and three non-voting members (two dealers and one buy-side). A Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee may also include as non-voting members one or more credit derivatives central clearing counterparties (CCP) as observer members. Dealer institutions are selected for membership in accordance with the DC Rules published by the DC Secretary and certain trading volume data guidelines.

With effect from 12 October 2018, DC Administration Services, Inc., a Delaware-incorporated subsidiary of ISDA was appointed by ISDA to act as the DC Secretary. The DC Secretary is responsible for various administrative tasks, including distributing questions submitted by eligible market participants to the relevant DC members, convening DC meetings, and publishing the results of DC votes. The DC secretary does not vote on whether Credit Events have occurred.

SUMMARY OF DIFFERENT CREDIT PRODUCTS UNDER THE PROGRAMME

What are the different types of Credit Linked Notes that may be issued under the Programme?

If Credit Linked Notes are issued by way of Final Terms, the Credit Linked Notes may be Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes, Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes, Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes or Local Access Credit Linked Notes.

(A) What are Single Name Credit Linked Notes?

Single Name Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of only one Reference Entity specified in the relevant Issue Terms.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and a relevant Event Determination Date occurs, then each Single Name Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in full (or, where an M(M)R Restructuring occurs or multiple successors are identified, in part) by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount or, where Physical Redemption applies, by delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and/or any applicable cash amounts on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date.

Multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of Single Name Credit Linked Notes in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(B) What are Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes?

Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of a basket with two or more Reference Entities, although such Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes are exposed to the credit risk of only the "nth" Reference Entity specified in the relevant Issue Terms. For example, if "n" is five, then redemption will only arise after a Credit Event has occurred with respect to five of the Reference Entities in the basket, and then only with respect to that fifth Reference Entity. As such, if one or more Credit Events occur in respect of Reference Entities other than the nth Reference Entity, redemption of the Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes will not be triggered.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and a relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of the nth Reference Entity, then each Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in full (or, where an M(M)R Restructuring occurs or multiple successors are identified, in part) by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount or, where Physical Redemption applies, by delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and/or any applicable cash amounts on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date.

Multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of the nth Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(C) What are Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes?

Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of a basket of Reference Entities specified in the relevant Issue Terms and are exposed to the credit risk of each Reference Entity in the basket in proportion to the weighting specified for such Reference Entity in the relevant Issue Terms.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of any one of the Reference Entities in the basket, then each Linear Basket Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in part, in proportion to the weighting of the affected Reference Entity, by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount or, where Physical Redemption applies, by delivery of the Physical Redemption Assets and/or any applicable cash amounts on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date. Redemption will be effected in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions, where applicable.

Multiple Credit Events, and therefore multiple Event Determination Dates, may occur with respect to more than one Reference Entity. Further, multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of a single Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(D) What are Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes?

Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of component Reference Entities of an Index specified in the relevant Issue Terms. Such Index may be either an iTraxx[®] Index or a CDX[®] Index. The Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes are exposed to the credit risk of each Reference Entity in the relevant Index in proportion to the weighting specified for such Reference Entity in the relevant Issue Terms.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of any one of the Reference Entities in the Index, then each Index Untranching Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in part, in proportion to the weighting of the affected Reference Entity, by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date and, where applicable, in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

Multiple Credit Events, and therefore multiple Event Determination Dates, may occur with respect to more than one Reference Entity. Further, multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of a single Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(E) What are Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes?

Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of component Reference Entities of an Index specified in the relevant Issue Terms, although such Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes are only exposed to the incurred losses and redemptions are effected with respect to incurred recoveries (if any) in respect of a specified tranche of that Index. Such Index may be either an iTraxx[®] Index or a CDX[®] Index. Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes are accordingly exposed to the credit risk of each Reference Entity in the relevant Index in proportion to the weighting specified for such Reference Entity in the relevant Issue Terms, to the extent that losses suffered by the affected Reference Entities fall within such prescribed tranche.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of any one of the Reference Entities in the Index, then each Index Tranching Credit Linked Note will be written down and/or redeemed, as applicable, to reflect the incurred loss and/or incurred recovery suffered in respect of the affected Reference Entity (to the extent that any such incurred loss and incurred recovery falls within the prescribed tranche) with payment of any incurred recovery (i.e. the Index Tranching Redemption Amount) being made on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date and, where applicable, in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

Multiple Credit Events, and therefore multiple Event Determination Dates, may occur with respect to more than one Reference Entity. Further, multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of a single Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(F) What are Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes?

Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of component Reference Entities of a bespoke basket specified in the relevant Issue Terms, although such Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes are only exposed to the incurred losses and redemptions are effected with respect to incurred recoveries (if any) in respect of a specified tranche of that basket. Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes are accordingly exposed to the credit risk of each Reference Entity in the relevant basket in proportion to the weighting specified for such Reference Entity in the relevant Issue Terms, to the extent that losses suffered by the affected Reference Entities fall within such prescribed tranche.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Credit Event and relevant Event Determination Date occurs in respect of any one of the Reference Entities in the basket, then each Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note will be written down and/or redeemed, as applicable, to reflect the incurred loss and/or incurred recovery suffered in respect of the affected Reference Entity (to the extent that any such incurred loss and incurred recovery falls within the prescribed tranche) with payment of any incurred recovery (i.e. the Portfolio Tranching Redemption Amount) being made on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date and, where applicable, in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

Multiple Credit Events, and therefore multiple Event Determination Dates, may occur with respect to more than one Reference Entity. Further, multiple Credit Events and related Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of a single Reference Entity in accordance with the relevant M(M)R Restructuring and Successor provisions.

(G) What are Local Access Credit Linked Notes?

Local Access Credit Linked Notes represent an investment linked to the performance of only one Reference Entity specified in the relevant Issue Terms, where such Reference Entity is a sovereign of a local access jurisdiction. Accordingly, in addition to exposure to the credit risk of the Reference Entity, an investment in Local Access Credit Linked Notes involves additional risks associated with such local access jurisdictions, including potential risks of volatility, governmental intervention and the lack of a developed system of law.

Unless redeemed early in full, if a Risk Event and a relevant Risk Event Determination Date occurs then each Local Access Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in full (or where multiple successors are identified, in part) by payment of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Amount on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date.

Multiple Risk Events and related Risk Event Determination Dates may occur in respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes in accordance with the relevant Successor provisions.

PAYOUTS UNDER CREDIT LINKED NOTES – KEY TIMINGS AND AMOUNTS

What are the different timings for payouts that are contemplated under the Credit Linked Conditions?

The amount of interest, if applicable, and principal which an investor receives will depend on whether redemption of the Credit Linked Notes occurs:

- (a) in the usual course, at maturity (see further "When will the Credit Linked Notes be redeemed if no Credit Event or Risk Event occurs?" below);
- (b) pursuant to the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable (see further, "What is 'Credit Payment following Credit Event' or 'Credit Payment following Risk Event'?" below);
- (c) at maturity, despite the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable (see further, "What is 'Credit Payment on Maturity'?" below); or
- (d) pursuant to the occurrence of an event (other than a Credit Event or a Risk Event) triggering early redemption (see further "When may the Issuer redeem the Credit Linked Notes early?" below).

(A) When will the Credit Linked Notes be redeemed if no Credit Event or Risk Event occurs?

If no Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, has occurred, and provided that the Credit Linked Notes are not otherwise redeemed early, repurchased or cancelled, each Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in full on the Scheduled Maturity Date (which may in certain circumstances have been extended) (see further "What will Securityholders receive if the Credit Linked Notes are not redeemed early?" below).

(B) What is 'Credit Payment following Credit Event' or 'Credit Payment following Risk Event'?

"Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event", as applicable, refers to where a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, occurs with respect to a Reference Entity (or the nth Reference Entity, in case of Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes) and an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs as a result and redemption follows such Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable (see further "What will Securityholders receive if 'Credit Payment following Credit Event' or 'Credit Payment following Risk Event' applies?" below).

(C) What is 'Credit Payment on Maturity'?

"Credit Payment on Maturity" refers to where a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, occurs with respect to a Reference Entity (or the nth Reference Entity, in case of Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes) and an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs as a result, but redemption (and accordingly, payment of the relevant redemption amounts) occurs only at maturity (see further "What will Securityholders receive if 'Credit Payment on Maturity' applies?" below).

(D) When may the Issuer redeem the Credit Linked Notes early?

The Issuer may redeem the Credit Linked Notes early in full, other than where a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, has occurred, if (i) certain tax events occur with respect to the Credit Linked Notes; (ii) certain events occur which make it unlawful for the Issuer and/or the relevant Guarantor to perform certain obligations or comply with material provisions of agreements entered into in connection with the Credit Linked

Notes; (iii) an Early Redemption Event occurs (see further "When will an Early Redemption Event occur?" below); (iv) certain Events of Default occur; (v) the Issuer elects to exercise its call option in respect of the Credit Linked Notes (if "Issuer Call" is applicable); (vi) in certain cases and if applicable, following an Administrator/Benchmark Event; (vii) a Realisation Disruption Event occurs; (viii) an Underlying RMB Currency Event occurs; (ix) a Merger Event occurs; or (x) if the Reference Obligation (in respect of a Reference Entity to which "Reference Obligation Only" applies) is redeemed in whole prior to its scheduled maturity date (see further "What will Securityholders receive if the Issuer redeems the Credit Linked Notes early (other than due to a Credit Event or a Risk Event)?" below).

When will an Early Redemption Event occur?

An Early Redemption Event may occur where, among other things, (a) certain adjustments have occurred, (b) in respect of certain Securities, circumstances in which the Calculation Agent determines that no adjustment can reasonably be made following an Adjustment Event, (c) in respect of certain Securities, no successor index can be determined or no adjustment can reasonably be made following a material change to the relevant index, (d) a Section 871(m) Event, or (e) a Hedging Disruption Early Termination Event (if specified as applicable in the applicable Issue Terms)).

Can Securityholders elect to redeem their Credit Linked Notes early?

The Securityholders do not have a right to require the Issuer to redeem their Notes early.

What are Securityholders expected to receive pursuant to the different payouts contemplated under the Credit Linked Conditions?

The amount of interest, if applicable, and principal which an investor receives will depend on when redemption of the Credit Linked Notes occurs.

(A) What will Securityholders receive if the Credit Linked Notes are not redeemed early?

Where the Credit Linked Notes are not otherwise redeemed early, repurchased or cancelled, the amount payable in respect of each Credit Linked Note that is redeemed in full on the Scheduled Maturity Date will be an amount equal to par.

(B) What will Securityholders receive if "Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event" applies?

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event", as applicable, apply and an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs, the Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed at the Credit Event Redemption Amount (see further, "What is the Credit Event Redemption Amount?" below), with no further payment of principal or interest, if applicable, on the proportion of the Credit Linked Notes affected by the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable (see further "What interest payments will Securityholders receive after the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event?" below). The Credit Event Redemption Amount is likely to be less than the par value of the Credit Linked Notes and may even be zero.

(C) What will Securityholders receive if "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies?

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies and an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs, interest will cease to accrue on, or be payable in respect of, such portion of the Credit Linked Notes affected by the Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable. This will not affect any interest payable on the remaining portion of the Credit Linked Notes unaffected by such Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable. Further, the Credit Payment on Maturity Amount (which reflects the incurred recoveries to be paid at maturity) will accrue interest based on the funding interest rate specified in the Issue Terms (see further "What interest payments will Securityholders receive after the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event?" below). The Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed only at maturity in an amount equal to the Credit Event Redemption Amount (see further, "What is the Credit Event Redemption Amount?" below). The Credit Event Redemption Amount is likely to be less than the par value of the Credit Linked Notes and may even be zero.

(D) What will Securityholders receive if the Issuer redeems the Credit Linked Notes early (other than due to a Credit Event or a Risk Event)?

If the Credit Linked Notes are redeemed early in full (other than where a Credit Event, Risk Event, Merger Event or redemption in whole of the Reference Obligation has occurred), the Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed on the Early Redemption Date or Optional Redemption Date, as applicable, by payment of an amount equal to the Early Redemption Amount or Optional Redemption Amount, as applicable, with no further payment of principal or interest, if applicable, due in respect of such Credit Linked Notes. The Early Redemption Amount is an amount determined with respect to the Credit Linked Notes in the Settlement Currency which is typically equal to the fair market value of such notes or the principal amount of such notes (together with any unpaid interest). The Optional Redemption Amount is an amount specified in, or determined in the manner specified in the applicable Issue Terms.

Where applicable, in the case of a Merger Event, the Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed on the Early Redemption Date by payment of the Merger Redemption Amount. The Merger Redemption Amount may be equal to either (x) the Early Redemption Amount or (y) an amount equal to the outstanding aggregate nominal amount of the relevant Credit Linked Notes less any unwind costs, and will be specified in the relevant Issue Terms.

In the case of redemption in whole of the Reference Obligation (where "Reference Obligation Only" applies), each Credit Linked Note will be redeemed on the Substitution Event Date by payment of the Substitution Event Redemption Amount. The Substitution Event Redemption Amount is an amount determined with respect to the Credit Linked Notes in the Settlement Currency which is typically equal to the fair market value of such notes less any unwind costs.

REDEMPTION MECHANICS UNDER THE PROGRAMME

What is the Applicable Proportion?

The Applicable Proportion represents such proportion of the aggregate notional amount of a Credit Linked Note that is affected by a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, and is used for determining the amounts payable or to be written down and/or redeemed following the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, as well as for calculating the interest payable on such Credit Linked Notes. The calculation of the Applicable Proportion depends on the nature of the Credit Linked Notes, the type of Credit Event resulting in redemption (including whether the Credit Event is an M(M)R Restructuring or not) and whether the Successor provisions are relevant (see further "Successors" below):

(A) Single Name Credit Linked Notes and Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes

The Applicable Proportion of each Single Name Credit Linked Note or Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes will be equal to the product of the Specified Denomination of such Credit Linked Note and:

- (i) 100 per cent. (where redemption is not as a result of an M(M)R Restructuring or pursuant to multiple successors being identified);
- (ii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Exercise Amount specified in the relevant Credit Event Notice relating to the relevant Reference Entity and Credit Event, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where redemption is as a result of an M(M)R Restructuring); or
- (iii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Single Name Partial Nominal Amount or the Nth-to-Default Partial Nominal Amount, as applicable, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where redemption is not pursuant to an M(M)R Restructuring and where partial redemption occurs pursuant to application of the succession provisions).

(B) Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes

The Applicable Proportion of each Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes or Index Untranching Credit Linked Note will be equal to the product of the Specified Denomination of such Credit Linked Note and:

- (i) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Reference Entity Notional Amount, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of the relevant Credit Linked Notes (where redemption is not as a result of an M(M)R Restructuring or pursuant to multiple successors being identified);
- (ii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Exercise Amount specified in the relevant Credit Event Notice relating to the relevant Reference Entity and Credit Event, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where redemption is as a result of an M(M)R Restructuring); or
- (iii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Linear Basket Partial Nominal Amount or Index Untranching Partial Nominal Amount, as applicable, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where redemption is not pursuant to an M(M)R Restructuring and where partial redemption occurs pursuant to the succession provisions).

(C) Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes

The Applicable Proportion of each Index Tranching Credit Linked Note or Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Note will be equal to the product of the Specified Denomination of such Credit Linked Note and an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the relevant Principal Writedown Amount, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes.

(D) Local Access Credit Linked Notes

The Applicable Proportion of each Local Access Credit Linked Note will be equal to the product of the Specified Denomination of such Credit Linked Note and:

- (i) 100 per cent. (where redemption is not pursuant to multiple successors being identified); or
- (ii) an amount (expressed as a percentage) equal to the Local Access Partial Nominal Amount, divided by the Original Aggregate Nominal Amount of such Credit Linked Notes (where partial redemption occurs pursuant to application of the succession provisions).

What are the different methods of redemption?

The Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed in accordance with the Credit Event Redemption Method elected for by the Issuer (and specified in the Issue Terms), provided that the Fallback Redemption Method, also specified in the relevant Issue Terms, will apply where the elected Credit Event Redemption Method cannot be applied.

(A) Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes or Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes

Auction Redemption, Cash Redemption, Physical Redemption or Fixed Recovery Redemption may be selected as the Credit Event Redemption Method, with a fallback for either Cash Redemption or Physical Redemption.

(B) Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes, Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes

Auction Redemption, Cash Redemption or Fixed Recovery Redemption may be selected as the Credit Event Redemption Method, with the only fallback being Cash Redemption. Physical Redemption is not relevant for these types of Credit Linked Notes.

(C) Local Access Credit Linked Notes

LA Cash Redemption, LA Physical Redemption or LA Fixed Recovery Redemption may be selected as the Risk Event Redemption Method. There is no prescribed fallback for such product. Auction Redemption is not relevant for these types of Credit Linked Notes.

What is the Credit Event Redemption Amount?

The Credit Event Redemption Amount is the cash amount that is payable to the Securityholders on an early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes following the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, and is broadly indicative of the recoveries in respect of such Credit Linked Notes.

The Credit Event Redemption Amount depends on the applicable Credit Event Redemption Method or Fallback Redemption Method, the nature of the Credit Linked Notes and the timing for payment:

(A) Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes

For such Credit Linked Notes, the Credit Event Redemption Amount will be the Auction Redemption Amount (where Auction Redemption is applicable), the Cash Redemption Amount (where Cash Redemption or Fixed Recovery Redemption is applicable) or if "Credit Payment on Maturity" is applicable, the Final Auction Redemption Amount or the Final Cash Redemption Amount.

The Credit Event Redemption Amount is determined based on the recovery price of certain deliverables determined in the relevant auction on the auction final price determination date or eligible obligations (Valuation Obligations) of the Reference Entity on a specified date (being the final price determination date) following the occurrence of a Credit Event with respect to such Reference Entity. With respect to the Credit Linked Notes which are subject to Cash Redemption, the eligible obligations shall be one or more obligations, as selected by the Calculation Agent, that are either a Reference Obligation and/or would constitute a Deliverable Obligation as at the particular observation time in accordance with elections made in the relevant Issue Terms. The price of such eligible obligations will be determined on the basis of bid quotations received by the Calculation Agent from dealers.

(B) Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes

The Credit Event Redemption Amount in respect of Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes or Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes will be the Index Tranchured Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranchured Redemption Amount, as applicable, or if "Credit Payment on Maturity" is applicable, the Index Tranchured Final Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranchured Final Redemption Amount, as applicable.

The Credit Event Redemption Amount is determined based on the Index Tranchured Incurred Recovery Amount or Portfolio Tranchured Incurred Recovery Amount, as applicable, which in turn, in each case, requires the Recovery Amount to be determined. The Recovery Amount is based on the recovery price of the Deliverable Obligations which may be determined by an Auction or, where Cash Redemption applies, on the basis of bid quotations for Valuation Obligations received by the Calculation Agent from dealers.

(C) Local Access Credit Linked Notes

The Credit Event Redemption Amount in respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes will be the LA Cash Redemption Amount (where LA Cash Redemption or LA Fixed Recovery Redemption is applicable) or if "Credit Payment on Maturity" is applicable, the Final LA Cash Redemption Amount.

The Credit Event Redemption Amount is determined based on the price of certain specified eligible assets of the Reference Entity on a specified date following the occurrence of a Risk Event with respect to such Reference Entity. With respect to Local Access Credit Linked Notes, the eligible assets shall be one or more assets that are either assets issued by the Reference Entity (and as specified in the Issue Terms) or assets selected by the Calculation Agent that would constitute a Deliverable Obligation as at the particular observation time in accordance with elections made in the relevant Issue Terms. The price of such eligible assets shall be determined on the basis of the highest bid quotation received by the Calculation Agent from third party dealers or if no such bid quotation is provided, by the Calculation Agent in its sole discretion.

How is the Credit Event Redemption Amount determined if Auction Redemption applies?

If Auction Redemption applies, the Auction Redemption Amount or the Recovery Amount (which is necessary to determine in order to calculate the Index Tranche Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranche Redemption Amount), as applicable, will be determined by reference to a price determined by way of a credit derivatives auction administered by the auction administrators based on the auction settlement terms published by the DC Secretary (an Auction). The Auction will involve a bidding process by institutions participating in the relevant Auction, pursuant to a bidding procedure set under the relevant auction settlement terms, to establish the value of the eligible obligations (the Deliverable Obligations) of the relevant Reference Entity. Deliverable Obligations mean obligations of the Reference Entity which satisfy certain specified "Deliverable Obligation Categories" and "Deliverable Obligation Characteristics" which are on the Final List as published by the DC Secretary. The Issuer or one or more of its affiliates may act as a participating bidder in any such Auction and may submit bids and offers with respect to the Deliverable Obligations of the Reference Entity.

(A) Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and Index Untranche Credit Linked Notes

If Auction Redemption applies, the Auction Redemption Amount will be equal to the product of (1) the Applicable Proportion of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed and (2) the price (expressed as a percentage) determined through the Auction for certain obligations of such Reference Entity, minus each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of any unwind costs.

(B) Index Tranche Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranche Credit Linked Notes

The Index Tranche Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranche Redemption Amount, as applicable, is an amount representing each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of an amount equal to (1) the Index Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount or Portfolio Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount (being the recovery in respect of such Credit Linked Notes which falls within the specified tranche), minus (2) any unwind costs. Accordingly, in order to determine the Index Tranche Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranche Redemption Amount, as applicable, the Index Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount or Portfolio Tranche Incurred Recovery Amount, as applicable, needs to be calculated, which in turn, in each case, requires the Recovery Amount to be determined. If Auction Redemption applies, the Recovery Amount will be equal to the product of (1) the Reference Entity Notional Amount of the Affected Reference Entity (and, in case of an M(M)R Restructuring, the Exercise Amount) and (2) the recovery price (expressed as a percentage) determined through the Auction for certain obligations of such Reference Entity.

The auction price is likely to be lower than the par value of the Deliverable Obligations of the Reference Entity and will be reflective of a loss experienced by the holder of such Deliverable Obligations. Moreover, the price is likely to reflect the lowest prevailing market value of any Deliverable Obligation. The lower the auction price, the greater the amount retained by the Issuer to make whole the loss suffered by it (as buyer of credit protection) and thus the smaller the Credit Event Redemption Amount paid to Securityholders on an early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes.

How is the Credit Event Redemption Amount determined if Cash Redemption or LA Cash Redemption applies?

(A) Cash Redemption

If Cash Redemption applies, the Cash Redemption Amount or the Recovery Amount (which is necessary to determine in order to calculate the Index Tranch Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranch Redemption Amount), as applicable, will be determined on the basis of the bid quotations sought by the Calculation Agent from third party dealers for the eligible obligations of the relevant Reference Entity selected by the Calculation Agent and satisfying certain specified obligation categories and obligation characteristics (such obligations being the Valuation Obligations). However, if no quotations are obtained, the Calculation Agent will determine the final price acting in a commercially reasonable manner which may even be zero.

(1) Single Name Credit Linked Notes, Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes and Index Untranch Credit Linked Notes

If Cash Redemption applies, the Cash Redemption Amount will be equal to the product of (1) the Applicable Proportion of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed and (2) the price (expressed as a percentage) determined on the basis of such bid quotations sought by the Calculation Agent from third party dealers for the Deliverable Obligations, minus each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of any unwind costs.

(2) Index Tranch Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranch Credit Linked Notes

The Index Tranch Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranch Redemption Amount, as applicable, is an amount representing each Note's pro rata share of an amount equal to (1) the Index Tranch Incurred Recovery Amount or Portfolio Tranch Incurred Recovery Amount (being the recovery in respect of such Notes), minus (2) any unwind costs. Accordingly, in order to determine the Index Tranch Redemption Amount or the Portfolio Tranch Redemption Amount, as applicable, the Recovery Amount needs to be calculated. If Cash Redemption applies, the Recovery Amount will be equal to the product of (1) the Reference Entity Notional Amount of the affected Reference Entity (and, in the case of an M(M)R Restructuring, the Exercise Amount) and (2) the price (expressed as a percentage) determined on the basis of such bid quotations sought by the Calculation Agent from third party dealers for the Deliverable Obligations.

(B) LA Cash Redemption

LA Cash Redemption applies only to Local Access Credit Linked Notes. If LA Cash Redemption applies, the LA Cash Redemption Amount will be determined on the basis of the highest bid quotation sought by the Calculation Agent from third party dealers for certain specified eligible assets of the relevant Reference Entity which may be assets issued by the Reference Entity (and as specified in the Issue Terms) or assets selected by the Calculation Agent that would constitute a Deliverable Obligation (being the LA Settlement Assets). However, if no quotations are obtained, the Calculation Agent will determine the LA Recovery Amount acting in its sole discretion.

If LA Cash Redemption applies, the LA Cash Redemption Amount will be equal to the product of (1) the Applicable Proportion of the Credit Linked Notes being redeemed and (2) the LA Recovery Amount, minus each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of any unwind costs.

In any case, while determining the Final Price or the LA Recovery Amount, as applicable, the Issuer will be entitled to select the cheapest Valuation Obligations or LA Settlement Assets, as applicable, for valuation. The lower the Final Price or the LA Recovery Amount, as applicable, the greater the amount retained by the Issuer to make whole the loss suffered by it (as buyer of credit protection) and thus the smaller the Credit Event Redemption Amount paid to Securityholders on an early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes.

What will the Securityholder receive if Physical Redemption or LA Physical Redemption of the Credit Linked Notes applies?

(A) Physical Redemption

If Physical Redemption applies, the Issuer will physically deliver assets to the Securityholders that represent each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of obligations of the Reference Entity which falls within a specified category (i.e. the Deliverable Obligation Category) and have the specified characteristics (i.e. the Deliverable Obligation Characteristics) which will be set out in the Issue Terms and which have an Outstanding Principal Balance or a Due and Payable Amount equal to the outstanding principal amount of the Credit Linked Notes following the occurrence of the Credit Event, minus any delivery expenses that may be incurred by the Issuer in the physical settlement and any interest suspension shortfall amount.

The Issuer may be required to make a payment in cash to the Securityholders where, for example, the assets to be physically delivered are not a whole integral multiple of the smallest unit of transfer or physical delivery is illegal or impossible or the necessary consents for transfer of the relevant Deliverable Obligation haven't been obtained.

If an Asset Package Credit Event has occurred, in certain circumstances the Physical Redemption Assets may include Assets comprising the Asset Package. The Issuer may elect to pay a cash amount to the Securityholders in lieu of delivering any or all of the Asset Package.

(B) LA Physical Redemption

LA Physical Redemption applies only to Local Access Credit Linked Notes. If LA Physical Redemption applies, the Issuer will physically deliver such assets to the Securityholders (being the LA Settlement Assets) that represent each Credit Linked Note's pro rata share of an amount equal to (1) the assets or obligations of the Reference Entity or assets selected by the Calculation Agent which constitute Deliverable Obligations, less (2) any unwind costs.

The Issuer may be required to make a payment in cash to the Securityholders where, for example, physical delivery is illegal or impossible due to circumstances outside the control of the Issuer or within the control of the Securityholders.

What will a Securityholder recover if fixed recovery is applicable?

If "Fixed Recovery Redemption" or "LA Fixed Recovery Redemption" is specified as applicable, then following the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event, as applicable, and relevant Event Determination Date, the amount payable on redemption on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date shall be calculated as set out in "How is the Credit Event Redemption Amount determined if Cash Redemption or LA Cash Redemption applies?" above, provided that instead of the Final Price, the "Fixed Recovery Percentage" set out in the relevant Issue Terms shall apply. The Fixed Recovery Percentage may be specified as zero, in which case Securityholders will lose all of their investment upon the occurrence of a Credit Event or Risk Event, as applicable.

What is an M(M)R Restructuring Credit Event?

This applies to a Restructuring Credit Event relating to some Transaction Types aimed at reducing the risk occurring with respect to receiving the "cheapest to deliver" assets by imposing complex restrictions on deliverables where a buyer of protection (i.e. the Issuer) triggers the event. The deliverables must additionally have a final maturity date (determined at the time of delivery and effective delivery of Notice of Physical Settlement) or determination which falls within the limitation date of a maturity bucket.

If there is no auction for a bucket, in order to auction settle, the Issuer may elect to exercise a "Movement Option" to settle at a bucket with more restrictive deliverables rather than redeem through the fallback redemption methods.

How much will Securityholders receive if the Credit Linked Notes are partially redeemed following an M(M)R Restructuring Credit Event?

If a Restructuring Credit Event occurs with respect to the Credit Linked Notes, and it constitutes an M(M)R Restructuring, the Issuer may elect to trigger a partial redemption of the Credit Linked Notes in respect of such Restructuring Credit Event. This Credit Event requires a Credit Event Notice to be delivered in order to be triggered (i.e. this can only be triggered bilaterally).

If the Issuer decides to partially redeem the Credit Linked Notes, each Credit Linked Note will be redeemed in part by an amount that is less than the entire credit protection purchased and sold under the Credit Linked Notes in relation to the Reference Entity with respect to which the Restructuring Credit Event occurred (such partial amount, the Exercise Amount). The Credit Event Redemption Amount payable to Securityholders will reflect such partial exercise for the purposes of redemption of the Credit Linked Notes. Subsequent determinations of interest and principal under the Credit Linked Notes will be determined only in respect of the outstanding nominal amount of the Credit Linked Note following such reduction.

How much will Securityholders receive if the Credit Linked Notes are partially redeemed following a determination of multiple successors?

If the Credit Linked Notes are partially redeemed following a determination of multiple successors, the Calculation Agent shall apportion any calculation amounts equally between the number of Successors and the Credit Event Redemption Amount or the amount of Physical Redemption Assets or LA Settlement Assets, as applicable, to be delivered for any Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, which occur shall be calculated on the basis of such apportioned amounts. For details on successors, see "Successors" below.

Can Credit Linked Notes be redeemed after the Scheduled Maturity Date?

If no Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs then the Credit Linked Notes are scheduled to redeem on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

However, if the Calculation Agent determines that on or prior to the Scheduled Maturity Date, (i) one or more Reference Entities (a) may be subject to a Credit Event or to a Risk Event, (b) if "Grace Period Extension" is applicable, is or may be subject to a Potential Failure to Pay, or (c) if "Potential Repudiation/Moratorium" is applicable, is or may be subject to a Potential Repudiation/Moratorium, (ii) a Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice may be delivered after the Scheduled Maturity Date within an effective delivery period which may result in a Relevant Event Determination Date or a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date occurring, (iii) a Credit Event Resolution Request Date may occur after the Scheduled Maturity Date but during the Notice Delivery Period which may result in a Relevant Event Determination Date occurring, (iv) the final Credit Event Redemption Date or the Final Physical Redemption Cut-Off Date, as applicable, will only occur after the Scheduled Maturity Date (including any final Partial Cash Redemption Date or final Fallback Partial Cash Redemption Date), (v) a Payment Failure Cut-Off Date may occur after the Scheduled Maturity Date where a Payment/Delivery Failure Event has occurred, or (vi) a RMB Currency Settlement Cut-Off Date may occur after the Scheduled Maturity Date, then each Credit Linked Note then outstanding shall not be redeemed on the Scheduled Maturity Date but shall be redeemed on the Extended Maturity Date.

When will the Credit Linked Notes be redeemed if the Scheduled Maturity Date is extended?

If no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs on or prior to the Notes Extension Date, the Credit Linked Notes will redeem on the latest to occur of (a) the fifth Business Day following the Notes Extension Date; (b) the final Credit Event Redemption Date in relation to any unsettled Relevant Credit Events or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable or if later, any Final Physical Redemption Cut-Off Date (including any final Partial Cash Redemption Date or final Fallback Cash Redemption Date); (c) the fifth Business Day following the Payment Failure Cut-Off Date (if applicable); or (d) the fifth Business Day following the RMB Currency Settlement Cut-Off Date, if applicable.

In respect of Credit Linked Notes (other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes), where a Relevant Event Determination Date actually occurs on or prior to the Notes Extension Date, the Credit Linked Notes shall be redeemed on the later to occur of (a) the final Credit Event Redemption Date in relation to any unsettled Relevant Credit Events, as applicable or if later, any Final Physical Redemption Cut-Off Date (including any final Partial Cash Redemption Date or final Fallback Cash Redemption Date) and (b) the fifth Business Day following the Payment Failure Cut-Off Date (if applicable).

In respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes, where a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date actually occurs on or prior to the LA Cut Off Date, the Credit Linked Notes will be redeemed on the latest to occur of (a) the final LA Cash Redemption Date or the final LA Physical Redemption Date, as applicable; (b) the fifth Business Day following the Payment Failure Cut-Off Date (if applicable); and (c) the fifth Business Day following the RMB Currency Settlement Cut-Off Date, if applicable.

INTEREST SPECIFIC PROVISIONS

What interest payments will Securityholders receive after the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Risk Event?

If an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, occurs, the date on which interest ceases to accrue on the Applicable Proportion of the relevant Credit Linked Notes (for further information see "What is the Applicable Proportion?" above) shall depend on whether "No Interest Accrual on Default" or "Interest Accrual on Default" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms.

(A) No Interest Accrual on Default

Interest shall cease from and including the Interest Payment Date preceding the Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date, in respect of the first Interest Period, from (and including) the Issue Date.

(B) Interest Accrual on Default

Interest shall cease from and including the first Business Day immediately following the Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date.

However, (i) in respect of each Credit Linked Note (other than a Local Access Credit Linked Note), interest will accrue on the Applicable Proportion from (and including) the Interest Payment Date preceding such Event Determination Date or (if no such Interest Payment Date exists), the Issue Date to (and including) such Event Determination Date; and (ii) in respect of each Local Access Credit Linked Note, the LA Interest Amount shall be payable if, and only if, an Interest Payment Date occurred during the period from (and including) the Interest Payment Date preceding such Risk Event Determination Date, or (if no such Interest Payment Date exists), the Issue Date to (and including) such Risk Event Determination Date.

Any accrued, but unpaid, interest shall be paid (i) within 10 Business Days following the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date (if "Credit Payment following Credit Event" or "Credit Payment following Risk Event" applies) or in respect of Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes and Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes only and where there is no incurred recovery, within 10 Business Days following the relevant Auction Final Price Determination Date or Final Price Determination Date, as applicable, (ii) on such date as determined by the Calculation Agent (if "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies), (iii) if the Credit Linked Notes are early redeeming in full, on the Early Redemption Date, the Optional Redemption Date or the Substitution Event Date, as applicable or (iv) within 10 Business Days following the first Delivery Date (if "Physical Redemption" applies), as applicable. In respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes, such payment of suspended interest shall be made if, and only if, an Interest Payment Date has occurred prior to a prescribed date.

The Credit Payment on Maturity Amount will accrue interest additionally at the funding interest rate where "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies.

If a Credit Event and Event Determination Date have not occurred will I receive payments of interest on each Interest Payment Date?

If an Applicable DC Credit Event Question has been made on or prior to an Interest Payment Date and no corresponding DC Resolution has been published or a Relevant Credit Event and related Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event and related Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, could occur but no Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice, as applicable, has been provided, then any interest payable under the Credit Linked Notes will be suspended to the maximum possible amount (assuming an Event Determination Date or Risk Event Determination Date would occur, as though full exercise of an M(M) R Restructuring had occurred and where relevant, that Fixed Recovery Redemption with Fixed Recovery Percentage at 0% has occurred) or, in the case of Local Access Credit Linked Notes, the LA Interest Amount relating to the relevant Interest Payment Date will be suspended.

If payments of interest are suspended when will the Issuer's obligations to make such payments resume?

Suspension of interest amount will continue until certain public announcements by the DC Secretary are made or until the Calculation Agent determines that a Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, has not occurred and will not occur or if an LA Cut-Off Date in respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes has occurred. Such public announcements may be one of an Applicable DC No Credit Event Announcement, an Applicable DC Credit Event Question Dismissal or an announcement by the DC Secretary that the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee will not be convening to Resolve the relevant Applicable DC Credit Event Question. In such case, the Securityholders will be paid the suspended interest amount 10 Business Days following the date of such announcement or determination by the Calculation Agent or the LA Cut-Off Date, as applicable.

Will Securityholders receive an additional amount of interest once the Issuer's obligation to make interest payments resumes?

No additional amount of interest will be payable to the Securityholders by the Issuer in connection with the delay or postponement in payment of an interest amount. However, if the Calculation Agent determines that the amount of interest suspended pursuant to Credit Linked Condition 2(c) (Suspension of Interest following an Applicable DC Credit Event Question, a potential Credit Event or a potential Risk Event) was greater or lesser than the amount of interest that should have been suspended, the Issuer will be required to calculate the adjustment interest amount due to or from the Securityholders and such adjustment amount will be paid to, or held back from future interest payments owed to, the Securityholders and where there has been a shortfall as at the relevant maturity or early redemption date, such interest shortfall proceeds shall be deducted from the final redemption amounts or the amount of Physical Redemption Assets to be delivered, as applicable.

ADDITIONAL PROVISIONS

What are the Financial Reference Entity Terms?

If "Financial Reference Entity Terms" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms, then:

- (i) where the Reference Obligation is a senior obligation and if a Credit Event relating to Governmental Intervention or Restructuring would only affect the subordinated obligations of the relevant obligor, a Credit Event will not be triggered in respect of such Reference Entity;
- (ii) where the Reference Obligation is a subordinated obligation and if a Credit Event relating to Governmental Intervention or Restructuring would only affect the further subordinated obligations of the relevant obligor, a Credit Event will not be triggered in respect of such Reference Entity;
- (iii) with respect to successions, if the Credit Linked Notes relates to a Senior Obligation, the debt transfer shall be assessed only in relation to Bond or Loans which include the Senior Obligations of the Reference Entity and where the Credit Linked Notes are Subordinated Obligations, the debt transfer shall exclude Senior Obligations and any Further Subordinated Obligations of the Reference Entity which fall within the Obligation Category "Bond or Loan", provided that if no such Bond or Loan exists, the debt transfer shall be assessed only in relation to Bond or Loans which include the Senior Obligations of the Reference Entity;
- (iv) provided that "Governmental Intervention" is also specified as applicable in the Issue Terms, if an obligation would otherwise satisfy a particular Obligation Characteristic or Deliverable Obligation Characteristic, the existence of any terms in the relevant obligation in effect at the time of making the determination which permit the Reference Entity's obligations to be altered, discharged, released or suspended in circumstances which would constitute a Governmental Intervention, shall not cause such obligation to fail to satisfy such Obligation Characteristic or Deliverable Obligation Characteristic;

- (v) a qualifying guarantee which contains terms permitting or anticipating a Governmental Intervention will not be treated as containing provisions where the principal payment obligations of the Reference Entity can be discharged, released, reduced, assigned or otherwise altered as a result of the occurrence or non-occurrence of such event; or
- (vi) an Asset Package Credit Event may occur where (a) a Governmental Intervention is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms or (b) a Restructuring in respect of the Reference Obligation, if "Restructuring" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms and such Restructuring does not constitute a Governmental Intervention. If an Asset Package Credit Event occurs, Asset Package Delivery is applicable and any Prior Deliverable Obligation shall be a Deliverable Obligation.

What is Asset Package Credit Event and Asset Package Delivery?

If (a) "Financial Reference Entity Terms" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms and a Restructuring Credit Event (which does not constitute a Governmental Intervention) of the Reference Obligation or a Governmental Intervention Credit Event occurs, or (b) a Restructuring Credit Event occurs with respect to a Sovereign, such a Credit Event will constitute an "Asset Package Credit Event".

If such Asset Package Credit Event occurs prior to the relevant Credit Event Backstop Date, then in those circumstances, (unless, in respect of a Sovereign Reference Entity, Asset Package Delivery has been specified not to apply in the relevant Issue Terms), the obligations or assets used to determine the Auction Final Price or recovery of the Valuation Obligations, as the case may be (i.e. the "Asset Package"), will be the "Asset Package" comprising those assets received or retained by a Relevant Holder by reference to:

- (i) in respect of (a) above and a Governmental Intervention Credit Event, an obligation of the Reference Entity which existed immediately prior to the Asset Package Credit Event which would have constituted a Deliverable Obligation, or in the case of (a) above and a Restructuring Credit Event, the Reference Obligation (i.e. a "Prior Deliverable Obligation"); or
- (ii) in respect of (b) above, a benchmark obligation of the relevant Sovereign identified as such by ISDA and published on its website or any successor website or by a third party designated by ISDA on its website from time to time and which immediately prior to the Asset Package Credit Event would have constituted a Deliverable Obligation (i.e. a "Package Observable Bond").

Delivery of a Prior Deliverable Obligation or a Package Observable Bond may be satisfied by Delivery of the related Asset Package, and such Asset Package shall be treated as having the same currency, Outstanding Principal Balance or Due and Payable Amount, as applicable, as the Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond to which it corresponds had immediately prior to the Asset Package Credit Event, and if the Asset Package is zero, the Outstanding Amount of the Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond shall be deemed to have been Delivered in full three Business Days following the date on which the Issuer has notified the Fiscal Agent of the detailed description of the Asset Package that it intends to Deliver in accordance with the definition of "Notice of Physical Settlement".

The Issuer may satisfy its obligation to make Delivery of the Prior Deliverable Obligation or Package Observable Bond in part by Delivery of each Asset in the Asset Package in the correct proportion. If the relevant Asset is a Non-Transferable Instrument or a Non-Financial Instrument, the Asset shall be deemed to be an amount of cash equal to the Asset Market Value by reference to an appropriate specialist valuation or in accordance with the methodology determined by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee.

What are Additional Provisions for Senior Non-Preferred Reference Obligations?

Where the Issue Terms specify "Additional Provisions for Senior Non-Preferred Reference Obligations (published on December 8, 2017)" as applicable, the Reference Obligation is any obligation of the Reference Entity which is Subordinated only to any unsubordinated Borrowed Money Obligations of the Reference Entity but not further or otherwise, or which would be so Subordinated if any unsubordinated Borrowed Money Obligations of the Reference Entity existed (Senior Non-Preferred Obligation), and which ranks above "Traditional Subordinated Obligations" or which would so rank if Traditional Subordinated Obligations existed. In such circumstances, the Senior Non-Preferred Obligation shall constitute a Subordinated Obligation and such Traditional Subordinated Obligation (as defined in the Credit Linked Conditions) shall constitute a Further Subordinated Obligation.

What is the 2014 CoCo Supplement and a CoCo Provision?

Where the Issue Terms specify the 2014 CoCo Supplement to be applicable, if with respect to one or more Obligations and in relation to an aggregate amount of not less than a pre-determined amount, the operation of one or more CoCo Provisions results in (i) a permanent or temporary reduction of the amount of principal payable at redemption or (ii) a conversion of principal into shares or another instrument, such event shall be deemed to constitute a Governmental Intervention.

A Coco Provision requires (i) a permanent or temporary reduction of the amount of principal payable at redemption or (ii) a conversion of principal into shares or another instrument, in each case, if the capital ratio is at or below a trigger percentage which is specified to be 5.25 per cent., if no other trigger percentage is specified.

What are the Additional Provisions for Monoline Insurer Reference Entities?

Where the Issue Terms specify that "Additional Provisions for Monoline Insurer Reference Entities" are applicable, Obligations and Deliverable Obligations will include certain qualifying financial guarantee insurance policy or similar financial guarantees pursuant to which a Reference Entity irrevocably guarantees or insures certain borrowed money instruments of another party.

What is the impact of additional provisions applicable to the Hellenic Republic, Republic of Ecuador or Republic of Ukraine?

Where the Issue Terms specify that "Additional Provisions for the Republic of Ecuador: Excluded Obligations and Excluded Deliverable Obligations" (published by ISDA on 5 March 2018), "Additional Provisions for the Hellenic Republic: Excluded Obligations and Excluded Deliverable Obligations" (published by ISDA on 29 May 2012) or "Additional Provisions for the Republic of Ukraine: Excluded Obligations and Excluded Deliverable Obligations" (published by ISDA on 11 April 2016) are applicable, certain Bond or Loan obligations (as the case may be) are treated as Excluded Deliverable Obligations, which:

- (i) in respect of a Hellenic Reference Entity means any obligation that is a "Bond or a Loan" that was issued or incurred, as the case may be, on or prior to 1 February 2012;
- (ii) in respect of an Ecuador Reference Entity means any obligation that is a "Bond" that was issued on or prior to 31 December 2009; or
- (iii) in respect of a Ukraine Reference Entity means any obligation that is a "Bond" that was issued on or prior to 1 November 2015.

REFERENCE OBLIGATIONS

What is a Standard Reference Obligation ?

A Standard Reference Obligation is the obligation specified as the market standard reference obligation for the relevant Reference Entity for the relevant seniority level, as published on the relevant SRO list.

If "Standard Reference Obligation" is specified as applicable in the Issue Terms where there is no Standard Reference Obligation and a Non-Standard Reference Obligation is specified in the Issue Terms, the Reference Obligation will be (A) the Non-Standard Reference Obligation to but excluding the first date of publication of the Standard Reference Obligation and (B) the Standard Reference Obligation with the relevant Seniority Level with be the Reference Obligation from such date onwards, provided that the Standard Reference Obligation that is published would have been eligible to be selected as a Substitute Reference Obligation. The SRO list for selected standard reference obligations selected by the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee can be obtained at <https://ihsmarkit.com> or any successor webpage. Standard reference obligation could also be disappplied in the Issue Terms.

Can a redeemed Reference Obligation be stipulated as a Reference Obligation?

Yes. For the purpose of assessing the "Not Subordinated" Obligation Characteristic or "Not Subordinated" Deliverable Obligation Characteristic.

SUCCESSORS

Is it possible to change a Reference Entity?

The Reference Entity may not be changed unless a "Successor" determination has been made with respect to the Reference Entity on or after the "Successor Backstop Date" (or, in the case of a "Universal Successor", on or after 1 January 2014).

A "Universal Successor" means, with respect to any Reference Entity (not being a sovereign entity), the single entity which assumes all of the obligations (including at least one relevant bond or loan) of the Reference Entity and at the time of the determination either (A) the Reference Entity has ceased to exist, or (B) the Reference Entity is in the process of being dissolved (however described) and the Reference Entity has not issued or incurred any borrowed money obligation at any time since the legally effective date of the assumption.

What is a "Successor" to the Reference Entity and how can succession affect the Credit Linked Notes?

If the DC Secretary publicly announces that a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has resolved that a different entity or entities has or have become successor(s) to the original Reference Entity to which the Credit Linked Notes are linked, then such entity(ies) may be identified as a "Successor" to the original Reference Entity. The Calculation Agent (being the Issuer or an Affiliate) may also, following a succession event, identify an entity or entities as a successor(s) to the original Reference Entity or in the case of Index Untranchd Credit Linked Notes and Index Tranchd Credit Linked Notes, the Index Sponsor may also following a Succession Event, identify an entity or entities as a successor(s) to the original Reference Entity.

A single entity, or one entity or one or more entities may either directly or as provider of a qualifying guarantee succeed to the Reference Entity based on whether the percentage of debt transferred satisfies certain specified thresholds but where a universal successor applies, the entity need only assume all of the obligations and at least one bond or loan or guarantee obligation in connection with either where at the time of determination certain conditions exist. If there is a Steps Plan, the Calculation Agent shall consider all related successions in respect of such Steps Plan in aggregate as if forming part of a single succession.

An entity shall succeed to another entity if an entity other than the Reference Entity (i) assumes or becomes liable for the relevant obligations whether by operation of law or pursuant to any agreement (including, with respect to a Reference Entity that is a Sovereign, any protocol, treaty, convention, accord, concord, entente, pact or other agreement), or (ii) issues Bonds or incurs Loans (the Exchange Bonds or Loans) that are exchanged for Relevant Obligations, and in either case the Reference Entity is not thereafter a direct obligor or a provider of a qualifying guarantee with respect to such Relevant Obligations or such Exchange Bonds or Loans, as applicable.

The identity of the original Reference Entity will be treated as having been amended accordingly for the purposes of the Credit Linked Notes so that, following the determination or announcement of a "Successor", the Credit Linked Notes will be linked to the credit risk of the Successor. The credit risk associated with a Successor or Successors may be different from and could be greater than the credit risk associated with the original Reference Entity.

The events which may lead to the determination or announcement of a Successor may occur at any time from and including the "Successor Backstop Date" (or, in the case of a "Universal Successor", on or after 1 January 2014), which is a rolling date that is:

- (i) if a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee receives a request to resolve whether or not there is one or more Successors to the Reference Entity, 90 calendar days prior to the date of such request; or
- (ii) otherwise, 90 calendar days prior to the date on which an effective notice of the occurrence of a succession is delivered by the Issuer to the Fiscal Agent.

Can a succession occur prior to the Issue Date?

Yes. A succession may occur prior to the Issue Date of the Credit Linked Notes and may even occur prior to the Trade Date specified in the applicable Issue Terms. The Successor Backstop Date may fall prior to the Trade Date and accordingly a succession may occur prior to the Trade Date.

Securityholders should conduct their own review of any recent developments with respect to the Reference Entity by consulting publicly available information. If a request has been delivered to convene a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee prior to the Trade Date to determine whether a succession has occurred with respect to the Reference Entity, details of such request may be found on the ISDA website <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/> (or any successor website).

Can a sovereign be subject to a succession ?

Yes, where an annexation, unification, secession, partition, dissolution, consolidation, reconstitution or other similar event occurs and the debt is transferred as described in "What is a "Successor" to the Reference Entity and how can succession affect the Credit Linked Notes?" above.

Does the Calculation Agent have unfettered discretion to determine a Successor?

No. Although the Calculation Agent has the right to make a determination as to whether or not a succession event has occurred, its right is limited by the Credit Linked Conditions as follows: the Calculation Agent (i) cannot make such a determination if a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has already determined that such an event does not constitute a succession event; (ii) is required to act on the basis of Eligible Information; and (iii) is required to act in a commercially reasonable manner. In the case of the Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes and Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes, the Index Sponsor may make a successor determination if the relevant Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not identified a Successor.

Can multiple successors be identified with respect to a Reference Entity?

Yes, including the case where the original entity affected by the succession is also identified as a Successor. In such case where there are multiple successors, the Calculation Agent shall apportion any calculation amounts equally between the number of Successors and the Credit Event Redemption Amount for any Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, which occur shall be calculated on the basis of such apportioned amounts.

Where multiple successors are identified, multiple Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, and multiple Event Determination Dates or Risk Event Determination Dates, as applicable, may occur with respect to each Reference Entity save in the case of Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes and the nth Reference Entity (where a Relevant Credit Event and Relevant Event Determination Date may occur only in relation to the nth Reference Entity).

What sort of indices may be referenced by Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes?

Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes or Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes may reference an index that is either an iTraxx[®] index or a CDX[®] index.

The iTraxx indices cover the most liquid names in the European, Asian, Middle Eastern and African markets and the selection methodology ensures that the indices represent the most liquid parts of the

DISCRETIONARY POWERS OF THE ISSUER AND THE CALCULATION AGENT

What are some of the key determinations that the Calculation Agent is responsible for making in relation to Credit Linked Notes?

Securityholders should note that the Calculation Agent is responsible for making certain determinations with respect to the Credit Linked Notes.

The Calculation Agent is responsible for, amongst other things:

- (a) in the absence of a resolution by a Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee as to whether a Credit Event has occurred in relation to the relevant Reference Entity, electing whether to deliver a Credit Event Notice and supporting information in order to trigger settlement of the Credit Linked Notes following the occurrence of a Credit Event;
- (b) where the Credit Event Redemption Amount is not determined by an Auction, determining the Final Price on the basis of bid quotations from third party dealers;
- (c) determining successor Reference Entities for the purposes of the Credit Linked Notes;

ANNEX: WORKED EXAMPLES IN RESPECT OF CREDIT LINKED NOTES

The worked examples below are in respect of Credit Linked Notes (other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes) and are included for illustrative purposes only and should not be relied upon. They are not an indication of the likely performance of, or amounts payable in respect of, the Credit Linked Notes. Prospective investors should conduct their own independent review and obtain such professional advice as they deem appropriate prior to any investment in the Credit Linked Notes.

All amounts in this Annex are denominated in EUR.

(i) SINGLE NAME CREDIT LINKED NOTES AND NTH-TO-DEFAULT BASKET CREDIT LINKED NOTES

Scenario 1: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 40,000,000 in a Single Name Credit Linked Note;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 40,000,000;
- (c) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled;
- (d) no succession event has occurred in respect of R1;
- (e) a Repudiation/Moratorium Credit Event occurs in respect of R1;
- (f) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 65%; and
- (g) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) the Applicable Proportion (Specified Denomination (40,000,000) x 100%) would be 40,000,000; and
- (b) the Auction Redemption Amount (Applicable Proportion (40,000,000) x Auction Final Price (65%)) would be 26,000,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) 26,000,000 is paid on the Auction Redemption Date. Although the investor receives less than par, as the Applicable Proportion is written down reducing the original investment to zero, nothing remains outstanding.
- (b) As no further Credit Events can occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – sum of Applicable Proportion(s) (40,000,000)) = 0 on the Scheduled Maturity Date, i.e. the notional is completely wiped out. Nothing remains to be paid to the investor.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is no redemption at the time of the Credit Event, i.e. notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Final Auction Redemption Date, the Final Auction Redemption Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (40,000,000) + Sum of all Auction Redemption Amounts (in this case, only a single Auction Redemption Amount exists (26,000,000)) is paid. 26,000,000 will be the Final Auction Redemption Amount.

Scenario 2: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 40,000,000 in a Single Name Credit Linked Note;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 40,000,000;
- (c) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled;
- (d) no succession event has occurred in respect of R1;
- (e) an M(M)R Restructuring Credit Event occurs in respect of R1 with a partial exercise of 5,000,000;
- (f) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 65%; and
- (g) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) the Applicable Proportion (Specified Denomination (40,000,000) x Exercise Amount (5,000,000/Original investment (40,000,000))) would be 5,000,000; and
- (b) the Auction Redemption Amount (Applicable Proportion (5,000,000) x Auction Final Price (65%)) would be 3,250,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) 3,250,000 is paid on the Auction Redemption Date. This would be a partial redemption.
- (b) If no other Credit Events occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (5,000,000)) = 35,000,000 is paid on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is no redemption at the time of the Credit Event, i.e. notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Final Auction Redemption Date, the Final Auction Redemption Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (5,000,000) + Sum of all Auction Redemption Amounts (in this case, only a single Auction Redemption Amount exists (3,250,000)) is paid. 38,250,000 will be the Final Auction Redemption Amount.

Scenario 3: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 40,000,000 in a Single Name Credit Linked Note;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 40,000,000;
- (c) Scenario 2 (i.e. partial redemption of 5,000,000) has occurred;
- (d) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously purchased or cancelled (but have been partially redeemed);
- (e) a succession event has occurred in respect of R1 resulting in multiple successors (i.e. R1A and R1B);
- (f) a (second) Failure to Pay Credit Event occurs in respect of R1A;

- (g) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 90%; and
- (h) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) following a Successor determination, the Calculation Agent would have adjusted the aggregate nominal amount of the Note equally between the Successors, giving each a partial nominal amount of 17,500,000 (Original investment of 40,000,000 is reduced to 35,000,000 following the earlier M(M)R Restructuring in respect of R1, leaving a balance aggregate nominal amount of 35,000,000. This is divided into 2 for each successor);
- (b) the Applicable Proportion (Specified Denomination (40,000,000) x Partial Nominal Amount (17,500,000)/Original investment (40,000,000)) would be 17,500,000; and
- (c) the Auction Redemption Amount (Applicable Proportion (17,500,000) x Auction Final Price (90%)) would be 15,750,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) 15,750,000 is paid on the Auction Redemption Date. This would be a partial redemption.
- (b) If no other Credit Events occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (5,000,000 (for M(M)R Restructuring) + 17,500,000 (for Failure to Pay)) = 17,500,000 (Unexercised portion in respect of Reference Entity R1B) is paid on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is no redemption at the time of the Credit Event, i.e. notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Final Auction Redemption Date, the Final Auction Redemption Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (5,000,000 (for M(M)R Restructuring) + 17,500,000 (for Failure to Pay)) + Sum of all Auction Redemption Amounts (3,250,000 (M(M)R Restructuring) + 15,750,000 (Failure to Pay)) is paid. 36,500,000 will be Final Auction Redemption Amount.

Scenario 4: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 40,000,000 in an Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Note, with the basket comprising three Reference Entities, R1 and R2 (where 'n' = 3);
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 40,000,000;
- (c) an M(M)R Restructuring has occurred in respect of R1;
- (d) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously purchased or cancelled (but have been partially redeemed);
- (e) a (second) Failure to Pay Credit Event occurs in respect of R3;
- (f) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 65%; and
- (g) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) the first Credit Event in respect of R1 will be disregarded (since it isn't the nth Reference Entity);
- (b) the second Credit Event in respect of R3 will be relevant (since it is the nth Reference Entity);
- (c) the Applicable Proportion (Specified Denomination (40,000,000) x 100%) would be 40,000,000; and
- (d) the Auction Redemption Amount (Applicable Proportion (40,000,000) x Auction Final Price (65%)) would be 26,000,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) 26,000,000 is paid on the Auction Redemption Date.
- (b) As no further Credit Events can occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (40,000,000)) = 0 on the Scheduled Maturity Date, i.e. the notional is completely wiped out. Nothing remains to be paid to the investor.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is no redemption at the time of the Credit Event, i.e. notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Final Auction Redemption Date, the Final Auction Redemption Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (40,000,000) + Sum of all Auction Redemption Amounts (in this case, only a single Auction Redemption Amount exists (26,000,000)) is paid. 26,000,000 will be the Final Auction Redemption Amount.

(ii) LINEAR BASKET CREDIT LINKED NOTES AND INDEX UNTRANCHED CREDIT LINKED NOTES

Scenario 1: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 40,000,000 in a Linear Basket Credit Linked Note, with the basket comprising four equally weighted Reference Entities, R1, R2, R3 and R4;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 40,000,000;
- (c) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled;
- (d) no succession event has occurred in respect of any Reference Entity;
- (e) a Bankruptcy Credit Event occurs in respect of R1;
- (f) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 65%; and
- (g) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) since the four Reference Entities are equally weighted (i.e. 25% each), the Reference Entity Notional Amount = 10,000,000 per Reference Entity;
- (b) the Applicable Proportion (Specified Denomination (40,000,000) x Reference Entity Notional Amount (10,000,000/Original investment (40,000,000)) would be 10,000,000; and
- (c) the Auction Redemption Amount (Applicable Proportion (10,000,000) x Auction Final Price (65%)) would be 6,500,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) 6,500,000 is paid on the Auction Redemption Date. This would be a partial redemption.
- (b) If no other Credit Events occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (10,000,000)) = 30,000,000 is paid on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is no redemption at the time of the Credit Event, i.e. notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Final Auction Redemption Date, the Final Auction Redemption Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (10,000,000) + Sum of all Auction Redemption Amounts (in this case, only a single Auction Redemption Amount exists (6,500,000)) is paid. 36,500,000 will be the Final Auction Redemption Amount.

Scenario 2: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 40,000,000 in a Linear Basket Credit Linked Note, with the basket comprising four equally weighted Reference Entities, R1, R2, R3 and R4;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 40,000,000;
- (c) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled;
- (d) no succession event has occurred in respect of any Reference Entity;
- (e) Scenario 1 (i.e. partial redemption of 10,000,000) has occurred;
- (f) a (second) M(M)R Restructuring Credit Event occurs in respect of R2 with a partial exercise of 5,000,000;
- (g) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 65%; and
- (h) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) the Applicable Proportion (Specified Denomination (40,000,000) x Exercise Amount (5,000,000/Original investment (40,000,000)) would be 5,000,000; and
- (b) the Auction Redemption Amount (Applicable Proportion (5,000,000) x Auction Final Price (65%)) would be 3,250,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) 3,250,000 is paid on the Auction Redemption Date. This would be a partial redemption.
- (b) If no other Credit Events occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (10,000,000 (for Bankruptcy) + 5,000,000 (for M(M)R Restructuring)) = 25,000,000 is paid on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is no redemption at the time of the Credit Event, i.e. notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Final Auction Redemption Date, the Final Auction Redemption Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (10,000,000 (for Bankruptcy) +

5,000,000 (for M(M)R Restructuring)) + Sum of all Auction Redemption Amounts (6,500,000 (for Bankruptcy) + 3,250,000 (for M(M)R Restructuring)) is paid. 34,750,000 will be the Final Auction Redemption Amount.

Scenario 3: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 40,000,000 in a Linear Basket Credit Linked Note, with the basket comprising four equally weighted Reference Entities, R1, R2, R3 and R4;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 40,000,000;
- (c) Scenario 1 (i.e. partial redemption of 10,000,000) has occurred;
- (d) Scenario 2 (i.e. partial redemption of 5,000,000) has occurred;
- (e) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously purchased or cancelled (but have been partially redeemed);
- (f) a succession event has occurred in respect of R2 resulting in multiple successors (i.e. R2A and R2B);
- (g) a (third) Failure to Pay Credit Event occurs in respect of R2A;
- (h) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 90%; and
- (i) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) following a Successor determination, the Calculation Agent would have adjusted the outstanding Reference Entity Notional Amount equally between the Successors, giving each a partial nominal amount of 2,500,000 (Original Reference Entity Notional Amount of 10,000,000 is reduced to 5,000,000 following the earlier M(M)R Restructuring in respect of R2, leaving a balance aggregate nominal amount of 5,000,000. This is divided into 2 for each successor);
- (b) the Applicable Proportion (Specified Denomination (40,000,000) x Partial Nominal Amount (2,500,000/Original investment (40,000,000)) would be 2,500,000; and
- (c) the Auction Redemption Amount (Applicable Proportion (2,500,000) x Auction Final Price (90%)) would be 2,250,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) 2,250,000 is paid on the Auction Redemption Date. This would be a partial redemption.
- (b) If no other Credit Events occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (10,000,000 (for Bankruptcy) + 5,000,000 (for M(M)R Restructuring) + 2,500,000 (Failure to Pay)) = 22,500,000 (being the total Reference Entity Notional Amounts of unaffected Reference Entities R3 and R4 and the unexercised portion of R2) is paid on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is no redemption at the time of the Credit Event, i.e. notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Final Auction Redemption Date, the Final Auction Redemption Amount (Original investment (40,000,000) – Sum of Applicable Proportions (10,000,000 (for Bankruptcy) + 5,000,000 (for M(M)R Restructuring) + 2,500,000 (Failure to Pay)) + Sum of all Auction

Redemption Amounts (6,500,000 (for Bankruptcy) + 3,250,000 (for M(M)R Restructuring) + 2,250,000 (Failure to Pay)) is paid. 34,500,000 will be the Final Auction Redemption Amount.

(iii) INDEX TRANCHED CREDIT LINKED NOTES AND PORTFOLIO TRANCHED CREDIT LINKED NOTES

Scenario 1: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 10,000,000 in an Index Tranchet Credit Linked Note, with the Index comprising 100 equally weighted Reference Entities and the Tranche being 0-5%;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 10,000,000;
- (c) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled;
- (d) no succession event has occurred in respect of any Reference Entity;
- (e) a Credit Event (regardless of whether M(M)R Restructuring or not) occurs in respect of Rx;
- (f) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 65%; and
- (g) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) the Implicit Portfolio Size (i.e. Original investment (10,000,000)/ Tranche Size (5%)) = 200,000,000;
- (b) since the 100 Reference Entities are equally weighted (i.e. 1% each), the Reference Entity Notional Amount (i.e. Implicit Portfolio Size (200,000,000)/ Reference Entity Weighting (1%)) = 2,000,000 per Reference Entity;
- (c) the Loss Threshold Amount (i.e. Implicit Portfolio Size (200,000,000) x Attachment Point (0%)) = 0;
- (d) the Recovery Threshold (i.e. Implicit Portfolio Size (200,000,000) x (100% - Detachment Point (5%)) = 190,000,000;
- (e) the Index Tranchet Incurred Loss Amount is calculated as the lowest of (x) the Loss Amount; (y) the Aggregate Loss Amount minus the Loss Threshold Amount (subject to Min Zero); and (z) the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (before applying any current default reduction). In this case:
 - the Loss Amount (i.e. Reference Entity Notional Amount for Rx (2,000,000) x (100% - Auction Final Price (65%)) = 700,000.
 - as the first Credit Event, the Aggregate Loss Amount would be 700,000 and after deducting the Loss Threshold amount of 0, the calculation for (y) would be 700,000.
 - given the original investment of 10,000,000, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (disregarding any reduction in respect of the current Credit Event) would be 10,000,000.

Based on the above, the lowest of (x), (y) and (z) would be 700,000. Therefore, the Index Tranchet Incurred Loss Amount would be 700,000.

- (f) the Index Tranchet Incurred Recovery Amount is calculated as the lowest of (x) the Recovery Amount; (y) the Aggregate Recovery Amount minus the Recovery Threshold Amount (subject to Min Zero); and (z) the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (before applying any current default reduction). In this case:

- the Recovery Amount (i.e. Reference Entity Notional Amount for Rx (2,000,000) x Auction Final Price (65%)) = 1,300,000.
- as the first Credit Event, the Aggregate Recovery Amount would be 1,300,000. If we deducted the Recovery Threshold Amount of 190,000,000, this would be floored at zero given it is a negative number and the calculation for (y) would be 0.
- given the original investment of 10,000,000, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (disregarding any reduction in respect of the current Credit Event) would be 10,000,000.

Based on the above, the lowest of (x), (y) and (z) would be 0. Therefore, the Index Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount would be 0.

- (g) the Principal Writedown Amount (i.e. the Index Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount (0) + the Index Trunched Incurred Loss Amount (700,000) = 700,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) The Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount is reduced by 700,000 (i.e. the Principal Writedown Amount) with effect from 1 Business Day following the Event Determination Date. This would be a partial writedown.
- (b) The Index Trunched Redemption Amount will be zero (since there is no incurred recovery) and accordingly, no redemption amounts are payable to the investor.
- (c) If no other Credit Events occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (10,000,000) – Sum of Principal Writedown Amounts (700,000)) = 9,300,000 is paid on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is a writedown at the time of each Credit Event, but the notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Scheduled Maturity Date, the Index Trunched Final Redemption Amount (Original investment (10,000,000) – Sum of Principal Writedown Amounts (700,000) + Sum of all Index Trunched Redemption Amounts (in this case, 0)) is paid. 9,300,000 will be the Index Trunched Final Redemption Amount.

Scenario 2: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 10,000,000 in an Index Trunched Credit Linked Note, with the Index comprising 100 equally weighted Reference Entities and the Tranche being 0-5%;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 10,000,000;
- (c) no succession event has occurred in respect of any Reference Entity;
- (d) Scenario 1 (i.e. partial writedown of 700,000) has occurred;
- (e) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously purchased or cancelled (but have been partially written down);
- (f) five Credit Events occur (with each having the same Event Determination Date) in respect of Rx;
- (g) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 0%; and

(h) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) the Index Trunched Incurred Loss Amount is calculated as the lowest of (x) the Loss Amount; (y) the Aggregate Loss Amount minus the Loss Threshold Amount (subject to Min Zero); and (z) the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (before applying any current default reduction). In this case:

- the Loss Amount (i.e. Reference Entity Notional Amount for 5 Reference Entities $(2,000,000 \times 5) \times (100\% - \text{Auction Final Price } (0\%)) = 10,000,000$).
- the Aggregate Loss Amount (including the loss of 700,000 in respect of the first Credit Event) and after deducting the Loss Threshold amount of 0 would be 10,700,000.
- Given the original investment of 10,000,000, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (including the previous writedown of 700,000) would be 9,300,000.

Based on the above, the lowest of (x), (y) and (z) would be 9,300,000. Therefore, the Index Trunched Incurred Loss Amount would be 9,300,000.

- (b) the Index Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount is calculated as the lowest of (x) the Recovery Amount; (y) the Aggregate Recovery Amount minus the Recovery Threshold Amount (subject to Min Zero); and (z) the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (before applying any current default reduction). In this case:

- the Recovery Amount (i.e. Reference Entity Notional Amount for 5 Reference Entities $(2,000,000 \times 5) \times \text{Auction Final Price } (0\%) = 0$).
- the Aggregate Recovery Amount (including the recovery of 1,300,000 in respect of the first Credit Event) would be 0. If we deducted the Recovery Threshold Amount of 190,000,000, this would be floored at zero given it is a negative number and the calculation for (y) would be 0.
- Given the original investment of 10,000,000, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (including the previous writedown of 700,000) would be 9,300,000.

Based on the above, the lowest of (x), (y) and (z) would be 0. Therefore, the Index Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount would be 0.

- (c) the Principal Writedown Amount (i.e. the Index Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount (0) + the Index Trunched Incurred Loss Amount (9,300,000) = 9,300,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) The Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount is further reduced by 9,300,000 (i.e. the Principal Writedown Amount) with effect from 1 Business Day following the Event Determination Date. This would be a partial writedown.
- (b) The Index Trunched Redemption Amount will be zero (since there is no incurred recovery) and accordingly, no redemption amounts are payable to the investor.
- (c) If no other Credit Events occur, the Index Trunched Final Redemption Amount (Original investment (10,000,000) – Sum of Principal Writedown Amounts (700,000 + 9,300,000) + Sum of all Index Trunched Redemption Amounts (in this case, 0) = 0 on the Scheduled Maturity Date, i.e. the notional is completely wiped out. Nothing remains to be paid to the investor.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is a writedown at the time of each Credit Event, but the notes redeem only at maturity.

- (b) On the Scheduled Maturity Date, the Index Tranchet Final Redemption Amount (Original investment (10,000,000) – Sum of Principal Writedown Amounts (700,000 + 9,300,000) + Sum of all Index Tranchet Redemption Amounts (in this case, 0) = 0, i.e. the notional is completely wiped out. Nothing remains to be paid to the investor.

Scenario 3: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 10,000,000 in a Portfolio Tranchet Credit Linked Note, with the portfolio comprising 100 equally weighted Reference Entities and the Tranche being 80-100%;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 10,000,000;
- (c) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled;
- (d) no succession event has occurred in respect of any Reference Entity;
- (e) a Credit Event (regardless of whether M(M)R Restructuring or not) occurs in respect of Rx;
- (f) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 65%; and
- (g) there are no Unwind Costs.

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) the Implicit Portfolio Size (i.e. Original investment (10,000,000)/ Tranche Size (20%)) = 50,000,000;
- (b) since the 100 Reference Entities are equally weighted (i.e. 1% each), the Reference Entity Notional Amount (i.e. Implicit Portfolio Size (50,000,000) x Reference Entity Weighting (1%)) = 500,000 per Reference Entity;
- (c) the Loss Threshold Amount (i.e. Implicit Portfolio Size (50,000,000) x Attachment Point (80%)) = 40,000,000;
- (d) the Recovery Threshold Amount (i.e. Implicit Portfolio Size (200,000,000) x (100% - Detachment Point (100%)) = 0;
- (e) the Portfolio Tranchet Incurred Loss Amount is calculated as the lowest of (x) the Loss Amount; (y) the Aggregate Loss Amount minus the Loss Threshold Amount (subject to Min Zero); and (z) the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (before applying any current default reduction). In this case:
 - the Loss Amount (i.e. Reference Entity Notional Amount for Rx (500,000) x (100% - Auction Final Price (65%)) = 175,000.
 - as the first Credit Event, the Aggregate Loss Amount would be 175,000. If we deducted the Loss Threshold Amount of 40,000,000, this would be floored at zero given it is a negative number and the calculation for (y) would be 0.
 - given the Original investment of 10,000,000, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (disregarding any reduction in respect of the current Credit Event) would be 10,000,000.

Based on the above, the lowest of (x), (y) and (z) would be 0. Therefore, the Portfolio Tranchet Incurred Loss Amount would be 0.

- (f) the Portfolio Tranchet Incurred Recovery Amount is calculated as the lowest of (x) the Recovery Amount; (y) the Aggregate Recovery Amount minus the Recovery Threshold Amount (subject to Min Zero); and (z) the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (before applying any current default reduction). In this case:

- the Recovery Amount (i.e. Reference Entity Notional Amount for Rx (500,000) x Auction Final Price (65%)) = 325,000.
- as the first Credit Event, the Aggregate Recovery Amount would be 325,000 and after deducting the Recovery Threshold Amount of 0, the calculation for (y) would be 325,000.
- given the original investment of 10,000,000, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (disregarding any reduction in respect of the current Credit Event) would be 10,000,000.

Based on the above, the lowest of (x), (y) and (z) would be 325,000. Therefore, the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount would be 325,000.

- (g) the Principal Writedown Amount (i.e. the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount (325,000) + the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Loss Amount (0) = 325,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) The Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount is reduced by 325,000 (i.e. the Principal Writedown Amount) with effect from 1 Business Day following the Event Determination Date. This would be a partial writedown.
- (b) 325,000 (i.e. the Portfolio Trunched Redemption Amount = Portfolio Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount) is paid on the Auction Redemption Date.
- (c) If no other Credit Events occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (10,000,000) – Sum of Principal Writedown Amounts (325,000)) = 9,675,000 is paid on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is a writedown at the time of each Credit Event, but the notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Scheduled Maturity Date, the Portfolio Trunched Final Redemption Amount (Original investment (10,000,000) – Sum of Principal Writedown Amounts (325,000) + Sum of all Portfolio Trunched Redemption Amounts (325,000)) is paid. 10,000,000 will be the Portfolio Trunched Final Redemption Amount.

Scenario 4: This example assumes the following:

- (a) an investor invests 10,000,000 in a Portfolio Trunched Credit Linked Note, with the portfolio comprising 100 equally weighted Reference Entities and the Tranche being 80-100%;
- (b) the Specified Denomination of the Note is 10,000,000;
- (c) no succession event has occurred in respect of any Reference Entity;
- (d) Scenario 2 (i.e. partial writedown of 325,000) has occurred;
- (e) the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously purchased or cancelled (but have been partially written down);
- (f) 90 Credit Events occur (with each having the same Event Determination Date) in respect of Rx;
- (g) "Auction Redemption" is the applicable method of redemption, with an assumed Auction Final Price of 10%; and

(h) there are no Unwind Costs.
--

Based on these assumptions:

- (a) the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Loss Amount is calculated as the lowest of (x) the Loss Amount; (y) the Aggregate Loss Amount minus the Loss Threshold Amount (subject to Min Zero); and (z) the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (before applying any current default reduction). In this case:

- the Loss Amount (i.e. Reference Entity Notional Amount for 90 Reference Entities $(500,000 \times 90) \times (100\% - \text{Auction Final Price } (10\%)) = 40,500,000$).
- the Aggregate Loss Amount (including the loss of 175,000 in respect of the first Credit Event) and after deducting the Loss Threshold Amount of 40,000,000 would be 675,000.
- Given the original investment of 10,000,000, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (including the previous writedown of 325,000) would be 9,675,000.

Based on the above, the lowest of (x), (y) and (z) would be 675,000. Therefore, the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Loss Amount would be 675,000.

- (b) the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount is calculated as the lowest of (x) the Recovery Amount; (y) the Aggregate Recovery Amount minus the Recovery Threshold Amount (subject to Min Zero); and (z) the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (before applying any current default reduction). In this case:

- the Recovery Amount (i.e. Reference Entity Notional Amount for 90 Reference Entities $(500,000 \times 90) \times \text{Auction Final Price } (10\%) = 4,500,000$).
- the Aggregate Recovery Amount (including the recovery of 325,000 in respect of the first Credit Event) and after deducting the Recovery Threshold amount of 0 would be 4,825,000.
- given the original investment of 10,000,000, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (including the previous writedown of 325,000) would be 9,675,000.

Based on the above, the lowest of (x), (y) and (z) would be 4,500,000. Therefore, the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount would be 4,500,000.

- (c) the Principal Writedown Amount (i.e. the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount 4,500,000) + the Portfolio Trunched Incurred Loss Amount (675,000) = 5,175,000.

If "Credit Payment following Credit Event" applies:

- (a) The Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount is further reduced by 5,175,000 (i.e. the Principal Writedown Amount) with effect from 1 Business Day following the Event Determination Date. This would be a partial writedown.
- (b) 4,500,000 (i.e. the Portfolio Trunched Redemption Amount = Portfolio Trunched Incurred Recovery Amount) is paid on the Auction Redemption Date.
- (c) If no other Credit Events occur, the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount (Original investment (10,000,000) – Sum of Principal Writedown Amounts (325,000 + 5,175,000)) = 4,500,000 is paid on the Scheduled Maturity Date.

If "Credit Payment on Maturity" applies:

- (a) There is a writedown at the time of each Credit Event, but the notes redeem only at maturity.
- (b) On the Scheduled Maturity Date, the Portfolio Trunched Final Redemption Amount (Original investment (10,000,000) – Sum of Principal Writedown Amounts (325,000 + 5,175,000) + Sum of all Portfolio Tranching Redemption Amounts (325,000 + 4,500,000) is paid. 9,325,000 will be the Portfolio Tranching Final Redemption Amount.

Note: In respect of Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes, the examples above assume that no Credit Events have occurred in respect of Reference Entities referenced by the relevant Index at the Trade Date (or prior to the Issue Date). If such Credit Events have occurred, the incurred loss amounts and incurred recovery amounts in respect of such Reference Entities (i.e. the Settled Entities) would need to be factored in while calculating the aggregate losses and aggregate recoveries and the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount would need to be reduced by the settled entity incurred loss and settled entity incurred recovery on the Issue Date.

PART B: CREDIT LINKED CONDITIONS

The Credit Linked Conditions of the Securities set out the specific terms and conditions that apply to only Credit Linked Notes.

The Credit Linked Conditions set out the economic or 'payout' terms of the Credit Linked Notes. These are optional provisions and only certain of these terms will apply to the relevant Series of Credit Linked Notes. The applicable Issue Terms will specify which of the provisions apply to that Series of Credit Linked Notes.

The following are the conditions (the Credit Linked Conditions) that will apply to the Notes if the relevant Issue Terms provides that "Credit Linked Notes" is applicable (the Credit Linked Notes). These Credit Linked Conditions apply as completed by the relevant Final Terms or as completed, modified and/or supplemented by the relevant Pricing Supplement, as applicable. In the case of any inconsistency between these Credit Linked Conditions and the General Conditions, these Credit Linked Conditions will prevail. For the avoidance of doubt, any clarificatory language herein in bold and italicised shall not form part of the Credit Linked Conditions.

Words and expressions defined or used in the relevant Issue Terms shall have the same meanings where used in these Credit Linked Conditions or General Conditions unless the context otherwise requires or unless otherwise stated. All capitalised terms that are not defined in these Credit Linked Conditions or elsewhere in the General Conditions which are applicable to the Credit Linked Notes will have the meanings given to them in the relevant Issue Terms. References in these Credit Linked Conditions to "Credit Linked Notes" are to the Credit Linked Notes, as the case may be, of one Series only, not to all Credit Linked Notes that may be issued under the Programme. In respect of Credit Linked Notes which specify more than one Reference Entity in the relevant Issue Terms, all references in these Credit Linked Conditions to "the Reference Entity" shall be construed to refer to "a Reference Entity" or the "relevant Reference Entity" in respect of which the relevant determination is made at any relevant time and all related provisions and determinations will be construed accordingly.

Unless otherwise specified, references in these Credit Linked Conditions to a Credit Linked Condition are to the corresponding provision of these Credit Linked Conditions.

1. Redemption of Credit Linked Notes

(a) Redemption on the Scheduled Maturity Date where no Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event has occurred

Unless the Credit Linked Notes have been previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled by the Issuer, provided that a Relevant Event Determination Date or a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, has not occurred and subject to Credit Linked Condition 13 (Scheduled Maturity Date Extension), each outstanding Credit Linked Note shall be redeemed on the Scheduled Maturity Date at the Maturity Redemption Amount.

(b) Redemption following the occurrence of a Relevant Credit Event or a Relevant Risk Event

Unless previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled, if a Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, and a corresponding Relevant Event Determination Date or a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, has occurred:

- (i) if the Credit Linked Notes are Single Name Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer will redeem such Credit Linked Notes (in whole or in part) in accordance with Credit Linked Condition 3 (Single Name Credit Linked Notes);
- (ii) if the Credit Linked Notes are Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer will redeem such Credit Linked Notes (in whole or in part) in accordance with Credit Linked Condition 4 (Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes);
- (iii) if the Credit Linked Notes are Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer will redeem such Credit Linked Notes (in whole or in part) in accordance with Credit Linked Condition 5 (Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes);

- (iv) if the Credit Linked Notes are Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer will redeem such Credit Linked Notes (in whole or in part) in accordance with Credit Linked Condition 6 (Index Untranchured Credit Linked Notes);
- (v) if the Credit Linked Notes are Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer will write down such Credit Linked Notes (in whole or in part) in accordance with Credit Linked Condition 7 (Index Tranchured Credit Linked Notes);
- (vi) if the Credit Linked Notes are Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer will write down such Credit Linked Notes (in whole or in part) in accordance with Credit Linked Condition 8 (Portfolio Tranchured Credit Linked Notes); and
- (vii) if the Credit Linked Notes are Local Access Credit Linked Notes, the Issuer will redeem such Credit Linked Notes (in whole or in part) in accordance with Credit Linked Condition 9 (Local Access Credit Linked Notes), in each case subject to Credit Linked Conditions 14 (M(M)R Restructuring), 21 (Effect of DC Resolutions), 22 (Successor Provisions) or in the case of Local Access Credit Linked Notes only, Credit Linked Condition 9(g) (Adjustment following a Regulatory Change Event), as applicable.

Upon discharge by the Issuer of its payment or delivery obligations on the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date (or, if the Issuer does not have any payment or delivery obligations, upon the occurrence of the relevant Credit Event Redemption Date) pursuant to Credit Linked Conditions 15 (Auction Redemption Terms), 16 (Cash Redemption Terms), 17 (Physical Redemption Terms) or 18 (Fixed Recovery Redemption Terms), as applicable, or otherwise provided herein, the Issuer's obligations in respect of such portion of each Credit Linked Note affected by the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, shall be discharged in full.

As a result of one or more Credit Events or Risk Events, as applicable, Securityholders may receive less than the principal amount of a Credit Linked Note (and such amount may be zero). Any shortfall shall be borne by the Securityholders and no liability shall attach to the Issuer.

- (c) Early redemption other than following the occurrence of a Relevant Credit Event or a Relevant Risk Event

If the Credit Linked Notes are redeemed early:

- (i) pursuant to General Condition 6(b) (Redemption for Taxation Reasons and Redemption for Illegality), Valuation and Settlement Condition 2(h) (Early Redemption Events), General Condition 6(e) (Redemption at the Option of the Issuer) or General Condition 11 (Events of Default);
- (ii) following, if applicable, a Merger Event pursuant to Credit Linked Condition 19 (Redemption upon Merger Event); or
- (iii) following, if applicable, the redemption in whole of the Reference Obligation pursuant to Credit Linked Condition 24(c) (Redemption in respect of Reference Obligation Only Series), each outstanding Credit Linked Note shall be redeemed by payment of its Early Redemption Amount, Optional Redemption Amount, Merger Redemption Amount or Substitution Event Redemption Amount, as applicable, on the Early Redemption Date, Optional Redemption Date or Substitution Event Date, as applicable, in each case, in accordance with the applicable General Condition or Credit Linked Conditions.

Notwithstanding anything contained in these Credit Linked Conditions, if a Relevant Credit Event or a Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, occurs immediately after an event triggering early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes (as described above), the occurrence of the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, will be disregarded (to the extent that the relevant Credit Linked Notes have not already been redeemed in full and cancelled) and the Early Redemption Amount, Optional Redemption Amount, Merger Redemption Amount or Substitution Event Redemption Amount, as applicable, payable to Securityholders will be determined on the basis of the event triggering early redemption of the Credit Linked Notes only.

2. Interest on Credit Linked Notes

- (a) Accrual of Interest where a Relevant Event Determination Date or a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date has not occurred

Subject to Credit Linked Condition 2(c) (Suspension of Interest following an Applicable DC Credit Event Question, a potential Credit Event or a potential Risk Event), and provided that the Credit Linked Notes have not been previously redeemed in full or purchased and cancelled:

- (i) in respect of Credit Linked Notes other than Local Access Credit Linked Notes, interest (if any) shall accrue on the Outstanding Aggregate Nominal Amount of the Credit Linked Notes in accordance with General Condition 5 (Interest) (as completed by the relevant Final Terms or as completed, modified and/or supplemented by the relevant Pricing Supplement, as applicable) to (but excluding) the Scheduled Maturity Date, subject to Credit Linked Conditions 3 (Single Name Credit Linked Notes), 4 (Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes), 5 (Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes), 6 (Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes), 7 (Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes) and 8 (Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes); and
- (ii) in respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes, the LA Interest Amount specified in respect of each Interest Payment Date in the relevant Issue Terms shall be payable in the Settlement Currency on such Interest Payment Date, subject to Credit Linked Condition 9 (Local Access Credit Linked Notes).

For the avoidance of doubt, no interest shall accrue on any Credit Linked Note on or after the Scheduled Maturity Date.

- (b) Suspension of Accrual of Interest following the occurrence of a Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in General Condition 5 (Interest), following the occurrence of a Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, and a corresponding Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the payment of interest (if any) in respect of the Applicable Proportion of each relevant Credit Linked Note (other than a Local Access Credit Linked Note) or the payment of the LA Interest Amount (if any) in respect of each Local Access Credit Linked Note on the relevant Interest Payment Date, as determined in accordance with and subject to Credit Linked Conditions 3 (Single Name Credit Linked Notes), 4 (Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes), 5 (Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes), 6 (Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes), 7 (Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes), 8 (Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes) or 9 (Local Access Credit Linked Notes), as applicable, will be suspended as of:

- (i) if "No Interest Accrual on Default" applies in the relevant Issue Terms:
 - (x) the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable; or
 - (y) where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date; or
- (ii) if "Interest Accrual on Default" applies in the relevant Issue Terms, the first Business Day immediately following the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable.

In such case,

- (x) in respect of each relevant Credit Linked Note (other than a Local Access Credit Linked Note), interest shall accrue on the Applicable Proportion of such Credit Linked Note:
 - (I) from (and including) the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date, or, (where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date), the Issue Date
 - (II) to (and including) the Relevant Event Determination Date; or
- (y) in respect of each relevant Local Access Credit Linked Note, the LA Interest Amount corresponding to the relevant Interest Payment Date shall be payable if, and only if, an Interest Payment Date occurs during the period:
 - (I) from (and including) the Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, or, (where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding the Relevant Risk Event Determination Date), the Issue Date
 - (II) to (and including) the Relevant Risk Event Determination Date.

(c) Suspension of Interest following an Applicable DC Credit Event Question, a potential Credit Event or a potential Risk Event

Subject to Credit Linked Conditions 2(d) (Payment of Suspended Interest following announcement by the DC Secretary or determination by the Calculation Agent), 2(e) (Payment of Suspended Interest and reduction of future Interest following the occurrence of a Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event) and 13 (Scheduled Maturity Date Extension), if, on or prior to an Interest Payment Date, the Calculation Agent determines that:

- (i) an Applicable DC Credit Event Question has been submitted in respect of which a DC Resolution (including, but not limited to, a DC Credit Event Announcement, a DC No Credit Event Announcement or a DC Credit Event Question Dismissal) has not been published or the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee has not resolved whether it will convene a meeting to Resolve the Applicable DC Credit Event Question; or
- (ii) a Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable, and corresponding Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, could occur but no Credit Event Notice or Risk Event Notice, as applicable, has been provided to the Issuer and/or the Securityholders, the payment of any interest in respect of the Applicable Proportion or of the LA Interest Amount, as applicable, will be suspended as of the Interest Payment Date on or immediately preceding the Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, or, where there is no Interest Payment Date immediately preceding such Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, the Issue Date, notwithstanding that a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, has not then occurred provided that, in respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes only, if the Calculation Agent determines that the payment of LA Interest Amount for the relevant Interest Payment Date need not be suspended (due to such payment being unaffected by the potential Risk Event or otherwise), such suspension will not apply and the LA Interest Amount will be payable as usual on the relevant Interest Payment Date.

The Issuer shall endeavour to give notice to the Securityholders in accordance with Credit Linked Condition 26 (Notices) as soon as reasonably practicable if any payment of interest on their Notes is suspended pursuant to this Credit Linked Condition 2(c) (Suspension of Interest following an Applicable DC Credit Event Question, a potential Credit Event or a potential Risk Event).

The Applicable Proportion of each relevant Credit Linked Note shall be calculated by the Calculation Agent (i) on the assumption that (x) a Relevant Credit Event would result in a Relevant Event Determination Date (y) the Relevant Credit Event will not be an M(M)R Restructuring and (z) where any Auction Final Price or Final Price, as applicable, is required to determine the portion of the Credit Linked Notes subject to interest suspension, a Fixed Recovery Percentage of zero per cent. will apply and (ii) in accordance with Credit Linked Conditions 3 (Single Name Credit Linked Notes), 4 (Nth-to-Default Basket Credit Linked Notes), 5 (Linear Basket Credit Linked Notes), 6 (Index Untranching Credit Linked Notes), 7 (Index Tranching Credit Linked Notes) and 8 (Portfolio Tranching Credit Linked Notes), as applicable.

Except for such portion of interest that is suspended in respect of each Credit Linked Note, payment of any interest on the remaining portion of the relevant Credit Linked Note (which is unaffected by the Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event, as applicable), if applicable, will be payable to Securityholders as usual on the relevant Interest Payment Date.

- (d) Payment of Suspended Interest following announcement by the DC Secretary or determination by the Calculation Agent

If:

- (i) in connection with an Applicable DC Credit Event Question:
 - A. an Applicable DC No Credit Event Announcement occurs; or
 - B. an Applicable DC Credit Event Question Dismissal occurs or the DC Secretary announces that the Credit Derivatives Determinations Committee will not be convening to Resolve the relevant Applicable DC Credit Event Question;
- (ii) the Calculation Agent determines that a Relevant Event Determination Date or a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, can no longer occur; or
- (iii) the LA Cut-Off Date in respect of Local Access Credit Linked Notes has occurred, as applicable, payment of the suspended interest will be made no later than 10 Business Days following (I) in the case of sub-paragraph (A) above, the relevant announcement by the DC Secretary or (II) otherwise, the date on which the Calculation Agent determines that a Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date, as applicable, can no longer occur (taking into consideration any Notice Delivery Period, Post Dismissal Additional Period, the date of the Applicable DC Credit Event Question Dismissal, the date of the Applicable DC Credit Event Announcement and any Standard Exercise Cut-off Date or Non-Standard Exercise Cut-off Date, as applicable) or the LA-Cut-off Date, as applicable.

For the avoidance of doubt, interest shall continue to be suspended until a relevant announcement by the DC Secretary described above occur, the Calculation Agent determines that no Relevant Event Determination Date or Relevant Risk Event Determination Date (as applicable) can occur or an LA Cut-Off Date occurs. In such circumstances, Securityholders may not receive any interest for multiple Interest Periods and no liability shall attach to the Issuer for any such non-payment of interest.

- (e) Payment of Suspended Interest and reduction of future Interest following the occurrence of a Relevant Credit Event or Relevant Risk Event

If, a Relevant Event Determination Date occurs or a Relevant Risk Event Determination Date occurs on or prior to the LA Cut-Off Date:

- (i) where the Calculation Agent determines that the amount of interest suspended pursuant to Credit Linked Condition 2(c) (Suspension of Interest following an Applicable DC Credit Event Question, a potential Credit Event or a potential Risk Event) is greater than the amount of interest that should have been suspended (taking into consideration the Applicable Proportion of the relevant Credit Linked Note affected by the Relevant Credit Event or, in the case of Local Access Credit Linked Notes, the relevant LA Interest Amount, as applicable), the Issuer shall pay an amount equal to:

- (x) the interest amount actually suspended; minus
- (y) the interest amount that should have been suspended, no later than 10 Business Days following the date of such determination by the Calculation Agent; or
